During the initial part of the evening, Rev. Father B. N. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, gave a short address of welcome to the attendants, congratulating the members of former classes on their loyalty to their alma mater and urged the members of this year's class to follow the example set for them by their predecessors in being faithful to their duties in life.

HAYTIAN SITUATION CAUSES CONCERN IN WASHINGTON

Washington, June 22—Landing in Haiti of French marines from the cruiser Descartes has given the administration much concern, it became known today, and the subject was one of the chief topics of discussion at today's cabinet session. The result will probably be a sharp note to France to withdraw its armed force at once. Latest advices from Haiti were to the effect that the French still were in possession of the customs house and were evidencing no intention of withdrawing. The invasion of Haiti is the first infraction of the Monroe Doctrine that the Wilson administration thus far has faced. It is the first, in fact, in many years and the occasion is regarded as serious.

DECLARES STORIES WERE DISTORTED

B. D. Ackley, of "Billy" Sunday Party, Makes a Statement.

So much publicity has been given to a story that B. D. Ackley, of the "Billy" Sunday party had or was about to make startling disclosures regarding the financial methods employed in conducting evangelistic campaigns, the following statement by Mr. Ackley serves to clear up any wrong impression.

Philadelphia, June 19, 1915.

To My Friends and the Public:

Many of the things that recently have appeared in the public press with reference to my relations with and separation from Mr. Sunday and his party have been so distorted in matter of fact and manner of statement as to make them quite untrue, which are calculated to make an entirely false impression on the public mind.

I have labored with Mr. Sunday for eight years, and he has always been to me a good and most valued friend. I would be both false and disloyal to him and the work he has been doing were I to consciously say or do anything either in disparagement of him or his work, and I never can forget how much I owe to him for his many kindnesses.

I have never had any disagreement with Mr. Sunday or dissatisfaction with him, growing out of money matters; never offered nor suggested any agreement with reference to my musical publications. I have never charged him with plagiarism, or criticised his method or manner of preaching. Have never betrayed by word or deed anything within our confidential relations growing out of my secretarial services.

However, in unguarded and almost unconscious moments owing to an unfortunate weakness and under very peculiar circumstances I may have said things which have been distorted with statements for which I disclaim responsibility.

I believe most heartily in Mr. Sunday's sincerity and in the genuineness of his words and would be the last man in the world to knowingly put a straw in the way of his continuing success in the great work in which he is engaged.

I am sorry if I have grieved Mr. Sunday or caused anxiety to those interested in his work and under the present circumstances I do not expect to be taken back into future work with him.

I make this statement voluntarily without conference with Mr. Sunday or any committee, but simply to do justice to all concerned and from a sense of duty to myself.

B. D. ACKLEY.

MISS MEHL PRESIDENT OF MONTCLAIR NORMAL CLASS

Miss Alice Mehl, daughter of Captain and Mrs. George Mehl, of Madison avenue, was graduated from the Montclair Normal School at the annual commencement exercises this afternoon. She graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1912. Miss Ethel Mehl, her sitser, is also a student in Montclair Normal, having graduated from the local High School in the 1913 class.

During the commencement exercises Miss Mehl made the presentation speech on behalf of the class when the institution was given a $200 portrait.

SAND FOR POSTOFFICE BUILDING IS REJECTED

A partial cessation of work on the new Federal building at Second street and Watchung avenue, was caused today because the government inspector refused to pass the sand to be used in the masonry. The sand had too much loam in it, and hurry orders were sent out for a fresh supply. This will come from Dover. While the work was not held up entirely, it is progressing slowly. The contractors' representative on the job expects to have the new lot of sand on hand by tomorrow.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

A program of motion pictures of exceptional strength is being offered at Proctor's Theatre this afternoon and tonight. The feature picture, in five parts, is presented under the title of "Pro Patria," and in presenting this photo-play, Manager Sanderson is presenting to the people of this city one of the greatest of productions, showing how war and romance mingle one with the other. The Great Northern Film Company presents in this film the distinguished film idol, Valdemar Psilander. The stirring scenes of this film will set the heart afire with a new realization of what love and romance means to the human soul, and should be witnessed by every bonifide patron of moving pictures in Plainfield. The program of today is filled out by another episode of "The Diamond from the Sky," the now famous photo-play serial; "The Ten o'Clock Boat," a Mutual picture, and the latest issue of Mutual Weekly, showing in picture form the most interesting of current events.

Without permitting the added expense to interfere with the quality of the pictures, the management has arranged to again treat the patrons of the theatre with ice cream and homemade cake. This innovation in theatre policies proved to be so unique and successful in every respect last week that it was deemed wise to again invite the movie fan to the cream and cake at two shows tomorrow. The hours designated for the distribution of the cream has been set as 4:30 and 8:30.

"The Crucible," one of those soul-stirring dramas of twentieth century life, with a story that thrills every emotion known to the human heart is to be shown in picture form tomorrow afternoon and evening at Plainfield's most popular house. This picture is a marvelous portrayal of an agonized soul's triumph through suffering over threatening evils, and no lover of fine pictures can afford to miss this opportunity to see something worth while in the line of moving pictures. Marguerite Clark is featured in this heart gripping and powerful story of life as we see it every day.

Until September 11 the Daily Press will go to press on Saturdays at 1 o'clock.

TRINITY ENDEAVORERS PLAN TO HOLD PICNIC

The social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church met last night at the home of the chairman, Miss Sadie Searing, when it was decided to hold a picnic on Johnston's Drive, Monday evening, June 28. All members of the society and their friends are invited. The Endeavorers will take the trolley car leaving town at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. It was also decided to conduct a Gospel meeting at the Industrial Home on Thursday night, July 1.

After the social hour, the Endeavor Fresh Air Camp committee met. It was stated that about $40 had already been collected with the prospect of securing about $25 more. This money is used to bring mothers and their children from various points in Union county and give them a week's outing. Those wishing to contribute to this fund should communicate with Miss Sadie Searing, 403 Watchung avenue, this city.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

Open-air and healthy enjoyment, together with recreation that relieves the mind as well as the body, is as good a tonic as any medical doctor can prescribe to any run-down person for the regulation fee of $2, but Manager Shannon is giving, not only the prescription, but the practicable application of the dose for a much smaller fee at Plainfield's only open-air place of evening's amusement. Take a trip to the airdome this evening and see the "movies" and you will feel the good effects of healthy enjoyment.

The bill for this evening has among its offerings one of the greatest masterpieces ever turned out by any motion picture producing concern in "The Clemenceau Case," a picture dramatization of one of the Dumas books by the same name. In this screenette, an all-star cast is presented to movie-goers of Plainfield, the cast being headed by Theda Bara and William E. Shay. By all means see this wonderful story of love told in such a manner that will not permit you to forget it in a hurry.

The feature film for tomorrow night is presented in Beulah Poynter in her own play, "Lena Rivers," a five-part production. The plot is and the rendering of the play is beautiful in every detail, where the pathetic and the humorous, the sublime and the foolish, are blended together in a most artistic manner, and lovers of the film plays should not pass up this opportunity of witnessing a most delightful photo-production.

Other plays of note are to follow in quick succession during the remainder of the week, the schedule being as follows: Thursday, "Through the Enemy's Lines," a war drama in four parts; Friday, Ethel Barrymore, that old time favorite in the five-part interpretation of "The Nightingale;" Saturday, Jack London's story, "The Valley of the Moon" in seven reels, as well as Charlie Chaplin in a comedy entitled "The Tramp."

LIABILITY CASE UP AGAIN.

New Yrk, June 22—The limitation proceedings brought by the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., to restrict the liability of the owners of the Titanic in the claims for damages arising out of the wreck of the big vessel, will come up today before Judge Mayer in the Admiralty branch of the U. S. District Court. The action is taken under United States laws, the company seeking to settle claims totalling $18,000,000 with $97,000, which is the value of the salvage and the passage money. A recent decision of the U. S. Court of Appeals gives the claimants the right to withdraw from the present proceedings, so that they may bring suits against the White Star Line in the English courts, and it is believed this action will be taken by many claimants.

OLD GLORY ELECTS.

TO ENFORCE ORDINANCE.

Annually we have been warned by the police and fire departments that restrictions governing the observance of the birth of independence in the United States will be enforced in Plainfield. The warning has been a particularly emphatic one this year and it is a foregone conclusion that the safe and sane ultimatum will be strictly adhered to. Repeated attempts to establish regulations in North Plainfield governing the sale and discharge of explosives on July 4 have finally been successful and for the first time in history the twin municipalities will be governed by similar restrictions.

The old adage that "a word to the wise is sufficient" is appropriate at this time, and it will be the citizens' own fault if he finds himself in the police dragnet on the "morning after." Chief Kiely's orders to his men will be to enforce the local ordinance to the letter and individuals who think they can't properly celebrate Independence Day without making a racket would do well to seek some other spot for their festivities.

The aim of Chief Kiely is to make this Fourth the safest and sanest ever experienced and the co-operation of every citizen is needed to accomplish that end. Firecrackers over two and one-half inches in length and one-half inch in diameter and torpedoes not over three-quarters of an inch in diameter may be discharged on Monday, July 5, between the hours of six in the morning and twelve midnight. Fireworks consisting of mines not over fifteen inches in length, Roman candles not over fifteen balls, triangles not over twelve inches and colored lights may be set off at night. Other forms of noise-making novelties are positively prohibited and anyone caught discharging fireworks or firecrackers not included in the above list will be subject to arrest. Furthermore the demonstrative pieces permitted must be set off on private premises, and under no conditions on the public highways.

Similar restrictions prevail in the borough. There is no desire to restrict patriotism but it is intended to limit the observance to the safest and sanest possible lines.

FUTURE NAVIES.

Secretary Daniels expresses the opinion that the navies of the future will be in the air. It might be safe to include the statement, "and under the ocean's surface." The larger facts of the war seem to forecast either the virtual end of the big battleship or a recasting of her building which will make her less vulnerable, if possible, to attacks of the little boats that skim about on top of and down under the sea.

Without looking into the future, it can now be said that the practical navies of the world are either in the air or under the sea. The greatest navy in the world, England's, is almost as useless as if did not exist. The great German navy, also one of the world's powerful machines, is even more helpless and useless than England's—except for the submarines. The only navies that have any freedom on the oceans are those of nations at peace, which makes it appear that the only use for them is for peace parades.

Every war, big or little, conveys some message to mankind, but in the present instance the nations of the earth need not wait until the war ends to get some of the larger lessons. And one of these is that great navies are almost anything but what they have been said to be—dauntless protectors of the nations they represent. For England and Germany both have magnificent navies and can't use them.

The name of Governor John M. Slaton, of Georgia, will go down in history as that of a man who was not afraid. His commutation of the death sentence for Leo M. Frank to life imprisonment, shows that in spite of public clamor he had the backbone to stand out for what undoubtedly was right. While Governor Slaton may for a time have to undergo much unpleasantness at home, he need only travel outside the borders of his own state to learn what the great mass of the American people think of him. Perhaps a lot of hot headed southerners will try to make it unpleasant for him for a while, but at the same time we believe that he will have the everlasting support and backing of tens of thousands of level headed citizens of Georgia, and the almost unanimous acclaim of the people of the other states in the Union. It's a pleasure to read of a man who does not hesitate to do his duty, and who will not be swayed by threatened mob violence, as was the case with the jury which tried Frank, and the prison commission, which refused to grant commutation. Governor Slaton is today one of the biggest men in the United States, and he will retire from his office with the feeling that his duty has been well done.

Of late three or four well known men in this city have been assailed by character assassins, and of course they have had no opportunity to reply. The "it is said" fellow has gone out of his way to cast reflections on the character of men who are above reproach, basing the stories upon impossible circumstances, and hearsay imaginings, which could only be incubated in weak or sinister minds. And the victims of these cowardly attacks can do nothing. In the heat of a political campaign such stories are to be expected, but they are only made upon men who know that in going into politics they open themselves to almost any sort of unfair criticism. In cases like those to which we refer, however, the yarns have been, with possibly one exception, manufactured out of whole cloth. Persons who will circulate such stories are not fit to be allowed in the company of decent men.

The printers devil rises to remark that the man who makes hay when the sun shines will ride in a taxi when it rains.

That old theory about the pen being mightier than the sword has been knocked into a cocked hat these many months.

POLICE INTEND TO ENFORCE FOURTH OF JULY ORDINANCE

Chief of Police Kiely this morning announced that his men would be given strict instructions to stringently enforce the ordinance governing the sale and discharge of explosives in this city in connection with the Independence Day observance. In accordance with the terms of the local ordinance the discharge of fireworks and firecrackers this year will take place between the hours of 6 in the morning and 12 midnight Monday, July 5, the Fourth of July occurring on Sunday this year.

Even on that occasion, however, it is unlawful to discharge explosives on the street and the celebration must be confined exclusively to private properties. No firecracker over two and one-half inches in length and one-half inch in diameter or torpedoes more than three-quarters of an inch in diameter may be used in celebrating.

COUNCIL TO RUSH PURCHASE OF WEST END AUTO ENGINE

That the new automobile fire apparatus for the West End department might possibly be installed before the one in the Netherwood house is the admission of members of the councilmanic fire committee. Councilmen Graves, Cose and Martin have had their heads together during the past week perfecting plans for the purchase of the apparatus and the emphasis being placed on the need of such a piece of fire fighting equipment in the West Fourth street house indicates that everything possible will be done to rush the delivery.

As yet the much-talked- of Netherwood engine has not been installed, various reasons being given out by the committee for the long delay. Several months have been consumed in testing out and replacing certain parts of the recently purchased engine and the Netherwood firemen are still using the old equipment.

Every Saturday the girls enjoy baseball games on Belmont avenue, hikes to the mountains and sunset suppers.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Rarely has a bill been offered in local theatres of such laugh-stimulating powers as today's program at the U. S. Astor Theatre. With Charles Chaplin in "Work," his latest comedy in which he is afforded abundant opportunity to put new Chaplinisms into effect, and "The Slim Princess," George Ade's uproarious comedy in film form, the bill is one of exceptional merit and is worthy the patronage of every discriminating theatregoer. It is to this class to which Frank G. Hall, proprietor of the Astor Theatre, is endeavoring to cater and results of his policy thus far have been most gratifying.

Mr. Chaplin has a horde of followers in Plainfield and persons who enjoy his droll antics on the screen cannot afford to miss "Work." It will be shown again today and tomorrow.

Good settings, capital acting and typical George Ade subtitles make "The Slim Princess" thoroughly enjoyable. It was greeted with every symptom of gratification by a capacity audience last night. The principal comedy moments are furnished by delightful performances on the part of Francis X. Bushman and Wallace Berry. They are funny separately and in pairs, losing nothing that will enhance the laugh-provoking powers of the film. Bushman does the hustling American adventurer to perfection. He is breezy, impudent and irreverent without being offensive in the least. When necessary, he knocks down a few native guards and pole vaults out of his difficulties, but he is quite adept at cajoling the prince into good fellowship when it comes to the pinch. Ruth Stonehouse is thoroughly charming and girlish in the role of the beefless beauty. The settings which appeal especially to the eye are the quarters of the daughters in the prince's palace, the garden into which Pike precipitates himself and the interior of the hotel at Moravenia. The photography is for the most part excellent. Scenes of Washington are of surpassing beauty. "The Slim Princess" has a lot of good, honest humor in it and is a dandy feature.

Tomorrow "The Country Boy," adapted from Edgar Selwyn's drama which played in New York a few season ago with much success, will be the feature photo-play at the Astor. "Work," with Mr. Chaplin, will furnish the comedy of the bill.

SPECIAL SCHOOL ELECTION

Board to withdraw his application to be re-appointed borough school physician, made at the last meeting, giving as his reason that a perusal of the new school physician law had led him to believe that he could not attend to the duties of the office in a conscientious manner without a bigger salary than the $200 per annum at present allowed him. He cited the fact that the Plainfield school physician receives $1,500 a year, and that other municipalities pay correspondingly high salaries. The Board as a body regretted that Dr. Dundon considered relinquishing the office. A lengthy conference ensued, during which the borough school physician's duties were gone over in detail. Dr Dundon was brought to realize the fact that only a few formalities were required of him in addition to the work he has been doing to enable him to comply with all the requirements of the law. Seeing the matter in this light, the doctor consented to accept reappointment and was re-engaged at once at the same salary.

A representative from the office of the architects having the new Harrison Avenue School building in charge was present at the meeting and reported that the work was progressing in a manner satisfactory to them It was stated that the mason contractor had pushed his part of the work ahead very fast and that he had put in a request for a much larger payment than was provided for at this time in the original schedule of payments. The architects were obliged to deduct fifteen per cent. from the amount he had asked for when issuing their certificate.

The contractors are waiting for the State inspector who has promised to visit the building next Friday, before beginning the plastering. At the suggestion of the architects the Board voted to employ a practical plasterer as inspector at a salary not to exceed $5 a day during the two weeks which will be required to plaster the building. If possible, a local man will be given the job.

Of the nine applicants for janitor of the new school building, seven were interviewed by the building and grounds committee. Three men were selected—Bert Hansen, E. G. Wilson and Warner B. Philpott—and their names presented to the Board as first, second and third choice. Instead of choosing a man, the selection of the janitor was left to the committee with power. The Board did fix the salary, however—$60 a month.

It was stated by the building and grounds committee that the lowest bid received for the contemplated alterations to the Somerset building was $9,128.78, without the floors, which would run the cost up $600 to $700 more. The bid was based on the specifications as put out by Architect Charles H. Smith, but it was stated that Mr. Smith thought this figure could be cut by specifying other material for certain parts of the mason work, so the contract will not be awarded until the alternative bids have been received. It is thought by the architect that this figure can be cut $500.

It will be to provide additional funds for these alterations as well as to do grading, etc., around the new school building that the Board will need to borrow the $3,000 to be asked for at the special election July 13.

Official announcement of the commencement was made, Thursday evening being the date and the Plainfield Theatre the place. The Board signed the diplomas before leaving the building last night.

Miss Mabel L. Bennett's resignation as teacher in the science department was accepted and Miss Jennie Mohring was appointed in her place at a salary of $800 a year. Miss Marion Armstrong, teacher of domestic science, was re-engaged for another year at a salary of $750.

NOT TO INCREASE NUMBER OF CLUBS

City Baseball League Votes Against Admitting Two Additional Teams.

NEW PLAYERS ENGAGED

Managers File Lists of Changes—Trophy to be Secured for the Winning Team—Hope to Get Another Game.

Encouraging reports concerning the opening of the City Amateur Baseball League on Saturday, together with considerable other business made the weekly meeting of the representatives, held in The Daily Press office last night, a busy one. The managers of the six teams stated that the opening of the league had been a success, that each game was well patronized and each club came out on the right side of the ledger.

Notice of several changes in the list of players was given by some of the managers, but the new players cannot be used inside of two weeks. Manager Brit. Martin gave notice that the names of Jack Martin, J. Lohson and Coyle had been dropped and in their places Tommy Mullin, George Ortlieb and A. Stevens were substituted. Dodge was added to the list of the First Baptist team, and H. Rosenson, Peacock and McFadden added to Clinton Avenue's list in place of Dunham, Hagenay and Barrett. Tommy Mullin's name was dropped from the T. A. B. team and the name of Hannon substituted. No change was made in the Hope and Netherwood A. C. teams.

Applications were received from the Royal A. C., colored, and a North Plainfield team for admission into the league, but by a unanimous vote it was decided not to increase the number of clubs, as it would mean that the by-laws would have to be changed, as well as the schedule and as the result each team would only have two games with the other clubs. Beside it would extend the season far into September, while the present schedule ends on Labor Day.

Representatives of the Royal A. C., who attended the meeting, hinted that that team might play Saturday ball on Parker Field provided that suitable arrangements could be made with the Playground Commission. Manager Martin, of the Saurer team, stated that he now held an agreement with the Commission for the use of the field.

Inasmuch as the Hope team has one game less in its schedule than the other clubs, another game will be added by a little change in the dates. The question of securing a trophy to present to the winning team was discussed and a committee of two, comprising Messrs. Apgar and Luthman, was appointed to wait on one of the merchants of the city to see whether he would care to offer such a trophy. It was also decided to communicate with A. G. Spalding and see whether he would be willing to offer a pennant to the team winning the city championship. After disposing of several minor matters the meeting adjourned to meet again Monday night at The Daily Press office.

DON'TS FOR SWIMMERS.

1. Don't swim alone. If you are a poor swimmer, stay near a good one. If you think you are a good swimmer you are likely to take risks, so be sure to have a companion along.
2. Don't dive in water of unknown depth. A hidden rock may fracture your skull; a cold spring or undercurrent may shock you or give you cramp.
3. Don't swim after a full meal. This is a sure way to get acute indigestion and cramp.
4. Don't swim when exhausted or overheated from exercise. Cool off first.
5. Don't swim unless a physician has examined you and you know your heart is sound.
6. Don't get frightened. The quickest way to drown is to struggle violently. If you are scared, turn over on your back and float until help comes, or until you get your wind.
7. Don't try to show off by going out of your depth or swimming away from your companions.

OLDFIELD BREAKS RECORD.

Chicago, June 22—Barney Oldfield established a new American automobile speed record at Speedway Park when he negotiated a lap in 1.04 2-5, an average of 11.5 miles an hour. Oldfield drove a 300-horse power car of special construction. The mark is said to be within 4 2-5 seconds of the world's record.

$7,500 FOR THE SERVICES OF LIGHT WEIGHT JOCKEY

Jame Rowe, trainer for the stable of Harry Payne Whitney, yesterday purchased from R. J. Ellison, of Montana, for $7,500 the contract for the services of the midget light weight jockey, Paul Louder. The lad is not more than 15 years old, weighs only 80 pounds in his riding silks and will not be out of his apprenticeship allowance in weights until October.

The contract for his services is to run, it is reported, until he is 21 years old. Louder came into prominence in the East for his riding at Belmont Park, where, in fourteen races in which he had mounts, he finished in the money in every race except one. He first rode in a race in Butte, whither he had been taken from Texas, where he had served as an exercise lad in the racing stable of his employer. At the recent meeting at Jaurez, Mexico, Louder won thirty-one races and was among the leaders in winning mounts at that meeting.

NO BOAT RACES JULY 4.

It was definitely announced this morning that there will be no boat races in South Plainfield this year, the annual Fourth of July competition having been eliminated. Various reasons have been given for putting a ban on this popular July 4 number, principal among which is the lack of sufficient funds.

CAN COMMISSION LEASE THE FIELD?

Use of Parker Field for Baseball Games is Discussed by New League Officials.

QUESTION OF RIGHTS

It is Claimed that Playground Officials Cannot Make Agreement with One Club to the Exclusion of Others.

The discussion at the meeting of the City Amateur Baseball League, last night, relative to the use of Parker Field for baseball, raised the question whether the Playground Commission has the right to lease the field to any one club for Saturday baseball. It was stated that Manager Brit. Martin, of the Saurer team, had an agreement whereby he was to have the use of the field on that day.

One of the representatives of the Royal A. C., colored, which sought admission to the league, stated after the application was rejected that he had been negotiating with those who control the use of the field and that his team expected to play there on Saturdays.

Parker Field was established as a city playground, and according to the opinion of many people, the use of the field was free and to be given to clubs in the order of application. It was admitted a few days ago by an official of the Playground Commission that the Saurer team had the field under an agreement. Such a practice would have the result of excluding any other team from playing there if it wanted to do so, and was thought to be unfair.

It is the opinion of many fans that there should be a game of baseball on Parker Field every Saturday, believing that it is more centrally located than a number of other fields, and there seems to be no good reason why teams in the recently organized league should not have the use of that field if they want it. Such an arrangement could be made easily and this would provide a game there every Saturday.

THREE GET AWARDS FOR ATHLETIC WORK

Plainfield High School B. A. A. Holds Its Final Meeting of the Year.

Three athletes, who, during the past school year, sported the colors of the Plainfield High School in the athletic world, were awarded their insignia at a meting of the Boys' Athletic Association this morning. They are Tone Denny, Rodman Parvin and Peyton Schenck. Denny has been the mainstay for the baseball team on the pitcher's mound this year and was mainly responsible for the Plainfield High School team's championship getting performances in the Interscholastic League. Parvin has represented the school in tennis and Schenck has been largely responsible for the success of the track team, acting in the capacity of manager and also being a competitor in various events, principally the shot-put.

Plans for the annual minstrel show of the Boys' Athletic Association for next year were discussed and it was voted to appoint Gerald Linke business manager. He has been one of the star endmen for the past two years. This show is held each year for the purpose of raising a fund for the maintenance of athletics in the institution and has always proven itself a vast success.

TRAVERS, OPEN CHAMPION, BREAKS TWO RECORDS

Philadelphia, June 22.—Jerome D. Travers, national open golf champion, broke two records for the Huntingdon Valley Country Club in the qualifying round of the annual tournament for the Lynnewood Hall Cup at Noble, yesterday. In playing the 18 holes on the second round in 72 strokes he beat the previous record, held by C. B. Bunton, by three strokes, and in scoring 150 for the 36 holes he set up another record.

In the morning Travers took 78 strokes for the 18 holes, and the fact that he did not do even better than that he attributed to a little weakness in his putting now and then. Probably he was feeling his way along, for he had expressed his determination to break the course record in one of the rounds.

P. H. S. TRACK CHAMPIONS WILL COMPETE IN MEETS DURIN G THE SUMMER SEASON

Although the school year ends Thursday it is expected that Coach Jack Fritts, of the Plainfield High School track team, will assume supervision for the summer months and it is not unlikely that a number will be entered in the Fourth of July meet to be held in New Brunswick. The abandonment of the July 4 field and track festival for Parker Field will make it necessary for local performers to seek other cities for competition and it is understood that New Brunswick is a popular favorite.

Fritts' connection with the Plainfield institution has been the direct cause for the rounding together of the best outfit that the local High School has ever been represented by and just how strong the combination was has been exemplified by its work in the Northern New Jersey meet held Decoration Day in this city. Stellar performances in every event on the calendar gave the red and blue contestants a first place berth which carried with it the Union county and Northern New Jersey championships.

In previous years those having charge of athletics at the school have admitted that a scarcity of talent was responsible for the absence of a track team. However, the conditions were none too good when Fritts took hold and he had no better talent than has presented itself in previous years. Diligence and daily workouts have resulted in a champion field and track representation being rounded out and Fritts is prepared to maintain the standard in other State and metropolitan meets throughout the summer.

The coach figures that activity during the summer months will result in keeping the men in fine fettle and form a nucleus for work in the fall. Heretofore nothing but green and untried material has been at hand in September, but by keeping "strings" on the performers of 1915 Fritts hopes to have a fairly good group to work around in the fall. Capable performers in every branch of field and track endeavor have made their appearance and the incoming material also promises much.

In Ralph Runyon, the P. H. S. team has a captain of more than ordinary merit. Seldom has a High School boy ever had the opportunity to represent the East in an international meet, but Runyon this year stands a pretty fair show of going to the Panama-Pacific Exposition to take part in the pole vault. He will be Fritts' right hand man again next year, and a number of other veterans will also don red and blue trunks.

MAY YET HAVE BIG BIKE FEATURE HERE

Plainfield Cyclists Favor Monster Event for July 5 Over Borough Course.

Leaders in the bicycling sport in Plainfield are heading a movement to hold a road race here on July 5, possibly over the old Mountainside course from North Plainfield to Scotch Plains, and considerable comment is being passed around local circles regarding the venture. The abandonment of the Decoration Day twenty-five-mile feature over the North Plainfield-to-Scotch Plains course caused keen regret among cyclists in this vicinity and other parts of the metropolitan district, who, for the past five years, have been making trips to the borough to participate in the big feature and it is with a view to partly making up for the absence of this road run that the cyclists are in favor of organizing an event for July 5.

It is probable that a meeting will be held in the near future when definite plans will be laid out and a campaign for prize-getting will be planned. It goes without saying that there are many local sportsmen who would gladly lend their efforts toward promoting such a race and all that is needed is for one of those interested to take the initiative.

During the past two months cycling has taken a strong grip on many exercise seekers in Plainfield and the borough and a number of informal road events have been held hereabouts. No effort up to this time, however, has presented itself to lay out details for a big feature over the popular mountainside course and the suggestion is one that should be followed up and encouraged.

BIG ATHLETIC MEETING AT BRUNSWICK JULY 4

New Brunswick, June 22—In connection with the "Safe and Sane Fourth of July Celebration" here on Monday, July 5, an elaborate athletic program has been arranged. They will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will be under the sanction of the Amateur Athletic Union. Here is the program of events:

Yale crew outclassed by Columbia in rough water trial spins.

NATIONAL MALE AND FEMININE TENNIS TITLE HOLDERS AT P. C. C. TOMORROW

Miss Mollie Burstedt, the phenomenal Norwegian tennis player, who recently won the women's national singles title in this country, and R. Norris Williams, 3d, of Harvard University, who is the national male singles title holder, will appear at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow afternoon in a number of exhibition clay court matches. Miss Burstedt will team with Mr. Williams in a mixed doubles exhibition and both will play in singles matches against each other and against other world-famous players, the exact identity of whom would not be revealed this morning.

Tennis of a high order is expected and a large gallery of those interested in the sport will probably turn out. The matches will probably start about 3 o'clock.

Williams happens to be the only member of the Eastern team selected to play at the Panama-Pacific Exposition who has not appeared in this city, the appearance of the other players at the Plainfield Country Club several weeks ago having excited keen interest.

SOME GOOD SCORES MADE ON THE BOROUGH ALLEYS

Pinning on the borough alleys, last night, Miller slipped two victories across at the expense of Thorn and Luthman played a similar stunt at the expense of W. Conover. It is a significant feature that in each case the man losing the majority of contests in the trio of matches came out ahead in the middle encounter.

Two double century scores were returned, a 204 by Thorn and a 210 by Miller. In defeating Thorn in the first and third encounters Miller established tallies of 189 to 174 and 210 to 144. Luthman took his pair by margins of 177 to 156 and 168 to 151. Thorn beat Miller in his solitary win by a margin of thirty-six pins and Luthman was fifteen short of W. Conover's mark. The scores:

Thorn	174	204	14[illegible]
Miller	189	168	21[illegible]
W. Conover	156	176	15[illegible]
Luthman	177	161	16[illegible]

POLICE ARE AFTER A BASEBALL LEAGUE

Local Coppers Favor State Organization Similar to One Proposed Recently.

Local police athletes are beginning to wonder what has become of that State Patrolmen's Baseball League. Last week a meeting was supposed to have been called in Elizabeth for the purpose of organizing, but the date came and passed without producing anything along the organization line. It is understood that Elizabeth and Newark are aching to get into league competition and it is thought that Plainfield would fall in line and possibly a fourth contestant, thus forming a four-team circuit.

Plainfield police are planning to get out into the open in the near future and assume regular practice once more. Baseball has in previous years been a big issue in the local department, particularly in 1914, when some speedy games were participated in by the local minions of the law. The material available for an outfit this season is of high order and little difficulty would be experienced in turning out a club at a moment's notice. There are players available for every position on the infield and outfield and all that is needed is a little practice to smooth off the rough edges.

Parker Field is favored as a practice ground by the coppers and efforts will be made shortly to get a lease on the diamond for several afternoons each week for practice and games. Among last year's performers who are again ready to don gloves are Jack Fritts, Martin Flatley, Roland McIntyre, Cornelius McCarthy, Jack Neylon, Fred Bader, Martin Welsh and Frank Keller.

ATHLETIC MEET FOR GIRLS NEXT IN LINE

Plainfield Has Many Fair Competitors Who Are Aching to Enter.

Several years ago an athletic meet was arranged in this city in which feminine sport enthusiasts took part in various events. The meet was a pronounced success. In many other cities, at colleges and on public grounds, similar meets have been held from time to time and each has been highly popular with the public and participants. Here in this city we have a large number of girls who are adept in various lines of athletics and who have attained a degree of proficiency in certain lines that would be hard to equal.

Conversation with several persons interested in sports brought forth the universal comment that a meet such as this would be an excellent thing for the younger girls of Plainfield. Relay races, fifty and one hundred-yard dashes, running broad jump, running high jump, outdoor basketball games, baseball games, tennis matches and numerous other events could be included in a possible list of events.

Beside the schools, which would undoubtedly be represented by a large number of fair participants, the Public Recreation Committee and the Y. W. C. A. has a list of experts in these various lines that would bid for close competition. According to rumors it is highly probable that some sort of an athletic meet will be scheduled for this summer.

TAFT SEES WAY TO END ALL WAR

Former President Writes Article For Magazine Showing One Way to Do It.

Writing in the Independent on the proposed plan for the enforcement of perpetual peace, former President Taft says:

"To constitute an effective League of Peace we do not need all the nations. Such an agreement between eight or nine of the great powers of Europe, Asia and America would furnish a useful restraint upon possible wars.

"The successful establishment of a league between the great powers would draw into it very quickly the less powerful nations.

"What should be the fundamental plan of the league?

"It seems to me that it ought to contain four provisions. In the first place, it ought to provide for the formation of a court, which would be given jurisdiction by the consent of all the members of the league to consider and decide justiciable questions between them or any of them which have not yielded to negotiation according to the principles of international law and equity and that the court should be vested with power upon the application of any member of the league to decide the issue as to whether the question arising is justiciable.

"Second.—A commission of conciliation for the consideration and recommendation of a solution of all nonjusticiable questions that may arise between the members of the league should be created, and this commission should have power to hear evidence, investigate the causes of differences and mediate between the parties and then make its recommendation for a settlement.

"Third.—Conferences should be held from time to time to agree upon principles of international law not already established as their necessity shall suggest themselves. When the conclusions of the commission shall have been submitted to the various parties to the league for a reasonable time, say a year, without calling forth objection it shall be deemed that they acquiesce in the principles thus declared.

"Fourth.—The members of the league shall agree that if any member of the league shall begin war against any other member of the league without first having submitted the question if found justiciable to the arbitral court provided in the fundamental compact, or without having submitted the question if found nonjusticiable to the commission of conciliation for its examination, consideration and recommendation, then the remaining members of the league agree to join in the forcible defense of the member thus prematurely attacked.

Principle In His Treaties.

"First.—The first feature involves the principle of the general arbitration treaties with England and France, to which England and France agreed, and which I submitted to the senate, and which the senate rejected or so mutilated as to destroy their vital principle. I think it is of the utmost importance that it should be embraced in any effective league of peace. The successful operation of the supreme court as a tribunal between independent states in deciding justiciable questions not in the control of congress, or under the legislative regulation of either state, furnishes a precedent and justification for this that I hope I have made clear. Moreover, the inveterate practice of arbitration which has now grown to be an established custom for the disposition of controversial questions between Canada and the United States is another confirmation of the practical character of such a court.

"Second.—We must recognize, however, that the questions within the jurisdiction of such a court would certainly not include all the questions that might lead to war, and therefore we should provide some other instrumentality for helping the solution of those questions which are nonjusticiable. This might be a commission of conciliation, a commission to investigate the facts, to consider the arguments on both sides, to mediate between the parties, to see if some compromise cannot be effected and finally to formulate and recommend a settlement. This may involve time, but the delay, instead of being an objection, is really one of the valuable incidents providing for the performance of such a function by a commission. We have an example of such a commission of conciliation in the controversy between the United States and Great Britain over the seal fisheries. The case on its merits as a judicial question was decided aghinst the United States, but the world importance of not destroying the Pribilof seal herd by pelagic sealing was recognized, and a compromise was formulated by the arbitral tribunal, which was ultimately embodied in a treaty between England, Russia, Japan and the United States. Similar recommendations were made by the court of arbitration which considered the issues arising between the United States and Great Britain in respect to the Newfoundland fisheries.

Would Have Conferences.

"Third.—Periodical conferences should be held between the members of the league for the declaration of principles of international law. This is really a provision for something in the nature of legislative action by the nations concerned in respect to international law. The principles of international law are based upon custom between nations established by actual practice, by their recognition in treaties and by the consensus of great law writers. Undoubtedly the function of an arbitral court established as proposed in the first of the above suggestions would lead to a good deal of valuable judge made international law. But that would not cover the whole field, and something in the nature of legislation on the subject would be a valuable supplement to existing international law. It would be one of the very admirable results of such a league of peace that the scope of international law could be enlarged in this way. Justice Holmes, in the case of Missouri versus Illinois, points out that the supreme court in passing on questions between the states and in laying down the principles of international law that ought to govern in controversies between them should not and cannot make itself a legislature. But in a league of peace there is no limit to the power of international conferences of the members in such a quasi-legislative course except the limit of the wise and the practical.

Benefit to America.

"Fourth.—The fourth suggestion is one that brings in the idea of force. In the league proposed all members are to agree that if any one member violates its obligation and begins war against any other member without submitting its cause for war to the arbitral court, if it is a justiciable question, or to the commission of conciliation if it is otherwise, all the members of the league should unite to defend the member attacked against a war waged in breach of plighted faith. It is to be observed that this does not involve the members of the league in an obligation to enforce the judgment of the court or the recommendation of the commission of conciliation. It only furnishes the instrumentality of force to prevent attack without submission. It is believed it is more practical than to attempt to enforce judgments after the hearing.

"One reason is that the failure to submit to one of the two tribunals the threatening cause of war for the consideration of one or the other is a fact easily ascertained and concerning which there can be no dispute, and it is a palpable violation of the obligation of the member. It is wiser not to attempt too much. The required submission and the delay incident thereto will in most cases lead to acquiescence in the judgment of the court or in the recommendation of the commission of conciliation. The threat of force against plainly unjust war, for that is what is involved in the provision, will have a most salutary deterrent effect. I am aware that membership in this league would involve on the part of the United States an obligation to take part in European and Asiatic wars, it may be, and that in this respect it would be a departure from the traditional policy of the United States in avoiding entangling alliances with European or Asiatic countries. But I conceive that the interest of the United States in the close relations it has of a business and social character with the other countries of the world, much closer now than ever before, would justify it if such a league could be formed, in running the risk that there might be of such a war in making more probable the securing of the inestimable boon of peace of the world that now seems so far away."

CHAPTER XIII.

Brothers of Angels.

"INDEED, doctor," said Mrs. Schofield, with agitation and profound conviction, just after 8 o'clock that evening, "I shall always believe in mustard plasters—mustard plasters and hot water bags. If it hadn't been for them I don't believe he'd have lived till you got here—I do not!"

"Margaret," called Mr. Schofield from the open door of a bedroom, "Margaret, where did you put that aromatic ammonia? Where's Margaret?"

But he had to find the aromatic spirits of ammonia himself, for Margaret was not in the house. She stood in the shadow beneath a maple tree near the street corner, a guitar case in her hand, and she scanned with anxiety a briskly approaching figure. The arc light, swinging above, revealed this figure as that of him she awaited. He was passing toward the gate without seeing her, when she arrested him with a fateful whisper.

"Bob!"

Mr. Robert Williams swung about hastily. "Why, Margaret!"

"Here, take your guitar," she whispered hurriedly. "I was afraid if father happened to find it he'd break it all to pieces!"

"What for?" asked the startled Robert.

"Because I'm sure he knows it's yours."

"But what"—

"Oh, Bob," she moaned, "I was waiting here to tell you. I was so afraid you'd try to come in"—

"Try!" exclaimed the unfortunate young man, quite dumfounded. "Try to come"—

"Yes, before I warned you. I've been waiting here to tell you, Bob, you mustn't come near the house. If I were you I'd stay away from even this neighborhood—far away! For awhile I don't think it would be actually safe for"—

"Margaret, will you please"—

"It's all on account of that dollar you gave Penrod this morning," she wailed. "First he bought that horrible concertina that made papa so furious"—

"But Penrod didn't tell that I"—

"Oh, wait!" she cried lamentably. "Listen! He didn't tell at lunch, but he got home about dinner time in the most—well, I've seen pale people before, but nothing like Penrod. Nobody could imagine it—not unless they'd seen him. And he looked so strange and kept making such unnatural faces and at first all he would say was that he'd eaten a little piece of apple and thought it must have had some microbes on it. But he got sicker and sicker, and we put him to bed, and then we all thought he was going to die, and, of course, no little piece of apple would have—well, and he kept getting worse, and then he said he'd had a dollar. He said he'd spent it for the concertina, and watermelon, and chocolate creams, and licorice sticks, and lemon drops, and peanuts, and jaw breakers, and sardines, and raspberry lemonade, and pickles, and popcorn, and ice cream, and cider, and sausage—there was a sausage in his pocket, and mamma says his jacket is ruined—and cinnamon drops, and waffles, and he ate four or five lobster croquettes at lunch—and papa said, 'Who gave you that dollar?' Only he didn't say 'who'. He said something horrible, Bob! And Penrod thought he was going to die, and he said you gave it to him, and, oh, it was just pitiful to hear the poor child, Bob, because he thought he was dying, you see, and he blamed you for the whole thing. He said if you'd only let him alone and not given it to him he'd have grown up to be a good man, and now he couldn't! I never heard anything so heartrending. He was so weak he could hardly whisper, but he kept trying to talk, telling us over and over it was all your fault."

"I shall always believe in mustard plasters—mustard plasters and hot water bags."

"Is he—is he still in a great deal of pain?"

"They say the crisis is past," said Margaret, "but the doctor's still up there. He said it was the acutest case of indigestion he had ever treated in the whole course of his professional practice."

"Of course I didn't know what he'd do with the dollar," said Robert.

She did not reply.

He began plaintively, "Margaret, you don't"—

"I've never seen papa and mamma so upset about anything," she said rather primly.

"You mean they're upset about me?"

"We are all very much upset," returned Margaret, more starch in her tone as she remembered not only Penrod's sufferings, but a duty she had vowed herself to perform.

"Margaret! You don't"—

"Robert," she said firmly and, also, with a rhetorical complexity which breeds a suspicion of rehearsal; "Robert, for the present I can only look at it in one way—when you gave that money to Penrod you put into the hands of an unthinking little child a weapon which might be, and, indeed, was, the means of his undoing. Boys are not respon"—

"But you saw me give him the dollar, and you didn't"—

"Robert!" she checked him with increasing severity. "I am only a woman and not accustomed to thinking everything out on the spur of the moment. But I cannot change my mind—not now, at least."

"And you think I'd better not come in tonight?"

"Tonight!" she gasped. "Not for weeks! Papa would"—

"But Margaret," he urged plaintively, "how can you blame me for"—

"I have not used the word 'blame,'" she interrupted. "But I must insist that for your carelessness to—to wreak such havoc—cannot fail to—to lessen my confidence in your powers of judgment. I cannot change my convictions in this matter—not tonight—and I cannot remain here another instant. The poor child may need me. Robert, good night."

With chill dignity she withdrew, entered the house and returned to the sick room, leaving the young man in outer darkness to brood upon his crime—and upon Penrod.

That sincere invalid became convalescent upon the third day, and a week elapsed, then, before he found an opportunity to leave the house unaccompanied—save by Duke. But at last he set forth and approached the Jones neighborhood in high spirits, pleasantly conscious of his pallor, hollow cheeks and other perquisites of illness provocative of interest.

One thought troubled him a little because it gave him a sense of inferiority to a rival. He believed, against his will, that Maurice Levy could have successfully eaten chocolate creams, licorice sticks, lemon drops, jaw breakers, peanuts, waffles, lobster croquettes, sardines, cinnamon drops, watermelon, pickles, popcorn, ice cream and sausage with raspberry lemonade and cider. Penrod had admitted to himself that Maurice could do it and afterward attend to business or pleasure without the slightest discomfort, and this was probably no more than a fair estimate of one of the great constitutions of all time. As a digester, Maurice Levy would have disappointed a Borgia.

Fortunately, Maurice was still at Atlantic City, and now the convalescent's heart leaped. In the distance he saw Marjorie coming—in pink again, with a ravishing little parasol over her head. And alone! No Mitchy-Mitch was to mar this meeting.

Penrod increased the feebleness of his steps, now and then leaning upon the fence as if for support.

"How do you do, Marjorie?" he said in his best sickroom voice as she came near.

To his pained amazement she proceeded on her way, her nose at a celebrated elevation—an icy nose.

She cut him dead.

He threw his invalid's airs to the winds and hastened after her.

"Marjorie," he pleaded, "what's the matter? Are you mad? Honest, that day you said to come back next morning and you'd be on the corner, I was sick. Honest, I was awful sick, Marjorie! I had to have the doctor"—

"Doctor!" She whirled upon him, her lovely eyes blazing. "I guess we've had to have the doctor enough at our house, thanks to you, Mister Penrod Schofield. Papa says you haven't got near sense enough to come in out of the rain after what you did to poor little Mitchy-Mitch"—

"What?"

"Yes, and he's sick in bed yet!" Marjorie went on with unabated fury. "And papa says if he ever catches you in this part of town"—

"What'd I do to Mitchy-Mitch?" gasped Penrod.

"You know well enough what you did to Mitchy-Mitch!" she cried. "You gave him that great, big, nasty two cent piece!"

"Well, what of it?"

"Mitchy-Mitch swallowed it!"

"What!"

"And papa says if he ever just lays eyes on you once in this neighborhood"—

But Penrod had started for home.

In his embittered heart there was increasing a critical disapproval of the Creator's methods. When he made pretty girls, thought Penrod, why couldn't he have left out their little brothers!

Temperance

NEWS AND VIEWS

Conducted by

THE W. C. T. U.

The following is a brief of some of the reports given at the annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union recently held:

Since October, The Daily Press has each week devoted a column to "Temperance News and Views, Conducted by the W. C. T. U." Items have been collected each week from various sources of the most recent advancement along the line of prohibition measures. It seemed wise to your superintendent to keep before the public mind the victories which have come so thick and fast one cannot help but feel that God's hand is at the helm, and we just thank and praise Him for the blind eyes that are being opened to see the wasted resources in all lands, where the criminal business is allowed to exist.

One of our members has written two articles against the granting a renewal of license to the Clark saloon. It was well written and contained forceful arguments, but our noble City Fathers were influenced by other motives than a woman's argument.

Franchise Report.

New Jersey has become a campaign State. Next September male citizens will, or will not, grant the suffrage to female citizens. It seems to me that it is not only a privilege but the Christian duty of every member of this organization to do all in her power to have the suffrage amendment passed, because only in that way will we ever be able to make poor old New Jersey dry.

That's a short way to prohibition,
It's the right way to go.
It's a sure way to bring salvation
To the greatest land we know.

12,684 papers of religious and temperance literature distributed, in foreign and English, also three barrels of magazines, twenty-nine posters have been placed in bakery, barber-shop and store windows, sent to Scotch Plains to be used by a woman in the Baptist Sunday-school. They have also been changed each month at No. 10 Madison avenue.

Corresponding Secretary Report.

The gospel of the total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the State and Nation has been continually held before the public by the various speakers at the Sunday afternoon meetings, parlor meetings, and at the High School Auditorium, where Mary Harris Armour stirred the hearts of her hearers by her matchless eloquence and moved them to laughter by her wit. January 14 was observed as a day of prayer for the annihilation of the liquor traffic, at which several pastors of our local churches took part. Since the last annual meeting eight States have outlawed the liquor traffic.

New Jersey still remains a dark blot on our fast whitening map—but, wait, 11,000 women, with the bow of white ribbon pinned over their hearts, we hope will soon have an opportunity of burying the liquor traffic so deep under their ballots that it will never lift its head again in this State.

The Young People's Branch, called the Tomlinson "Y," is thoroughly organized with an efficient corps of officers. "It is glorious to man a life boat but better to build a lighthouse." That is the motto of the Y. P. B. all over the land, and that is the watchword of the Tomlinson "Y" of Plainfield.

Recording Secretary Report.

250 copies of the Scientific Temperance Instruction laws have been placed in the hands of all teachers of Plainfield and North Plainfield public schools. The present physiologies used in the schools do not comply with these laws and a new [illegible] being introduced in the near future.

Each year the W. C. T. U. offers two prizes for the best essays written on some temperance topic assigned.

Soldiers and Sailors Report.

Christmas, two barrels of clothing for men, women and children, 30 comfort bags, 75 pair wristlets, 4 dozen oranges, 12 boxes candy, books, toys and pictures and $28 sent to Capt. Benn. Quoting from Captain's letter of acknowledgment, he writes, "It is beautiful to see how Christianity is revealing the life that is truth and the truth that is life. Each day almost some one tells of turning to Christ on account of the Xmas present."

February 22, Dr. Strong gave a very interesting address to the Grand Army men.

Memorial Day, 135 white bows with a white carnation were pinned on the veterans. 50 memorial leaflets given out.

The lost article that is of enough consequence to worry about is of enough consequence to advertise.

The best position now open to one of your ability and experience will be secured by a want advertiser.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

He Barked So Loud and Long.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Dog That Was Named Wiggles.

"ONCE there was a wiggly waggly dog," daddy told the children. "He was very shaggy and of no particular breed. The children's daddy brought him home to them when he was a wee bit of a puppy. So small he was, in fact, that their daddy brought him home to them in his overcoat pocket. Of course, you know, it was a big overcoat, but then the puppy was very small, so that evened up.

"And when the children—there were a boy and a girl, and they were named Tom and Helen—saw that puppy they cried out with delight, and the puppy just scrooched all down on his stomach on the kitchen floor, and he shivered and shook all over with joy, and he smiled up at them and stuck out his red tongue, and he wagged his funny busy tail almost off.

"Then the children's daddy, who was looking at the puppy the same as they and their mamma were, laughed and said: 'See him shake all over and wag his tail. Let us call him Wiggles. I think that is the best name for him.'

"So always after that the puppy was called Wiggles, and he grew very early to know his name, and I think he must have liked that name very well, for every time you called him he would scrooch and smile and wag his tail almost off.

"And how he did like to play with the children! And the family was very fond of him, but I am sorry to say he had one very bad habit, for he was a mischievous little puppy, and he would chase the hens that belonged to the next door neighbor.

"When he was a very little puppy he didn't do this because he had not grown up enough to think about it, I suppose. But when he grew to be a little larger he was a regular little nuisance, and he would employ a lot of his time in chasing those poor old hens that minded their own business and should not have been chased by the naughty Wiggles.

"Finally one day the owner of the hens came over to the children's daddy and told him it had to stop or he would have to do terrible things to Wiggles. So they tried tying Wiggles up, but he howled so hard and so long that it seemed cruel to do this, so the children's daddy had to do something else.

"And what do you suppose he did? Why, he gave Wiggles away. Yes, sir; he gave Wiggles away! You see, he really had to. And the children cried and wouldn't be comforted, for you see they loved little Wiggles.

"And how it would have come out I don't know if the neighbor hadn't sold his hens. He went out of the business of chicken raising, and then the children's daddy got little Wiggles back for them, and they were happy again."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

"Now, Nell, don't be late. You're always behind hand wherever you go, and it's bad enough when it's your husband you keep waiting. The doctor is going to all sorts of inconvenience to do you a favor and assist you with the baby. Don't worry him by being late."

"I'll be ready," said Nell curtly. "I never kept you waiting long to go anywhere."

"Oh, didn't you! Well, if you didn't, it was because I hurried you up all the time."

"It's a wonder I ever got anywhere without your valuable aid." Nell's tone was sarcastic. "Will you close the trunk and strap it? The dray is due now any time."

"Is everything in? Are you sure? I don't propose to undo it again," announced Dick.

"If I find anything that must go I'll put it in the suitcase," said Nell, brushing her hair with nervous fingers.

"Well, here goes then." He was just snapping the last clasp when Nell called:

"Wait a minute. This other blanket ought to go in. I can't get it in the suitcase."

"Just as I expected!" Dick's tone was one of deep scorn. "I just got it shut."

"Well, strapping it is the hardest. I'm sorry, dear, but I never packed for a baby before and there are so many things to think of. Now shut it up. I'll not look for fear I'll find something more." She was braiding and arranging her hair the second time.

"My hair simply won't go up; I shall look a perfect fright," she exclaimed in exasperation.

"Never mind your hair; comb it on the train, anything rather than be late."

"Oh, Dick, do be quiet. You make me so nervous I can't hold a hairpin. Go and watch for the drayman and keep away. I can get ready all right if you'll let me alone."

"He's coming for the trunk," called Dick after a moment's silence. "Do you want your suitcase to go too? The bus may be crowded."

"It isn't closed," called back Nell, her mouth full of pins.

"I can close it, if it's ready. He appeared at the bedroom door.

"Oh, I don't know whether it is or not; I want that to put last things in. I may find something I'll simply have to use on the train. I'll risk getting it in the bus."

"All right; are you most ready?" Nell was pulling on her shoes. "You can lace them if you like while I file my nails a little. I intended to do that yesterday, but simply couldn't get it done."

Dick dropped on one knee and laced as if for a wager. "Not so tight, dear. There, that's better, thank you. Now I'll get into my dress."

"Is that the bell?"

"Is Nell ready?" came in Jo Parsons' cheery voice from the living room.

"No, she's like every woman; she'll have to rush herself to death at the last minute."

"No more sweeping statements, my friend. The slow ones are not all of one sex, according to my observation," laughed Mrs. Parsons. "I'll go and see if I can help her."

"Just fasten those collar pins. Dick has hurried me until my fingers are all thumbs," said Nell, flushed and worried.

"Men never realize that they do that," laughed Jo, "and then they blame the women for being late

"Here's a box lunch I put up. You may not be able to get meals every meal time. You never know on this road whether there will be a dining car on or not."

"Oh, thank you so much." Nell stopped to kiss her. "I'll look around and see if everything is in the suitcase. There comes the bus."

"I'm going down to see you off," said Jo, following her to the ancient vehicle.

Household Hints..

PREVENTS ACHING BACK

The "handy man of the house" has saved me numberless backaches by extending the hot water line from the stationary tubs to a position directly above the laundry stove, which stands close beside the tubs.

This simple arrangement saves all lifting connected with filling the wash boiler.

A second-hand faucet was used, making the expense very slight.

ICE BOX ACCESSORY

Doubtless many housewives have suffered much annoyance as a result of the grating of the shelves in an ice box being far enough apart to cause cups or cream pitchers to upset when moving them about, spilling the contents to the floor of the box.

This trouble can be overcome by fitting to the shelves wire window screening, which may be enameled or not, as desired.

This makes a solid foundation for all food receptacles, and yet permit the free passage of air through the box.

STUFFED ONIONS

Peel onions, scoop out portion, parboil five minutes, turn upside down to drain. Fill with stuffing made of equal parts of nuts, meat and bread crumbs and onion chopped fine. Fill onion heaping full and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake till tender in pan with one inch of water.

FROZEN DISHES

Plain Ice Cream—Cold mixture: Take one gallon cream or part milk, one and one-half pounds granulated sugar, one dessertspoon powdered gelatin. Mix sugar and thicken together dry, add cream gradually, stirring constantly till sugar is dissolved. Do not strain. Flavor and freeze as usual.

Ice Cream—Warm mixture: To one gallon cream add four and one-half pounds granulated sugar. Stir on fire till very hot, but not boiling. Add one and one-half gallons cold cream and two teaspoons dissolved gelatin. Strain and cool; flavor and freeze. With cream which contains from 20 to 24 per cent butter fat this should make five gallons frozen cream.

Pineapple Ice—Make a syrup with two pounds sugar and two quarts water. Let infuse with one pint grated pineapple, juice of two oranges and three lemons. Strain and freeze.

Various Fruit Ices—For a rich fruit ice make a syrup with one quart water and one and one-half pounds sugar. Add one and one-half pints fruit pulp, some lemon juice or a little dissolved citric acid as required; then freeze. For strawberry color pink, for raspberry, pale red; for apricot, red and yellow (apricot color); add a few drops almond flavor. For rose, vanilla or violet ices use apple juice or pulp. Color and flavor as required.

Ice Cream Without a Freezer—Beat yolks of eight eggs very light, and add four cups sugar and stir well. Add to this, little by little, one quart rich milk that has been heated almost to boiling, beating all the while; then put in whites of eight eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Then boil mixture in a pail set inside another containing hot water. Boil about fifteen minutes, or until it is as thick as a boiled custard, stirring steadily meanwhile. Pour into a bowl to cool. When quite cold, beat into it three pints of rich sweet cream and five teaspoons vanilla, or such other flavoring as you prefer. Put it into a pail having a close fitting cover and pack in pounded ice and rock salt about three-quarters ice and one-fourth salt. When packed, before putting the ice on top of the cover beat the custard as you would batter, for five minutes steady; then put on cover and put the ice and salt over it, and cover the whole with a thick mat, blanket or carpet and let it stand for an hour. Then carefully uncover and scrape from the bottom and sides of the pail the thick coating of frozen custard and beat again very hard, until the custard is a smooth half congealed paste. Do this thoroughly. Put on the cover, ice, salt and blanket and leave it for five hours, replenishing the ice and salt if necessary.

THE TABLE

Asparagus Loaf—One cup cooked asparagus, one-half cup chopped cooked veal, one cup gravy or white sauce. Mix well together, add three well-beaten eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Pour into greased pudding dish, set dish in pan of hot water and bake until firm.

Chickened Veal—Have veal stripped from the shank, cut in pieces large enough to serve, boil in salted water until very, very tender; roll in flour and fry the same as chicken. If desired, cooked peas may be heated in the skillet after the meat has been taken out and served as a garnish for the meat.

Creamed Dried Beef With Boiled Eggs—Make a white sauce of one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one large cup milk. Add to this five cents' worth of dried beef cut small and two hard-boiled eggs cut into small pieces. Serve on toast.

RECALL OF BID STIRS COUNCIL

Withdrawal of M. T. Moynihan's Offer to Furnish Coal Starts Discussion.

NEGLIGENCE CHARGED

Joseph Harrigan's Figures Accepted at Advanced Price—Councilman Cose Explains Reasons for Delay in Action.

Th action of Michael T. Moynihan, of Dunellen, in withdrawing his bid submitted on May 24 last, to supply the city departments with coal for the coming year at a very low figure, resulted in a lively discussion at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night, between Councilmen Thomas F. Hylan and John H. Cose. As a result of Mr. Moynihan's action and that of the Council in accepting the bid of Joseph Harrigan, who was the next lowest, it will cost the city $106.25 more for coal for the coming year than it would have had the Dunellen man's bid been accepted.

All this was brought out in the discussion between Mr. Hylan and Mr. Cose, which followed the latter's motion that Mr. Harrigan's bid be accepted.

Mr. Hylan wanted to know why action had not been taken on Mr. Moynihan's bid before he was allowed to withdraw the same, and this brought forth the explanation from Mr. Cose that the chairmen of the different committees did not get together to consider the matter.

This reply did not satisfy Mr. Hylan and he wanted to know who was responsible for this, whereupon Mr. Cose said that he was the one who suggested the advertising for bids, wanting coal for the alms department, but that as there had been only one Council meeting since the bids were received there really had not been time to get the chairmen together.

"Well, that may be an excuse and it may not," replied Mr. Hylan. "Why didn't the chairmen get together, is what I would like to know, also how much will the city lose by the withdrawal of Mr. Moynihan's bid and the acceptance of Mr. Harrigan's?"

Mr. Cose refreshing his memory a little, stated that Mr. Moynihan had offered to supply the alms house and No. 3 firehouse with coal for $5.45, because of the short haul, and $5.70 to the other city departments, and that later in a verbal conversation he wanted to know if he could arrange to have Joseph Harrigan deliver the coal to the city departments other than the alms house. Mr. Cose said that after taking the matter up with Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, the latter had advised that any change in the price would necessitate the re-advertisement for bids.

Mr. Hylan wanted to know what difference it would make who delivered the coal as long as there was no change in the price. After some questioning, Mr. Hylan learned that by accepting Mr. Harrigan's bid, the city would lose 42½ cents on coal for the city departments other than the alms house, and 67½ cents on coal for the later institution.

It was further explained by Mr. Cose that Mr. Hamilton raised a question about the quality of coal to be furnished by Mr. Moynihan and he thought that a test of heat units should be made, but Mr. Cose said that he did not have time to make such a test.

Mr. Hylan said that he didn't like "these conversations of a verbal nature." He thought there was a regular way of doing the city's business and such conversation didn't "cut any ice." In his opinion someone had been negligent, and had failed in his duty. He thought a certified check should accompany all bids, thus protecting the city.

Councilman Claybrook, who was president pro tem in the absence of Mr. Clay, agreed with Mr. Hylan as to negligence.

Further questioning on the part of Mr. Hylan brought forth the information that Mr. Harrigan's bid was $6.12½ a ton for 250 tons more or less for all departments, and that he had agreed to furnish coal for that price if the bid was accepted prior to July 1.

In withdrawing his bid, Mr. Moynihan complained that if it had been accepted at the time it was offered he could have supplied the coal at the quoted figure, but that the June prices had been advanced and he was obliged to pay more for his coal, hence his unwillingness to furnish the coal at the original price.

LYDIA CHAPTER MEETING.

The final business meeting of Lydia Chapter, No. 41, Order of the Eastern Star, prior to the summer vacation will be held Friday night, in the Masonic rooms, at the Babcock building. Various matters of importance will come up and it is urged a full attendance be present.

CONNORS' VERDICT UPHELD BY COURT

Prison Term for Man Who Stole Ackerman Gems.

WIDESPREAD INTEREST

Victory for Plainfield Police Department and Bertillon System—Also Vindicates Officers of "Frame up" Charge.

Decision on the appeal taken in the case of Charles, alias "Ice-Wagon" Connors, convicted solely on finger print evidence of robbing the home of former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman in this city, of gems valued at $17,000, was handed down in an opinion rendered by the Supreme Court at Trenton, yesterday, that court affirming the guilty verdict of the Union county jury. Connors is now in State Prison serving a term of from three and one-half to seven years, and it is not expected that a further appeal to the Errors Court will be taken by his counsel.

The ultimate outcome of this case has been watched with interest from all parts of the country because of the effect it will have on the merits of the Bertillon system of fingerprint identification in the apprehension and conviction of criminals. During the trial Bertillon men from the four quarters of the globe were present and the opinion of the Supreme Court is recognized as a veritable victory for Chief Kiely, Captain John J. Flynn and other members of the Plainfield police department who were instrumental in securing the incriminating evidence against the notorious criminal.

The most interesting feature connected with the verdict is the fact that the Supreme Court finds no error in the admission of fingerprint identification of Connors. The evidence in the case was circumstantial. Fingerprints were found on the balcony post at the Ackerman home by Captain Flynn; Connors was suspected and after his arrest in Chicago at the request of Chief Kiely, the impression taken of his fingerprints tallied exactly with those on the post. In making the appeal the convicted man's counsel laid special stress on the use of fingerprints and on this point the court ruled as follows:

"We think it competent to admit the fac-simile of the impression of fingerprints upon the post for the purpose of comparison with an actual impression of the defendant's fingerprints taken for the purpose of comparison as a means of eliciting a fact, viz., that the fingers in each instance were the same. Whether or not they were the same presented a question of fact for the jury to determine, in view of all the circumstances, and the light thrown upon them by experts in that art. The Supreme Court finds no merit in the numerous other grounds for the appeal and, therefore, the conviction is affirmed."

During the trial of Connors the testimony of Chief Kiely, Captain Flynn, Sergeant Maurice Higgins and Patrolman John Kelly, all members of the Plainfield police department, was characterized as a "frame-up" by Conners' counsel, William Newcorn, and the verdict of the Supreme Court yesterday justifies this particular testimony and vindicates the above-named.

MRS. MARY L. HEATH MUST GIVE TESTIMONY

William Newcorn appeared in the Plainfield District Court this morning, before Judge Walter L. Hetfield with a request to the court to make an order compelling Mrs. Mary L. Heath, mother of William Heath, to appear before Francis J. Blatz next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in the latter's office to give certain testimony previously ordered by the court.

According to Mr. Newcorn, on a former occasion, both Heath and his mother were summoned to give testimony, but Mrs. Heath neglected the summons.

T. A. B. OUTING.

Members of the T. A. B. Society enjoyed an outing to Boynton Beach, last night. The drum corps of St. Mary's church, attired in full regalia, also made the trip, furnishing music. After enjoying the various attractions at the beach the delegation made the return trip by trolley, late in the evening.

PLAN TO CHANGE LICENSE BLOCKED

Delay in Change of Lease for Hotel Kensington Checks Action by Council.

TO VACATE A STREET

Ordinance Introduced to Close An Unused Thoroughfare On Property of John Gray—To Issue Street Bonds.

Owing to a hitch in transferring the lease of the property from William J. Kitchen, the present tenant, to John J. Sullivan, of Point Pleasant, the prospective tenant, the transfer of the liquor license for Hotel Kensington was not made at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. It was expected that the change would be made as Mr. Sullivan expected to take charge on July 1, when Mr. Kitchen planned to leave for St. Louis, where he intends to make his home. Just when action will be taken in the matter is not known, but it is possible that differences may be adjusted before the regular July meeting of the Council.

Upon the petition of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, the sole owners of property on Putnam and Woodland avenues and Webster place, Councilman Francis J. Blatz introduced an ordinance, which was adopted on two readings, which provides for the closing of an unused street on Berckman street, the thoroughfare not having been used for more than twenty years. There will be a public hearing on the proposed action on August 2 before the ordinance is finally adopted.

The petition of residents of Kensington avenue, between Prospect and Thornton avenues, to have that street macadamized and put to grade was referred to the street committee to be reported upon later.

John D. Foreest, of 209 East Fifth street, was granted permission to install a gasoline tank at that address upon motion of Mr. Blatz.

Mr. Blatz introduced a resolution which was adopted, providing for the issuing of seven bonds of $1,000 denomination each, to cover the cost of permanently paving West Third street. These bonds are to run for ten years and to bear interest at 5 per cent. Six of the seven bonds, which will be dated July 1, 1914, the time it was originally planned to issue them, will be taken by the City National Bank at par. The sum of $50 was appropriated to cover the expense of having the bonds printed.

GRADUATE'S GOWN TAKEN FROM SCHOOL

Miss Hauser, Salutatorian of Her Class, Mysteriously Loses Her Frock.

Rumors were spread broadcast this morning, in the city and borough, that through some mysterious source one of the graduation dresses exhibited in the borough school had disappeared and could not be located, or the culprit responsible for the deed apprehended. Excitement was intense for the dress in question belongs to the salutatorian of the graduating class, Miss Viola Hauser, who was one of seven feminine aspirants for the prize offered by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school for the girl who made her own commencement gown under certain rules. Up to noon today no definite information could be gotten as to whether or not the dress had been restored to its owner. Girl chums are in deep anxiety over the matter and are doing their utmost to find the gown and the guilty party.

The dresses were brought to the school on Monday and exhibited to a committee from the Parent-Teacher Association, who passed judgment on the frocks and the announcement of the winners of the prizes was to be given out tomorrow morning at the chapel exercises.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

The progressive euchre given by the Daughters of Rebekah in their rooms at 109 Park avenue, last night, was enjoyed by a large number of members of the organization and their friends. Eight tables were used during the period of play and a number of handsome gifts were awarded to the winners. Refreshments were served during the evening. The affair was in charge of the good and welfare committee of the lodge.

MAN OF MYSTERY IN ROUNDEY CASE

"Frenchy" Appears and May Put An End to Petition for Divorce.

STOCKTON'S CHARGES

Revelations of a Serious Nature Said by Newark Attorney to Be Available—Investigation Will Follow in a Short Time.

Evidene of a sensational nature which Richard Stockton, counsel for Mrs. Florence E. Roundey, formerly of this city, claims to have in his possession will cause an abrupt termination of John K. Roundey's suit for an absolute decree of divorce if proven true. Such is the addmission made by Martin Stutsman, counsel for Mr. Roundey, who declared to a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, that if Mr. Stockton could prove to him that the affidavits he says he has in his possession will "hold water" he will drop the litigation. So startling are the alleged revelations, however, that the petitioning party is reluctant to place credence in the claims of the Newark attorney and a thorough investigation will probably develop between now and the time the case comes up in the Newark courts in October. When it was called yesterday, Mr. Stutsman appeared for Mr. Roundey and applied for an adjournment in order that he might take advantage of the evidence that might possibly be forthcoming from the criminal indictments now hanging over Mrs. Roundey's head in Union county.

Mr. Stockton's primary allegation involves a deep-rooted plot and he claims to have made application to the United States district attorney's office for a thorough investigation into what he alleges is pure conspiracy.

It has been generally understood that Mr. Roundey's main point in his action for a divorce rests in the charge that Mrs. Roundey visited a New York city hotel last October in the company of a man, not her husband. In the divorce action, Mr. Roundey names Jules Dupont, of New York city, as corespondent.

According to Mr. Stockton, who lays emphasis on the fact that his conspiracy charge is backed up by substantial affidavits, two men visited Conrad Deutschman, proprietor of a hotel located at 88 Bowery, New York city, looking for witnesses to swear that Mrs. Roundey visited the hostelry under the alleged circumstances on December 18. Mr. Stockton says that the hotel is classed as a "stage" hotel and that the plan fell through.

Mrs. Roundey's counsel goes on to state that the parties involved in the alleged conspiracy then secured Frank Hess, Louis Vallone and a man known as "Frenchy," who later consented to play the role of "Jules Dupont," to swear that Mrs. Roundey and the mysterious man visited the Capital Hotel, at 286 Bowery, on December 18. Mr. Stockton claims "Frenchy" made an affidavit to this effect for $25.

To offset the alleged false plot Mr. Stockton claims to have in his possession evidence that will show that the Capital Hotel closed its doors September 30 and the fixtures were removed on that date, making a visit to that place out of the question. Mr. Stutsman says that if Mr. Stockton can prove to him that such circumstances exist he will move for the dismissal of the divorce bill at once.

CONDITION OF INJURED MAN MORE ENCOURAGING

Information given out at St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, this afternoon, indicates that the condition of Edward J. Way, of this city, who was injured in an automobile crash on the outskirts of New Brunswick early Sunday morning, is slightly improved and friends were given some encouragement as to his ultimate recovery. He has been conscious most of the time since yesterday and barring complications the physicians hope to pull him through.

Further examination of his injuries failed to reveal any other broken bone with the exception of the fractured rib which has pierced his lung. He was resting as comfortably as could be expected this afternoon.

WORKING ON NEW DIRECTORY.

W. L. Richmond, publisher of Plainfield's city directory, has the work well underway for the new book which will be issued in the near future. William A. Sexton, representing Mr. Richmond, is engaged in doing the work in Plainfield and vicinity, and he asks the co-operation of the people in helping him to make the book as accurate as possible.

O'KEEFE IS MADE POLICE SERGEANT

Council Receives Long-Anticipated Appointments From Mayor Calkins.

HIGGINS A LIEUTENANT

Roundsmen Charles A. Flynn and Andrew Saffron Also Named As Sergeants and With O'Keefe Will Alternate In Desk Duty.

Mayor Leighton Calkins made the long anticipated police appointments at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, and they were promptly confirmed by the Council upon the motion of Juan A. Babcock, chairman of the police committee. The appointments promotes Maurice Higgins from the position of sergeant to that of a lieutenant, while Charles A. Flynn, Andrew Saffron and Dennis O'Keefe were named as the three sergeants, the last named one being a new appointee. Both Flynn and Saffron have been acting in that capacity for some little time. They were formerly roundsmen until through an amendment to the police ordinance that office was abolished and provisions were made for a lieutenant of police and three sergeants.

The selection of O'Keefe as the third sergeant seems to be a popular one as he has been on the force for a number of years and he has a clear record. Other candidates for the appointment included John Kelly, Tobias Nolan and Arthur McGinley, each one being a good officer. The police board took its time in considering the matter before recommending a man for the position.

The three sergeants will alternate in doing desk duty at police headquarters, which will permit Captain John A. Flynn and Lieutenant Maurice Higgins to do outside duty. In the absence of the chief Captain Flynn will take his place. There is still another vacancy in the force to be filled by reason of the death of Patrolman Martin Vanderweg, and a man for that position may be chosen in the near future. In other respects the force now has a pretty full complement of men, although there are many people who believe that it should be still further increased and made more efficient. Last night's appointments were made in the absence of Mayor Calkins, he being at Cambridge, Mass., this week, attending the reunion of his class at Harvard University. He made out the list before going away, leaving them with the chairman of the police committee, Mr. Babcock.

NEWARK NORMAL COMMENCEMENT

Dr. H. M. Maxson Delivers Address—Two Graduates From Plainfield.

The fifth class which has been graduated since the Newark Normal School became a State institution, held its commencement exercises yesterday. Although this class of June, 1915, is the largest class which was ever graduated from the Normal School, over half of the graduates have already been assigned to positions in various parts of the State. The members of the class all wore caps and gowns and the entrance march was a very impressive sight. The program was carried out as follows: Chant by the class; foreword by Lena J. Batten, president of the class; musical selections by Elmer Wall Smith, Nathaniel Ginsberg and William Fast; secitation by Stella Simmonds on "If;" address, "The Teacher's Opportunity," by Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield schools; interpretation dances, "Summer" and "Song of the Robin," by Anita Breunig; presentation of class gift, by Marie Joachim; presentation of the class for graduation, by Principal W. Spader Willis; awarding of diplomas, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, vice-president of the State Board of Education; farewell word, by Jennie R. Rogers; class song written by Mildred Ver Soy, by the class.

Among the Plainfielders graduated yesterday were the Misses Diana Seigel and Julia Aller, both graduates of the Plainfield High School, class of 1913. The young women have been teaching in this city for the past three months.

PLANS FILED FOR GLOEKLER CORNER

FOR $15,000 BUILDING

Will Be One or More Stories and Will Be Occupied by the United Cigar Stores Company—Borough Contractor to Do the Work.

Official confirmation of a story published in the Daily Press last week to the effect that the present building on the Christian Gloekler estate at Front and Somerset streets would be torn down, and replaced by a modern structure, was received this morning in the nature of plans filed with Building Inspector T. O. Doane. The specifications call for one or more stories, the number to be determined later, and the completed building will cost about $15,000. It will have a depth of eighty-seven feet, a frontage of forty-one feet and a rear width of thirty-five feet. Brick will be used in the construction work, which will be supervised by L. I. Denslow, of New York city. W. H. Pangborn Sons, of North Plainfield, are the general contractors.

Authoritative information was obtained by the Daily Press last Wednesday to the effect that this up-to-date building would in the near future give place to the present frame structure, and the following day the story was positively denied by another local paper, which published a statement made by Christian Gloekler, who declared that no such move was even being considered.

The sum of $15,000 is the largest amount expended in a building for strictly business purposes in Plainfield since January 1 and the erection of the proposed structure will mark the passing of one of the city's oldest stores on this corner.

On this site the first Masonic home in Plainfield was organized in the second floor of the present building and for many years it was the home of the city's first newspaper, the Plainfield Union, founded and conducted by the late Milton F. Cushing, father of Mrs. William Hand.

Although the fact is not mentioned in the data supplied to the building inspector, it is known, with a reasonable degree of certainty, that the United Cigar Stores Company will occupy the new building, after taking out a long lease. Vice President Bader and other officers of the concern, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, were reluctant to give out any definite statement to the effect that the Gloekler corner had been leased, but every intimation was given that such an agreement had been arrived at between the owner and the company.

MRS. STEPHEN B. JOSEPH GIVES A CARD PARTY

The card party given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. B. Joseph, 29 Willow avenue, was one of the social events of the season, a large number of members of Lydia Chapter, No. 41, Order of the Eastern Star, attending the affair. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with roses and ferns, while strings of cards were festooned about the hallway and parlor.

Eight tables were necessary to accommodate the players, and "500" was the principal game enjoyed. Thirteen prizes offered by various members of the chapter were won by the following: Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. Allen Codington, Mrs. C. L. Crist, Mrs. Robert Gow, Mrs. Walter Apgar, Mrs. D. Denlinger, Mrs. Harry Marshall, Mrs. J. L. Pope, Mrs. J. Von-Tovel, Mrs. L. E. Poinier, Mrs. Lily Bennett, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. A. E. Force.

During the afternoon dainty refreshments were served the players, the following committee having charge: Mrs. W. R. Causbrook, Mrs. George Westcott, Mrs. A. E. Force, Mrs. Arthur McVoy, Mrs. E. W. Poinier, Miss M. Stein and Mrs. Elizabeth Woodard.

LEMBERG RETAKEN BY TEUTONIC ARMY

Mackensens Army in Possession of Galician Capital, Petrograd Admits.

FRENCH GAIN IN ALSACE

Suspension of Deutsche Tageszeitung Said to Indicate Serious Trouble in German Cabinet—Italian Alpine Troops Repulse Reinforced Enemy.

Vienna June 23.—The recapture of Lemberg, capital of Galicia, was officially announced today. In reporting the retaking of the city the Austro-Hungarian headquarters stated that it was taken by the second army after a violent fight.

Vienna (via Berlin wireless), June The Russians had held Lemberg, the capital of the Austrian province of Galicia, since September 3 last, when they entered the city after inflicting a crushing defeat on the Austrians. The Austrians in this battle lost 130,000 men, including prisoners, and 200 guns. The Austro-German drive across Galicia, which culminated in the capture of Lemberg, began on May 1, when Von Mackensen's big guns smashed the whole Russian line on the Donajec River, compelling the Czar's forces to retreat, abandoning all their hard won positions in the Carpathians.

Petrograd, June 23.—The Russians have begun evacuating Lemberg. The withdrawal of troops commenced on Monday night and continued throughout yesterday. Less than 40,000 men were defending the western approaches to the city against the fierce Austro-German attacks early yesterday, and it is possible that this force has now retired eastward, leaving the Galician capital free to the enemy.

Official circles here accepted the retirement before the enemy's artillery onslaught as necessary to the carrying out of the Grand Duke's strategic plans and made the point that the city itself was of little military value. An official statement issued today touched only lightly on the situation at Lemberg, but dwelt upon Russian victories on both flanks of the Teutonic armies.

In southeast Galicia, along the front from Stanislau to a point north of Czernowitz, the Russian left wing inflicted two severe defeats on the Austro-Germans, taking 4,500 prisoners and large quantities of ammunition, the official statement declared.

Paris, June 23.—The French War statement today says that French troops have made important progress in their renewed drive through Alsace toward the Rhine. Today's official communique announces that capture of Sondernach, a town south of Metzeral on a branch of the Fecht River, located on the crest of a series of heights. This town dominates a large location.

Rome, June 23.—The Italian War statement says: "Enemy activity Monday was confined to long range artillery fire. In the Monte Nero zone our Alpine battalions encountered yesterday important enemy forces, recently arrived, probably from Galicia. The Alpine troops attacked and repulsed them. Night attacks by infantry were renewed against us at Plava with an intense rifle fire, but these were repulsed."

Amsterdam, June 23.—The suspension of the Deutsche Tageszeitung by the German Government indicates a more serious situation than has been hitherto believed, according to a statement to the Central News correspondent by a personage well acquainted with German politics. The Tageszeitung has been the private organ and mouthpiece of Admiral Von Tirpitz, the German Minister of the Navy, and its attack on Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, is taken to indicate that the differences between the naval head and the chancellor are increasing into the biggest schism with which Germany was ever threatened, and one which may lead to an open rupture. The suspension for an indefinite period of the Tageszeitung seems to indicate that Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg will persevere in his attitude of conciliation toward the United States, to which Admiral Von Tirpitz strongly objects.

Cardiff, Wales, June 23.—The British steamer Belgrave has been torpedoed by a German submarine off the coast of Pembrokeshire.

London, June 23.—It was learned today that the Aberdeen trawler Premier was sunk by a German submarine seventy miles northwest of St. Kilda, a Scottish island in the Atlantic.

SEEKS PERMISSION TO INSTALL DRAIN

A. H. Burdick Petitions Council for Privilege of Improving Walnut Street.

An adjourned session of the Common Council was held last evening at the Borough Hall, when matters of a routine nature were taken up, the bulk of which pertained to streets and sewers.

A communication was read from Albierne H. Burdick, a large real estate owner in the borough, requesting the privilege to lay 1,200 feet of terra cotta storm drain on the south side of Walnut street, from the brook to Fourth street. This was to be done at the expense of Mr. Burdick, who has already awarded the contract for the work, and who owns the greater part of the property on that side of the thoroughfare. The present culverts are in bad shape, and the putting in of a new drain will improve the property considerably. Mr. Burdick expects to build a number of dwellings on the tract shortly. It is also desired that two culverts be placed at Washington avenue and Walnut street. The matter was referred to the street committee

Bills amounting to $884.30 were read and passed, having been approved by the various committees.

Communications were read from the Public Service Corporation relative to stopping trolley cars at the far side of the streets, and this matter is to be taken up at an early date with a local railway official.

Several ordinances relative to accepting several streets as public highways by the borough, were adopted on third reading. Seven streets, all in the Equator Park residential tract, were accepted by the passing of these ordinances, and were as follows: Third street, Front street, First street, Sanford avenue, Schwartz place, Second street and Dunellen avenue.

A resolution was introduced providing for the advertising for bids for the lighting of the borough streets, as the present contract with the Public Service Corporation expired June 1. Bids are to be received at the meeting of July 6.

A few slight changes in the contract with Mr. Corbin, who is now constructing the sewerage collecting system of Dunellen, were approved for the present, and will be taken up again later. The meeting was adjourned to next Monday evening.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN DUNELLEN PUPILS

Closing Exercises Held in the Whittier School Last Evening.

AWARDING OF PRIZES

Lewis H. Carris, Assistant State Commissioner of Education Speaks on "Vocational Training"—List of Graduates.

The closing exercises of the Eighth grade of the Whittier School, held in the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, last night, attracted a large number of parents and friends of the graduates. The class numbered twenty-seven boys and girls.

The exercises opened with an organ prelude by S. Frederic Smith, supervisor of music of the schools. Then as the graduates' march was rendered by Mr. Smith the graduates marched into the church. First came Miss Dora Whitford, the first honor pupil of her class. She was gowned in white and followed by the seventeen other girl members of the class similarly attired. These were followed by the nine young men graduates.

The graduates took their seats on the platform. Suspended over their heads were the numerals 1915 made of daisies and banked in their rear were potted palms and ferns. Other platform decorations were heavy strings of daisy heads strung along the choir railing. The balcony in the rear of the church was also appropriately decorated. Twined about its posts were the class colors, yellow and white in crepe paper and its face was decorated with strings of daisy heads.

Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, offered the invocation. Miss Dora Whitford then recited the "Wreck of the Hesperus." with pleasing effect.

The speaker of the evening was Lewis H. Carris, of Trenton, assistant State Commissioner of Education After speaking in high terms of the general plan of education pursued by the Dunellen schools and especially of the plan of sending the grammar school graduates to Plainfield High School instead of the borough trying to maintain a High School of its own, Mr. Carris delivered an interesting address on "Vocational Training."

He said that owing to the wonderful development in the country's transportation and manufacturing facilities during the past decade that the schools have been hardly keeping abreast of the times despite the fact that they have also developed wonderfully as reflected by the increase of over 300 per cent. in school taxes during the past 25 years. He attributed this to the fact that the schools are not endeavoring to find out what particular vocation each pupil is peculiarly adapted for and then specializing in that subject, not, however, at the expense of the child's general education. The present system of making it compulsory for a pupil to receive a certain mark in every study before he or she can be advanced to the next grade has resulted in the ostrasization of many.

George Hipp and Morris Stites, tied for the position of second honor pupil took fitting parts in the program. George Hipp recited the "New Church Organ." Morris Stites read a well-prepared and interesting essay on "The Panama Canal."

An interesting part of the program was the distribution of certificates and the awarding of medals and prizes to graduates. The honor pupils received bronze medals. The following received books for perfect attendance and punctuality: Genevieve Coleman, Marjorie Enander, Margaret Frederick, Sadie Kuntz, Mildred Mattis, Emily Williams, Marion Damker, George Hipp, John Maskell and Madison Vail. John Maskell was presented with a book for the most improvement in penmanship during the year.

LOCAL ATHLETES DECIDE TO QUIT COLLEGE COURSE

Donald Sminck, of West Front street, and George Townley, of North Plainfield, both of whom were students in the International Y. M. C. A. College at Springfield, Mass., during the past year, have decided to give up their proposed course in Y. M. C. A. work and will enter business in the fall. Sminck was a freshman and Townley was a junior in the institution. Herbert Stine, of North Plainfield, a third Plainfield boy in the college, will enter upon his senior year in the fall.

During the past year, Townley established a name for himself as a pitcher on the college varsity outfit and Sminck was looked upon as a likely candidate for a similar berth next year.

WHAT PLAINFIELD WANTS TO KNOW.

The Answer Is Found in the Statement of a Plainfield Resident.

From week to week, from year to year, there have been appearing in these columns statements made by neighbors, which we have all read with great interest, and many of us with great profit. But what we want to know is, do they stand the greatest test of all—the test of time? Here is conclusive evidence on this point from a Plainfield woman:

Mrs. E. Dorflinger, 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's Drug Store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued until cured."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER Mrs. Dorflinger said: "I have just as high an opinion of them now as when I gave my former endorsement recommending them. The cure they made has been permanent."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Dorflinger had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

MUSIC TO FEATURE ALUMNI RECEPTION

Quintet From New York Philharmonic Will Furnish the Program.

Final plans for the commencement dance given by the Plainfield High School Alumni Association in honor of the class of 1915 on the evening of June 24, have been completed. The affair promises to be one of the best and the most largely attended dance yet given in the new auditorium. The music for the dancing will be furnished by a quintet from the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, who have been playing for a series of dances at the Waldorf-Astoria during the winter and spring. The entire program of the dances will include eight one steps, five fox trots and two waltzs.

The advance sale of tickets has been unusually large and the gathering Thursday night will include many older graduates who have come from a distance to renew old acquaintances with their alma mater. There are still a few tickets left and alumni, friends and members of the graduating class may secure them on Thursday night from the secretary of the association directly after the commencement exercises, who will be found in the principal's office to the left of the main entrance.

Dancing will probably start at 11 o'clock and continue until an early hour. Prior to the dancing the audience will be asked to disperse in order that the floor may be cleared and prepared for those wishing to dance. The committee in charge of arrangements feels that the commencement dance this year will be a memorable and significant affair and one long to be remembered by the members of the graduating class.

NEWARKER'S $6,000 AUTO BURNED ON FANWOOD HILL

An automobile touring car, the owners of which would not reveal their identity, caught fire while ascending the Fanwood hill last night and was completely consumed by the flames before aid arrived. The fire was started by the back-fire of the engine and the only thing that remains of the machine this morning is a badly disfigured chassis.

The auto is of the Pope-Hartford type and is a recent model valued at $6,000. Beyond saying that they hailed from Newark the occupants would make no statement and left for home by train, abandoning the wreck.

SISTERHOOD OF TEMPLE SHOLEM PLAN LAWN FETE

The last social event of the season to be given under the auspices of the Sisterhood of Temple Sholem is scheduled for tonight, and will be in the nature of a lawn fete at the home of Mrs. J. B. THE CIGARETTE BEETLE.

This Tough Little Pest Will Flourish Even in Cayenne Pepper.

A tiny but withal practically omnivorous little fellow, the cigarette beetle is known to science as Lasioderma serricorne. It is common in nearly all tropical and subtropical countries, and, as a sample of its catholic tastes, we may mention that it will breed in raisins, rhubarb, cayenne pepper, rice, ginger, dried fish, upholstery, ergot, turmeric, books, cane work, gun wads, liquorice, saffron, belladonna and in pyrethrum powder strong enough to kill cockroaches—a varied catalogue to be sure. It is chiefly as a pest of tobacco, in various forms, however, that the cigarette beetle has become notorious. The greatest damage is done to the wrappers of cigars and cigarettes, through which it eats small holes.

The larvae live upon the tobacco leaf, and a very interesting fact is that the size of the adult beetles, into which the larvae eventually develop depends not only on the quantity, but also on the quality, of tobacco that has been devoured in the immature stages. Experiment has shown that in every case beetles obtained from selected cigars were double the size of those from low grade tobacco. It will be remembered that the cheese "skipper" is partial to the better cheeses; similarly, the cigarette beetle is somewhat of a connoisseur, for given a free choice cigarettes are always the first to be infested, while cheap grade tobacco and cigars kept in the same room will remain uninfested for years.

Apart from the actual destruction of the tobacco leaf, the larvae spoil its aroma and accordingly depreciate its value; it is some consolation to know that the adults themselves do no damage. This little beetle is most difficult to eradicate, and, to that end, an experimental X ray machine was specially built at great expense in America. The machine was to be capable of "sterilizing" cigars, on a commercial scale, at the rate of 40,000 a day; voltages of 64,000 to 75,000 and exposures as long as an hour were tried without the slightest effect upon eggs, larvae, pupae or adults—the experiment was a failure.—"Insects and Man," by C. A. Ealand.

VICTOR HUGO'S VISION.

The Day When Weapons of War Will Be Regarded as Curiosities.

A day comes when you, France—you, Russia—you, Italy—you, England—you, Germany—all you nations of the continent shall without losing your distinctive qualities and your glorious individuality blend in a higher unity and form a European fraternity, as Normandy, Brittany, Burgundy, Lorraine, Alsace, all the French provinces, blended into France. A day will come when war shall seem as impossible between Paris and London, between Petersburg and Berlin, as between Rouen and Amiens, as between Boston and Philadelphia.

A day will come when bullets and bombs shall be replaced by ballots, by the universal suffrage of the people, by the sacred arbitrament of a great sovereign senate, which shall be to Europe what the parliament is to England, the diet to Germany, the legislative assembly to France. A day will come when a cannon shall be exhibited in our museums as an instrument of torture is now and men shall marvel that such things could be.

A day will come when we shall see those two immense groups, the United States of America and the United States of Europe, in face of each other extending hand to hand over the ocean, exchanging their products, their commerce, their industry, their art; their genius clearing the earth, colonizing deserts and ameliorating creation.

To you I appeal, French, English, Germans, Russians, Slavs, Europeans, Americans, what have we to do to hasten the coming of the great day?

Love one another.—Victor Hugo.

Too Costly.

King George II. once wished to add the Green park, in London, to his palace grounds, whether the people liked it or not. He inquired of his minister as to the cost.

His lordship, mindful of the general discontent then prevalent, answered: "The cost, sir? Oh, it would be a matter of three crowns!"

The king took the hint. The people kept their park and the sovereign his triple throne.

Dublin's Red Haired Club.

The Red Haired club of Dublin, which flourished years ago, was a society which barred out all whose hirsute covering was not of the most pronounced auburn. In order that no one could gain admission by false pretenses it was required at the initiation of each member that the applicant wash his hair and whiskers in hot soda and water. This effectually took out any "dye" that had been used.

Mutual Help.

"Say, old man," quoth the farmer. "I wish you'd train my son to be a lawyer in your office. There's nothing in farming."

"I'll do it," assented the lawyer, "provided you'll take my son on your farm. There's nothing in the law."—Kansas City Journal.

Singapore is not well known, though it is one of the world's largest ports and comes within the first eight. It is an entrepot for the transshipment of the merchandise of the Malay peninsula and archipelago, besides considerable transshipments for Siam and Indo-China.

SCORES KILLED AND DAMAGE BY QUAKE

Southern California Seriously Affected by Three Successive Shocks

Los Angeles, Cal., June 23—Scores killed, hundreds injured and property loss running into millions of dollars is the total damage done by three successive earthquake shocks which rocked Imperial Valley, California, last night.

Calexico, on the border across from Mexicali, Mexico, and El Centro were the places most severly shaken. Heber, Holtville and Calipatria, Cal., also reported serious damage.

Practically every buildng in El Centro was damaged. The new Barbara Worth Hotel, recently opened after an expenditure in construction of $200,000, was almost entirely destroyed. The Security Savings Bank, the Baldwin Drug Company and the Masonic bulding also were wrecked.

Property loss in El Centro alone will exceed $1,000,000. The city is practically in a state of martial law.

Nearly all telegraph and telephone wires are down. A dozen or more buildings took fire after the earthquake. In El Centro twelve persons are reported as missing.

In Mexicali, across the border, fifty persons are reported to have been killed in rioting, which began after the earthquake has razed many buildings in the town. The putting out of the Holtville (Cal.) light plant placed the entire town in darkness, whereupon gamblers and hangers-on about resorts in the Mexican town began robbing and shooting when the victims resisted.

You May Find a Worker Trained and Fit to do Your Work.

A worker whose salary you will voluntarily raise in a short time!

"Getting along" with half-competent help, in home, office, store or factory, is a poor plan—a poor business policy.

The quest for the Competent Worker is important enough to justify a real campaign of classified advertising in the Plainfield Daily Press—although it does not often require a very long campaign.

APPROPRIATE DUES TO AID CELEBRATION

Troop 14, Boy Scouts, Gives Independence Day Fund a Boost.

Troop 14, of the First Baptist church, Boy Scouts of America, want a public fireworks display in this city on July 5 and at their meeting on Monday night appropriated their entire week's dues toward the fund now being raised by the Plainfield Playground Commission. In view of the fact that every cent that goes for dues in a Boy Scout troop has to be part of money earned, the Commission feels that this is one of the finest examples of juvenile endorsement of the Safe and Sane Fourth of July idea conceivable.

That brings the fund up to within $205 of what is needed to provide a band concert, pyrotechnic display and torchlight procession. The corrected list of contributions received up to noon today follows. Checks should be sent at the earliest possible moment to the Editor of The Daily Press, or to G. W. Wriston, secretary, 515 East Seventh street.

MISS GERTRUDE EHRCKE TENDERED A FAREWELL

A farewell social was last evening tendered Miss Gertrude M. Ehrcke, by the Loyal Daughters Bible Class, of Hope chapel, of which she was a member and librarian during the past year. Miss Ehrcke is leaving today for her former home at Central Bridge, New York.

The class room was beautifully decorated with flowers, a handsome bouquet of yellow and white, the class colors, occupying the centre of the dining table. The social followed a formal discussion of class business, during which several members paid tribute to Miss Ehrcke and her activities in the working of the class, and the faithful manner in which she cared for her duties. The social committee was in charge of the arrangements for the occasion.

UNION COUNTY SUFFRAGE RALLY AT RAHWAY

Suffrage workers from all over the State will gather at the Union County Rally which is scheduled to be held in the Empire Theatre at Rahway, Monday night, June 28, at 8 o'clock. Speakers of national repute will be in attendance and the cause of suffrage will be brought forward by orators of noted ability. Included in these will be Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the great suffrage leader, wit and orator.

Many Plainfielders will recall the interesting woman when she appeared under the auspices of the local league at the Plainfield High School Auditorium recently. Prior to the meeting at night there will be a conference of the Union county workers at the Suffrage headquarters building in Rahway at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. A delegation of representatives of the Plainfield Equal Suffrage League will undoubtedly be in attendance.

CENSUS EFFECTS.

Union county may gain an Assemblyman after this year as a result of the State census now being taken. The Constitution provides that in proportioning the sixty members of the lower House, at least one shall be assigned to each county, regardless of population. That provides for twenty-one of the places, and the other thirty-nine are divided among the counties affected according to population. The Trenton Times has figured that there are ten counties that will have but a single member after this year, and beside Union county, Essex, Hudson, Passaic and Bergen county will probably gain one more member, at the expense of Middlesex, Monmouth, Atlantic, Camden, Morris and Mercer.

As Trenton is in Mercer county the Times bemoans the fact that representation there will be cut, and sees in it another argument for dividing the State into Assembly districts, instead of apportioning the members as at present. In this latter contention the Times is undoubtedly right, but politicians in the past have always seen to it that the "rights" of the smaller counties have been carefully protected, and as a result any effort to change the Constitution in that one respect has met with failure.

Another effect of the new census will be to automatically raise the salaries of officials in many smaller counties, for every salary law now in force fixes the amount on the basis of population. The population of a county might be increased from 24,000 to 25,000, and with that increase would go a raise in salary to four officials of $500 a year, although their work would not be increased in the slightest. Thus the burden upon the people would be raised without any excuse, other than the fact that the politicians and officeholders had been shrewd enough to foresee something which would not attract the attention of the ordinary citizen. The census taken by the government in 1910 made the population in Union county 140,197. The normal increase for five years in the past throughout the whole State has been fifteen per cent, and if that rule holds in this county, the population will be about 161,000. The law fixing the salaries here provides that they shall be $6,500 when the population is between 125,000 and 300,000, so that the increase will make no difference in Union county. For all that, in matters of this kind the people should have home rule, through the Board of Freeholders, and not have to run to the Legislature to fix the salaries of county officials.

According to another local newspaper, the jitney question is to receive the attention of the Common Council. There are more than a few citizens who are wondering what gave any councilman the idea that he was elected to look out for the interests of the Public Service Corporation. It is all well enough to provide a license fee for such vehicles, but if an effort is made to stop the machines some one will find that the job will be greater than was bargained for. Incidentally it might be remarked that the information that "in other cities these busses are not permitted to compete with the street car companies" is surprising. It is only where the street car traffic is heaviest in the larger cities that the jitneys operate.

It is indeed a pleasure to know that such large classes are to graduate from the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools tomorrow night. The fact that many parents encourage their children to complete the course proves that we have few of those misguided individuals, found in some rural communities, who believe that a High School education is a luxury or a fad and should not be indulged in by anyone not able to pay the bill individually. No one here denies that the education of the rising generation is the most important thing for the future of the country that confronts us today.

The New Jersey Harbor Commission, in a length report, has recommended that the Central Railroad Company be compelled to build another bridge across Newark Bay. Most of the commuters would prefer to see a tunnel under the Hudson River first. Certainly if the road undertakes either one of these improvements the other will have to wait for years.

As the Paterson Call rises to remark, the time has come for the orators to discard "Beyond the Alps lies Italy," and tell us instead "which is more glorious, to be shot out of an aeroplane, or blown up by a submarine?"

These are the days when the amateur gardener discovers that the "free flower seeds" which his Congressman so kindly sent him in the early spring have grown into carrots, radishes and parsley.

If all the future Presidents who are now delivering prize orations in school get jobs next week at one-half of what they think they are worth, the high cost of living will take an awful jump.

The small boy on skates may be a nuisance on the sidewalk, but he is not half so objectionable as the man in the same place with "half a skate."

The sun rose at 4.29 yesterday morning and set at 7.34 in the evening, but there was no one around here that could prove it.

Yesterday was the first day of summer, but it was hard to believe

MAYOR APPOINTS LIBRARY DIRECTORS

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring One of Three Named to Succeed Grove P. Hinman.

The appointment of three directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room were made by Mayor Leighton Calkins at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, Cornelius B. Tyler and Frank L. Holt being named to succeed themselves, and Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring being chosen to succeed Grove P. Hinman. The terms are for three years each. This gives the Fourth ward a representation on the board for the first time, and it is also the first time that a minister has been named for that position. Dr. Herring is particularly well qualified for the appointment, being thoroughly conversant with such matters as will come before the board from time to time. The appointments were confirmed by a unanimous vote.

Still another appointment by the Mayor, which was confirmed, was that of Harvey R. Sturges, the janitor of the Lincoln School, as a special policeman. He succeeded the late Joseph Morrison as school janitor.

A preparatory service will be conducted this evening at the Crescent Avenue church and the communion service will be held Sunday morning.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

Until September 11 the Daily Press will go to press on Saturdays at 1 o'clock.

SEES VILLA LOSE IN WHICH 5,000 GREAT BATTLE MEN ARE KILLED

Invited to Trenches to Witness Big Fight, Correspondent Is Caught in Thick of Conflict.

While Mexicans and Their Wives Fall Dead Beside Him, He Describes Scene Until Wounded.

A THRILLINGLY realistic picture of the great night battle at Sildo, in which Villa was crushed and 5,000 of his men are said to have died, is given by John W. Roberts, special correspondent of the International News Service, in a dispatch to the New York American. The writer was in the trenches with Villa.

Mr. Roberts wrote his description as the battle proceeded. He was shot through the leg, but was rescued by one of Villa's gunners, an American named T. D. Taylor, who carried him to the shelter of a box car after the defeat and sent off his message for him.

Villa had been teasing Roberts about correspondents reporting fighting they did not see and invited him to see what he promised would be one of the greatest battles ever fought by his men. Roberts went with Villa to the advance trench and began making notes.

It is an old dry ditch, four feet deep, he wrote. Nearly 8,000 soldiers are in this place, the rest of the Villa army having taken positions on the hills to our right. The only sign of the enemy is a cloud of dust four miles away.

No one seems to be excited. It seems as though we are going to have a huge picnic.

A mounted officer just informed Villa that it appeared as though Obregon's forces are going to take the offensive. Villa seems to take this as a huge joke.

Villa Was Confident.

"Let them come," he said, laughing. "Before morning more than half of them will have turned their toes up toward the stars."

Villa invited me to peep over the trench and see the enemy through his field glasses. I could see nothing but a hazy cloud of dust two miles long. Villa has gone to place his artillery.

I have been friends with one Manuel Sosa. He has been a soldier in Villa's army for two years and has never been wounded. He is a good natured fellow and is always grinning. I like to see him smile.

His soldadera has begun to broil a couple of chunks of beef. "You must eat with us, amigo," Manuel said as he borrowed a cigarette from me.

As we ate I asked him if he had no children.

"Si, senor, we've had two, but during the battle of Torreon, while they were sleeping under a tree, a shell struck them, and we never saw them again."

Manuel saw me looking at the red sunset and laughed. "That's sangre," he said. "God predicts the spilling of much Carranzista blood tonight. God is on our side. That's why we always win."

An infernal sound like the ripping of canvas split the silence overhead. A moment later a whistling explosion was heard in our rear. I jumped from where I sat, trembling violently. Manuel didn't even look up.

"The enemy has begun its cannonading," he grinned.

I am the only excited person in the whole trench. The other soldiers, who have not finished their suppers, are still eating. The soldaderas don't seem to be afraid, either.

The red in the sky has turned to a deep purple. The Villa artillery on our right has begun to boom. To me the air seems charged with a sinister something that I can't describe.

Carranzistas Open Attack.

Away to our left there is heavy rifle fire. Each shot sounds like two because it echoes against the hills. No one seems to worry. A great, fat soldier to my right is sound asleep. He is lying on the sand, and his face is covered with his big sombrero.

A young captain not over eighteen years of age has ridden up to our part of the trench.

"The enemy is sending a column in this direction!" he shouts. "First sergeants, prepare your men! There is a column of our own men to the rear who will shoot down any one who attempts to flee!"

He looked curiously at me, smiled and galloped away.

A soldadera woke up the fat man, and he has begun to curse for all he is worth.

It is dark now. There seems to be fighting all around us, but I can see none of it. Each side has discovered the positions of the other's artillery by the tongues of fire emanating from the cannon at each shot.

Every man in our trench is patiently waiting. The soldaderas—most of them—are sitting down in the ditch, smoking—like myself. A horse which was standing outside the trench near us was killed, and it rolled in on our right, putting out the campfire.

I wonder if I am only greatly excited or deathly scared. Perhaps it's both. I have broken three cigarette papers trying to roll a cigarette. Manuel's soldadera smiles and offers me one of her own ready made chorritos.

A young girl farther up the trench just screamed, "There come the d—Carranzistas!" She is running this way now, greatly excited. Her hair is down, and a fixed grin gives her a diabolical expression. No one seems to notice her. She runs, screaming the news:

"There they come, the Bribones Carranzistas! Viva Villa! You are all my lovers if you fight bravely!"

I have never heard so much noise in all my life. It seems as though I had taken a peep into hell.

The fat man is swearing again. He was hit in the shoulder. He claims that he killed over ten Carranzistas, and because of the bullet in his shoulder has promised to annihilate the enemy's army if it attacks again.

I am not trembling so much now because I can see that I am comparatively safe so long as I keep low in the ditch. No one in our immediate vicinity was hurt except the fat man.

Terrific firing is going on all over the prairie. Fifty of Villa's cannon are trying to dislodge as many of the enemy's cannon on the hills.

Villa Now Looks Worried.

Thousands of shots are popping to our right, to our left and on front. I have decided not to peep over the trench.

"There they come again!" Manuel says.

The fat man, despite his wounded shoulder, has jumped up and is ominously clicking his rifle. I am sure that our men will repulse the enemy again, so I am not afraid. I have begun to enjoy it.

The popping has commenced again all around the trench like so many firecrackers. None of the men seems to be taking careful aim. They just fire, click the chamber and fire again. When the five bullets have gone they snatch a clip from their belts and refill the gun. The fat man is firing faster than anybody else, grunting and cursing in the meantime.

General Villa dashed up madly a few moments ago, accompanied by some officers. For the first time since I have known him he looks worried and greatly excited. His teeth are gritted and his white silk shirt is bespattered with blood.

"Fight like you have never fought before, muchachitos," he roars. "The enemy are going to try and break us at this place. I have sent for re-enforcements, but the enemy are hurling the bulk of their army here. For the glory of your country, fight! We can hold them until the re-enforcements arrive."

He turned to me, but there was no smile on his face. "I am sorry I got you into this, but since you are here, lie low in the trench. There is no chance for you to go to the rear now. God help you!"

He has gone now, but I can hear him urging his men further down the trench. The blood seems to be clogged in my veins.

Woman Dies Near Him.

I reached for the botija of water, but dropped it. Manuel's wife—Lord, but she's brave—holds it for me while I drink. Everybody is becoming excited. Manuel's hand is trembling when he reaches for cartridges. The fat man has stopped cursing.

A fragment of stone hit Manuel's wife on the cheek. She is bleeding. Lord, but she's brave! The enemy's cannon have been turned upon us.

The fat man was killed. He was shot in the throat and falls besides me, the blood oozing like red foam from the hole.

Manuel has shouted hysterically that an enemy's column of infantry is approaching. He has told his wife to leave him and run to the rear. A shell bursts over our heads to the right with a horrible explosion and the balls of shrapnel whistle on their mission of death. No one seems to be calm.

Everybody is yelling. Sounds of men shouting and women weeping mingle with groans and curses. Manuel says, "God has gone against us."

Some one is crying for water. Manuel's wife is weeping. Manuel's wife dies. The enemy are within seventy yards of us. Manuel has dropped his rifle and has burst out crying. He holds his wife's head. Her face is full of blood.

* * * * * * *

(Next day) I am lying on a blood covered cot in a box car, five miles away from the trench. Taylor, an American machine gun operator, brought me here. I remember having heard some one yell: "Retreat! Retreat!"

The next thing I remember was that some one dashed Manuel's brains out with a butt of a gun. I had tucked my notebook under my belt. I don't remember what became of my hat, my blankets or camera. I was running with the rest, but suddenly felt very weak.

All the muscles in my right leg seemed to refuse to work. I knew I wasn't shot, because I felt no pain. I fell down. Taylor picked me up. The doctor says a bullet pierced my leg above the knee. It is not a bad wound—nothing but a clean cut Mauser bullet hole. I shall be able to walk in a few days.

A Galley o' Fun!

GOING, GOING—.

Daughter.—Impossible. I will never marry Mr. Millions. He has hideous red hair!

Mother.—Heavens! What is hair? He has lost nearly all of it!

MY WIFE'S FIRST HUSBAND.

I never hear his praises sung,
I never hear wild statements made
Concerning his high place among
The others of his time or trade.
Our boys are never told to be
Like my wife's first affinity.

Of his great faults I hear enough—
His ways meant to exasperate,
His want of polish, manners rough,
His coming home to dinner late.
His few slight virtues seem to me
Wiped out, forgotten utterly.

His temper, too I hear about,
His total lack of thoughtfulness,
His scant regard for nerves worn out,
His grudging dole for proper dress;
And yet my heart—perversity?—
Goes out to him in sympathy.

Small credit for his days of toil
Or ways of honesty and right;
Small thanks for somewhat meager spoil
Brought home intact each payday night
Of my wife's first, my mind is free
From any taint of jealousy.

Poor man, I know his foibles well;
I've been informed about them all;
Of his shortcomings I could tell
A tale to make him look quite small.
A pretty poor apology.
My wife's first husband. I am he!

DEFERRED WILD OATS.

The boy he never did a thing
Which wasn't strictly lawful,
But the man that boy was father of—
Well, he was simply awful!

ORANGE.

Clancy (on the Sivinteenth).—Begorry, if yez wor a graneback, I'd pick yez up!

NOT QUITE.

"Young man," inquired her father, sternly, "will you give her a home like the one she has been used to?"

"No," replied the truthful suitor, "for there will be no grumpy father to come home and make every one miserable by his kicking over trifles and swearing at matters in general. There will be no mother to scold her from morning to night for wasting time merely because she wants to be neat. There will be no big brother to abuse her for not doing half of his work, and no little brother to make enough noise to drive her crazy when her head aches. There won't be any younger sister to insist on reading some trashy novel while she does all the work. She will not have with me a home like she has been used to, not if I can help it."

TOWN POLITICS.

"Well, who got the nomination—the chap who looked like Daniel Webster"

"No. The feller that looked like ready money."

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Country Boy," based on Edgar Selwyn's story of that name, and "Cora," in which Emily Stevens will appear, will be the mid-week features at the Astor Theatre. "The Country Boy" will be shown today and "Cora" tomorrow, together with a splendid lot of high-class comedies and dramas. Today the comic relief will be supplied again by Charles Chaplin in his thousand-laugh comedy, "Work," in which he is seen at his very best.

"The Country Boy" will be recalled by Plainfield theatregoers as a drama of supreme interest throughout. It was in this play that Forrest Winant, Bruce M'Rae, Robert M'Wade and others players made a big success at the Hudson Theatre, New York, for an entire year. It relates a story of a young boy from the country who comes to New York to win his fortune, but becomes involved with a chorus girl who throws him over. Finally, when he is about to take his life, he is saved and returns to his old home, where he finds his mother and old sweetheart waiting for him to return. Of course, the final climax sends the audience home happy. The film is a continuous array of dramatic incidents and all lovers of the artistic, the dramatic and the natural in photo-play should see it.

"Cora," which is the dramatic feature tomorrow, presents Miss Emily Stevens in the principal role. Miss Stevens has many admirers among local theatregoers. The play is one of enthralling interest and gives Miss Stevens plenty of opportunity to put into effect all the dramatic resource for which she, like her famous aunt, Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, is noted.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Ice cream, home made cake and motion pictures of a high rank will blend their efforts this afternoon and this evening at Proctor's Theatre to make a pleasant evening for the patrons of the picture house. The refreshments this afternoon will be served at 4:30, in order that school children will have ample time to reach the theatre.

The picture announced as the headliner today is none the worse for the added attraction of refreshments, the announcements indicating that the ever loveable Marguerite Clark is to appear in the leading part of "The Crucible." This elegant and stirring portrayal of the triumph of an agonized soul in the depths of despair will be shown, and is one that ought to be received by hundreds of witnesses from the throngs of followers of the screened plays. No mistake will be made by those who will make it a point to see this powerful and heart-gripping drama from the pen of such a man as Mary Lee Luther. The fact that this is one of the ever fascinating Paramount features is all one needs to mention to justify the attendance of those who desire to see the best that is to be had.

The program as announced for tomorrow is to be "False Colors," a unique drama in which right triumphs. This story of love, acted by a company of which Lois Weber is the head, is another Paramount success, and those who have witnessed the original play will want to see the motion picture version of this grand story, full of throbs which will stir the soul out of its indifference, and put new life into one who may have lost much of what one should have in life.

"A Woman's Resurrection," another one of those successful plays in which Betty Nansen appears, will be shown Friday afternoon and evening. Upon this occasion, Miss Nansen will have as her co-stars of eminent standing, William J. Kelly and Edward Jose. This triple alliance, together with the impressive power of Count Leo Tolstoi's drama, is more than enough to render this photo-play truly magnificent, and far above the average in splendor. This picture will hold the undivided attention of the most disinterested spectator to the finish of the last reel.

Baseball - Tennis - Golf - Bowling - Track - Fishing

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Although we dislike to be without our annual Parker Field athletic meet the action of Supervisor George W. Wriston in cancelling the affair is certainly one worthy of commendation. Sufficient foresight will aid one in arriving at the conclusion that it would be utterly useless to attempt to stage such a feature here this year, financial backing for such an undertaking being required in an amount that would never be forthcoming under present conditions.

Despite the fact that we're going to be minus our track meet there's some consolation to be gained in reviewing the fact that baseball is undergoing that much looked for revival in Plainfield at the present time. If this City League doesn't bring back the old time sideline snap and ginger it's one best bet that Plainfield is a goner as far as the national pastime is concerned.

Why not substitute a swimming meet in that High School tank for the athletic festival? Surely the financial objection could not be raised as an argument against this feature.

If witnessing the efforts of world famous tennis players serves as an educator the talent we have around here should develop into a squad of world-beaters ere another season rolls around. Plainfield lovers of the court game have certainly been given the opportunity of their lives to see both male and feminine stars in action and credit for this is due to the Plainfield Country Club.

In applying for a franchise in the City League the Royals practically admitted that they were on the same playing plane with other Plainfield teams. Heretofore we had the idea that the Royal aggregation considered itself a top-notch exhibit in semi-pro pastiming.

Giving the stars enrolled in the North Plainfield baseball fold the once-over leads us to believe that the borough will be represented by SOME ball club this summer. We also rise to remark that the right men are guiding the rudder this year.

Certain members of the City League are expressing sympathy for Tommy Mullin in view of the fact that he has to play with Rahway instead of with a City League team. Tommy probably needs sympathy inasmuch as performing at Rahway means a weekly salary increase of $5.

ROD AND REEL

Frank P. Johnson holds the record thus far this season of the Asbury Park Fishing Club for the largest striped bass which tipped the scales at 24 pounds, 2 ounces, and since the time he landed it, at 11:15 Saturday night, he and a number of other enthusiasts have been endeavoring to capture the mate. A peculiar feature which catches seem to prove, is the fact that striped bass seem to travel in pairs and oftentimes after one is taken, another of almost the same size is caught in the same locality. It is assumed that they miss their mate and hover around those waters until oftentimes they fall a victim themselves to the angler's wiles.

Crabs are being caught, but they are not very fat. The Shrewsbury River is just full of them and great fun is had by the summer visitors catching them.

Fluke have less waste to them than any other of our fish, and the many ways that they can be cooked appeals to a great many people. Boiled fluke, with a horse radish sauce; fluke fish cakes, fried fluke and deviled fluke make a fine dish. To devil fluke boil it and flake the meat. Chop and mix an onion in it; then make a boiled mayonnaise dressing and mix it through it; then sprinkle it over with cracker crumbs and dot it with lumps of butter and bake and season to taste.

TWENTY-FOUR QUALIFY.

Chicago, Ill., June 23.—Twenty-four cars qualified yesterday for the 500-mile automobile derby, which will open the new Chicago Speedway, Saturday. Participants in the elimination trials, which closed yesterday, were compelled to make at least eighty-five miles an hour. Dario Resta's mark of 110.1 miles an hour in a qualifying trial for a 500-mile race remained untouched, but eight cars hung up marks of better than 100 miles an hour. Drivers who will participate include Resta, Howard Wilcox, Gil Anderson, Earl Cooper, Bob Burman and Louis Chevrolet.

UMPIRE AND GROW THIN.

George Hildebrand, indicator man for the American League, has discovered the secret of reducing superfluous fat, and he is handing it out with absolutely no charge. Once upon a time George was a carefree outfielder in the Coast League, batting around .300 and at peace with the world. At that time he weighed 180 pounds. Three months after he became an umpire Hildebrand's rotund figure began to show angles. Today he weighs 140 and is still shrinking. So if your excess tonnage greatly bothers you get a job as umpire in the American League.

MAY BE A LIFE-SAVER.

Toledo, Ohio, June 23.—President Ban Johnson, of the American League, will purchase $25,000 worth of stock in an American Association ball club for Toledo if local business men will raise the remainder of the amount necessary to obtain the Cleveland team. Johnson made this offer while attending a banquet tendered him and President Tener, of the National League, here, last night.

FOR JUNIOR GOLF TITLE.

Entries for the fourth junior championship of the Metropolitan Golf Association, to be held over the links of the Garden City Golf Club, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 29 and 30, will close on Saturday with E. Mortimer Barnes, No. 27 Pine street, New York city, the secretary. The tournament is open only to boys nineteen years old and less who are members of or have playing privileges at clubs belonging to the Metropolitan Association. A number of entries will be made from the Plainfield Country Club.

BETTING ON BOAT RACES.

Betting on the Yale-Harvard varsity race to be decided Friday at New London is very light, with no pronounced favorite. Up to last night, "Fred" Schumm, betting commissioner in the Wall street district, reported $1,000 in all wagered on the race at evens. He offered $500 on Harvard at even, with no takers. For the intercollegiate race on the Hudson next Monday, Columbia rules a slight favorite, although even money has been laid and taken in small sums.

CRIPPLE SEEKS TITLE.

A one-armed golfer named Louis Martucci, caddie master of the Essex County Country Club, will try for metropolitan honors at the open championship at the Fox Hills Golf Club, July 8 and 9. He lost his arm when a small boy, and since then has been employed by the Essex Club as a caddie, then as a caddie master. He developed pronounced ability as a player, and holds the course record at Essex County, going round in 69.

SUFFRAGETTES IN GAME.

New Jersey suffragettes will make a bid for fame on Friday, when two young women's teams will line up against each other on the Federal League park at Harrison. This game will precede the contest between the Newark and Kansas City Feds, according to announcements made yesterday. Prior to the women's game there will be some speechmaking, all under the auspices of the Women's Political Union.

Best notes on keeping up the garden in Saturday's Daily Press.

HARVARD AGAIN ON TOP.

New Haven, Conn., June 23.—Harvard spread a wet damper over Yale's commencement festivities, yesterday afternoon, by beating Yale in the annual baseball game, 4 to 2, the Brickley-Hardwick-Mahan combination doing the lion's share of the work, just as it did on a memorable day in the bowl last autumn.

LOCAL BOYS ENTER A NOVEL TOURNEY

Phillip and Ludlow VanDeventer to Play Night Tennis at Rahway.

Rahway, June 22—Tennis followers of Rahway and vicinity will be given an opportunity to see some first-class matches on the new clay courts of the Ilderan Outing Club next week. A tournament in men's doubles has been arranged, in which some of the best players in Union and surrounding counties will participate. The lights recently installed on the Ilderan courts makes possible night play, and all the matches will begin at 8 p. m. This added novelty insures a large crowd during the course of play.

Among those who have already submitted their entries are the VanDeventer brothers, of Plainfield; Glazebrook, Kirkland and several others from the Elizabethtown and Country Club, and representatives from Metuchen, Sewaren, New Brunswick and many other clubs. Rahway will be represented by Dunham and Throckmorton, besides one or two other teams from the Ilderan Club.

Entries will close Saturday at 8 p. m. First and runner-up prizes will be awarded, and everything done for the convenience of the contestants. The matches will be best two out of three advantage sets, except the final round, which will be the best three out of five advantage sets.

It is expected that a large gallery will witness the play each evening. The committee in charge of the tournament includes Lindsay Dunham, Harold Throckmorton, I. O. Bunn, Charles Corbin, Earl Reed Silvers and W. H. Peterson.

PLAINFIELD TO HAVE A SWIMMING TEAM

Local Water Stars to Charter Plainfield High School Pool for Practise.

For the purpose of promoting swimming and the ultimate object of organizing a representative Plainfield aquatic team, several water stars in the Plainfield High School have organized a private class which will use the High School pool during three, and possibly four, afternoons a week. In accordance with the announcement made recently by the Board of Education the pool will be open to the public during the summer months and upon the payment of a small fee any organization may charter it for private bathing. The past season has been a particularly active one in aquatics at the High School and the men who have earned laurels in interscholastic meets are anxious to keep the ball rolling by engaging in summer competition at various near by resorts as representative Plainfielders.

In view of the fact that arrangements of the nature outlined may be made with the Board of Education it is not unlikely that members of the local Columbus Club and other well-known organizations, which promote athletics as a side issue, may attempt to form classes with the primary object of forming swimming teams. Heretofore Plainfield has been represented by individuals in seashore meets and it has frequently occurred that one person has been able to establish a city standard by copping several prizes in a single meet. Organized competition is the thing needed, however, and if the present plans materialize Plainfield will be placed on the aquatic map.

RUNYON IS ENTERED.

Ralph Runyon, the Plainfield High School pole vaulter, has been entered as representative of the Pastime A. C. in the monster athletic meet scheduled for New Brunswick, Monday, July 5. The club has also entered Miles McHugh, the middle distance runner, who will start in the 1,000-yard race.

FEDERAL LEAGUE SALE.

Chicago, June 23—Tex Westezil, third baseman with the Brooklyn Feds, has been bought by the Chicago club of the Federal League, it was announced today. He is to fill the vacancy caused by the illness of Rollie Zieder.

LOCAL GIRL TO PLAY.

Miss Edna Wildey will be one of the competitors in the matches at the Plainfield Country Club this afternoon, when Miss Mollie Burstedt and R. Norris Williams will appear in exhibition numbers.

You can't, even through a "For Sale" ad, sell that used article for its original cost, nor near it; but you can get its cash value at the present time for it.

MANN-KIELY TEAM SET UP TWO WINS

Chief's Individual Tally of 236 the High Water Mark of the Evening.

After suffering a double defeat at the hands of the Mann and Kiely duo in the Elks' alley tournament last night, the Swalm and Townley outfit took a brace and tripped a 408 to 332 victory across, depriving the rival clan of a clean sweep. The rally was short-lived, however, for in the next setto with the Causbrook and McVoy team, Swalm and Townley went under by fifty-five pins. McVoy was stricken suddenly ill at the close of the first match in this series and as a result the engagement culminated at this point, two contests being left unplayed.

Kiely's 236, the evening's best individual tally, was largely responsible for his team's victory in the opening issue with the Swalm-Townley contingent, the final score being 387 to 344. In this game Townley upheld his side's standard by returning a 185, but Swalm slipped down to 159. Lucky for Kiely and Mann, however, was it that the former's high tally came at this juncture for Mann rolled poorly and came back with his lowest score of the evening, a 151. Townley's 214 in the final of the first series, together with Swalm's mount to the 194 rung, enabled this duo to put across its lone verdict of the evening and it happened to be the widest margin decision, seventy-six pins separating the rivals at the conclusion.

The scores:

Swalm	159	155	194
Townley	185	162	214
	344	317	408
Mann	151	160	155
Kiely	236	172	177
	387	332	332

Causbrook	183
McVoy	177
	360
Swalm	156
	305

LOCAL AND BOROUGH OFFICIALS TO PLAY

Plans Being Made for a Baseball Contest Between Municipal Office Holders.

Rumor has it that officials holding offices in municipal departments in Plainfield and North Plainfield are organizing baseball teams to appear in a charity exhibition on Parker Field early in July. The movement was put on foot several days ago. A number of old time stars have rallied to the cause and the probability of having a successful contest seems to be certain at the present time.

Included in the array of talent available are several candidates who made names for themselves on college teams and it is not unlikely that a number of lawyers and doctors will be drafted for the occasion to fill in on both nines. In Plainfield there is some strong material in the Common Council, police and fire departments and in various other minor city offices.

North Plainfield appears to be just as well fortified as the forces on this side of the brook and the agitation is understood to have been started on that side of the water. No definite date for the engagement has been decided upon, but it is a well-known fact that a number of likely applicants for jobs have been loosening up rusty joints in secret practices.

MAYOR CLARK PLEASED WITH BEHAVIOR OF ITALIANS

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, expressed himself today as very much pleased with the general conduct of the Italian and other foreign laborers who have taken up their temporary residence in the borough while engaged in digging trenches for the sewers. The arrival of so many laborers was expected to increase the number of police court cases greatly and an extra police officer was assigned to day duty to take care of the expected disorder.

But no appreciable increase in drunkenness and disorderly conduct has been noticed, and the borough officials speak highly of the behavior of the bands of foreigners.

SPECIAL SWMMING CLASS.

A secial swimming class for boys under twelve years of age will open at the Y. M. C. A. next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. This class will accommodate those boys under twelve years of old who are barred from entering the regular Y. M. C. A. swimming class. They will be given a series of twelve lessons and as far as possible instructed individually. So far eight boys have entered.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

HORSE BEATER GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Chief Marshal Weiss, of the North Plainfield police force, arrested Louis Blumetti, 28 years old, of No. 7 Stony Brook place, at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, on a charge of reckless driving and cruelty to animals. The Chief saw Blumetti beating his horse with the whip on the corner of Harrison avenue and Greenbrook road, causing the animal to plunge about to the imminent danger of pedestrians, and to dash down the street at a mad pace. Recorder Hand suspended sentence on the man in the police court this morning, warning him that a repetition of the offence would mean a jail sentence.

SEEK TO RECOVER ON AN INSURANCE POLICY

Appearing in the Plainfield District Court this morning as counsel for Mrs. Mary Caulfield, Francis J. Blatz, of the law firm of Codington & Blatz, started suit for the recovery of $91.50, half of the amount of a policy alleged to have been due from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which was represented by Clifford Voorhees, of New Brunswick. According to the plaintiff, Thomas Caulfield, a brother-in-law, was insured in the company for $183 when he died five years ago and that the company has since refused to pay the amount alleged to be due.

In defense the Metropolitan attorney claimed that Caulfield misrepresented himself at the time he took out the policy. Judge Walter L. Hetfield instructed the attorneys on both sides to file briefs and pending this action decision will be reserved.

DEACON ROBINSON GIVEN JUDGEMENT IN LOCAL COURT

Peter Robinson, through his counsel, G. W. V. Moy, appeared in the District Court, this morning, and was given judgment for possession, damages and costs in his action to recover his goods which had been in the possession of the Ebenezer Baptist church, colored. A six-cent verdict was requested, the chief object of the plaintiff being to recover his goods, which consisted of an organ, chairs, etc., which had been in use at the church.

The trouble arose over Robinson's plan to hold Children's Day exercises at the church on East Fourth street, and the upsetting of those plans by Rev. Mr. Elliott, the pastor, who made arrangements to have a Rahway man preach on that occasion. The result was that no service was held, and Robinson, who was a deacon and superintendent of the Sunday-school, was "read out" of the church. He then took legal steps to recover his goods through a replevin. Whether the church will continue or not is not known at the present time.

JAPANESE DANCE WILL FEATURE LAWN FETE

Favorable weather is all that is needed to make the lawn fete scheduled for Friday night at the Y. W. C. A. a successful venture. The young women taking part have been drilled during the past week and each participant has reached a high degree of skill in the various movements of the dances. A Japanese dance in which the following members will take part will be the feature of the presentation: Misses Ethel Blazier, Henrietta Englehart, Marion Englehart, Marion Mair, Nettie Steiner, Reba Kline, Doris MacCarrick, Elizabeth Wetherell and Ella Coddington.

The production is given under the auspices of the Camp and Conference Club and the proceeds of the affair will be for the benefit of the delegates from the local association to the various conferences during the summer. The committee in charge of arrangements has attractive plans in mind for the decorations on the rear lawn and the spacious veranda where the audience will be seated.

JUDGE ADDS NINE NAMES TO THE CITY'S "JAG" LIST

Nine names were added to Plainfield's "jag" list in the city police court this morning, when Judge DeMeza disposed of charges against a group of men arrested by railroad detectives for carousing along the tracks in the vicinity of Liberty street. Sentences of $25 or 50 days in the county jail were suspended over the heads of the following: Paul Curry, William Austing, John Lyons, Samuel Hannigan, James Barry, William Witteman, John Cahill, George Hansen and Redfield Sheridan.

All addmitted that they were "rushing the duck" from a nearby saloon when arrested yesterday afternoon and each pleaded guilty to a disorderly charge.

PHILLIP VANARSDALE HURT WHILE RIDING A BICYCLE

While coasting down a hill near Scotch Plains last night, on a bicycle, Phillip VanArsdale, a chicken fancier, lost control of the vehicle and was pitched headlong to the roadbed. He sustained a broken arm and numerous bad cuts and bruises which necessitated his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital.

VanArsdale owns a chicken farm on the mountain in back of Scotch Plains and has been accustomed to riding down the hill at night. He formerly lived on East Front street, this city, and was a school teacher.

ACCIDENT IN PLAINFIELD RESULTED IN ENGAGEMENT

Alleging that Martin J. McMahon, of Newark, promised to marry her in April, 1913, and at other times up to January, 1914, Miss Hazel M. Cowell, was awarded a six-cent verdict in her breach of promise suit tried before Judge Dungan in the Newark Circuit Court yesterday.

One of her chief contentions was that she went motorcycling with the defendant and at one time was in a smashup in Plainfield while on his machine. She said she was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, and while she was there McMahon was in costant attendance and at that time promised to marry her. McMahon admitted that he was once engaged to the girl, but that they broke it off by mutual consent. He also told of hearing a story about the girl shampooing another man's hair in the latter's apartments.

CHAPTER XIV.

Rupe Collins.

FOR several days after this Penrod thought of growing up to be a monk and engaged in good works so far as to carry some kittens (that otherwise would have been drowned) and a pair of Margaret's outworn dancing slippers to a poor, ungrateful old man sojourning in a shed up the alley. And although Mr. Robert Williams after a very short interval began to leave his guitar on the front porch again, exactly as if he thought nothing had happened, Penrod, with his younger vision of a father's mood, remained coldly distant from the Jones neighborhood. With his own family his manner was gentle, proud and sad, but not for long enough to frighten them. The change came with mystifying abruptness at the end of the week.

It was Duke who brought it about.

Duke could chase a much bigger dog out of the Schofields' yard and far down the street. This might be thought to indicate unusual valor on the part of Duke and cowardice on that of the bigger dogs whom he undoubtedly put to rout. On the contrary, all such flights were founded in mere superstition, for dogs are even more superstitious than boys and colored people, and the most firmly established of all dog superstitions is that any dog, be he the smallest and feeblest in the world, can whip any trespasser whatsoever.

A rat terrier believes that on his home grounds he can whip an elephant. It follows, of course, that a big dog, away from his own home, will run from a little dog in the little dog's neighborhood. Otherwise the big dog must face a charge of inconsistency, and dogs are as consistent as they are superstitious. A dog believes in war, but he is convinced that there are times when it is moral to run, and the thoughtful physiognomist, seeing a big dog fleeing out of a little dog's yard, must observe that the expression of the big dog's face is more conscientious than alarmed. It is the expression of a person performing a duty to himself.

Penrod understood these matters perfectly. He knew that the gaunt brown hound Duke chased up the alley had fled only out of deference to a custom, yet Penrod could not refrain from bragging of Duke to the hound's owner, a fat faced stranger of twelve or thirteen, who had wandered into the neighborhood.

"You better keep that ole yellow dog o' yours back," said Penrod ominously as he climbed the fence. "You better catch him and hold him till I get mine inside the yard again. Duke's chewed up some pretty bad bulldogs around here."

The fat faced boy gave Penrod a fishy stare. "You'd oughta learn him not to do that," he said. "It'll make him sick."

"What will?"

The stranger laughed raspingly and gazed up the alley, where the hound, having come to a halt, now coolly sat down, and, with an expression of roguish benevolence, patronizingly watched the tempered fury of Duke, whose assaults and barkings were becoming perfunctory.

"What'll make Duke sick?" Penrod demanded.

"Eatin' dead bulldogs people leave around here."

This was not improvisation but formula, adapted from other occasions to the present encounter. Nevertheless, it was new to Penrod, and he was so taken with it that resentment lost itself in admiration. Hastily committing the gem to memory for use upon a dog owning friend, he inquired in a sociable tone:

"What's your dog's name?"

"Dan. You better call your ole pup, 'cause Dan eats live dogs."

Dan's actions poorly supported his master's assertion, for upon Duke's ceasing to bark Dan rose and showed the most courteous interest in making the little old dog's acquaintance. Dan had a great deal of manner, and it became plain that Duke was impressed favorably in spite of former prejudice, so that presently the two trotted amicably back to their masters and sat down with the harmonious but indifferent air of having known each other intimately for years.

They were received without comment, though both boys looked at them reflectively for a time. It was Penrod who spoke first.

"What number you go to?" (In an "oral lesson in English" Penrod had been instructed to put this question in another form, "May I ask which of our public schools you attend?")

"Me? What number do I go to?" said the stranger contemptuously. "I don't go to no number in vacation."

"I mean when it ain't."

"Third," returned the fat faced boy. "I got 'em all scared in that school."

"What of?" innocently asked Penrod, to whom "the third"—in a distant part of town—was undiscovered country.

"What of? I guess you'd soon see what of if you ever was in that school about one day. You'd be lucky if you got out alive!"

"Are the teachers mean?"

The other boy frowned with bitter scorn. "Teachers! Teachers don't order me around, I can tell you. They're mighty careful how they try to run over Rupe Collins."

"Who's Rupe Collins?"

"Who is he?" echoed the fat faced boy incredulously. "Say, ain't you got any sense?"

"What?"

"Say, wouldn't you be just as happy if you had some sense?"

"Ye-es." Penrod's answer, like the look he lifted to the impressive stranger, was meek and placative. "Rupe Collins is the principal at your school, I guess."

The other yelled with jeering laughter and mocked Penrod's manner and voice. "'Rupe Collins is the principal at your school, I guess!'" He laughed harshly again, then suddenly showed truculence. "Say, 'bo, whyn't you learn enough to go in the house when it rains? What's the matter of you, anyhow?"

"Well," urged Penrod timidly, "nobody ever told me who Rupe Collins is. I got a right to think he's the principal, haven't I?"

The fat faced boy shook his head disgustedly. "Honest, you make me sick!"

Penrod's expression became one of despair. "Well, who is he?" he cried.

"'Who is he?'" mocked the other, with a scorn that withered. "'Who is he? Me!'

"Oh!" Penrod was humiliated but relieved. He felt that he had proved himself criminally ignorant, yet a peril seemed to have passed. "Rupe Collins is your name, then, I guess. I kind of thought it was all the time."

The fat faced boy still appeared embittered, burlesquing this speech in a hateful falsetto. "'Rupe Collins is your name, then, I guess!' Oh, you 'kind of thought it was all the time,' did you?" Suddenly concentrating his brow into a histrionic scowl he thrust his face within an inch of Penrod's. "Yes, sonny, Rupe Collins is my name, and you better look out what you say when he's around or you'll get in big trouble! You understand that, 'bo?"

"You understan' that, 'bo?"

Penrod was cowed, but fascinated. He felt that there was something dangerous and dashing about this newcomer.

"Yes," he said, feebly drawing back. "My name's Penrod Schofield."

"Then I reckon your father and mother ain't got good sense," said Mr. Collins promptly, this also being formula.

"Why?"

"'Cause if they had they'd of give you a good name!" And the agreeable youth instantly rewarded himself for the wit with another yell of rasping laughter, after which he pointed suddenly at Penrod's right hand.

"Where'd you get that wart on your finger?" he demanded severely.

"Which finger?" asked the mystified Penrod, extending his hand.

"The middle one."

"Where?"

"There!" exclaimed Rupe Collins, seizing and vigorously twisting the wartless finger naively offered for his inspection.

"Quit!" shouted Penrod in agony. "Queeyut!"

"Say your prayers!" commanded Rupe, and continued to twist the luckless finger until Penrod writhed to his knees.

"Ow!" The victim, released, looked grievously upon the still painful finger.

At this Rupe's scornful expression altered to one of contrition. "Well, I declare!" he exclaimed remorsefully. "I didn't s'pose it would hurt. Turn about's fair play; so now you do that to me."

He extended the middle finger of his left hand and Penrod promptly seized it, but did not twist it, for he was instantly swung round with his back to his amiable new acquaintance. Rupe's right hand operated upon the back of Penrod's slender neck; Rupe's knee tortured the small of Penrod's back.

"Ow!" Penrod bent far forward involuntarily and went to his knees again.

"Lick dirt," commanded Rupe, forcing the captive's face to the sidewalk, and the suffering Penrod completed this ceremony.

Mr. Collins evinced satisfaction by means of his horse laugh. "You'd last jest about one day up at the Third!" he said. "You'd come runnin' home, yellin' 'Mom-muh, mom-muh,' before recess was over."

"No, I wouldn't," Penrod protested rather weakly, dusting his knees.

"You would, too."

"No, I w"—

"Looky here," said the fat faced boy, darkly, "what you mean, counterdicking me?"

He advanced a step and Penrod hastily qualified his contradiction.

"I mean, I don't think I would. I"—

"You better look out!" Rupe moved closer, and unexpectedly grasped the back of Penrod's neck again. "Say, 'I would run home yellin' "Mom-muh!"'"

"Ow! I would run home yellin' 'Mom-muh.'"

"There!" said Rupe, giving the helpless nape a final squeeze. "That's the way we do up at the Third."

Penrod rubbed his neck and asked meekly:

"Can you do that to any boy up at the Third?"

"See here now," said Rupe in the tone of one goaded beyond all endurance, "you say if I can. You better say it quick or"—

"I knew you could," Penrod interposed hastily, with the pathetic semblance of a laugh. "I only said that in fun."

"In 'fun!'" repeated Rupe stormily. "You better look out how you"—

"Well, I said I wasn't in earnest." Penrod retreated a few steps. "I knew you could all the time. I expect I could do it to some of the boys up at the Third myself. Couldn't I?"

"No; you couldn't."

"Well, there must be some boy up there that I could"—

"No; they aint. You better"—

"I expect not, then," said Penrod quickly.

Why, They Had a Picnic, Too.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Squirrels Enjoyed A Picnic.

"I MUST tell you kiddies tonight how a family of squirrels enjoyed a picnic," said daddy.

"Oh," cried Evelyn, "do squirrels have picnics, daddy?"

"These squirrels did," replied daddy, "but it was only because other people had it first. But I will tell you about it.

"There came a lovely summer day, one of the most beautiful of summer days, when the sun shone warm on the hills and lighted up the green leaves of the trees that formed the woodsy woods and when the air was like wine and it just did you good to draw it into your lungs in great breaths. And there was a little young squirrel out hopping along the green grass near the woods to see what he could see.

"Then this cunning little squirrel heard a noise. It was a tinkly kind of a noise, the noise of a little girl laughing, and the squirrel was very young and timid, and he didn't know what was coming, and he hid behind a tree till he should find out, don't you see.

"He didn't have to wait long. In a moment there came running toward the woods a little girl and after her many other little girls and boys, too, and with them was their teacher, for you see a class from the village school was having a picnic that day.

"Now, some of the children carried baskets, and, of course, the squirrel didn't know what was in those baskets, but he knew it was something pretty good, I think. Anyway, all his squirrel's curiosity was aroused, and he determined to follow these youngsters and their teacher and find out what they would do.

"So he hopped along after them through the woods till they reached a lovely little open green place by the side of a babbling brook, and he saw them sit down in the green grass and open their baskets and draw out a fine lot of goodies, and he didn't wait for any more, but ran back to tell the other members of his family. Yes; he ran just as fast as he could go.

"And when he told his mamma and papa and his brothers and sisters what he had seen they were just as interested as he had been, and they hurried back with him to the spot where the picnickers were eating their nice lunch, and they hid out on the outskirts, and they watched with their little beady eyes for they knew there was a treat coming.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

SOME SUFFRAGE GAINS.

Women were given full suffrage on the same terms as men in Denmark. On June 5, the anniversary of the signing of the first constitution by Frederick VII in 1849, the new Diet unanimously passed the new constitution providing for equal suffrage and abolishing special electoral privileges heretofore exercised by the wealthier classes. King Christian signed the constitution in the afternoon.

Governor Trammell, of Florida, this week, signed the Fellsmere charter act, which gives the women of the city of Fellsmere the right to vote at municipal elections. This is the first suffrage grant that has been given women in Florida.

Last Sunday at the meeting of the New York State Association of Family Wine and Liquor Merchants, Mr. Neuberger, according to "The Sun," "made a plea for the protection of widows and orphans dependent on investments in the liquor business." This recalls to our minds a recent statement by an eminent "anti:" "The greatest interests of the State demand the protection of the mother." At the same gathering Assemblyman McCue is reported by "The Sun" to have said that "he had been trying for the nine years he has represented the district to protect the interests of the liquor dealers in the Legislature."

"Shall our Public Libraries be open to men?" In answering this question in the negative we will confess to no illiberal prejudice. Nor is our reason that usually stated, namely, that men are already too much occupied with their business duties to find time for reading. If this is the situation of men it should be altered at the earliest possible moment. We oppose the opening of libraries solely on the ground of expense. The great majority of our male citizens would not use a library if they could. The wish of a small, but no[illegible] would be forcing an extra and unnecessary expense upon the taxpayers. No injustice to men is involved in this decision, since it is evident that most American men will prefer to do in the future as they have done in the past and depend for their reading on their wives.

THE FORTUNATE ANTI.

In the subway I have never stood a minute,
I have never clung an instant to a strap,
As I enter my train, each man who's in it,
Springs, like Galahad awaking from a nap,
And exclaims with hat in hand:
"I can't bear to see you stand;
"If you voted, though, I shouldn't care a rap."

O you women who have never stood in trolleys
(And I speak to every woman in this State)
If you don't forego these wild and wicked follies,
You'll be very, very sorry, but too late;
Men, disgusted at your capers,
Will sit still and read their papers,
And you'll have to stand in trolleys. What a fate!

For myself, my only means of locomotion
Is my motor, which conveys me near and far,
But I talk with men I know, and get a notion,
From their logical account, just how things are;
And they say if women voted
Dreadful changes would be noted—
Men might even let us stand up in a car!

The next meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield will be held at Suffrage headquarters, 110 Depot avenue, on Tuesday, June 29, at 3 o'clock. All are welcome.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Wasn't it good of the doctor to come all the way to Detroit?" asked Nell as she kissed her mother and laid the baby in her arms. "I don't know what I should have done without him, for baby got the colic on the train and I should have been so nervous if I had been alone."

"We certainly do appreciate his kindness," said Mrs. Reeves, cordially shaking his hand. "Now I will unwrap this precious bundle while you get ready for dinner. It's about ready."

"I thought Olive would be here to welcome us." Nell's tone was disappointed.

"She expected to be here; she must have been detained. There, someone is on the porch. Open the door, Nell."

"From the joyful sounds I judge the right person arrived," laughed the doctor, and soon the girls appeared.

"I tried to get my parents to accept Mrs. Reeves' kind invitation to dinner that they might meet you," said Olive, smiling into the doctor's face, "but mother had another engagement, and daddy said he wanted to have the doctor all to himself tomorrow evening for dinner. Can you come?"

"I surely want to meet your father, you have told me so much about him. The sessions at the convention tomorrow are business meetings. If I take the night train out of here I shall be in time for the first addresses."

"Good, that pleases me." Olive dimpled with pleasure.

"I had planned to take you ladies to the theater tonight," said the doctor. "I noticed in the paper that there is a good play on. We people from the country are eager to see something good. Isn't that so, Mrs. Morton?"

[illegible]

astic. "How about it, mother? Are you an applicant for the position as nurse this evening?"

"I'll let you go anywhere you please, so long as I can have the baby. My, he's getting to be a big fellow," and she hugged him appreciatively.

"There comes my daddy," said Nell, catching up the baby and running to the door.

"They look alike," exclaimed Mrs. Reeves as her husband entered, carrying his grandson.

"Well, we're both bald," laughed the grandfather, rubbing his smooth pate.

"Olive tells me we shouldn't have the little fellow here if it had not been for you," he said as he shook hands with his guest.

"He was pretty sick," admitted the doctor, and the grandfather sat down with the child. The two girls went into the dining room and Olive slipped a letter into Nell's hands.

"Read that," she whispered. Nell snapped on the light and read:

"Dear Miss Olive: I received a very remarkable letter this morning and as it concerns you I will enclose it. You may understand what it's about, but it's all Greek to me.

"I wonder if this doctor is at the bottom of your coolness to me of late.

"One who thinks of you always,
"Fred Joplin."

The enclosed letter was typewritten:

"My Dear Young Man: I am an entire stranger to you, but I know of your interest in a very beautiful young woman and I am your friend in that I wish you all success in winning the prize.

"I happen to know of western friends of the girl, the Mortons of Fairport, who are going to all lengths to try to marry her off to a certain doctor of their town, a man of smirched reputation, divorced from his wife because of his unfaithfulness. It would be a thousand pities to have a lovely girl marry such a character. I am telling you that you may take steps to make the plot fall through. Here's to your success.

A Well-Wisher."

"That eaves-dropping maid!" exclaimed Nell in disgust. "How stupid we were not to suspect her

Household Hints

DELICACIES

New Omelet Souffle—Pound eight lumps of loaf sugar quite coarse and pour over this four tablespoons vanilla essence. Spread sugar on a piece of buttered or waxed paper and leave on a warm corner of gas range, to dry. Take six Jordan almonds, bake until crisp and golden brown color. Then pound them rather coarse, and mix with the vanilla and the sugar. Divide yolks from the whites of four strictly fresh eggs, and put the whites into a basin with two additional whites. Stir into the basin containing the four yolks three tablespoons powdered sugar and beat the mixture with a wooden spoon ten minutes. Add gradually the grated rind of a small lemon. Now put a pinch of salt with the whites of the six eggs, whisk to a very stiff froth and stir lightly into the yolks. Butter a mold, pour mixture into it and bake immediately, in a quick oven, ten minutes; just before it is served, scatter the sugar-vanilla nut mixture over the top. This sounds like lots of work, but after you have tasted this once you won't think so.

Strawberry Cake—Cream one cup white sugar with small half cup butter; add one egg and yolk of another, half cup milk, two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Bake in two layers. Filling: One cup strawberries, crush with a fork, add one cup confectioner's sugar, white of one egg, half teaspoon cream tartar. Beat forty minutes. If it is placed on the ice several times it will come "stiff" in less time. Put between layers and on top of cake.

MILK "TIPS"

Substitute for Cream—In case cream is required in certain recipes and only milk is available, cream can be made by warming milk and adding butter to the warm milk, allowing it to melt slowly. Stir occasionally. The more butter used the richer the cream. Cool and use when needed. The only difference between cream and milk is the butter fat and by adding butter you supply this lack.

Always rinse top of milk bottles carefully before removing stopper. These are exposed to all conditions of air as the driver makes his deliveries, and may become contaminated.

Unusual Uses for Milk—(a) Use milk to fasten lables to jelly glasses, fruit jars, etc., when no paste is at hand. The labels will stick tightly and not come off. (b) Milk may be used to freshen linoleum. The effect is obtained as when salt water is used on carpets or matting.

Pasteurization of Milk—Place bottle in pan of boiling water after removing cap. Use just as deep a pan as possible in which to rest bottles and do not allow bottle to come in direct contact with bottom surface of pan (tiny blocks of wood make a good support for bottle). Keep milk in boiling water for twenty to thirty minutes, turning fire down until water just simmers after the first five minutes. Be sure a scum does not form at this time. If a thermometer is at all available, use this, inserting in bottle from time to time until the temperature reaches 140 degrees F. If one intends to pasteurize often a thermometer is by far the safest method to use, and one can be bought for the price of twenty-five cents which is reliable. When this point, 140 degrees F., is reached, turn fire down and try to maintain this temperature for twenty or thirty minutes, a little higher temperature is better than a lower one, for at this point, 140 degrees F., the disease organisms are killed. At the end of thirty minutes place cover on bottle, so water cannot enter, and gradually turn on cold water from the faucet if possible, or set in pan of cold water, changing from time to time until milk is cold. When cold, place in icebox.

APPETIZING MEXICAN DISH

Mexican Stuffed Peppers—Roast large bell peppers till the skin turns back, then rub off the black skin in cold water. Cut around stem and remove the seeds and coarse veins. For filling: Equal parts chopped pork and beef, and one heaping teaspoon chopped almonds and raisins, for each pepper. Add salt and close end of pepper with a wooden toothpick. For batter: Beat whites and yolks separately, then mix and add a little flour to make thin batter. Have a pan of boiling lard ready; dip peppers in batter, then into lard. Remove quickly and dip again in the batter, then into hot lard and fry to a light brown, keeping the peppers covered with the lard. These may be served with or without a sauce, but the real Mexican dish requires the following sauce: Grind to a pulp the seeds of peppers, one small white onion and two tomatoes; add salt—a trifle, and cook ten minutes. If tomatoes have not much juice, add a little water and small piece of butter. Serve with sauce turned over peppers in deep dish

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

The feature photo-play of five parts entitled "Lena Rivers," with Beulah Poynter, the authoress, taking the part of the title role, is the big attraction in tonight's program at the airdome, where good pictures are always being shown. This production is the accredited dramatic success of a decade, and a screenette which will be worth seeing. The story takes the shape of a comedy drama of heart interest, artistically blending the pathetic and humorous, showing the high spots as well as the low ones in life. Miss Poynter, who is fast becoming one of the topnotch favorites of the photo-play world, is supported in this production by a most excellent company. Other pictures will also be shown this evening and a first rate entertainment is to be expected.

The great premier war drama, "Through the Enemy's Lines," a production in four parts, is on the books for tomorrow evening, with the internationally famous stars, Miss Ebba Thomsen and A. Blutecher, taking the leading parts, and with these favorites together one is assured of a picture well worth seeing. Hundreds of "soldiers" are engaged in this picture in furious infantry skirmishes, artillery duels and cavalry charges, interwoven with a fascinating love story which is not to be surpassed by any story. Here all the hatred of war and the glory of a true love is shown to great advantage. The moving picture fan will not want to miss this grand opportunity.

Friday the big picture of the week is to be shown, in which Ethel Barrymore, who has made thousands of friends on the legitimate stage, will appear in the title role in "The Nightingale," a five-part moving picture. Coupled with this drama of intense strength, is one of the comedies of a lighter vein, the famous Charley Chaplin, featuring in "His New Job." This big bill should attract a capacity crown to the popular open-air theatre.

One of the dreaded enemies of our country is the fire that wipes out a home.

Every ten minutes $5,000 worth of property is destroyed by fire in the United States.

CLARK WILL NOT OPPOSE SMALLEY

Present Borough Mayor Will Retire in Favor of New Man, Say Wiseacres.

"MORE THE MERRIER"

So Says Smalley Confronted With the News by a Daily Press Reporter—Clark Refuses to Confirm Report—Backers Say It's True.

Developments during the forty-eight hours that have intervened sinced it was exclusively announced in The Daily Press that William L. Smalley had consented to run for the North Plainfield mayoralty next fall, indicate that he will be unopposed for the Republican nomination. Emphasis was laid on this fact this morning, when it was learned on good authority that Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., would not be a candidate. His closest constituents admit this to be true, and furthermore it has been rumored that those who supported Mayor Clark will lend their services toward putting Mr. Smalley in the mayoralty chair.

Approached by a Daily Press reporter this morning, Mayor Clark refused to affirm or deny the rumor that he would not run for office in the fall, adding that he wished people would let him alone until he had finished his present regime. He has served the borough efficiently during his two terms of office, his friends say, and his retirement is entirely voluntary.

Mr. Smalley's backers are preparing for a lively campaign in the fall. Interviewed by a Daily Press reporter concerning Mr. Clark's retirement from the race, Mr. Smalley this morning admitted that he had heard of such a rumor but said that he knew of no authority for it. "The more the merrier," said Mr. Smalley. "Whether or not Mr. Clark runs for the Republican nomination makes little difference to me. I did not want to enter the race against him in the first place but now that I have been brought into it I intend to fight to a finish. It is up to the people to judge whether they want Mr. Clark or myself as a Republican candidate and I am satisfied that my support will not be wanting when the fight opens. Mr. Clark has held office for two terms and his record during that period gives the voters ample ground on which to judge his merits."

DUNCAN W. TAYLOR AIDS FOURTH OF JULY FUND

Former Councilman Duncan W. Taylor, in sending a check for $10 to The Daily Press for the Independence Day celebration at Parker Field, accompanied his contribution with the following note:

"Enclosed please find my check for $10 for the Fourth of July celebration. May it be very successful. You deserve lots of credit for your efforts to make it a success."

FINANCING COMMISSION WILL MEET HERE JUNE 29

The commission for the survey of municipal financing, appointed by the last Legislature, will hold a hearing in the Common Council chambers next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Because it has been shown that there is lack of uniformity in the practices employed for financing municipal requirements, a commission of seven members was selected, and this commission has been visiting the various centres of the State, examining records and witnesses, and will report the result of its findings to the next Legislature. Composing the commission are: E. Morgan Barradale, of Essex county; George H. Dalrymple, Passaic; Carlton Godfrey, Atlantic; Ogden H. Hammond, Somerset; Archibald M. Henry, Hudson; Alonzo D. Herrick, Warren, and Arthur N. Pierson, Union.

FIRST HONORS FOR MISS LIPPINCOTT

Her Graduation Gown Wins $5 Prize in Senior Class Contest.

Competition was keen in the prize graduation dress contest held under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association of the North Plainfield High School and the special committee named to pick the winners did not reach a decision until after a lengthy consideration of intricate dressmaking questions. The winners were announced at the exercises held in the High School this morning.

Miss Elva Lippincott was awarded first honors with a prize of $5 while her next two close competitors were Miss Elsie Debele and Miss Lucy Douglas. The former was given a second prize of $3 while Miss Douglas received honorable mention.

In all, seven fair members of the graduating class entered the race to make their own frocks and each worked with all her ingenuity to make her gown the most attractive. The final display revealed the fact that any girl can make her own gown economically by home dressmaking. The restriction placed upon the girls who entered the contest was that each should not spend over five dollars in the purchase of the material for the finished creation. Each was to do her work individually and without any help whatsoever.

Mrs. Alexander Milne, a member of the association, donated the prizes and the following committee was appointed to pass judgment on the frocks submitted: Mrs. Mary Bolsterlie, Mrs. H. C. Krebs and Mrs. Milne.

WILSON CONSULTS WITH COL. HOUSE

Spending Day at Roslyn, L. I. —Goes to Cornish Tonight.

Roslyn, L. I., June 24—President Wilson arrived here this morning in the private car New York. He was met at the station by Col. E. M. House and went immediately to the colonel's home in the outskirts of this village. He is here to confer with Col. House on the latter's recent trip to Europe and will leave tonight for a two weeks' visit at Cornish, N. H.

The President's special car New York was hooked onto the midnight train for New York, in Washington, last night. Early this morning the train pulled into the Pennsylvania terminal at Thirty-fourth street and Seventh avenue and the car New York was switched to the Long Island Railroad tracks. The car arrived in Long Island City about 6 o'clock and at 8 o'clock was coupled onto a Roslyn train.

Because of the early hour of arrival, only a few persons were in either the Pennsylvania terminal or the station in Long Island City when the President arrived.

Acompanying the President on the trip are his physician, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, Miss Margaret Wilson, Mrs. Sayre and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones.

There will be a bride along during the trip, by reason of the fact that John Q. Slye, a Secret Service man who accompanies President Wilson, was married in Washington yesterday to Miss Johanna Murdock.

GIVE THE CHILD A SQUARE DEAL

H. C. Krebs, at Grammar School Exercises, Urges Encouragement.

PRAISE FOR TEACHERS

Dr. Henry M. Maxson Also Makes Interesting Address to Graduates —Honors for Miss Anna M. Day, Retiring Principal.

Considerable interest was apparent in the addresses of H. C. Krebs, superintendent of schools in Somerset county, and Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield schools, at the commencement exercises of the Grammar School held yesterday afternoon, in the Plainfield High School Auditorium, at which time each speaker gave personal opinions on educational matters pertaining to the growing youth of today.

During the course of his address on "Encouragement," Mr. Krebs took occasion to bring forward the derivation of the word. "Coeur" means from the heart. His talk was directed mainly to the parents and teachers, whom he urged to put heart into the children under their charge and to instill zeal for doing better. He also made a plea for the teacher upon whose shoulders the parent often lays the responsibility for the child's welfare, yet, very seldom that parent drops a word of encouragement or sunshine to that instructor. The parent is only too willing and quick to find fault. Continuing he said: "Instead of the usual complaint you have to make, send that teacher a little note of satisfaction with the way she

P. H. S. SENIORS RECEIVE AWARDS

Many Prizes Distributed at Final Assembly Meeting of Class.

MUSIC IS A FEATURE

Scholarship and Athletic Leaders Rewarded—Enthusiastic Demonstration for Honor Winners at High School Auditorium.

The school term's closing exercises were held in the Plainfield High School Auditorium, this morning. With the entire "lower school" standing and a large number of friends and alumni the seniors marched in and took the front seats before a big collection of cups, medals and other honors which were gathered on a table. As usual, the exercises were the most pleasing of the year.

Although songs were sung by the school, the most interesting part of the program was the awarding of prizes. The first awards were made to the winners of the girls' inter-class swimming meet, which sport was started this year. The silver cup offered by the president of the Board of Education, Archibald Cox, to be given to the winning team each year, went to the freshman class. Mina Taylor won the individual swimming cup, and the diving cup was awarded to Helen Peacock.

The largest presentation of prizes was awarded to the track team, which gained glory for itself during its initial season under Coach Jack Fritts. Peyton Schenck accepted the large loving cup won by the team for first place in the Central New Jersey interscholastic meet. Ribbons were given to the winners of different events in the recent inter-class athletic meet. Ralph Runyon, captain of the track team, was awarded a gold medal for points, and William Peacock and William Daniels silver and bronze medals, respectively. Benjamin Rosenson accepted the interscholastic baseball trophy in behalf of the championship team, which also got the county title.

Medals were offered for tennis doubles in the girls' inter-class tournament to the "freshmen twins," Helen Peacock and Mary Simons. Jean Peacock received a small loving cup for first place in the singles.

Several scholastic awards were made, among them being the Independent Magazine prize for the best essay on the subject, "The Hundred Years' Peace." Miss Edith Lowry was given a gold medal for first place. Miss Laura Stillman was given honorable mention for being the only senior that completed her course without being late or tardy.

During the exercises Miss Erma Good sang a few selections, accompanied by Miss Marion Blanchard. After the awards were made the senior class sang their closing song, which was followed by "ipsus" and other school yells for the lower classes.

The most interesting feature was the awarding of the Yale Cup by Charles H. Frost. William Peacock was the recipient.

BOROUGH DOG OWNERS MUST PROCURE LICENSES

A campaign to force owners of dogs to take out the annual dog license is on in North Plainfield. May 20 was the day the license money was due, and in those cases where dog owners have neglected to attend to taking out the new licenses, the police have notified them to appear before the borough recorder.

Notices were served on nine delinquents and they were ordered to appear in court yesterday. John Schenck, Charles Bolton, Richard McCullough, Edward Coley, Chris Lubeck and George Barry appeared and upon their taking out licenses, sentence was suspended. For the three who paid no attention to the request to appear, the court will issue warrants.

VANDERHOEF NOW IN POLICE TOILS

Boy Detective Who Was Thought to Be in the West Arrested in Jersey City.

IMPORTANT TO STATE

First Time He Has Been Arrested Although He Admitted Perjury at Kiely-Higgins Trial—Will Be Held in High Bail.

Clever detective work by Police Chief Kiely, of this city, and Chief County Detective John Gallatin last night culminated in the apprehension of Harold Vanderhoef, the twenty-two-year-old butcher boy who confessed to accepting a bribe of $100 from Mrs. Florence E. Roundey for playing the role of a "dummy" in swearing to false evidence to be used in her $25,000 alienation suit against Mrs. Elmer W. Poinier, of East Second street. The arrest was as dramatically staged as was Vanderhoef's hysterically delivered confession while a witness in the Union county courts three weeks ago, when Chief Kiely and Sergeant Maurice Higgins were brought to trial by Mrs. Roundey's counsel for alleged contempt proceedings.

The vindication of Kiely and Higgins, followed by the dismissal of the alienation litigation against Mrs. Poinier, resulted in the indictment of Mrs. Roundey on four counts, two for endeavoring to secure suborned testimony, one for suborning testimony and a fourth alleging perjury direct. After making the admissions at the Kiely-Higgins arraignment Vanderhoef consented to act as a vol-

GERMANY ADOPTS BETTER ATTITUDE

Dispatch From Berlin Forecasts Note, Promising Consideration of Neutrals.

DERNBERG IS HELD UP

Although Ship He is on is in English Port He Will Be Allowed to Proceed Later—Czars' Troops Retreat From Lemberg Was Orderly.

New York, June 24.—According to a Berlin dispatch received today by the Evening Sun, Germany in her reply to America's second note will make important concessions in the interests of the principles for which President Wilson declared America was contending. It is said that Germany will assure the United States that the lives of all neutrals will be safe-guarded and it is possible that the reply now being prepared will suggest some distinguishing marks for vessels carrying non-contraband cargoes to safe-guard them against the attacks of submarines. Great caution is being taken in preparing the note and it is expected that it will take two or three weeks.

Washington, June 24.—The United States waits in confidence for the next German note. It is admitted in official circles that it will not reach here before July 7, the day that President Wilson will return from the summer capital in Cornish, N. H. There has been no arrangement to this effect, but German Ambassador von Bernstorff has intimated to Berlin that, under the circumstances, the delay will be appreciated by the Administration.

All available information points to an amicable response. It is deemed likely that Germany will seek to debate some of the questions raised by the United States, but on the general suggestions, it is admitted in official quarters, Ambassador Gerard has been assured by high officials in Berlin that Germany hopes her answer will be acceptable here.

Germany, it is confidently expected, will agree that American citizens can go as they please through the submarine war zone.

In a memorandum just forwarded to the State Department by Ambassador Page, the British Government defends the seizure of ships under its Orders in Council. Although the memorandum purports to be an elaboration of the British views on the so-called blockade of Germany, it is really a reply to the American protest against features of the orders affecting American trade.

It is understood that the United States will take a strong stand, insisting upon British observance of international law.

London, June 24—The Norwegian steamship Bergensfjord, from New York for Norwegian ports, with Dr. Bernhard Dernburg and his wife on board, is in the custody of the British authorities at Kirkwall, Orkney Islands. The Bergensfjord, along with the Swedish steamship Varing, from Savannah for Swedish ports, has been detained since Monday. Dr. Dernburg was scheduled to reach Bergen today.

The ship on which Dr. Dernburg sailed was required under a general arrangement between Norway and Great Britain to put in at Kirkwall. A detention of several days is not unusual. In this instance it is probably due to the report that German army officers have been crossing on the liners to the Scandinavian countries under assumed names, and it is likely that the Bergensfjord's passengers and crew are being subjected to a rigid inquiry.

Constantinople (via Berlin wireless), June 24—Turkish troops in the region of Olti have inflicted a severe defeat to the Russians, driving them back with heavy losses, a war office statement asserted today.

"Near Olti we took 3,000 yards of the heights of Karadagh on Wednesday afternoon, said the official statement. "In the district of Kale Boghazi, near the Turkish frontier, the enemy fled eastward. We took hundreds of cases of ammunition and a large quantity of war materials."

Berlin (via The Hague), June 24. —"On to Paris!" was the cry that ran through Berlin today on the wave of enthusiasm that has followed the capture of Lemberg.

Popular sentiment unanimously favors an abandonment of the Galicia offensive in favor of a gigantic drive on the French capital. In the streets, in the shops, everywhere people gathered to talk of the victory over the Russians, was voiced the belief that the Galician army hosts should be hurried from their scenes of triumph in the East and hurled against the French and British lines in northern France.

DUNELLEN

BUILDING ACTIVITY PROMISED SOON

A. H. Burdick Has Plans Underway for Many Houses in the Borough.

One thing after another has developed since the announcement was made in this column Tuesday evening to the effect that the concern at present erecting the chemical works at New Market, would follow closely the completion of their factories with the erection of twenty-five to thirty detached dwellings for its employes. Local contractors and real estate agents are now awakening to the possibilities of the coming of two factories to the vicinity of the borough.

The first move of any one in Dunellen toward bringing some of the construction work in the way of Dunellen craftsmen was A. H. Burdick, the owner of the greater portion of the property on the south side of Walnut street between New Market road and West Fourth street over the county line into Plainfield. This property would be in easy reach of either the new works at New Market or the structural steel plants at Samptown now in the course of construction. Mr. Burdick has already started the ball rolling in the line of improving this property, which is at the present time practically vacant the entire distance mentioned above on the south side of the thoroughfare. The making of arrangements to properly drain the streets by laying 1,200 feet of eight-inch terra cotta blocks is the first step taken by the owner. It has also been planned to erect a large number of dwellings, a fair portion of which will be started as soon as possible in order that they may be ready by August 15. From present indications, Mr. Burdick will start work on the dwellings in the course of the next week or ten days, thus affording ample opportunity to complete at least from twelve to fifteen dwellings by the first or middle of August.

The complaint was made by a private detective of the road. Court was held in Borough Hall. Judge von Minden suspended a sentence of thirty days over the head of the defendant.

BEFORE RECORDER CAMPBELL.

Police court was held this morning before Recorder Campbell, at the Borough Hall, Martin Garrick being arraigned on a charge of drunkenness and being disorderly, the charge being made against him by Louis Felberman, of North avenue. A fine of $3 was imposed, which was paid by a brother of Garrick. The arrest was made by Marshal I. B. Smalley. The second case before the recorder this morning was in the nature of a neighborly squabble in which Mrs. Peter Ritter, of Prospect avenue, made a complaint against Susan Obazien for using abusive language and interfering with domestic troubles Mr. Ritter and George Koscask were called in the case as witnesses, but failed to sustain the charges in their testimony. Both parties were given a severe scolding from the bench, and told to hereafter keep the peace.

C. B. Wahl, Jr., of Washington avenue, and a large number of boroughites last evening, attended the dance at Stony Hill, the affair being conducted under the auspices of the Catholic parish. The trip was made by an auto bus from Plainfield.

The committee in charge of the Independence Day celebration will meet this evening at Marien's drug store, at which time matters concerning the program for that day will be taken up. A full attendance of the committee is desired.

CHAPLIN MAKE-UP TO BE FEATURE OF PROCTOR SHOW

One of the most unique contests ever to be conducted in this city has been arranged by Manager Harry Sanderson, of Proctor's Theatre, to be held at that place next Monday evening. The occasion is to take the nature of a Charley Chaplin contest, open to all would be theatrical stars, amateur followers of dramatics of this city and the surrounding towns.

As to the nature of the event, the purpose is to secure a large number of "make-ups" in imitation of the famous comedian of the motion picture world. Two silver loving cups and a watch are to be given as the first three prizes for the best Chaplin "make-ups," while other prizes are being planned. Monday evening, July 28, is the date, and Proctor's Theatre the place. Entries, with name and address of contestant, should be left at the Proctor box-office as soon as possible. From present indications, a large number of contestants will be entered, and Plainfield patrons of the picture houses will have a grand chance to view her own idols and possibilities.

A Galley o' Fun!

A BALLROOM TRAGEDY.

Her features with great agitation were white,
As I plainly could see from a distance;
So I stepped to her side and, in manner polite,
I proffered my willing assistance.

"O no," was her answer, "there's naught you can do,
My trouble no other can share it!
I'll have to sit here till the function is through—
I'll just have to sit there and bear it."

"But come," I began. "A short stroll in the air—
The veranda is breezy and shaded—"
"O no," she replied, "I really don't dare—
That is, I'll be better unaided."

"Pray let me, then, summon your friends or a maid,
My interest do not disparage;
I don't like to intrude, but I'm really afraid
That I ought to, at least, call your carriage.

"Do trust me a little; your trouble confide;
Your looks some deep anguish betoken."
"Well, then, if you must know," she angrily cried,
"The fact is, my garter is broken!"

SUCCESS.

Success achieved by any man
Is like a pie—
The home-made kind is better than
The kind you buy!

BETTER.

The Parson.—We will all meet together on the morning of judgment day.

Deacon Snoozer.—Better make it noon, Parson. If it happens to fall on Sunday some of us may be a little late!

NO MYSTERY.

The elite were considerably mystified when their washer-woman whirled by in a splendid limousine, and not a little nettled besides.

"Since we do not, as a matter of social usage, pay our laundry bills, how," they demanded with asperity, "do you command such luxuries?"

"Why, by saving the soap wrappers, to be sure!" the washerwoman explained, in the best of temper.

BANKING RULES.

If you have any business at the bank, put it off till 2 o'clock or a little later, as it looks more business-like to rush in just as the bank is closing.

In depositing money, try to get it inside down and wrong end foremost so that the teller may have a little exercise in straightening it out before counting it.

If you make a deposit of one hundred dollars and give a check for fifty dollars, it is a good thing to call frequently at the bank and ask how your account stands. This will impress the bank officers favorably with your business qualifications.

If a check is made payable to your order, be careful not to indorse it before handing it to the teller, but let him return it to you and wait while you indorse it. This helps to pass the time and is a pleasure and a relief to the teller.

You can generally save time when making a deposit by counting down your money to the teller, as you can nearly always count more speedily and correctly than he can.

When you make a deposit do not use a deposit ticket, but mix indiscriminately together checks and bills. This will facilitate matters exceedingly.

Always date your checks ahead. It is a never failing sign that you keep a good balance in bank; or, if you do not wish it generally known that you are doing a good business, do not deposit your money until the very last moment before your check will come in.

Horace Zimmerman.

PERHAPS.

Euripides, encountering a dramatist of late recently come among the company of the Shades, did not conceal his disdain.

"A trifling fellow!" sneered the great Greek.

"Well, if you'd had to filter your plays through the understanding of the Tired Business Man, the Matinee Girl, the Society Woman, and a few more," protested the other, "perhaps you wouldn't be quite so much yourself!"

Which, by the moderns present, was deemed a not inapt retort.

HIS HURRY.

She.—But, Harold, why are you in such haste? We can be married a little later, be gone as long as we like on our honeymoon, and——.

He.—Yes, and the first thing we know the baseball season will open while we are away!

The want ad way of tenant-finding is the accepted way—and means small expense and delay.

Advice to Young Men

On Commencement Day a great deal of sound advice will be given to you, but little will be said regarding the importance of good, well-fitting clothes. Yet this is a great factor in life's success, for a good appearance is the outward sign of character. The well-dressed youth is always chosen first in applying for work, for it testifies to his self-respect and his regard for public opinion.

The Plainfield stores are amply large and carry sufficient stocks to satisfy the desires of everyone in Plainfield, and there is no reason why anyone should find it necessary to go to any other city to shop.

If those of us who are want to complain that times are not what they ought to be, would just realize that if all the money which goes out of Plainfield every year to pay for goods which can just as easily and more economically be purchased at home, were spent in Plainfield this community would witness a business activity such as it has never known, for they would certainly recognize how much to the benefit of each one of us it must be to buy in Plainfield. And the worst part about it is that many of the people who complain about business are the very ones who are accustomed to spend a large part of what they earn in Plainfield with out of town stores, and mail order houses.

Lets all get together and make this a community of real and lasting prosperity. Plainfield Merchants are able to take care of our wants, give them the opportunity. The results will be surprising.

OFFICIALLY NAMED SECRETARY OF STATE

Expected Appointment of Robert Lansing Made Public Last Night.

Washington, June 24—Robert Lansing, who as counselor of the State Department, has advised President Wilson in law and precedent in the policy pursued by the United States toward belligerent governments since the outbreak of the European war, was named yesterday Secretary of State to succeed William Jennings Bryan.

Few appointments in recent years have given such widespread satisfaction in the national capital. Mr. Lansing is a lifelong Democrat, but he has devoted his time to international law and diplomacy, and is as popular with former Republican officials as with his colleagues.

Members of the cabinet who talked with the President were unanimous in their recommendation that he should be appointed. Colonel E. M. House and other close personal friends of the President advised the selection, and Mr. Bryan himself, although not consulted, is understood to have hoped for the promotion of Mr. Lansing.

Official announcement of the selection of Mr. Lansing was made in the following statement issued from the White House:

"Before leaving last evening for a brief rest in New Hampshire, the President announced that he had offered the post of Secretary of State to Robert Lansing, the present counselor of the Department of State, and that Mr. Lansing had accepted the appointment."

A commission was prepared which President Wilson signed, giving Mr. Lansing a recess appointment. When Congress reconvenes the nomination will go to the Senate. No opposition to his confirmation is anticipated.

PLAINFIELD NIECE RECEIVES $200 FROM LARGE ESTATE

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 24.—An appraisal of the estate left by Mary H. Hewlett, an aunt of Aline B. Lane, of No. 209 East Seventh street, Plainfield, N. J., made by one of the Transfer Tax State Appraisers, the report of which is on file in the office of the clerk of the Surrogate's Court, shows that when the decedent passed away on July 24, 1914, she left a net estate of $11,230.81, which, under the directions of her will, passes over to many of her relatives and friends, Aline B. Lane, the Plainfield niece, receiving a cash bequest of $200.

N. P. H. S. SENIORS TAKE PART IN FINAL EXERCISES

The closing exercises were held this morning at the North Plainfield High School. They were opened by the entire High School singing, "Wake, Freshmen, Wake," to welcome in the entering class of 1919.

Mr. Earley made an appropriate address and awarded the second basketball team its insignias. Those receiving the monograms were Alfred Siedel, Oscar Dilts, Martin McDonough, John Dawe and Edson Day.

The school song, an adaptation from "The Orange and the Black," was sung, and Lester Chandler led the Senior Class in a cheer for the High School, and then the whole school gave a cheer for the teachers who leave the school this year.

Mr. Earley spoke of the Senior motto: "Conare Fieri Usui," and the fitness of its meaning to a graduating class, that they might carry its sentiment, "Strive to be Useful," beyond their school work.

Class President Edson Day presented a shield to the High School, which Principal Earley accepted.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION GIVEN YOUNG ARTISTS

A large audience greeted enthusiastically the young artists at the recital entitled "In Nature's Garden," last night, in the studio of Mrs. Grace Powell Karr-Giese. One of the most impressive numbers on the program was a little piece "In the Boat," played by Master Herbert M. Hooker, to represent a sailboat on the sea when the wind had all died down. Recitations were given by Masters LeRoy B. Pope, Paul J. Johnson, Miss Abby L. Mitchell and Miss Pauline M. Mitchell.

"The Song of the Frogs," a little playlet given by Mises Estella Beckon, Daisy K. Hile and Marion D. Rose as Polliwogs, and Masters Herbert M. Hooker, Paul J. Johnson and LeRoy B. Pope as Frogs, caused much comment. Miss Dorothy M. Johnson accompanied in this. The following pupils took part: Mises Abby L. Mitchell, Pauline M. Mitchell, Adele M. Keen, Deborah Ellis, Madeline M. Maguire, Grace E. Kelley, Daisy K. Hile, Margaret A. Endress, Dorothy M. Johnson, Estelle Beckon, Marion D. Rose, Mrs. F. L. Downes, and Masters Paul J. Johnson, Albert L. Monck, Herbert M. Hooker, LeRoy B. Pope and Otto L. Phillips. Prizes were awarded to Miss Madeline M. Maguire for the best practising during the month of April; to Mrs. F. L. Downs for the month of May; to Miss Dorothy M. Johnson and Master Paul K. Johnson for being on the monthly honor roll at least six times during the year.

By special request "The Song of the Frogs" and several solo numbers will be repeated if possible, at the recital in the Franklin School Auditorium on Saturday night. The recital is free to the public.

WILL RECEIVE ONE-THIRD OF HER FATHER'S ESTATE

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 24.—Letters of administration upon the estate left by Solomon Fishman, father of Tessie Smelson, of 18 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J., were issued today by Surrogate Herbert T. Ketcham to Rebecca Fishman, the widow, of 292 Utica avenue. The papers, which were filed today, shows that at the time of the death of Mr. Fishman on April 10 last, he left an estate of about $600 in personal property.

Inasmuch as he left no will, one-third goes to the widow and the remaining two-thirds to his four children, who outside of Mrs. Smelson are Dora Dixton and Harry Fishman, of Brooklyn, and Rose, of Bayonne.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Motion pictures of a type which commends the attention that are the most critical are billed for the last half of the present week, and all for one night stands. These pictures are among the best that may be had at any price, and have been secured by the management, as it realizes that the best are none too good for Plainfield people. The features of this afternoon and evening's performances include the four-part production of "False Colors," a Paramount picture, which is sufficient in itself to justify the attendance of all lovers of good acting, good photography, and good projection. This story needs no introduction to the readers of good books or to the followers of the legitimate stage. Another feature for today is the two-reel Mutual masterpiece, "The Conversation of Frosty Blake." Good music will also continues to fill its place at all shows.

For tomorrow, Manager Sanderson has provided the most excellent pictures obtainable, the big feature being Betty Nansen in "A Woman's Resurrection," a five-part picture that should not be missed by anyone who loves a true portrayal of life as it is. This picture is based on Tolstoi's famous and widely read novel, "The Resurrection," a story that has circled the globe. In this production, Miss Nansen is ably supported by William J. Kelly and Edward Jose. Other pictures booked for tomorrow include "The Angle in the Mask," a two-reel Mutual production, another episode of "The Exploits of Elaine," in two reels, and one of those scream Keystone comedies that one hears so much about. These pictures present a well balanced entertainment for tomorrow, both afternoon and evening.

For Saturday, the following are presented: "The Curious Conduct of Judge Legarde," in five parts; "The Soul of the Vase" and "The Race Love," both one-part Mutual pictures well worth seeing, and another episode in that grand serial photo-play, "The Goddess," as well as a number of travel pictures which will be of interest to all.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

To one who loves the intense excitement of war pictures, this evening's program at the Plainfield Airdome presents a great opportunity to witness a spectacle which will long be remembered in the presentation of "Through the Enemy's Lines," a picture which shows the horrors of war in all their blackness, and at the same time the might and power of love in all its glory. Manager Shannon feels that in this four-part production, with the international stars, Miss Ebba Thomsen and A. Blutecher, he has secured one of the greatest hits of the present season in the motion picture world. The other pictures on the program for this evening is of the one-reel type and are exceptionally good, and an evening of enviable enjoyment is promised to those who attend.

The followers of the legitimate plays wil be privileged tomorrow evening to see one of the greatest favorites at work on the screen in no less a personage than Miss Ethel Barrymore. The ever lovable Miss Barrymore appears on this occasion in a five-part production entitled, "The Nightingale," and is at her best in this play. This is a production of five big acts, 210 dramatic scenes, with an exceptional story replete with soul-stirring situations and heart-throbbing climaxes. Life in the East Side of New York, with all its pathos, is here pictured in a manner which shows no mercy to the existing conditions in the portrayal. Charlie Chaplin, that comedian of country-wide fame, is also to appear upon this occasion in the comedy, "His New Job."

Saturday evening brings to the Airdome one of Jack London's stories in picture form under the title of "The Valley of the Moon," this production being in seven parts. This masterpiece in moving picture art should be seen by those hard to be convinced that the art is all that is claimed for it. Chaplin again appears on this bill, in "The Tramp," a picture which will compel one to forget the cares which have accumulated through the course of the week.

Best notes on keeping up the garden in Saturday's Daily Press.

You can't, even through a "For Sale" ad, sell that used article for its original cost, nor near it; but you can get its cash value at the present time for it.

THE CITY'S LOSS.

When the Ruler of the Universe decided after creating this big globe of ours that Mother Nature should be intrusted with its development and growth, one of the wisest of His many wise actions was brought about. The wonderful old lady whose presence is made known to us in a thousand different ways, accepted the responsibility placed upon her shoulders and carefully considered the material at her disposal, eventually contending that properly educated human beings would be her greatest asset. The next step was how to educate them and then she proclaimed that teachers like poets, artists and philosophers, should be born, not made.

Miss Millicent E. Humpston and Miss Anna M. Day, who retire from the city's educational department today, might be mentioned as two instructors who are the result of that decree of nature. Their equal is not to be met with every day. Miss Humpston places her mantle on younger shoulders after forty-one years of hard and arduous work in preparation of youthful minds for the greater things later on. Miss Day lays aside her moral sceptre for good and all for the first time in thirty-eight years, thirty-five of which were spent in Plainfield. They have devoted their life to the betterment of others, giving of themselves and talents, for the welfare of the community, quietly and without the hope of universal acclaim that comes to many whose doings are more in the open. Their task has often been a difficult one, as not every child is quick to learn, but they did their best with the raw product that came before them:

If it had not been for the fact that one has to have the inherent characteristics to be successful as a teacher these two women would have abandoned the profession long ere this. That they stayed and persevered has been a blessing for Plainfield and one of the greatest aids the Board of Education has had in making the Plainfield schools among the best in the state.

Miss Humpston and Miss Day did more than their share and the work they have done will live after them. More than one local business man or young mother who is now bringing up her family owe their start in the proper channel to the influence of the two women who are now retiring to a well deserved rest. They knew how to encourage at the right time, they knew how to congratulate at the proper moment, and if severity was the right essential when a juvenile brain became obdurate, they administered firmness as the wind is tempered to the shorn lamb. A small recognition of their services was shown in receptions given by parent teacher associations, but it remains for the rank and file of one time pupils of both to stand as a monument to what they have accomplished.

OBSERVING THE FOURTH.

Elizabeth is to celebrate a safe and sane Fourth by the entertainment of some 7,000 or 8,000 of the younger generation at the moving picture theatres. In order to accommodate them all, performances will be given for their special benefit in the morning and afternoon. The idea is a good one. An official and supervised display of fireworks will be given in the evening, and concerts and patriotic exercises in various parts of the city will also take place during the day. With such a celebration there should not be the slightest desire to go back to the old-time method, which usually resulted in several youngsters being maimed for life, and others having minor burns and bruises.

Here in Plainfield the Playground Commission has arranged for a comparatively inexpensive display of fireworks, and has asked the general public to subscribe $300 for it. Only about a third of the amount has been pledged, and unless it is all in hand by next Tuesday, the commission will have to give up the effort, and refund the money to those who have sent checks. Certainly it cannot be that there are not enough public spirited citizens to subscribe this small sum. If you cannot send more than fifty cents to Mr. Wriston, the secretary of the Playground Commission, that amount will be welcomed. Plainfield youngsters should have some formal celebration to instill patriotism. Send along your checks.

The appointment of Rev. C. E. Herring to the Library Board, places a representative from the Fourth Ward on that body, and incidentally strengthens it. Dr. Herring knows books, gives close attention to everything he undertakes, and will make a splendid official. It is also a pleasure to note that Frank L. Holt and C. Boardman Tyler have been renamed. Mr. Holt especially has given great impetus to Library affairs recently by conducting an excellent column of Library notes in the local papers.

The contributed editorial on Saturday will be a departure from the established custom of having a well known Plainfielder write for us. Instead we will print the essay which won the prize annually offered by the Daily Press to the pupil in the senior class of the High School who writes on the best local topic.

Premature publication of census figures have so frightened the people in many parts of New Jersey that there is already talk of taking a recount. At two cents a name none of the enumerators will object to that being done.

The vacation season is upon us. Every school in the city is now closed and the youngsters have nearly three months to enjoy themselves.

Evidently a cog slipped somewhere in the handling of that coal contract for the city, and the slip cost the taxpayers over $100.

ST. MARY'S SOCIAL CLUB TO GIVE PLAY AND DANCE

Three hours of mirth is promised all who attend the play and dance to be given by the St. Mary Social Club, tomorrow night in T. A. B. Hall, according to the committee who have arranged a splendid program of events for the night. "Popping the Question" is the title of the play which will occupy the boards and which all young women whose male friends are a little backward in certain questions are urged especially to attend. How a certain young woman helped along a swain will be excellently portrayed in the humorous comedy to be produced by the members of the club assisted by the T. A. B. Society. The following will take part: Miss Annabel McAfee, Miss Helen Hogan, Miss Helen McCauley, Miss Molly Traynor, Frank Donnelly and William Sullivan.

Allen Squire will provide music for the occasion with his four-piece orchestra while various members of the society will entertain with all the latest steps. Dancing will follow until a late hour. The committee in charge has arranged dainty refreshments to be served by a bevy of pretty girls. The entire presentation will be in charge of the following committee: Misses Mary Murray, chairman; Kathryn Neylon, Regina Brady, Betty Mara and Alice McAfee.

NEW THEATRE MAY BE ERECTED HERE

Christian B. Sorenson, Jr., in Town Looking for a Desirable Site for Playhouse.

Christian B. Sorenson, Jr., formerly of this city, and for years the trombone soloist of Arthur Pryor's Band, and for the past five years business manager for Miss Eva Tanguay, the favorite stage star, is spending some time in this city combining business with pleasure. He is visiting his father, Christian B. Sorenson, Sr., of Webster place. While he has a vacation from his official duties as business manager during the summer months, he is at the same time representing a New York theatrical agency, the name of which he refuses to divulge at the present time.

His purpose in representing the theatrical concern here in Plainfield at this time is to look over the field and inquire as to the possibility of securing a site within striking distance of the center of the town for a theatre to be erected next fall. Mr. Sorenson was far from being willing to talk to a representative of the Daily Press when called upon yesterday. He admitted, however, that during his short stay here, he would look over a number of prospective sites for such purposes he had in mind, and would make a report to New York headquarters. Just how far plans have gone beyond this point toward the establishment of another vaudeville theatre or house for legitimate productions have gone, Mr. Sorenson will not say, except to say that if he can secure the opportunity to make a favorable reply on both location and price, plans would undoubtedly be pushed forward, although not before the fall months.

Mr. Sorenson also stated that he is paving the way for several stage lights making their summer homes in this city, and would be in a position to make some announcement to the public press before his return to his New York home in regard to this latter matter. Mr. Sorenson is being congratulated upon his continued interest in his place of nativity, although he has been away from Plainfield for a number of years.

GIVE THE CHILD SQUARE DEAL

is teaching your child. It will do a world of more good than a complaint will ever do.

"Home atmosphere and home example all tend to have their effect on the boy and girl. Give the child a square deal. You cannot expect him to be perfect, so encourage him when he does the best he can. Too often parents will look at the poor mark on the monthly report card, never noticing the nine good marks. This is a fatal mistake; that child should be congratulated on the good marks and animated to bring the other up to the standard. The report cards are thought too much of nowadays; they make for discouragement and anxiety when they should be the reverse. I would do away with them entirely." Concluding he said, "There is no avenue in life where encouragement is not a vital part; remove the things that make for discouragement and insert in their place matters that will tend to increase confidence of success."

The manufacture of the boy and girl into men and women was the main thought in Mr. Maxson's address, and in speaking he likened the crops of boys and girls to the crops of grain. From the raw product the grain and the child go through a process of manufacture until it is wholesome and ready for the greater use it is intended to be in the benefit of mankind. During this period of manufacture some of the grain is made into liquors and things that debase and destroy human life in the world. So it is with boys and girls, some will be manufactured into excellent fathers and mothers, good citizens with upright characters, while others will fall by the wayside in dissipation and debasement to be a menace to the community in which they live, a wreck and an obstacle to the country.

"Old ideas are changing constantly, to modern thoughts. The old idea was for the parent to compel the child to follow some line of vocation, while the present is to study that child and find out his likes and dislikes, his temperament, and so recognize the thing he is best fitted for. There are many cases today where years of a child's life have been wasted because of a superior power compelling that child to follow a path of endeavor that was entirely contrary to his liking. Force should be replaced by suasion. I believe that the time is coming when we will pay men and women to study our boys and girls in order to find out their capacity, their likes and the vocation they are best fitted for. No boy or girl of fourteen is able to judge what his future life work should be." Mr. Maxson congratulated the members of the graduating class and urged each to enter the High School and pursue higher institutions of learning.

During the course of the program a loving tribute was paid to Miss Anna M. Day, the retiring principal of the school. One of the girls of the graduating class read a poem dedicated to the popular teacher and presented her with a beautiful bouquet of pink roses.

The program was as follows. Invocation, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of First M. E. church, song, "O Land We Love," chorus by graduating class, words by William Charles O'Donnell, Jr., music by May Vincent Whitney; A Legend of the Founding of Athens, reproduced by pupils. Part 1—"The Coming of Cecrops," James Leeman Brownlee, Jr.; part 2—"The Visit of Neptune and Athena," George Joseph Enk; part 3—"The Choice of a Patron," Katherine Holt; song, "The West," graduating class; piano solos, "Polonaise," Chopin; "Pierrette," Chaminade, Master Walter Silbert; address, H. C. Krebs; violin and piano solos, "Lieblesleid," Fritz Kreisler, "Chanson," Louis Couperin, Mrs. Noel Evans and Mrs. Guy Bender; address to graduates, Dr. Henry M. Maxson; two part song for girls, "Song of Summer," Rhys-Herbert; "Flower Song," E. T. Davies; presentation of diplomas, Archibald Cox, president of the Board of Education, "America," sung by entire audience.

HITCH MAY OCCUR AT BOROUGH FIELD

Two Sets of Teams Claim to Have Credentials to Use the Diamond Saturday.

Trouble is brewing over the use of Hyde Oval and unless certain managers get together before Saturday afternoon there will in all likelihood be four teams on deck to contest a double baseball attraction. According to an announcement made recently by Manager Kline, of the Royal Giants, whose club is due to perform on the DeLacy avenue lot, and yesterday afternoon Manager Willett, of the Interhavens, visited the Daily Press sporting department, and announced that the Interhavens would line up against the Trinity Church outfit at the same time on Hyde Oval.

Manager Willett was armed with a lease permitting the Interhavens to use the field Saturday afternoon, and in view of the fact that he appears to have the proper credentials it looks as though Kline and his performers would have to hunt elsewhere for a playing field. It would be wise for the managers to get together on this question before Saturday, however, inasmuch as a tie-up at the last moment would probably result seriously for both teams.

MISS MOLLA BJURSTEDT ALSO PLAYED FOR TITLE

There were two outstanding incidents in yesterday afternoon's play in the Middle States tennis championship tournament at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club's turf courts, in South Orange. One was the elimination from the competition of Gustave F. Touchard, State champion, who was the favorite, to meet Karl H. Behr, holder of the Middle States challenge cup, by Charles L. Johnston, of Brooklyn, a member of the West Side Tennis Club, of Forest Hills, Long Island.

The second feature was the appearance of Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norwegian girl, who holds the American championship for women, and who appeared at the Plainfield Country Club in the afternoon. Miss Bjurstedt met Mrs. William H. Underhill, a prominent player, and simply played rings around her opponent, winning in two straight sets, 6-0, 6-0.

CHAMPIONS UNPLACED.

Frank Kramer and Alfred Goullet, who are looked upon as the only real contenders for the national sprint cycling title this year, both failed to be placed in the five-mile championship race at the Velodrome, last night. They rode in the rear practically throughout the race and did not appear to have the speed to get to the front in the last lap. Alfred Grenda was the winner in the fast time of 9 minutes and 45 seconds, which is just 3 1-5 seconds outside of the world's record. He was followed over the finish line by Reggie McNamara, of Australia, while Bob Spears, another product of the Antipodes, finished in third place. Oscar Egg, the gritty little Swiss rider, finished fourth.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY.

For the second time within as many years, Philip Carter, the seventeen-year-old golfer of the Nassau Country Club, won the metropolitan junior golf championship, over the links of the Plainfield Country Club. Carter defeated Vincent K. Hilton, of Hackensack, 8 up and 6 to play, in the final round of the tournament.

SUBURBAN MILERS IN SPIRITED RACE

Bound Brook Turns Out Strong to See the Big Road Feature Decided.

Hundreds of interested Bound Brook residents, some of whom have genuine sporting blood running through their veins and others who, for the first time became imbued with enthusiasm, witnessed the athletic competition at that place last night, the events being held in connection with Bound Brook's carnival week, an episode that is attracting more than ordinary interest. Each night the committe has put on a different event for the athletic competition and the result has been the awakening of keen enthusiasm and spirited rivalry.

Last night the one-mile road race was the menu's juiciest morsel, and the result was all that could be anticipated. Negotiating the mile in five minutes and twenty-five seconds, Charles Fisher, one of the suburbs' most promising middle distance men, landed first prize; Walter Koechlein came in second, and Walter Rugen snatched third honors. Fisher and Koechlein set the pace for a large field from the time they reached the half-mile pole to the finish and put a fitting climax on their exhibition by sprinting the last one hundred yards to the tape. Fisher breasted the worsted a few inches in advance of the runner-up.

RALPH RUNYON TO TAKE PART IN EASTERN TRYOUTS

That New York's best athletes will be opponents of the best performers in the East in the sectional tryouts for the national championships at Cambridge on Saturday, became evident yesterday when the entries for the meeting were announced by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Forty-five men from the Metropolitan Association, including Ralph Runyon, the Plainfield High School track captain, have been named to take part in the meet, but less than two-thirds of this number will compete. The Boston Athletic Association has nominated a team that should figure strongly in the national championship committee's ultimate decision of the men who will journey to the coast.

STUART CONNOLLY WINS.

In a strong wind, which made scoring difficult, Stuart D. Connolly, of the home club, former Metropolitan junior champion, won the medal in the qualifying round of the Hudson River tournament yesterday over the links of the Rockland Country Club, at Palisades. His score was 78. Although provision was made for three sixteens, all of which were filled, only four clubs were represented in the competition, a strange fact being that the Powelton Club, of Newburg, often the scene of this event, had no entries.

HARVARD WINS AGAIN.

Cambridge, Mass., June 24.—Harvard ballossers won the series with Yale by adding a 3 to 2 victory yesterday to that scored at New Haven, Tuesday. It was a ninth-inning success. With two out and a man on first, Brickley doubled, scoring Hart with the tieing run, and crossed the plate himself with the winning tally on a single by Frye, a pinch hitter.

MAC FARLAND'S SLAYER FREED.

After deliberating slightly more than an hour and one-half a jury in Quarter Sessions Court, Newark, yesterday afternoon acquitted David Lantinberg, twenty-seven years old, of Brooklyn, of manslaughter in connection with the death of Floyd A. MacFarland at the Velodrome, Saturday afternoon, April 17.

LOCAL WOMAN ONLY ONE IN HONOR LIST

Mrs. Albert MacDonald Solitary Metropolitan Entrant to Qualify.

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., June 24—A triple tie at 96 between well-known Philadelphia women—Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, of Merion; Mrs. Cabel F. Fox and Miss Eleanor Chandler, both of Huntingdon Valley—made an interesting start to the invitation golf tournament at the Shawnee Country Club yesterday.

Although a number of the tees were put forward the course was still a severe test for women, measuring close to sixty-four hundred yards. Only one of the entrants from the Metropolitan district, Mrs. Albert MacDonald, of Plainfield, succeeded in making the first sixteen. In the third eight, Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., of Plainfield, returned a card of 67-58, 125.

NATIONAL A. A. U. TITLE MEETING FOR NEWARK

Big Event to Be Held in Connection With the 1916 Anniversary.

That the National Amateur Athletic Union track and field championships are almost certain to be held in Newark in connection with the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Newark, next year, was asserted by Chairman Edward J. O'Brien, of the athletic committee, last night. The athletic committee decided that it would ask the executive committee for $10,000, which is held as the maximum amount needed to conduct the national meet.

A. A. U. tryouts will be held in Boston, Saturday afternoon, and Mr. O'Brien and Jack O'Hara, a delegate of the Amateur Athletic Union, were authorized to go to the Hub, together with Frederick W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., and meet the athletes and the A. A. U. men.

John Metzger, of the National Turn Verein, reported that he had made application for the A. A. U. wrestling and gymnastic championships, and also would endeavor to obtain the Metropolitan boxing titular events, he deeming it inadvisable to try to compete against Boston for the national pugilistic events.

Joseph Carroll declared that a regatta on the Passaic River is almost an assured fact. He said that he expected to have the New York Rowing Association go on record as willing to co-operate with the Institute Boat Club and the athletic committee at its next meeting on Tuesday. Mr. Carroll said that he had two members of the New York association on a trip on the Passaic and they were well pleased with conditions.

It was decided to invite the New Jersey Waterway League and the Newark canoeing clubs to send representatives.

LARRY MC LEAN GETS NEW JOB.

Long Larry McLean, whose unruly deportment cost him his job on the Giants' catching staff, has found a new job. McLean has signed to catch for the Media (Penn.) Club in the same league in which Home Run Baker plays for $100 a game. It is understood that McLean's contract calls for an amount under this figure. McLean is under a sixty days' suspension, without salary, for breaking the training rules of the New York club.

OUTDOOR "GYM" EXHIBITION.

An outdoor gymnastic exhibition in which the various Y. M. C. A. boys' classes will compete, will be held on the field in the rear of the building next Monday evening. There will be exhibitions of feats and demonstrations of games. Among the boys there is keen competition to sell tickets, a gold Y. M. C. A. pin being the prize for which they are striving. Refreshments will be served, and a social time enjoyed.

TRAVERS WINS TROPHY.

Noble, Pa., June 24.—Maxwell Marston, Baltusrol, yesterday afternoon presented the Lynnewood Hall gold golf cup to Jerome D. Travers on a silver platter at the Huntingdon Valley Club. In other words, Marston lost the 18 holes final for Mrs. George D. Widener's trophy to Travers, by 2 to 1, when he might have carried it off himself.

GEORGE WILTSE QUITS.

Manager George E. Wiltse has resigned as manager of the Jersey City baseball club, and Joe Yeager, the veteran infielder, has been placed temporarily in charge of the team until Manager Wiltse's successor has been appointed.

ATHLETIC MANAGERS NAMED FOR 1916

Final Meeting of Association Held in N. P. H. S. This Morning.

The final meeting of the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association was held today. Reports were handed in by the managers of various teams, and managers elected for next year's teams.

John Dawe received the election to the basketball managership by a large majority. LeRoy Force was elected tennis manager, and Charles Rolls' election to the baseball managership was made unanimous by Sherman Chandler's withdrawal of his nomination. Manager Elmer French, of the tennis team, made his report to the A. A. and it was accepted.

The failure of Plainfield High School to play the third game had thrown the baseball management into debt, and as the amount of the Athletic Association's credit at bank was not sufficient to cover this deficit, it was made up by personal subscription at the meeting.

Captain Smalley addressed the meeting with a few well placed remarks on the cause of the failures which attended last year's athletic season, and expressed a desire to see Dilts put out a winning team of baseballers next year. The meeting showed its appreciation of his fine work and the spirit which has attended his four years of useful service to the High School, by the hearty applause which greeted his remarks.

NATIONAL STARS PUT UP SOME GOOD SETS

Plainfield Country Club the Scene of Excellent Tennis Competition.

Playing on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday afternoon, Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norwegian female tennis star, and R. Norris Williams, 3rd, of Harvard, defeated Miss Edna Wildey, of Plainfield, and Dean Mathey, of Cranford, in a mixed doubles match by the scores of 6-4 6-4 and 7-5. The local girl, paired with Mathey, who has been selected as a member of the Eastern team to play next month at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, put up a remarkable game and forced the rival pair, both of whom hold the national singles titles among their own sex, to extend themselves to the limit.

In the singles exhibition between Williams and Mathey, the latter was the victor, vanquishing the Harvard star in three straight sets by tallies of 6-2, 6-3 and 6-4.

HERZOG ORDERS REDS TO LAY OFF ON GOLF.

A new order by Manager Herzog has created consternation among the golfing contingent. The Red leader has decided that playing golf all the morning does not tend to activity in the afternoon, and he has forbidden any of the players to play the ancient game except on off days.

Recently George Twombly had it all arranged to go out on the links and try his skill, but the expedition had to be called off. Twombly is now a regular, and Herzy figures that he should keep all his energies for the pastime which pays his salary.

CRIPPLE A STAR SWIMMER.

Friedlander, Who Uses Crutches, Wins Five Mile Australian Event.

Advices from Sydney tell of a notable swimming performance achieved by E. Friedlander of Kalgoorlie in winning the fourth annual swim through Perth over a distance of five miles. Friedlander, who was third in the 1913 race, is in business at Kalgoorlie and uses crutches, his legs being useless, owing to some physical weakness.

To win under such circumstances, notwithstanding that he has massive arms and shoulders, is an undoubted triumph. Handicapped at twenty-two minutes, he did the trip in 2 hours and 8½ minutes, which is 28½ minutes better than the time of last year's winner, and he beat the scratch man, W. Reed (Kalgoorlie) by one-half minute.

Reed made the fastest time (1 hour and 47 minutes). This is also a record for the race.

CAN SHERIDAN COME BACK?

Ex-Champion All Round Athlete Considers Entering Decathlon For Title.

Martin Sheridan, former champion all around athlete, is thinking of starting preparations for the decathlon championship, which will replace the all around events in American Athletic union championships this year.

Elimination of the walk and the substitution of the discus in the decathlon gives the former Olympic champion an opportunity to come back.

Dodgers Have Star Young Twirler.

Scattered Sport Gleanings

That William Peacock would receive the Yale Cup at the assembly exercises in the Plainfield High School this morning was a foregone conclusion and the awarding of the trophy was a mere formality. Peacock deserves the honor more than any other individual who has ever received the cup annually presented by the Yale Club for all-around efficiency. He is one of the best all-around athletes ever graduated from the institution and his popularity and leadership qualities are well known. Besides excelling in sport and along social lines Peacock is a diligent and hard working student and during the past year has achieve a high standard of success in academic work. In the loss of Peacock, the Plainfield High School athletic forces will suffer severely. He was the main cog in the machinery of every team and was one of the most dependable and consistent athletes in the institution. The award was without a doubt the most popular and most satisfactory one ever made in disposing of the Yale trophy and nothing too good can be said of the recipient.

"Midge" Kline appears to be up to his neck in trouble just at the present time. Following a fracas with the City League officials Monday night Manager Kline's plans to engage Hyde Oval for Saturday afternoons have been treated to a severe jolt. It looks to us as though the Interhavens had a pretty strong hold on the borough sand-lot and we are afraid "Midge" will have to scout elsewhere for a diamond on which to stage his engagements.

Speaking of Kline and his Royals, we have been forced to note the general dissatisfaction among the colored ballists that has been brewing since the City League meeting. Contrary to the opinion being spread broadcast there was no attempt made to draw the color line Monday night and every manager in the league is friendly to the Royal club. If Kline or any other player wants to be "pig-headed" enough to believe that the City Leaguers are leary of the Royals it's his own loss.

In the VanDeventer brothers Plainfield has a pretty formidable representation in the Union county tennis classic at Rahway next week. Playing the court sport by electric light is somewhat of a novelty in these parts and plenty of Plainfield rooters will probably be on deck to root for the Queen City youngsters.

From the results of a general survey we are led to believe that those Interhaven youngsters are going to make themselves heard from in the borough before the summer months roll by. Plenty of competition will put this aggregation in the running for a post-season series with the City League champions.

Honus Wagner made his one hundredth home run the other day. It's so long since a four sacker has been tallied on Parker Field that we've about forgotten how the stunt looks.

PLAINFIELD BOYS GOING TO CAMP WAWAYANDA

Thursday, July 1, will witness the departure of the first group of Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys for Camp Wawayanda. A change in the mode of travel of previous years will be made this time. Instead of going by train, a motor bus will convey the Plainfield party. This will permit the boys to make their start later in the morning than in other years, and the motor bus will reach the camp at 12:30 o'clock, half an hour earlier than the parties who will go by train.

So far there are twenty-two Plainfield boys who will go in the first section. Boys' Secretary Edwin Glaentzer and F. O. Dunning, Jr., will be in charge of the group. The first three sections to leave the camp are already filled and there is a waiting list of forty boys. There are still a few vacancies in the fourth section.

FORMER BOROUGH GIRL MARRIES IN ELIZABETH

Mss Louise M. Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Andrews, of Elizabeth, and formerly of North Plainfield, was married to Harry Conrad Lapp, of Philadelphia, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her parents' home. The wedding was attended only by the immediate relatives of both parties, and Rev. F. L. Mooney, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church, performed the ceremony.

The bride is well-known in this city where she attended school and has visited recently on a number of occasions. Upon ther return from a honeymoon the couple will make their home at Woodbury.

MANY RELATIVES AND FRIENDS ATTEND FUNERAL

Friends, relatives and co-workers in large numbers attended the funeral of Peter Borowitz, whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital, Monday, which was held this morning at his late home, 18 DeKalb avenue, a 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. A solemn requiem mass was conducted at the church with Father B. M. Bogan, celebrant; Father Vincent Sciolla, deacon, and Father P. J. Hart, sub-deacon. Father Bogan took occasion to eulogize on the life of the man, his high Christian ideals, his home and public life. Among the many handsome floral tokens were set pieces from St. John's Polish Society, of Jersey City, and the Mutual Aid Society, of the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company, both of which he was affiliated with.

Mr. Borowitz came to this city eleven years ago with the Ransome Concrete Company, when the latter removed their plant from Jersey City to this place. Burial was made in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Vincent Wisniski, John Kurrenski, Joseph Pfister, Bernostaw Sczsucki, Walter Pfister and Alec Leesosynski.

ITALIANS HANDCUFFED AND HURRIED AWAY FROM BORO

Three uniformed police officers, presumably representing the Federal authorities, visited North Plainfield yesterday afternoon, and arrested three Italians employed as laborers on the sewer trench digging work on Greenbrook road in the vicinity of West End avenue. The identity of the arrested foreigners or of the officers could not be ascertained, the automobile and its occupants being hustled away immediately. The event resembled a "kidnapping" to those who witnessed it, but the fact that the Italians gave no resistance is taken as an indication that the officers' mission was satisfactorily explained to them. Each of the Italians was handcuffed before being bundled into the waiting automobile.

In speaking with a Daily Press reporter this morning, Chief George Weiss, of the borough, said that he knew nothing of the visit of the strange trio in the automobile. Inasmuch as it would be necessary for any officer, except one employed by the Federal government, to get the endorsement of the borough authorities on a warrant to arrest such men the opinion is formed that they represented the Federal department.

REPORT OF ASSESSMENTS FILED BY COMMISSIONERS

Elias H. Bird, Charles C. Randolph and John Abbott, commissioners appointed to assess damages and benefits in the proposed plan to widen East Second street, from Watchung avenue to Church street, have filed their report with the city clerk, James T. MacMurray, and it will be presented to the Common Council on Tuesday night, July 6.

The estimated cost of this improvement is about $2,900, of which amount $1,000 is levied on the city at large and the balance on the affected property-owners. It was the opinion that the widening of this thoroughfare would be of general benefit to the city and for that reason the commissioners decided that at least $1,000 would be a fair assessment for the city to pay.

The fact that the Government is now erecting a Federal building at Watchung avenue and East Second street, had much to do with the adoption of the plans to widen the latter street, thereby providing a more attractive approach from that side to the new postoffice. The commissioners have found the majority of the property-owners quite willing to co-operate in makng an assessment that would be satisfactory to all concerned.

RELATIVE PASSED AWAY.

One of Elizabeth's oldest residents, Mrs. Fredericka Binger, widow of Henry Binger, died Wednesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Flocken, in that city. She was eighty-six years old and is a sister of Mrs. Dora Meyer, of this city, and Mrs. Owen Gorman, of Somerville.

MARTINE SAYS BRYAN MADE FATAL MISTAKE

Washington, June 24—Arriving here this morning, on his return with the Congressional party from Hawaii, United States Senator James E. Martine made a statement to the reporters in which he declared that Woodrow Wilson would be the Democratic party's choice for President in 1916 and that he would be re-elected by a large majority.

Asked to comment on the retirement of William J. Bryan from the office of Secretary of State, Martine declared that Bryan made a fatal mistake and one that he would later regret. He would say nothing further on this subject. The remainder of his interview was given over to commenting on the conditions in Hawaii and the results of the investigation conducted by his party.

VANDERHOEF NOW IN TOILS

untary witness for the State in the proceedings against Mrs. Roundey, but when the latter case came to trial Union County Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein found that the individual considered to be the most important link in the State's chain of incriminating evidence had disappeared.

Frank Vanderhoef, of this city, father of Harold, was placed on the witness stand and gave testimony to the effect that his son and the boy's mother had left a few days previously for California. Queried on cross-examination as to where the boy got the money to make the cross-continent trip the senior Vanderhoef said that he did not know, but afterwards admitted that he was certain his son had no such sum in his own name. Other evidence was produced to show that Vanderhoef had boarded a train for San Francisco and that Mrs. Roundey was the last one to bid him farewell in New York city.

The case took another new turn last evening, however, when Chief Kiely and Detective Gallatin secured information that led them to believe that Vanderhoef was in hiding in New York city. They went to the address in question and found that he had left sometime before. Further search about the premises failed to reveal the youth in hiding the New Jersey officers proceeded to the Twenty-third street Central Railroad ferry and there spied Vanderhoef conversing with his father. Quickly laying their plans Gallatin and Kiely noticed that the boy was preparing to accompany his father to the Jersey City station and decided to postpone taking him into custody until he got on Jersey soil, thereby doing away with any possibility of encountering an extradition delay.

When the ferryboat docked the two Vanderhoefs walked rapidly toward a train for Plainfield, unaware of the fact that Kiely and Gallatin were "dogging" their footsteps. The father stepped aboard the train and the son bade him good-bye. As the youthful amateur detective turned to retrace his steps to the New York ferryboat he found himself face to face with Gallatin. Kiely walked up an instant later and tapping the boy on the shoulder said:

"Come along, Harold, get aboard the train, we want to have a talk with you."

So startled at his predicament that he found himself speechless, Vanderhoef got on the train without a murmur and was lodged in the city jail shortly after midnight.

Assistant Union County Prosecutor Martin O'Connor came to Plainfield this morning, and together with Chief of Police Kiely, was closeted with Vanderhoef the entire morning and part of the afternoon. While it is alleged that Vanderhoef has consented to make a full confession of his acts to O'Connor and Kiely neither official would give out any information concerning the character of the boys' admissions. After the signed statement is completed Vanderhoef will be arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court and held under bonds to appear before the Grand Jury on perjury charges.

WAR NEWS

Petrograd, June 24.—The Russians are retiring from Lemberg in perfect order. North of the city the Grand Duke's right wing has attacked the enemey's flank, wiping out three companies, it is asserted, and checking the enemy's attempts to press eastward in the region south of Rawa Ruska. In southeastern Galicia the Russians have made 1,000 prisoners in a bayonet battle and are threatening the right flank of the Austro-Germans moving toward Volhynia.

The War Office, though admitting the evacuation of Lemberg, asserted today that the Russian garrison inflicted heavy losses on the Austrian forces in the final fight before the Calician capital. Few prisoners fell into the hands of the enemy. In their retreat Russians have surrounded and captured a number of small bodies of the Austrian vanguard.

A great battle has been begun along the River Sereth in southeastern Galicia. The Austrians are bringing up re-enforecements from the Czaernovitz region. The Russians are outnumbered, but they occupy strategic positions of great importance.

PENROD

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

"You better 'expect not.'" Didn't I tell you once you'd never get back alive if you ever tried to come up around the Third? You want me to show you how we do up there, 'bo?"

He began a slow and deadly advance, whereupon Penrod timidly offered a diversion:

"Say, Rupe, I got a box of rats in our stable under a glass cover, so you can watch 'em jump around when you hammer on the box. Come on and look at 'em."

"All right," said the fat faced boy, slightly mollified. "We'll let Dan kill 'em."

"No, sir! I'm goin' to keep 'em. They're kind of pets. I've had 'em all summer. I got names for 'em and"—

"Look here, 'bo. Did you hear me say we'll let Dan kill 'em?"

"Yes, but I won't"—

"What won't you?" Rupe became sinister immediately. "It seems to me you're gettin' pretty fresh around here."

"Well, I don't want"—

Mr. Collins once more brought into play the dreadful eye to eye scowl as practiced "up at the Third" and sometimes also by young leading men upon the stage.

Frowning quite appallingly and thrusting forward his underlip, he placed his nose almost in contact with the nose of Penrod, whose eyes naturally became crossed.

"Dan kills the rats. See?" hissed the fat faced boy, maintaining the horrible juxtaposition.

"Well, all right," said Penrod, swallowing. "I don't want 'em much." And when the pose had been relaxed he stared at his new friend for a moment, almost with reverence. Then he brightened.

"Come on, Rupe!" he cried enthusiastically, as he climbed the fence. "We'll give our dogs a little live meat—'bo!"

At the dinner table that evening Penrod surprised his family by remarking in a voice they had never heard him attempt—a lawgiving voice of international gruffness:

"Any man that's makin' a hunderd dollars a month is makin' good money."

"What?" asked Mr. Schofield, staring, for the previous conversation had concerned the illness of an infant relative in Council Bluffs.

"Any man that's makin' a hunderd dollars a month is makin' good money."

"What is he talking about!" Margaret appealed to the invisible.

"Well," said Penrod, frowning, "that's what foremen at the ladder works get."

"How in the world do you know?" asked his mother.

"Well, I know it. A hunderd dollars a month is good money, I tell you!"

"Well, what of it?" said the father, impatiently.

"Nothin'. I only said it was good money."

Mr. Schofield shook his head, dismissing the subject; and here he made a mistake; he should have followed up his son's singular contribution to the conversation.

That would have plainly revealed the fact that there was a certain Rupe Collins whose father was a foreman at the ladder works. All clews are important when a boy makes his first remark in a new key.

"'Good money?'" repeated Margaret curiously. "What is 'good' money?"

Penrod turned upon her a stern glance. "Say, wouldn't you be just as happy if you had some sense?"

"Penrod!" shouted his father. But Penrod's mother gazed with dismay at her son; he had never before spoken like that to his sister.

Mrs. Schofield might have been more dismayed than she was if she had realized that it was the beginning of an epoch. After dinner Penrod was slightly scalded in the back as a result of telling Della, the cook, that there was a wart on the middle finger of her right hand. Della thus proving poor material for his new manner to work upon, he approached Duke in the back yard, and, bending double, seized the lowly animal by the forepaws.

"I let you know my name's Penrod Schofield," hissed the boy. He protruded his underlip ferociously, scowled and thrust forward his head until his nose touched the dog's. "And you better look out when Penrod Schofield's around, or you'll get in big trouble! You understan' that, 'bo?"

The next day, and the next, the increasing change in Penrod puzzled and distressed his family, who had no idea of its source. How might they guess that hero worship takes such forms? They were vaguely conscious that a rather shabby boy, not of the neighborhood, came to "play" with Penrod several times, but they failed to connect this circumstance with the peculiar behavior of the son of the house, whose ideals (his father remarked) seemed to have suddenly become identical with those of Gyp the Blood.

CHAPTER XV.

The Imitator.

MEANWHILE, for Penrod himself, "life had taken on new meaning, new richness." He had become a fighting man—in conversation at least. "Do you want to know how I do when they try to slip up on me from behind?" he asked Della. And he enacted for her unappreciative eye a scene of fistic maneuvers wherein he held an imaginary antagonist helpless in a net of stratagems.

Frequently, when he was alone, he would outwit and pummel this same enemy, and, after a cunning feint, land a dolorous stroke full upon a face of air. "There! I guess you'll know better next time. That's the way we do up at the Third!"

Sometimes in solitary pantomime he encountered more than one opponent at a time, for numbers were apt to come upon him treacherously, especially at a little after his rising hour, when he might be caught at a disadvantage—perhaps standing on one leg to incase the other in his knickerbockers. Like lightning he would hurl the trapping garment from him, and, ducking and pivoting, deal great sweeping blows among the circle of sneaking devils. (That was how he broke the clock in his bedroom.) And while these battles were occupying his attention, it was a waste of voice to call him to breakfast, though if his mother, losing patience, came to his room, she would find him seated on the bed pulling at a stocking. "Well, ain't I coming as fast as I can?"

At the table and about the house generally he was bumptious, loud with fatuous misinformation and assumed a domineering tone, which neither satire nor reproof seemed able to reduce, but it was among his own intimates that his new superiority was most outrageous. He twisted the fingers and squeezed the necks of all the boys of the neighborhood, meeting their indignation with a hoarse and rasping laugh he had acquired after short practice in the stable, where he jeered and taunted the lawnmower, the garden scythe and the wheelbarrow quite out of countenance.

Likewise he bragged to the other boys by the hour, Rupe Collins being the chief subject of encomium—next to Penrod himself. "That's the way we do up at the Third," became staple explanation of violence, for Penrod, like Tartarin, was plastic in the hands of his own imagination, and at times convinced himself that he really was one of those dark and murderous spirits exclusively of whom "the Third" was composed—according to Rupe Collins.

Then, when Penrod had exhausted himself repeating to nausea accounts of the prowess of himself and his great friend, he would turn to two other subjects for vainglory. These were his father and Duke.

Mothers must accept the fact that between babyhood and manhood their sons do not boast of them. The boy, with boys, is a Choctaw, and either the influence or the protection of women is shameful. "Your mother won't let you," is an insult. But, "My father won't let me," is a dignified explanation and cannot be hooted. A boy is ruined among his fellows if he talks much of his mother or sisters, and he must recognize it as his duty to offer at least the appearance of persecution to all things ranked as female, such as cats and every species of fowl. But he must champion his father and his dog, and, ever ready to pit either against any challenger, must picture both as ravening for battle and absolutely unconquerable.

Penrod, of course, had always talked by the code, but, under the new stimulus, Duke was represented virtually as a cross between Bob, Son of Battle, and South American vampire, and this in spite of the fact that Duke himself often sat close by, a living lie, with the hope of peace in his heart. As for Penrod's father, that gladiator was painted as of sentiments and dimensions suitable to a superdemon composed of equal parts of Goliath, Jack Johnson and the Emperor Nero.

Even Penrod's walk was affected. He adopted a gait which was a kind of taunting swagger, and when he passed other children on the street he practiced the habit of feinting a blow; then as the victim dodged he rasped out the triumphant horse laugh which he gradually mastered to horrible perfection. He did this to Marjorie Jones. Aye, this was their next meeting, and such is Eros, young. What was even worse, in Marjorie's opinion, he went on his way without explanation and left her standing on the corner talking about it long after he was out of hearing.

Within five days from his first encounter with Rupe Collins, Penrod had become unbearable. He even almost alienated Sam Williams, who for a time submitted to finger twisting and neck squeezing and the new style of conversation, but finally declared that Penrod made him "sick." He made the statement with fervor one sultry afternoon in Mr. Schofield's stable in the presence of Herman and Verman.

"You better look out, 'bo," said Penrod threateningly. "I'll show you a little how we do up at the Third."

"Up at the Third!" Sam repeated, with scorn. "You haven't ever been up there."

"I haven't?" exclaimed Penrod. "I haven't?"

"No; you haven't."

"Looky here." Penrod, darkly argumentative, prepared to perform the eye to eye business. "When haven't I been up there?"

"You haven't never been up there." In spite of Penrod's closely approaching nose Sam maintained his ground and appealed for confirmation. "Has he, Herman?"

"I WANT TO BE A SCOUT."

In this big land, I guess there are
A million boys at least
From Portland on the western coast
To Portland in the east,
Who wish, with all their hearts and souls,
That they could wear a hat
And khaki pants and flannel shirt
And leggings and all that;
And hike and camp and do first aid,
Grow tanned and strong and tall,
And do their good turns every day,
And shinney up a wall!
You bet they want to do it! Can't
You almost hear them shout—
"Won't some one please give me a chance,
I want to be a scout!"

—(Boys' Life.)

FOURTH OF JULY.

Throughout the entire United States the Boy Scouts are making preparations to make the Fourth of July a "safe and sane" day. The predominating thought is to incorporate the scout ideal of helpfulness which makes any good time better; so, where the celebration is under the charge of municipal authorities, as in Plainfield, the scouts simply cooperate by doing "picket duty," maintaining "first aid" camp, and "lending a hand" to all. But where there is no celebration planned by the "grown-ups" the boys are doing bigger things. Last year in Burlington, N. J., a celebration was conducted during which a flag-pole was raised, dedicated, and presented to the city. In North Wales, Pa., an elaborate program of athletic events was conducted. In St. Paul, Minn., the scouts are used to "police" the children's parade and to maintain order in the big municipal celebration. Look for the khaki uniform at the Parker Field in Plainfield, where the Playground Commission will be in charge and learn how the boys "lend a hand."

COMPANIONS.

Many parents are careful about their children's companions and seek by carefully limiting their acquaintance to keep them safe. It is but for a brief time that this can be done, the child must meet children who come from homes with very different ideals of life. The only real safeguard to a child is to fix in his own heart an ideal which is so pure and true and high that the evil will repel him.

LEARNING ABOUT NATURE.

The man or woman who knows nothing of trees or plants, who has never had the pleasure of looking for the flowers as they come in their seasons, who does not know their names and habits, has lost much. There are so many books that tell about the trees and plants that no other teacher is needed. Summer is the time to study them. One summer a mother told her children to see how many different plants and trees they could find on a four-acre meadow near their summer home. When the list was made, over fifty different varieties were included. The children's eyes were accustomed to seeing things that they had carelessly passed by before, and had discovered many a plant that had blushed unseen before. The pleasure of seeing and knowing the many different flowers and trees gives the same enjoyment that one feels in meeting an old friend, as season after season one finds the flowers in their time of blossoming. Every road side, every wood and field and meadow is rich with treasure to the one who has eyes to see. Open the eyes of the children to these beauties, and so make all their lives richer.

MOTHERS AT THE GREAT EXPOSITION.

". . . A significant thing is the fact that women are receiving the same recognition as men at the Exposition. Women's activities are not relegated to some 'Women's Building,' or tacked perfunctorily to some 'women's exhibit.'" Intermingled with the best efforts of men, women's achievements are displayed and everywhere credit is invited to attend their worth. Achievement and not sex is emphasized.

Prominent in the Palace of Education is the Federal exhibit, covering chiefly the subjects of infant mortality and the care of babies. Here is conducted a continuous consultation where the perplexed mother may bring her child and be sure of intelligent and sympathetic advice. It is not a clinic. It is rather a place where the mother receives a short, comprehensive course in the care of her off-spring. The emphatic note of the whole exhibit is that of the child's demand for a square deal.

Special attention is paid to school hygiene and to the subject of defective children. Model schools, sanitation, ventilation and all the points bearing upon the matter of the child's welfare are covered exhaustively in the various exhibits in the Palace of Education.

DAINTY WASH DRESSES.

No. 8963.

A dress is never so valuable as when it combines good looks with washability. The young girl's wash dress is most practical when it depends upon its own tucking for trimming, as does Ladies' Home Journal Misses' dress No. 8963. This has a drop-shouldered blouse with the fronts eased into a slash underneath the collar, full-length sleeves with turn-back cuffs, a deep shaped girdle and a one piece straight gathered skirt with three graduated tucks, lengthened by a one piece gathered flounce with a tuck and a deep hem. The pattern cuts in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, size 18 requiring 10 yards 27-inch material with ½ yard 36-inch contrasting goods.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Fairies That Slid Down The Moonbeam.

And They Slid Down the Moonbeam.

"NOW to begin with," said daddy, "of course there really are no fairies, you know, except as we fancy them. But there are real moonbeams, and we can just picture those fairies having fun on a moonbeam, and we can make up the oddest little fairy story, Evelyn and Jack, that you ever heard.

"The moonbeam, as you know, is a shaft of golden light that streams down from the moon that rides away up in the sky, ever and ever so far. The moon, as men of science tell us, is a dead world that was once inhabited like ours, maybe, and it moves round and round the earth just as the earth travels round the sun. It gets its radiance from the reflected light of the sun, and that is what gives us the beautiful moonlit nights, don't you see.

"Now, the fairies like to enjoy their play at night. They sleep during the daytime up in the trees or maybe in the soft and velvety heart of a flower. But in the nights they come out to frolic and to play. And how the fairies do enjoy playing on moonlit nights!

"They just caper about in the soft and mellow radiance of the moon, and they dance with their tiny feet and sing with their tiny voices that sound like bells far away, and they have altogether the loveliest times.

"But I must tell you how the fairies found a new sport one moonlit night, one that none of them had ever heard of before. It remained for little Tingletop, one of the prettiest of the fairies, to discover this.

"It happened that streaming down into the glen where the fairies were having their good time was a long, shaky, shivery yellow moonbeam. It was such a lovely moonbeam! It just flowed as smoothly down into that glen as if it were sent there for a purpose, as if it had business there which it meant to do, and after a moment I think you will agree that this was the case.

"'Oh,' cried little Tingletop, 'see that lovely moonbeam! And just the right slant too! It's just the thing!'

"'What do you want to do, Tingletop?' asked the other fairies.

"'Why,' replied Tingletop, 'we can have the most fun in the world. You'll see. Let us slide down that moonbeam. It would be more fun than the human children have with banisters.'

"So they slid down that moonbeam, one after the other, just as hard as they could, and they laughed and shouted and sang in their tinkly voices.

"But all of a sudden," continued daddy solemnly, "a cloud passed over the moon, and out went the moonbeam just as those fairies were away up in the air right in the middle of it."

MANY ENTRIES FOR CRANFORD CARNIVAL

The Selection of a Queen Will Be the Feature of the Affair.

Scores of entries have already been received for the Cranford Children's Carnival, to be held at Cranford on the afternoon of Monday, July 5. All but two of the classes are open to residents of Union county, and nearby cities and towns have already entered the lists. It is now assured that there will be several hundred competitors for the twenty silver loving cups being offered as prizes. There will be thousands of visitors from New Jersey, New York and Brooklyn.

Nearly 5,000 ballots have been cast in the voting contest for Queen of the Carnival. The candidates for this honor are Cranford girls who have reached their fourteenth birthday, but have not passed their twentieth birthday. Some hundreds of ballots have been cast by school children, and the desire and aim of those in charge is to have the balloting done on such a basis that the choice will fall upon the girl who is the most popular. The contest will close at 6 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon.

Business places as well as residences will be leaborately decorated. An interesting item in the decorative scheme will be the appearance of the largest flag in the State, recently purchased by a resident of Cranford.

The program for the afternoon provides for the start of the parade at 2 o'clock, led by the Dutch Arms Band, of Plainfield. In the line, also, will be the band of the Cranford Council of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics and a bazoo band. The queen's float will be a gorgeous affair, drawn by horses in glittering panoply. There will be many floats, in addition to decorated automobiles, baby carriages, go-carts, bicycles, express wagons and parasols.

When the procession reaches Royal Park there will be patriotic exercises, followed by the awarding of the prizes by the judges, aided by the queen. The judges will be men and women living outside of Cranford. The queen will give the queen's cup to the person in the parade whom she regards as the most beautiful and most handsomely attired.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Miss Emily Stevens, the popular dramatic actress, who has a big following among local theatregoers on the legitimate stage, will make her screen debut in Plainfield today at the U. S. Astor Theatre in "Cora," a highly interesting photo-drama adapted from the play by Henry DeGress. Miss Stevens is a niece of Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske and has spent years under the tutelage of that famous actress. Already she has attained a position of high distincton on the American stage.

Briefly the story of "Cora" is: Madame Renee, a fallen operatic idol of Paris, comes to America with her daughter, Cora. Madame Renee becomes ill and dies, leaving Cora alone in the world. In the same tenement house lives Maria and her crippled sister, Louisa. Knowing of Cora's destitute circumstances, they take her to live with them. Maria is an artist's model and poses for Georges Garnier, a famous painter. Garnier, while engaged to Helen, the daughter of a socially ambitious mother, does not love her, but allows his engagement to stand. Helen, the artist's fiancee, is really in love with Carl Wilson, a young club man and ne'er-do-well. Cora, after her mother's death, strives to get employment at a musical agency, but her grief prevents her showing her true voice, and she fails. Maria then takes Cora to pose for Garnier, who falls in love with her instantly. He doubles his efforts and, with Cora as model and inspiration, accomplishes more than ever before.

"Garnier neglects Helen in favor of Cora, and Helen's mother comes to the studio to reprimand him. Cora overhears the conversation and realizes that Garnier has deceived her. Leaving him she begins life anew as understudy with an opera company. The sudden death of the prima donna gives her her chance and she becomes famous overnight. Cora returns to the tenement, takes Maria and Louise with her. Cora, in a struggle with Jose, a no-account, in protecting herself, causes the death of Jose, after which Cora, Maria and Louise lived happily together ever after."

Throughout the production, Miss Stevens has adequate opportunity to put into effect all the dramatic resource for which she is noted. Scenically, also, "Cora" is an artistic triumph.

The photo-play feature at the Astor tomorrow and Saturday will be "The Love Route."

BERKSHIRE BREEDERS IN THE STATE TO ORGANIZE

The breeders of Berkshire swine in the State of New Jersey will hold a meeting at the college farm, New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick, on Saturday at 11 a. m.

This meeting is called for the purpose of perfecting a definite organization of the Berkshire breeders in the State. No set program has been arranged, but men prominent in swine breeding work will be present and will address the meeting.

Breeders of swine in many States have organized to the betterment of their mutual interests and the value of such an organization in New Jersey is not to be overlooked.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

When Dr. Ellson, Nell and Olive left the theater, the doctor said:

"Let us go and get something to eat. What place do you suggest, Miss Dunn? I am a stranger in these parts."

"Here is a good place and it is not crowded." Olive indicated a brilliantly lighted restaurant, and they entered and found a table in a secluded corner.

"It is a good thing we got in when we did," said Olive after they had been served. "The place is filling up fast."

"I like to watch the crowd; it is so long since I was in a good restaurant." Nell was looking at the beautiful costumes in smiling enjoyment, when she started violently and her fork fell clattering to the floor. The others noticed her agitation, and when the waiter had replaced the fork and moved away, Olive said:

"What did you see?"

"Don't turn, but look in the mirror back of me. Mrs. Ellson is sitting at a table in the opposite corner; the woman alone at the table. She was looking straight at me when I happened to see her. Do you find her? The woman in black with a haggard face and dark eyes?"

"How old she looks," said the doctor, a note of compassion in his voice. "She is only twenty-seven, and she looks forty."

"The one resting her chin on her hand looking this way?" Olive was gazing into the mirror.

"That is she," replied the doctor.

"You see that maid has told her of our coming east, given her mother's address, everything. She is probably shadowing us. I can't believe it is an accident, her being here tonight. How far does her sister live from here?" Nell added, turning to the doctor.

"About one hundred and fifty miles," he replied.

When they finally rose to go, Olive looked steadily at the woman as they went out.

"I know it was rude," she said, "but I had heard so much about her. She has thrust herself so persistently into my life behind a veil that I wanted to see what she looked like."

"How I would like to know if she is following us," said Nell, looking uneasily over her shoulder.

Olive gave her arm an admonitory punch. She realized that the whole affair was inexpressibly painful to the doctor. Nell dropped the subject, but kept on the alert for any signs of the enemy.

Olive was to spend the night with Nell, and after the doctor had left them in the vestibule, Olive ran out on the steps and peered up and down the street. Nell followed to see what was afoot.

"Do you see that slender figure in black on the other side of the street? I believe it is Mrs. Ellson shadowing the doctor. Close the door and let us follow and find out where she goes."

"Shadowing a shadow," laughed Nell, hysterically. "Come on." They went up the street, keeping in sight of the figure in black. When the doctor turned into his hotel the shadowy figure stopped, looked about her, evidently to get her bearings, then passed on and turned down a side street. The girls followed nearer now, for fear of losing her at a sudden turning. She stopped at a modest lodging house, took out her pass key and let herself in. Olive wrote down the street and number; then the girls turned and hurried home.

"I'm going around there and inquire for her tomorrow, and if she's there, leave my card," said Olive.

"Why?" asked Nell, astonished.

"Just to let her know we have tracked her to her lair," laughed the girl.

Household Hints

START YOUR POT POURRI

The following is a recipe for pot pourri that will endure for years—perhaps until we ourselves are grandmothers—and inspire gentle memories in the minds of future generations:

Secure a jar with a double top and coat the inside with a mixture of five drops of oil of rose geranium and one of glycerine. Drop a layer of loose rose petals, which have been dried in the sun for twenty-four hours, into the jar and shake well.

THE TABLE

Tomato Rarebit—One tablespoon butter melted in double boiler; mix with this one tablespoon flour, into this melt one cup grated cream cheese. Let melt. Then add one can tomato soup and stir till smooth. Spread hot on crisp crackers. Can also be made with two cups strained tomatoes in place of tomato soup.

Strawberry Pie (new) — Make custard of one pint milk, yolks three eggs, half cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, salt and vanilla to taste. Cook in double boiler and let cool. Make rich pie crust, line two pie tins and bake. When cool, put into the crusts one quart of fresh hulled strawberries. Cover with custard, then make a frosting with the whites of three eggs beaten stiff and four tablespoons granulated sugar. Place frosting on top of custard and put into the oven until light brown. Place in refrigerator until thoroughly chilled and serve. This recipe makes two pies. Any other fresh fruit, such as raspberries or peaches, may be used.

Gold and Silver Cake—Cream one cup sugar, scant one-half cup butter; add whites of two eggs beaten stiff, one-half cup sweet milk, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder in one and one-half cups flour. Take out one-half of batter, put in a bowl and add two yolks beaten and one tablespoon flour. Put vanilla in white batter and leman or orange juice in yellow batter. Put in pan first one, then the other. Bake in slow oven. When cut it looks like a marble cake.

Cracker-Fruit Dessert—Put eight crackers in a deep dish, pour enough water or milk over to just cover them; when soaked, which will not take longer than ten minutes, sprinkle with sugar, cover with cream, garnish with preserved peaches, pears or quinces, and serve.

Two Good Butter Frosting Recipes (very fine on dark cakes)—One egg beaten light, one-half pound confectioners' sugar, butter size of an egg. Flavor.

SLOT SEAM POPULAR

Slot seams are seen once more on some of the season's favored models. Several years ago when they were in fashion they were so popular that almost every dress had a slot seam somewhere on it, but with the passing of tucks and plaits the slot seam went out.

On a plain suit or dress this style of seam makes something of a trimming. It is used on one of the new suits where the only trimming is collar and cuffs of plaid.

DELMONICO POTATOES

Cut into dice about one pint of cold boiled potatoes, butter a baking dish and pour over it one-half cup of cream seasoned with one teaspoon of mustard, a dash of cayenne and a little salt. Grate over the top one-fourth pound of cheese. Bake twenty to thirty minutes.

SOFT COOKIES

Beat two eggs until creamy and gradually beat in a cupful and a half of granulated sugar. Then add three tablespoonfuls of sour milk and a teaspoonful of soda. Add as little flour as is necessary to make a dough that will roll. Roll out rather thick, sprinkle with sugar, and then cut. Bake light brown.

YOUR GARDEN

One of the best preventives for the troublesome yellow striped beetles that attack the cucumber vines is just to put about three moth balls in each hill after the cucumbers are out of the ground, putting them in the ground close to the vines.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — SCOOP WANTS ALL THE LITTLE DETAILS 'TENDED TO FIRST — BY "HOP"

SAYS HUSBAND WROTE "SENTIMENTAL GUSH"

Counsel Claims That Arthur Murphy Failed to Comply With Court Order.

Jersey City, June 24.—William A. Coddington, of Plainfield, appealed to Vice Chancellor Lewis yesterday to compel Mrs. Lydia Murphy, of 732 West Eighth street, Plainfield, to allow her husband, Arthur Murphy, to see their child, Lydia, seven years old, in accordance with an order made June 14.

In reply, Halsey M. Barrett insisted that Murphy had not given his wife the twenty-four hours' notice of his intended visits in accordance with the order of the court, and he added that instead of giving his wife formal notice Murphy wrote "sentimental gush" and "sloppy letters" to his wife when he attempted to tell her he was about to call the see the girl.

Vice Chancellor Lewis told Mr. Barrett that Murphy must be allowed to see the child, but that he must give the twenty-four hours' formal notice. The court stated that it would not regulate the character of the letters a husband might write to his wife.

Mr. Coddington said he did not want Mrs. Murphy held in contempt of her failure to permit her husband to see the child, but he did want the court to impress upon her the importance of following its directions.

The Murphys were married about ten years ago. They lived together up to about two years ago, when the separation took place. Mrs. Murphy then refused to allow her husband to see the cild, and last December he carried the matter into the Court of Chancery on habeas corpus proceedings. No decision was rendered by the court until June 14, when the order giving him the right to see the child was made.

When testimony was taken in the case in December it was shown that Mrs. Murphy gave her husband $5,000 a year as pin money, that she presented him with a home valued at $10,000 and that she took him on a trip around the world. He is a lawyer in Plainfield.

IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES CONDUCTED BY CITY AND BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOLS

Simple Program Marks Graduation of Local Institution's Largest Class—Yale Cup in N. P. H. S. Awarded to Ralph Smalley—Dr. Eaton the Speaker at P. H. S.—Both Followed by Receptions Tendered by Alumni Associations.

Setting a precedent in number that will go down in Plainfield High School history, the 1915 class, including exactly one hundred pupils, was graduated with a simple, though impressive, commencement program in the institution's auditorium, last night. Marking the forty-fifth anniversary of the graduation of Plainfield High School classes, the event last night was without a doubt the most inspiring ever conducted, more than one thousand relatives and friends of the graduates gathering in the spacious school assembly hall to view the largest class that ever graced a Plainfield High School graduation rostrum. The exercises were opened with a short invocation offered by the Rev. Birney S. Hudson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The address of the evening was made by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York city. The fact that Dr. Eaton had more than a professional speaker's interest in the 1915 class, his daughter being one of those receiving diplomas, made him a particularly well fitted individual to address the assemblage and his remarks were pointed and eloquent. He impressed upon the graduates the serious side of their commencement day, bringing out graphically the trials and tribulations in store for them in buffeting the twentieth century business world. He drew a lesson from the present turmoil on European soil and declared that the demand for new life to rebuild the ruins would be sounded broadcast at the conclusion of the war. Dr. Eaton dwelt at length on what is expected of the class in question and urged them to fulfill their various assignments conscientiously.

H. G. Davis, the valedictorian of the class, delivered the following address:

"It is a warm afternoon in September, just after school has closed for the day. In the curious crowd clustered about the boys' bulletin board stands the freshman, eagerly devouring a large, flaring poster which calls for recruits for the annual minstrel show. This call is not one of the disappointing kind including only upper classmen, but everyone! Here is a chance to appear before the public in a dazzling entertainment, and yet with strong enough support from fellow chorus-members to conceal any possible artistic weakness on the part of the individual. Consequently, the freshman, with a score or so of his fellows, enrolls at the first rehearsal. How all-wise in knowing the demands of the amusement-seeking public the coach appears! And the end men, who have had experience in 'other shows,' seem to him to have reached the acme of artistic fame. He takes home the typewritten sheet of popular song lyrics to memorize before the next rehearsal, and announces with pardonable pride at the family supper table that he is to appear in the minstrel show.

"'Humph!' says the father, 'don't let it interfere with your lessons!'

"Lessons! Why—suddenly it occurs to him that he has a Latin text on the next day, and three other lessons to prepare. When is he going to learn those songs? And, unknown to him, the first skirmish between the ogre Outside Interests and Study has begun. Right here is where the inevitable personal element enters. Does he consider the songs or the lessons of major importance? If he does the lessons first, and then turns to the songs for a few drowsy moments before going to bed, he is on the right track,, but if he reverses this, he needs some steering. Of what value is this experience, do you ask? Well, it is one of his first opportunities of deciding for himself the relative value of work and play, and of seeing them in the right proportion.

"We have now seen how the ogre Outside Interests makes his first appearance to the High School student. What are some of his other forms? Outside interests may be grouped under three heads, athletic, journalistic and dramatic. My references to athletics must be made largely from observation, but in discussing the second and third kinds of interests I can rely upon a rather varied experience.

"No one will doubt that athletics benefit the students in a physical way. When one considers the high standard of scholarship required for participation in any form of school sport, and the high ideals of clean playing which have always been, and always will be, the pride of our school, who can deny the mental and Witnessed by a large and appreciative audience, the graduation exercises of the North Plainfield High School took place in the Plainfield Theatre last night. The graduating class numbered thirty-three, and was referred to by Dr. Justus H. Cooley, president of the Board of Education, as having attained a high record both as to numbers and in scholarship, being a much larger class than the class of 1914, and five of the members having an average exceeding 91% for a period of four years.

The exercises began promptly at 8:15 o'clock, and when the curtain rose on the stage the entire class and the members of the Board of Education were disclosed seated in orderly array behind a foreground of palms and potted plants. The young women, in white, made a pretty picture against the background of the sober garb of the youths, while the members of the Board occupied seats on the eastern end of the stage.

Opening with an overture, "Black Queen," the invocation, by the Rev. Charles H. Kues, of Holy Cross church, followed. Then came the first selection by the school glee club, "Two Grenadiers," a chorus. Miss Jessie Utter, instructor of music in the school, held the baton and exhibited splendid control over the singers.

The salutatory address by Miss Viola Hauser came next on the program. She spoke on "Stenography and Typewriting," and her clear voice was heard without difficulty in all parts of the theatre. Hers was a prosaic topic, but one which she presented in an interesting manner. Her statement that the North Plainfield High School class in stenography had made a record of 125 words a minute on familiar matter and 90 words a minute on unfamiliar matter was a source of gratification to the school. She said:

"In behalf of the class of 1915 I extend a hearty welcome to our parents, friends and members of the Board of Education. During these past four years we have looked forward to this night and trust it will afford you the pleasure it gives us.

"I shall endeavor to give you something from the history of one of our studies, my subject being, 'Shorthand and Typewriting.'

"It is impossible to ascertain just who invented stenography, or the swift mode of writing by signs, as it has been assigned by various authors to different persons. Cicero's system is, however, the only one that has come down to us. The world has been deprived of the benefit that might have been expected from the labors of the ancient stenographers as the use of paper or parchment at the first period of the art was either totally unknown or confined to a few individuals of studious habits or extensive wealth. Historical records, as well as mercantile memoranda, were too frequently committed to no more permanent security than a tablet covered with a layer of wax and written upon with an iron style. After one speech had been taken down and transcribed, the wax was rubbed smooth so as to be ready for the transcription of another. That is why of all the splendid speeches that flowed from the lips of Roman orators, only one has been transmitted to us through the medium of shorthand, although others have descended to us through the doubtful and suspicious intervention of later and sometimes fanciful historians.

"The forms of the stenographic letters seem to have been derived from the ordinary Roman and Grecian ones to which several bear a rude resemblance. The inscriptions of the Romans probably suggested the introduction of similar abbreviations into the Saxon and English languages. In process of time these abbreviations were, on the continent, formed into an imperfect system of stenography. The remains of French stenography would have been still more numerous had not the early practitioners of the art been suspected of witchcraft and sorcery.

"From the introduction of the first system of stenography to the English public by Timothy Bright in 1588 to the end of the seventeenth century the principles of the Protestant Reformation were extensively taught in this country from the pulpit. A desire to preserve for future reading the discourses delivered by the principal preachers of that day apparently led to the cultivation of the newly discovered art of shorthand writing. The progress of the art may therefore, be looked upon as resulting from the dawn of religious freedom.

"Taylor's system of shorthand was more extensively used than any other, both for parliamentary and pri-

N. P. H. S. YALE CUP TO RALPH SMALLEY

Popular Member of the Graduating Class Honored at Exercises.

Ralph Smalley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley, of Greenbrook road, and one of the most popular members of the North Plainfield High School graduating class, was awarded the Yale cup for all-around efficiency at the commencement exercises in the Plainfield Theatre last night. The award was an unusually popular one, and the bestowing of the honor on Smalley was followed by an enthusiastic round of applause.

Recognized as one of the most efficient members of the class in studies and cherishing a commendable athletic record, Smalley well deserves the honor. For two years he has successfully captained the school's baseball team, and combined his playing qualities with his ability as a leader to make his regime a notable one. Smalley will enter Cornell University in the fall, and more will probably be heard from him on the baseball field in collegiate circles.

TREE FELL ON WOOD CUTTER FRACTURING HIS LEFT LEG

While engaged in felling trees in the woods on Putnam avenue, near Hillside, this morning, Max Yulit, of 36 Henry street, New York city, met with a painful accident, which necessitated his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital in the ambulance. Yulit, who is a wood cutter, had just about finished cutting down a large trunk, hen a sudden gust of wind caused the heavy tree to fall in his direction. He made frantic efforts to get out of danger's path, but the trunk struck him a glancing blow on the left side, breaking his leg and severely bruising his body.

At the hospital this afternoon it was said that the exact extent of his injuries were not known at the present time, but while painful they are not thought to be of a critical nature.

SENIOR CLASS INTRODUCED INTO THE RANKS OF ALUMNI

Following th commencement exercises held in the Plainfield High School Auditorium last night the members of the graduating class were entertained by the Alumni Association at a reception and dance. The event marked the formal acceptance of the seniors as members of the association, and was featured by an enjoyable and pleasant evening of entertinment.

Dancing was the principal feature of the evening, music being furnished by an orchestra from Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New YoYrk city. Members of the Alumni acted as a reception committee, and during the commencement exercises served as ushers. During dancing intermissions refreshments were served.

PLAN TO WIDEN SOMERSET STREET

Petitions to Be Circulated at Once to Improve That Thoroughfare.

WOULD HELP TRAFFIC

The Erection of New Building on Glockler Corner Agitated Proposition Which was Abandoned in 1913—Many Persons in Favor.

After an agitation covering the past twelve years, owners of property on Somerset street, between Front street and the bridge over Green Brook, are now planning to circulate a petition requesting the widening of that thoroughfare between these two points to the extent of ten feet, five feet on each side. Up to the present time the Common Council has been unable to see its way clear to make this much-needed improvement, despite numerous petitions and hearings on the question, either through a reluctance to add to the public expense, or because of a lack of foresight to see the great benefits to be derived from passing the necessary ordinance. One of the parties interested in the movement expects on Monday to pass one petition among the property holders, and another one a little later among the business men of the city, and have them presented to the City Council at the July meeting.

In discussing the matter with a Daily Press reporter yesterday, the party referred to above stated that the improvements could be made at this time at the least possible expense to the city, as the building now occupying the west corner would be demolished in a short time to make room for a more modern structure, thus making it possible for the city only to meet the damages at this point for land values. He also pointed out that in regard to the other corner, the only building for which damages would have to be paid by the city woald be for the frame structure over an areaway, and at present occupied by a bootblack stand.

Conditions as they now exist on this corner, owing to it being a terminal for both the Netherwood and Fourth street trolley lines, make this improvement almost imperative, traffic becoming congested here every fifteen minutes. Somerset street was widened in the borough years ago, as it was realized that the thoroughfare was the most important artery to the business section of Plainfield from the north.

The question of widening Somerset street was last taken up in 1913, when the ordinance lacked one vote of being passed, one Councilman at that time expressing himself as being favorable, but asking the privilege of being excused for personal reasons, from voting on the question. Many local business men, as well as taxpayers, have expressed themselves as feeling kindly toward the proposition, a petition containing the names of the majority of property owners of that section, as well as another containing eighty-six business and professional names being presented to the Council the last time the matter was taken up by that body.

The matter of widening Somerset street, between Front street and the brook was brought up twelve years ago by Elston M. French, when a map of the improvements was filed with the city clerk. Petitions and hearings have been events of local history since that time, but no definite action was ever taken by the City Fathers in regard to the matter.

Real estate men in this city agree on the likelihood of Somerset street building up considerably should the improvement be made, as well as relieving the congested traffic conditions, which have existed for several months past. They are also of the opinion that the establishment of a new building line would add much to the attractiveness and the appearance of the street.

DIAMOND WAS HER GRADUATION PRESENT

Commencement Day a Doubly Important Epoch in Miss Nora Meaney's Life.

Classmates of Miss Nora Meaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Meaney, of 221 Watchung avenue, the borough, were given a surprise yesterday, when the young woman in question, who was graduated with the class of 1915 from the North Plainfield High School, came to school with a diamond ring on her finger. Gossips were at once busy and investigations brought the fact to light that Miss Meaney had received the ring both as a graduation and engagement token. The parents of the young woman have today formally announced the engegament of their daughter to James P. Lynch, son of Mrs. Catherine Lynch, of West Fourth street, this city.

Miss Meaney, who is one of the most popular girls in the senior class of the borough institution, was a member of the city High School prior to her removal to the borough and is well known throughout both municipalities. During her school course she was prominent in various social and athletic activities of the younger set in the borough. Since the event became known, Miss Meaney has been the recipient of scores of double congratulatory messages from friends and schoolmates. Mr. Lynch is also well known throughout the city and borough, and holds a responsible position with the Central Railroad. No date for the weding has been given.

REV. DR. GARDINER WILL TELL OF WESTERN TRIP

Rev. Dr Theodore L. Gardiner will speak this evening in the Seventh-Day Baptist church concerning his recent trip to the Middle West, visiting the commencement exercises of the new edifice of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at North Loup, Neb. A former pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in Plainfield, Rev. George B. Shaw, is now the pastor of the North Loup church, and Dr. Gardiner came to the editorship of the Sabbath Recorder here in Plainfield eight years ago from the pastorate of the North Loup church.

He preached the dedicatory sermon of the new church, and at Milton delivered the annual sermon before the Christian Associations of the College. At Milton Junction he visited his brother-in-law, Rev. Henry N. Jordan, recently pastor at New Market, New Jersey, and preached in his church.

LOSING TEAM GIVES A SOCIAL TO THE WINNERS

The losing side of the membership contest of the W. C. T. U., which was just completed, tendered the winning side of the organization a delightful porch social yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. George Staats, on Netherwood avenue. Twenty-five members and ten new members attended the affair. Mrs. E. Teel, captain of the losing committee, with her corps of assistants, proved a most efficient hostess to her guests. Mrs. Frederick Conlin was captain of the winning team and both she and her helps were showered with congratulations throughout the afternoon.

Musical selections and vocal solos were beautifully rendered by Mrs. E. Young and Mrs. David Patterson, while Mrs. Feel and her committee entertained with charades and games. Refreshments were served.

CELEBRATION FUND GETS ANOTHER BOOST

E. T. Barrows, A. E. Hoagland, "Unknown" and J. W. Gavett Contribute $5.

Another boost was given the Independence Day celebration fund today, when Elliot T. Barrows, J. W. Gavett and A. E. Hoagland each gave $5, and another $5 was received from an "unknown" person. This brings the total up to $131. The sum of $169 is still needed to make a success of the celebration, and the committee is anxious that this amount be contributed as quickly as possible so that the arrangements can be completed. If those interested would contribute just a little to the fund it would take but a short time to secure the amount required. It is proposed to have a band concert in the afternoon and a concert in the evening with a fine display of fireworks. The fund to date is as follows:

VANDERHOEF HELD UNDER BAIL AS A STATE WITNESS

After being closeted in Chief Kiely's office in the local police headquarters, with Assistant Union County Prosecutor Martin O'Connor and the department head for six hours yesterday, Harold Vanderhoef, the twenty-two year old amateur-detective who has figured so prominently in the charges brought by and filed against Mrs. Florence E. Roundey, formerly of this city, was formally arraigned before City Judge William G. DeMeza and held in bonds of $1,000 as a material witness for the State in certain litigation now pending. In default of the necessary bail he was committed to the Union county jail at Elizabeth but it is understood that relatives are making efforts to get the necessary $1,000 and hope to secure his release before nightfall.

During the session in Chief Kiely's office Vanderhoef made a lengthy statement concerning his movements since October, 1914, but all information regarding the admissions in his confession was refused for publicity this morning.

FAIL TO SHATTER RUSSIAN FORCES

Austro-German Victory at Lemberg is Said to Be a Barren One.

REPORT HEAVY LOSSES

Italy Concentrating for a Great Drive on Austrian Capital—Germany Preparing to Envelop Russians Now in Retreat from Galicia.

London, June 25.—Failure of the Austro-German forces to shatter the Russian army has made their victory at Lemberg a barren one. With the Russians falling back on positions of great strength and more than holding their own on the Dniester front, military experts declare the Teutonic allies cannot yet divert troops to drive at Warsaw from some other portion of the front or send them to the western front.

The forces which have been driving the Russians back in Galicia must remain in that region to prevent the Russians executing one of their great counter strokes such as has followed previous retirements before the enemy's greater strength. On the Dniester, at three points, the Russians inflicted severe defeats, accompanied by heavy Austro-German losses, upon the enemy. In the Kozany region the German loss is described as enormous. Here they had crossed to the left bank, but the Russians fell upon them and drove a large part of the force into the river, where, with a remnant still holding on to the left bank, the others sought refuge on islands in the stream.

Strong Austrian forces which crossed the Dniester near Martyovo and Rousedviahy have been driven back, while on Mount Dezymaianna, in the Kosmierjine region, the strongly occupied Austro-German works there were carried by storm.

On the western front the cannonading continues in to the sector of Angres-Ecurie, but no infantry actions are reported in the region north of Arras, where the French have consolidated all their gains. In the Vosges slight French gains are recorded.

Austria, repulsed with heavy losses in its most determined and best arranged attacks and driven back from positions which were considered invulnerable, is beginning to realize more than ever, reports from the front today state, that Italy is rapidly getting in positions from which she soon will be able to make drives toward the Austrian capital.

Not only has the Austrian campaign against the Italians been a failure to date, but the recent action, taken after Emperor Francis Joseph had expressed his displeasure over conditions, of hurrying great bodies of reinforcements to the scene for an aggressive policy, has been a failure.

Nowhere have the Austrians been able to beat back the Italians, while at several points, especially Friekofel, where the reinforcements, with fresh supplies of ammunition and new guns, attacked, the Italians managed to hold their ground against desperate assaults and to inflict heavy losses. At Friekofel the Austrians left more than two hundred dead when they retreated under a terrific fire.

A concentrated drive by the great German armies, contemplating the envelopment of the Russian forces now in retreat from Galicia, is indicated in a dispatch from Petrograd to the Morning Post. The dispatch says the Russians are being assailed from the north in the Baltic provinces and from the Galician frontier by the armies of Marshal von Mackensen, General von Linsingen and the Archduke Frederick.

"The Germans have been moving ever stronger reinforcements into the Baltic provinces," says the correspondent. "Beginning with a cavalry raid early in May by all the Bavarian cavalry divisions, supported by regiments of the Prussian Guards, all brought over especially from the French front, the Baltic operations have grown into a formidable enterprise "There are no fewer than fourteen army corps, or more than 500,000 men, operating in this region. It was originally assumed to be merely an attempt to cut the Russian northern lines of communication and keep them interrupted for the period necessary to deliver another blow toward Warsaw, but this movement has grown until it seems to threaten a much more serious purpose.

"It has apparently been strongly co-ordinated with the forward movements in Galicia, and altogether looks very much as if the Germans were de-

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

A. F. Todd, representing Dunellen, and J. J. Nelson, representing New Market, have been elected as vice-presidents for their respective districts of the Middlesex county organization of the Anti-Saloon League.

The following new books may be had at the Free Public Library: "The Honey Bee," by S. Merwin; "Jaffery," by W. J. Locke; "The Harbor," by Poole, and "The Seven Darlings," by Gouverneur Morris.

The Misses Margaret and Jennie Ryan left yesterday for New London, Conn., where they will pay a short visit to Mr. and Mrs. G. Elston Lowrie. Today they are attending the Harvard-Yale boat race on the Thames.

Work on the excavation of the basement of the new St. John's Catholic church, an edifice which is to cost $30,000, was started yesterday. This part of the work is being cared for by the male members of the parish in order to save the expense for the church, at the same time showing an evidence of their keen interest in the work as being carried on by the church. The building, when completed, will be considerably larger than the present place of worship, which has some time since been outgrown by the congregation. Plans are now under way for appropriate exercises to be held in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the building. The rectory has already been moved around from Washington avenue to First street.

Borough Tax Collector Isaac J. Stites is at present payng special attention to delinquent taxpayers, among whom are a number of citizens who as yet have failed to step up with their poll tax of $1. Collector Stites states that he will give these people until July 1 to pay their obligations to the borough, after which time he will take the necessary steps to bring the delinquents up to date. Unless citizens desire a deputy call upon them at their homes, they might visit the tax gatherer's office on North avenue.

The storm water drains on both Madison avenue and Front street are now practically completed, the finishing touches to be put on the first of next week. The H. K. Corbin Company are the contractors.

Three boys bearing the name of Brodak, and claiming residence at Equator Park, this borough, were picked up by the police early in the week at Newark. The youngsters, who had been struck with an attack of the wanderlust, made the trip to the metropolis of the State with getting "jobs" in view, and were subsequently picked up by the minions of the law. The boys, who have given the borough police some trouble heretofore, have been away from home for the past three weeks, this being the second time in a very short time that they have taken French leave of their homes. They are being held by the Newark officials pending a decision of the parents as to whether the return of the wanderers is really desired.

Mr. and Mrs. Gulick, of Raritan, have been spending a few days as guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers, of Prospect avenue.

Charles P. Lake, of Yonkers, N. Y., is spending the latter portion of his vacation visiting friends in the borough.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold a home-made cake and pie sale in the Baracca rooms of the church tomorrow afternoon, from 3:30 to 5 o'clock. The Christian Endeavor Society is to hold a lawn fete on the church lawns this evening. The proceeds of both events will be used for church work.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Percy Vail and daughter, Virginia, of New Market, have returned home after a week's visit with friends at Spring Lake.

The repairs to Friendship Hall, New Market, have been completed, a new metal ceiling being among the improvements.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Relatives and friends of the three young women witnessed the graduation exercises of the class of 1915 at the Plainfield High School last night, when Miss Ruth Dunn, Miss Marguerite Jahn and Miss Lillian Schlief received diplomas as three of the members of the largest class that ever left that institution. Miss Dunn will probably enter college in the fall. Miss Jahn will train to be a nurse, while Miss Schlief expects to enter business. It is the first time since local students have gone to that High School that this place has not been represented by at least one boy in the graduating class.

Miss Viola Garder, of North avenue, who was graduated from the Montclair Normal School last January, will enter upon her duties next fall as assistant principal, at the Washington School in Plainfield.

Reports from Muhlenberg Hospital state that John Meggy, of North avenue, is recovering from an operation performed on Monday for appendicitis, and will be able to be taken to his home within a week.

A large attendance marked the annual "cherry pie social" of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church, held at the home of Mrs. George Kyte, on Martine avenue, yesterday afternoon. A busy afternoon of sewing was a fitting prelude to a luncheon with home-made pie predominating.

At the last meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders it was decided to comply with the request of H. C. Lockwood, the local realty promoter, regarding the lowering of the culvert recently built by the county on Russell road. Residents of that section of the borough have been considerably troubled the past spring by drainage conditions, and it is with a view of eliminating these that Mr. Lockwood filed his request with the Board. The matter concerning drainage conditions in the western end of the borough was again brought up and finally disposed of by the instructing of the clerk to mail a copy of the committee's findings in the case to the borough clerk, so that he, in turn, could inform the affected property owners. In the opinion of the county attorney they will have to seek redress from the Plainfield parties responsible for the existing conditions through civil suit.

A recent realty transfer reported in the borough and recorded at Elizabeth is that of George C. Otto of a lot on Terrill road to the trustees of the Baptist Memorial Fund.

Miss Maud Clyde has returned to her home in Brooklyn after visiting Miss Theresa Lewis, of Montague avenue.

MRS. McCANN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Laura A. McCann, who died yesterday in Muhlenberg Hospital, after a brief illness, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Mortuary Parlors of C. A. & J. J. Higgins, on West Fourth street. The service will be private and burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

YALE'S SECOND CREW WINS FIRST RACE; VARSITY CONFIDENT

New London, Conn., June 25.—After the Yale second crew had defeated the Harvard University second eight by a quarter of a length in the opening feature on the Thames this morning, the officials announced that the Freshman fixture would be postponed until after the 'varsity races scheduled for this afternoon. The second crews raced through rough water and the contest was nip and tuck from start to finish. A spurt by the Eli oarsmen carried their shell to the fore in the last few yards of the four-mile course and when the railroad bridge at the finish was reached the blue boat's nose stuck out a quarter of length to the good.

The Freshmen crews lined up at the starting mark promptly at 10:45 o'clock, but considerable time was consumed in getting the shells in place. The increasing roughness of the water resulted in a conference between officials and it was decided to call the race off.

The 'varsity crews of Yale and Harvard are ready to row their forty-ninth dual regatta on the Thames River late this afternoon. Sixteen stalwart and steel muscled athletes are in the "pink" for the gruelling four-mile race for supremacy. And never before has interest been greater than it is this day. This is saying a great deal, as those who have witnessed the rowing of some of these races in the past will attest; in fact, it means that the last word in interest has been reached. There may be something greater in the blank beyond, but the span of human ken cannot appreciate or estimate it.

Once every year New London bids successfully for the favor of sportdom. Once every year the glare of the spotlight is focused on this thriving New England city. And today, New London fairly scintillates. It is ablaze with color and life—even more life than this epoch making event, the annual race between the 'varsity crews of those ancient rivals, Harvard and Yale, has been wont to make.

It is practically impossible to estimate how many thousand persons have besieged the city to witness the rowing race late this afternoon, but it seems as if the army of partisans includes every one who has ever experienced the thrill of watching nerves agog and muscles tense, two paperweight shells being propelled through the water by deep chester, broad shouldered athletic giants, and many who had determined to experience that thrill for the first time.

A Galley o' Fun!

ON BARGAIN DAY.

Clothing Salesman.—Well, sir, what an we do for you?

Mr. Mainchance.—I want my $7 hange!

Salesman.—Why, we don't owe you nything!

Mr. Mainchance.—Yer don't, eh? Iain't you advertisin' your late $15 uits now for $8? Wa-al, this 'ere is ne I bought three weeks ago! Whack p yer change!

THE LOST OPPOORTUNITY.

Patrick, Jr.—The book says the irst flag we ever had was made from petticoat.

Patrick, Sr.—Faith, what a pity it was thot the lady wasn't wearing a rane wan.

TOO SUDDEN.

The Slave has just been granted a month's vacation from the office; his wife is on a visit to her mother; the canary is dead; and now he doesn't know what to do with his freedom.

THE WAY TO WIN.

Bronson.—What's the best way to make love to a girl?

Dawson.—The worst way possible. Then she'll think you mean it.

THEN AND NOW.

A playful thing is Phyllis' hair!
In youth, as I remember now,
The gentle mountain breezes fair
Toss'd raven curls about her brow.

I saw dear Phyllis leave her flat
And walk the busy city street.
The playful wind which filched her hat
Toss'd curls of gold about her feet!

HABIT.

Friend.—I hear you have some new babies at your house.

Campaign Manager.—Yes. I gave it out to the newspapers that we claim seventeen, though, confidentially it is only two.

WIDE AWAKE.

Sammy Mammasboy. — Going to move in May, Tommy?

Tommy Tufnut.—Yep.

Sammy Mammasboy.—Why, how did you know?

Tommy Tufnut. — Ah! how'd I know? Didn't m' mother lemme break a cellar winder t' other day an' didn't say nartin? How'd I know? A-a-ah, you!

THE EXPLANATION.

"Ladies and Gentlemen," began the manager of the "Hortense, the Hounded Heiress Co.," sticking his head through the slit in the curtain, "we must ask your indulgence for a short time. One of the stage hands just inadvertently joggled the ashes from the villain's cigarette and unless someone in the audience can help us out the play will be delayed. The villain, however, has lighted another one, and by puffing steadily will very shortly have made sufficient progress with it to enable him to 'flick' the ashes in the debonair style which has won him unstinted applause throughout the whole circuit."

REAL REASON.

Friend.—I suppose the Bank Examiner comes around to find out what's on hand?

Banker (grimly)—No, more often to find out what's on foot!

THE CIRCULAR LETTER.

The circular letter seems to be designed to pay the annual postal deficit by encouraging those whose mail would otherwise be slight, and to fatten the waste-paper basket.

It is called the "follow-up" letter meaning that it quickly follows the envelope into oblivion.

Everybody gets circular letters, and people have been known to read them while snowed in during a hard winter or waiting for trains. There is a business house in Chicago claiming to have sold a $13.98 wood stove on a circular-letter campaign which cost $4,000 besides clerk hire; but this fact cannot be proven, as the customer might have read a magazine advertisement referring to the same stove.

A circular letter is supposed to look like an original letter, but it doesn't fool a blind man, even if it is signed in purple ink with a fountain pen. If it wasn't for circulars and catalogues the man who now makes a living by collecting them would have to go to work.

"Want ad publicity" puts your search for employment on a business basis.

MRS. LAURA JONES TO SHARE IN MOTHER'S ESTATE

New York, June 25.—The will of Martha McEeachren, mother of Laura Jones, of 1,105 West Fifth street, Plainfield, was filed today for probate in the office of the Surrogate's Court. The value of the estate is about $700. After leaving a couch, sewing machine, and one-third of the residue to Florence Chambers, a daughter, of New York, and $10 to George, a son, also of New York, the rest of the estate in equal shares goes to Mrs. Jones, of Plainfield, and Gertrude Looker, andother daughter, who resides with her sister, Florence.

The will was executed June 13, 1912, and fails to name any executor. It was filed by Mrs. Chambers. Mrs. McEachren died on May 13 last.

ASSEMBLYMAN RUNYON TO SEEK A RE-NOMINATION

Assemblyman William N. Runyon, as previously understood, announced this week that he would be a candidate to succeed himself at next fall's primaries. He also stated that his colleagues, Assemblyman Charles L. Morgan and Arthur N. Pierson would seek a renomination. It seems to be the general opinion that the Union county trio in the Assembly has more than made good and that they will have little difficulty in continuing to serve their party in the lower branch of the Legislature.

As for Assemblyman Runyon, he has devoted a great deal of time to State matters during the past year, and has been particularly interested in progressive legislation. His friends are proud of his record thus far.

NEW JERSEY'S GROWTH.

It will be perhaps several weeks after the census enumerators have finished their work before their returns are compiled and the total population of the State is announced. To approximate the figures at this time is mere guesswork, as the Camden Post-Telegram says, yet a basis for the guess is afforded by the rate of increase in former years as shown in official figures. This ratio indicates between 2,900,000 and 3,000,000 people in the State at the present time.

It may not be generally known that New Jersey gains population more rapidly than any of the Eastern States with one or two exceptions, and is the third most densely populated State in the Union. Good roads and convenient facilities for commuting with the two great cities just across the border at each end of the State have had a great deal to do with the steady growth of population.

New Jersey has many advantages as a residential State, not the least of these being climatic. It presents the attractions of both seashore and mountains, its streams and lakes and pine forests invite nature lovers while a short run on its superb railway lines brings one to a metropolis with all the advantages of the highest type of civilization.

New Jersey is popularly known as the "Garden State," and is indeed a garden spot to those fortunate enough to have located their homes anywhere outside the built-up sections of its larger cities. These cities being given up mostly to manufacturing necessarily reflect some of the smoke and grime of the factories. Growth in industry brings increased population. It is New Jersey's boast that her exceptional transportation facilities afford a wider residential area to the workers than most of the great industrial centres can command.

New Jersey's growth is healthful, the product of no "boom," and likely to continue under conditions that make the State so attractive to the great number whose business or other interests require a residence within a short distance of Philadelphia and New York.

WOMEN IN POLITICS.

The opponents of votes for women who urge that women have no interests at stake in politics, that the home is a hermetically sealed chamber through the walls of which nothing can reach mother, wife or sister, should read the list of bills concerning women which have been acted upon by the State Legislatures of our country in the past year.

Suffrage is, of course, the measure of woman's political activity. Twenty-two State Legislatures considered the question. Half of them defeated the measure, many by close votes. Seven referred constitutional amendments to the voters for decision this fall or next. The remainder are still considering.

But importance of politics to women is much more sharply demonstrated by other measures considered and enacted. Twenty-eight States took up bills vitally affecting women in questions of marriage, divorce, work and maternity. Besides a large batch of bills to reduce hours of labor and adjust wages; besides matters such as the creation of women police in New Jersey and the tardy admission of insanity as a basis for divorce in Connecticut, eighteen States took up the very important subject of mothers' pensions, as the Philadelphia Public Ledger points out. Eight acted favorably for the first time; two adversely while the remainder amplified existing legislation.

These are hard times for the talkmen in Plainfield. The little trick of dodging low-hanging awnings is frequently called into use. Apparently the matter has never been given serious thought in this city, but it would seem that under the ordinance preventing obstructions to sidewalks these nuisances could be removed. In Trenton fifteen storekeepers who had low-hanging awnings were brought before the police judge and fined $5 each, with a warning that $25 would be the amount if again there on a similar charge. The local authorities should take a look around, and order a cessation of the nuisance with threat of prosecution in case the awnings are not raised.

As was announced last night, we will print on Saturday, instead of the regular contributed editorial, the essay which won the Daily Press prize for the best article on a local topic, written by a member of the graduating class of the Plainfield High School. The prize was won by Ida Sachar, her subject being "Plainfield Milk Supply and Inspection."

That new auto fire engine is certainly Nott much of an engine for Plainfield. It should have been in use many months ago, and about the only use the city has had of it has been to help fill up the Netherwood firehouse.

When the boss is away goodness knows what may happen. The editor has gone for a week. Those bringing libel suits will please form a line on the left of North avenue a week from Monday next.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I was amazed to read in your issue of the 22d inst., in an editorial under the caption, "Future Navies," the following statements, viz.: "The greatest navy in the world, England's, is almost as useless as if it did not exist," and again, "For England and Germany both have magnificent navies and cannot use them."

I am unable to see how these statements can be reconciled with the following well-known facts as to what the British navy has already done and is still doing in the present war.

The British navy has cleared the seas of enemy cruisers and battle cruisers.

It has bottled up and kept bottled up the enemy's main fleet by a close blockade, involving ceaseless vigilance by day and by night for almost a year, the strain of which is absolutely beyond the realization of the average landsman.

It has convoyed fleets of transports carrying hundreds of thousands of troops from India, Australia, New Zealand and Canada without the loss of a ship or a life.

It has safely convoyed across the English Channel probably not less than 500 transports since the war began with troops, munitions and supplies of all kinds worth hundreds of millions of dollars, to say nothing of at least 1,000,000 men, without the loss of a single ship.

By rendering useless the enemy's fleet, it has protected the coasts of France and Great Britain from attack and possible invasion.

It is due to the control of the seas by the British navy that not less than 77 German and Austrian vessels are detained in the ports of the United States alone.

To bring the point a little nearer home, the exports to Europe from the Port of New York alone during the month of May last exceeded those of the corresponding month of last year by over $190,000,000, made up largely of munitions and war material, and if the British navy had not been in control of the seas, such a condition could not have existed.

The above are just a few of the most obvious things that the British navy has done, and is continuing to do, and while this work may not be spectacular, it is none the less of incalculable value and does not appear to be appropriately described by the term "useless."

termined to execute their plan of war against Russia which was laid down years ago. Half this plan was entrusted to Austria eleven months ago and Austria failed very badly.

"Germany may now be undertaking to execute her own plan herself. It necessitates a successful drive east from East Prussia, and at the same time northward from Galicia, the former armies then turning southward to meet those from the Galician front behind the line of the Vistula.

"This would amount to a serious invasion of Russia, although no vital points would be reached even by the successful execution of this vast plan."

Rome, June 25.—Fort Hensel, one of the principal works of the Austrian fortress of Malborghetto, has been destroyed by Italian shell fire, General Cadorne reported today.

He also announced the capture of the Austrian town of Giorna, north of Plava.

Two hundred thousand Austrian troops are concentrated around Trieste, according to the Giornale d'Italia, which cited refugees arriving at Ancona as its authority.

"Many gun batteries command the approaches to the city," the newspaper asserted. "From the outskirts of Trieste the boom of Italian guns around Monfalcone may be heard.

"An Italian dirigible recently bombarded and seriously damaged the ammunition factory at Trieste."

"In the Monte Nero zone we have made further progress northward on the eastern slopes of Jarozceh," reported General Cadorna. "Our artillery has begun bombarding Conca Plezzo.

"Along the entire Tyrol-Trentino front our long range bombardment continues with some success. Combats around Carzano, toward the plateau of Vezzena have resulted favorable to us.

"Along the Carnia frontier an intense artillery duel is in progress, especially at Malborghetto, where our guns have destroyed the cupola of Fort Hensel."

Paris, June 25.—Marked gains in the drive on the Rhenich provinces, advances for the Allies in Belgium and Northern France and another long distance bombardment of Dunkirk by the heaviest of German artillery are the most important events reported today from the western theatre of war.

Thirty-six tons of shells were hurled into Dunkirk, and although several civilians were killed and many were maimed, the damage was slight. The populace took to their cellars quietly and there was not the slightest trace of panic at any time during the bombardment. None of the military structures was harmed.

The French advance on the Rhine is progressping rapidly, according to reports reaching Basel, Switzerland. Colmar is now threatened, and several despatches even declare that a general German retreat from Alsace is near.

The official French statement follows:

"In the region to the north of Arras there have been no infantry actions today. Our troops have organized themselves in the conquered positions. A lively cannonade occurred in the sector of Angres-Ecurie.

"The enemy last night and today very violently bombarded Berry-au-Bac and the neighborhood of Sapigneul. This bombardment caused us only insignificant losses."

AEROPLANE ATTACKS AND SINKS A SUBMARINE

Berlin (via wireless to London), June 25.—For the first time in history an aeroplane has sunk a submarine.

German airmen bombarded a Russian submarine in the Baltic, near Gottland Island, on May 31. The success of the bombardment was not known until today, when positive advices reached the German War Office from Petrograd that the submarine had been sunk.

MEMORANDUM WILL EFFECT NOTE TO GREAT BRITAIN

Washington, June 25.—The American note to Great Britain protesting against the terms of the British order in council of March 15, which has been under preparation for many weeks, will be further delayed by the British momorandum made public today. Secretary of State Lansing said that although the memorandum was not to be regarded in any way as a reply to the representations of the United States, yet it contained many statements which would materially affect the American note now being prepared.

GERMANS CONFISCATE DUTCH STEAMSHIP

Amsterdam, via London, June 25.—According to the Handelsblad the prize court at Hamburg in its judgment in the cases of the Dutch steamships Zaanstroom and Batavier V., which were seized by the Germans in the North Sea in March, declares the Zaanstroom confiscated under the terms of the Declaration of London, more than fifty per cent. of her cargo being contraband. The Batavier V. according to the newspaper, is ordered released, less than half of her cargo being contraband.

After the business was transacted, some time was spent with cigars and recounting reminiscences of old times.

PHILPOTT—UNDERDOWN.

The announcement of the marriage of Minturn E. Philpott, a former resident of this city, but now of Flushing, Long Island, was received here today. He was married on June 9 to Miss Dorothy M. Underdown, of Whitestone, Long Island, at a quiet ceremony because of the death of the bridegroom's brother recently. Mr. and Mrs. Philpott will be at home at 46 Pine street, Flushing, L. L., after July 1. Mr. Philpott is a nephew of Mrs. D. R. Conover, of Jackson avenue, the borough.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Edgar Smith, of Madison Hill road; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Merrill, of College Point, N. I., and Mrs. Alexander Ayers, of this city, and one brother, B. A. Munn, of Newark. The funeral arrangements will be made later.

MADERO'S FATHER IN JERSEY.

Somerville, June 25.—Francisco Madero, father of the former President of Mexico, and his son, Carlos, are the guests of Charles Schwed, a clothing merchant of this place. They hope to live in Somerset county on a farm. The elder Madero said today that he had passed through enough trouble, and desired to spend the remainder of his life in peace. Neither he nor his son will comment on the Mexican situation.

NOTE WILL MEET AMERICA'S WISHES

That Appears to Be the Sentiment Expressed in Berlin.

Berlin, via London, June 25.—There are good prospects that the forthcoming German note to the United States will go a long way toward meeting the American government's wishes regarding Germany's conduct of submarine warfare and making passenger traffic on the high seas safe.

While it is stated that submarine action against hostile merchantmen will not and cannot be abandoned entirely, it is increasingly probable that the German note will embody some proposals to exempt vessels employed wholly or principally in passenger traffic for submarine attack.

Such vessels, it is said, would, of course, be subject to stoppage and examination by submarines in accordance with the practice in vogue prior to the present war, and to capture if carrying contraband, but the regular rules of the prize law, particularly regarding the safety of passengers and crew, would be observed.

It is hoped here that such a solution will satisfy the requirements of President Wilson's note. It is hoped and expected among those who are working for a friendly settlement of the situation between Germany and the United States that the United States would see that such passenger vessel were not used to transport ammuintion and guns nor lend themselves to attacks upon submarines.

THE OLD MASTERS.

Paintings Without Signatures Are Judged by Their Technic.

It appears that many of the works of the old masters are not signed. Experts rarely rely on signatures alone in determining the authenticity of an old work, but trust rather to their knowledge of the painter's technic, says the Philadelphia Record.

False signatures can be easily detected. Spirits of wine or turpentine will usually remove a name of later date than the painting. In the course of time signatures often become very difficult to find. Painted originally in a shade slightly lighter than the ground, perhaps, they sink in, darken, and merge into the ground color or they are almost rubbed away by successive cleanings. Recognizable one day in a specially favorable light, they may not be visible again for weeks.

Experts speak of "will-o'-the-wisp" signatures, and many collectors have encountered accidental strokes and cracks that tantalizingly suggest a signature, though it can never be made definite. On the other hand, there have been remarkable cases of such marks, after careful study, resolving themselves into a famous name.

Sometimes the painter's name is most conspicuous as, for example, in Raphael's "Sposalizio" at Milan. Proud of having surpassed his master, the youthful genius wrote on a frieze in the very center of the canvas, "Raphael Urbinas."

Reynolds hardly ever signed his work. But upon the completion of the portrait of Mrs. Siddons as the Tragic Muse, he wrote his name large on the gold embroidery of her dress. He was unable, he said, "to resist the temptation of sending my name to posterity on the hem of your garment."

CANCER IN THE FAMILY.

There Is No Proof That the Dreaded Disease Is Hereditary.

Perhaps nothing causes more needless worry than the fact that one or more persons in a given family have died from cancer. This is commonly taken as a proof that the disease is hereditary. This does not at all follow. There is probably no greater chance of inheriting cancer than there is of being killed by lightning or of breaking one's neck falling downstairs. Perhaps there are people who worry even about those contingencies, but the statisticians have shown that such fatal accidents are extremely rare.

People who are concerned because their relatives have succumbed to cancer fail to consider how widespread the disease is. A malady that causes one death out of every eight among women and one out of every fourteen among men over forty is fairly common. On this basis it does not take much arithmetic to figure out how likely it is that cancer will occur many times in some families.

The eminent statisticians, King and Newsholme, have pointed out that it does not prove heredity to show that in one family five deaths occurred from cancer. By the very frequency of the disease and the laws of chance such cases would be expected even if no one had ever suggested the idea of heredity.

In some species of animals it is believed a certain susceptibility to tumors may be inherited. But so far as human beings are concerned the foremost authorities believe that heredity in cancer may be regarded as a negligible factor.—Journal of the American Medical Association.

OUR ARMY CAMELS

The Festive Orientals Uncle Sam Once Tried to Adopt.

A BRIEF AND UNRULY CAREER.

Their Deadly Hatred Toward Mules, Their Craving For a Taste of Soldier and a Few Other Eccentricities Proved Their Inglorious Undoing.

The United States government's first and only venture into the use of camels as army transports on the southwestern frontier was sanctioned by congress through the efforts of Jefferson Davis, then a member of the military commission and later secretary of war. Davis had commanded troops in the southwest in the Mexican war and knew what it was to march for days over a dry, barren country in a scorching heat, with nothing to drink but hot, dry air and nothing to greet the eye except cactus and rattlesnakes.

The rapid development of California after the gold strike of 1848 made necessary provision for the transportation of troops and supplies to the new country over a desert trail, which was a task that set patriotism at a premium. Jefferson Davis asked for camels, and congress finally authorized an expedition to the orient to buy them.

The expedition brought back nearly 100 animals, which were added to from time to time till the number grew to 128. They were stationed at El Paso, Yuma, Ariz.; San Antonio and other points on the frontier.

The return trip across the ocean with the camels is recorded in amusing detail by Lieutenant D. D. Porter, who was in charge. Each animal was provided with a competent chauffeur, who was caretaker, interpreter and baggage master in one. Most of the animals got seasick, and so did the drivers, and both complained bitterly of the arrangements. The camels wished they hadn't come and showed it by kicking and biting pieces from various officers, who were not to blame.

After landing in Texas the camels did not improve perceptibly in their natures. Their particular aversion was the army mules. Even the younger, inexperienced camels learned quickly to kill a mule with one blow of the hind foot and indulged in that pastime frequently. Their taste for army officers remained undiminished, and the chauffeurs got the blame every time a captain lost some of his anatomy.

The soldiers took to the camel with reciprocal affection. In the first place, they didn't like his looks, contending that the soft, faraway look in the camel's eye indicated that his mind was not on his business. Then the soldiers couldn't get used to the odor radiated by the oriental beast—circuses not being in vogue—and many of them said that Kipling was perfectly correct in his opinion that a camel smelled most awful vile. Kipling hadn't said it yet, but soldiers are farseeing and knew he was going to say it.

Besides, the camel was no good to ride, the soldiers agreed. His ambling, rapid stride made them seasick, and they wanted no animal which it took ten minutes to awaken when the Indians attacked them in the night. No American had lived up to that period who could tie a cargo on one of the beasts so it would stay on. The camel is not constructed flat on top, it is remembered, and only a clever Arab chauffeur could load one to travel any distance without losing the supplies.

The high record in dead mules was made, it is said, by a camel in San Antonio whose name was Major. Major kicked seven valuable mules into eternity, and one day some soldiers, friends of the late mules, took Major off up on a high cliff and came back and said he had fallen off "accidentally." No exhaustive probe was made of Major's disappearance.

A caravan loaded with supplies went into the city of Sutherland Springs on one occasion, and the camels were watered at the town well. It was the boast of the city that the well had never gone dry. About half the camels took a drink and the well was dry. The disturbance caused by the remaining thirsty camels set the population into a panic.

But the endless feud between the camels and the soldiers soon convinced the government that railroads would do just as well. The rush to California was well over and frontier troubles were well under control by the time the war broke out. The government withdrew the foreign camel agents and closed the foreign offices. By the time the war was over the camels died and some were stolen. Others escaped to the desert, and even today a hoary wild camel, white with age, occasionally terrifies Sunday newspaper feature writers into writing something about it. Very likely the ones which didn't go to the desert swam back to Egypt. Both reports are authenticated in the same degree.—Kansas City Star.

GAMES TOMORROW.

Hope Chapel vs. Saurer, at Parker Field.

Netherwood vs. Clinton Avenue, at Clinton avenue.

T. A. B. vs. First Baptist, at West End avenue.

If the opening week's program of baseball in the City Baseball League last Saturday afternoon is to be taken as a criterion of what is to follow, the six teams entered on the circuit are all going to be drawing cards this season, particularly tomorrow, when contests are staged in three different quarters of the city. Agitation has resulted in the Saurer Club chartering Parker Field, one of the best playing diamonds in these parts, and the factorites will entertain the Hope Chapel leaders on this rendezvous. At Clinton avenue the Netherwood outfit will be the attraction, and on the West End avenue sand-lot the First Baptists will try conclusions with the T. A. B. combination.

Last Saturday's results caused a triple tie for first place, Hope Chapel, Netherwood and the T. A. B. aggregation holding forth on the top rung. Tomorrow's engagements, however, will disrupt this tie-up, and it would not be a great surprise to see the top-rung held by a solitary leader this week.

Practically the same lineups will be used by five of the teams in the second schedule of games; but the Saurer management will probably have to draft some new talent: Katz Miller's permanent retirement on account of injuries sustained last Sunday will make it necessary for Manager Britt Martin to seek elsewhere for a pitcher, but it will also be necessary for Martin to gain permission to use the new man, in view of the fact that the league has a two-week eligible clause. Britt's playing list has narrowed down to eight players, and it is thought that he will have several new faces in tow when the aggregation takes the field against Hope Chapel tomorrow.

Umpires will be assigned by President Walter C. Dobbins tomorrow afternoon, inquiry at the Daily Press office giving the "umps" their assignments.

LOCAL PLAYERS IN RUNNING FOR TITLE

Miss Wildey and Miss Jewett Work Their Way to Semi-Finals in Doubles.

Competing in the first and second rounds of the women's tennis doubles tourney for the Middle State racquet championship on the grass courts of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club, yesterday afternoon, Miss Edna Wildey and Miss Jewett, of this city, won both of their matches, defeating Mrs. LeRoy and Mrs. Sheldon in the first round by scores of 8-6, 6-4; and Miss Force and Miss Dickinson in the second round by tallies of 8-6, 5-7 and 6-4. The Plainfield duo will have its work cut out for it this afternoon, when it meets Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Miss Clare Cassell in the semi-finals. Miss Bjurstedt is the women's national singles champion who hails from Norway.

Yesterday afternoon, Harold Throckmorton, the nineteen-year-old Woodbridge High School boy, furnished the big surprise when he worked his way into the finals by defeating Charles L. Johnston, Jr., former New England intercollegiate champion, in straight sets, the scores of which were 6-1, 6-2.

LOCAL WOMAN DEFEATED BY MRS. RONALD B. BARLOW

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., June 25.—An early surprise was sprung when Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, of Huntingdon Valley, lost in the first round of the women's invitation golf tournament at the Shawnee Country Club yesterday. The Huntingdon Valley woman was defeated by a clubmate, Mrs. Henry Stetson, by 4 up and 2 to play.

On the other hand, Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, the Merion woman, who has won here for the last two years, had no difficulty in disposing of Mrs. Albert MacDonald, of Plainfield, the margin being 9 to 8. Mrs. Barlow was in one of her best golfing moods. For instance, at the second hole, a matter of 35 yards, the former Eastern champion, led an approach to within six feet of the pin and got a 3, so that Mrs. MacDonald, who had a perfect 4, lost the hole. The winner went out in 43.

MAYORS WILL MEET AT TRAPS IN NEWARK PARK

The traps of the Smith Gun Club, adjoining Wiedenmayer's Park, Newark, will be the scene tomorrow afternoon of the second half of the 100-bird trap-shooting match between Mayor Thorfin Tait, of Metuchen, and Mayor L. S. Page, of Chatham. Tait was the runner-up in the Middlesex county championship shoot and, through the American Field and Sporting Life, issued a challenge to shoot any amateur gunner in the State in a 100-bird match for a purse.

Page, who is a member of the Smith Gun Club, accepted the challenge, and the first fifty birds were shot at in Metuchen, Saturday, Page winning by a score of 44 to 36. Practice shooting o.epn to all gunners, will be held before and after the match.

GETTING READY FOR THE FAIR.

Preparatory to leaving for the Pacific Coast today, R. Norris Williams, national champion and captain of the Eastern tennis team that is to meet the leading Californian experts in San Francisco early next month, practiced all afternoon on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hill, yesterday. With George M. Church, Watson M. Washburn and Dean Mathey, Williams will stop off at Pittsburg tomorrow to compete in the national clay court championship. All of these players appeared recently at the Plainfield Country Club in exhibition matches.

EVEN SPLITTING IN ELKS' CLUB TOURNEY

No Clean Sweeps, the Weaker Team Generally Managing to Nab One.

Delayed accounts of games rolled in the Elks' two-man tournament on the Watchung avenue alleys Thursday night indicate that the Blimm-Leonard team snatched a pair of verdicts from the Crist-Cose duo in the initial set-to, and the C. Woolston-McCullough outfit slipped a similar decision over on the Crist-Cose team in the final series of the evening. Last night Laing and Weiss took a pair from Mann and Kiely, and McCullough and Woolston snatched two from Nash, Jr., and Zink.

On Thursday night tilts were productive of a new high team score of 405 for McCullough-C. Woolston combination, but were otherwise uneventful. Last night Weiss and Laing were forced to set up a 401 in order to get away with the second game from Mann and Kiely.

PLAN BIG FEATURE FOR GIRL ATHLETES

Recreation Committee Proposes to Expand Its Work.

Indoor tennis, volley ball and baseball will be new features added to the list of athletics entered into by the Public Recreation Committee of this city. The spacious gymnasium of the Plainfield High School will be used for the purpose, being the regulation size of a tennis court. Sets of singles and doubles will be played. Any Plainfield girl is eligible to enter this class, which will meet in the High School every Wednesday night, under the supervision of Miss Lillian Lamson, supervisor of the Recreation centre. Miss Lamson has secured a corps of local feminine assistants who are highly enthusiastic over the new project.

Up to today many Plainfield and North Plainfield young women have sent in their names as candidates for the respective teams and the outlook at present seems to be unusually bright for a number of crack representative teams. It is the intention of the supervisor to secure these teams and play out of towns matches with nearby cities.

The question of the outdoor athletic meet for girls was brought up to the recreation supervisor, who seemed highly pleased with the idea and it is likely that the event will be realized before the summer ends. Labor Day seems to be the popular date for such an affair and in all probability that will be the time of the meet, if it can be arranged. Announcement of the events, rules and restrictions will be made in ample time for the girls to enter and practice prior to the meet. A number of local business men have signified their intention of donating prizes for various feats and it goes without saying that close competition will be waged.

P. C. C. GOLF SCHEDULE.

The second and third sixteens will continue at match play over the Plainfield Country Club links tomorrow afternoon, in connection with the qualifying round of eighteen holes for the club championship.

That funny fellow Scoop is on the classified page.

BENEDICTS TO SHINE ON BOUND BROOK LOT

All is in Readiness for the Season's Big Ball Game Tomorrow Afternoon.

Interest in Bound Brook at the present time is entirely centered around the season's big game of baseball which will be staged at that place tomorrow afternoon, a monster program of side numbers having been arranged for the occasion. Under the direction of Dr. Leahy the Bound Brook married men will try conclusions on the baseball terra firma with Clarence Zimmerman's South Bound Brook bachelors. An array of talent, the equal of which has never before been reaped from among Bound Brook's husbands, has been signed up to frolic on the ball diamond and indications point to a record crowd of side-line enthusiasts. The rooters in this case will not be made up of the usual array of sweethearts for all of the performers claim to be in the good graces of their better halves at the present time and have invited them to view the hostilities.

Dr. Leahy, who is a member of Bound Brook's younger generation of doctors and a former Princeton University diamond star, exhibited his baseball ability when he was drafted by the local medicine men to aid them wallop the lawyers here two years ago and his appearance in the role of captain and mound artist for the Bound Brook contingent adds considerable to the stock of this clan. Zimmerman, the South Bound Brook pilot, will also do the pitching for his combination. Bound Brook performers will sport regalia of a vivid purple hue while the Southern invaders will don suits that are guaranteed to dim the batting eyes of the foes.

Preceding the engagement a parade will be held through Bound Brook's main street, the players and a collection of their more daring cohorts being on exhibition. A surprising amount of enthusiasm has been awakened in Bound Brook over this number on tomorrow's program and indications point to little activity at any place but the ball field during the two, or possibly six hours, that the conflict will be in progress.

WILL ORTLIEB HURL FOR SAURER OUTFIT?

Information Passed Around to the Effect that "Germany" Has Been Signed.

Rumor has it that Manager Britt Martin, of the Saurer City League Club, has signed George "Germany" Ortlieb to do the pitching for his team against the Hope Chapelites in the scheduled encounter on Parker Feld tomorrow afternoon. It is understood from information received from an apparently reliable quarter that negotiations have been completed for Ortlieb's appearance here, but unless the league officials are consulted before tomorrow afternoon rolls around there may be a hitch when Martin's talent romps on the diamond against Hope.

President Walter C. Dobbins, of the league, when asked if the two-week clause would be temporarily suspended to allow Britt to play Ortlieb, declared that it was a matter for the league officials to decide on, and that Britt would have to secure some sort of concession before using the new man.

It is a well-known fact that the Saurer Club is badly disrupted, one of its most serious losses being caused by the injury sustained by Pitcher Miller last Sunday. On good authority today it was learned that Martin has but eight of his original list of players to fall back on in tomorrow's contest, and it goes without saying that some concession will have to be made in order that Saurer may keep its engagement with Hope.

Try Plainfield First

The Plainfield stores are amply large and carry sufficient stocks to satisfy the desires of everyone in Plainfield, and there is no reason why anyone should find it necessary to go to any other city to shop.

If those of us who are want to complain that times are not what they ought to be, would just realize that if all the money which goes out of Plainfield every year to pay for goods which can just as easily and more economically be purchased at home, were spent in Plainfield this community would witness a business activity such as it has never known, for they would certainly recognize how much to the benefit of each one of us it must be to buy in Plainfield. And the worst part about it is that many of the people who complain about business are the very ones who are accustomed to spend a large part of what they earn in Plainfield with out of town stores, and mail order houses.

Lets all get together and make this a community of real and lasting prosperity. Plainfield Merchants are able to take care of our wants, give them the opportunity. The results will be surprising.

BORO SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

vate practice. The cause of this second epoch in the art was the dawn of political freedom.

"Improved as the system now is and extensively practised throughout the civilized nations its publications may, without presumption, be called the third epoch in the development of the art of shorthand. The immediate cause of the daily extending practice of this kind of writing is considered to have been the diffusion of knowledge among the middle classes of society. The most popular systems of shorthand now practised are Isaac Pitman, Benn Pitman, Gregg, Graham and Munson. Pitman is the most extensive of all used.

"Shorthand may be written in a form which is in every respect as legible as common longhand with, at the lowest computation, one-sixth of the trouble; that is, in one-third of the time and with half the fatigue.

"In transcribing shorthand notes on the typewriter the touch system is now becoming a universal method. By the touch system is meant operating the typewriter simply by the sense of touch while the eyes are kept on the shorthand notes. This prevents the writer from losing his place and enables him to write at a high rate of speed. In order to write by the touch system one must learn the position of the individual keys perfectly and keep the proper fingers over their respective keys constantly. In this manner an approximate rate of from forty to sixty words per minute can be maintained by the average writer. Students who do not employ the touch system have been found to write at a considerably lower rate of speed and are constantly hampered by the drawback of losing their place in their notes.

"Although various machines, such as the dictation machine, are now coming into use, they are not yet invariably accepted owing to the fact that they cause much nervous strain and fatigue. The continuous pushing of the carriage of these heavy machines and punching of the keys demands more exertion on the part of the operator in order to keep up the work all day.

"Perhaps, if some reform takes place in the use of these machines, there may soon come a day when no human stenographers will be needed."

Following a selection by the orchestra, "To a Star," Miss Katherine Giddings read a brilliant exposition of the character of "Lady Macbeth," as her essay. Miss Giddings showed a thorough familiarity with this Shakespearean character and her dramatic pose and rendition were fine. Two selections by the glee club, "Serenade" and "Over the Hills at Break of Day," came next, then Russell Lee's valedictorian address was heard. "Chemistry Applied to Warfare" was its title, and it was given in a composed and easy manner.

Said the speaker:

"Members of the Board of Education, fellow students, classmates and friends, in discussing the application of chemistry to warfare and in showing how the science of chemistry has completely changed and revolutionized the methods of war one has only to go back to the time before its use as an agent of war and before the time of the invention of gunpowder.

"Before the time of gunpowder, or at least before gunpowder was known to the world at large, the means of carrying on hostilities between nations were entirely different from now. In fact, to discuss the progress of the weapons of war from the time when no weapons were known and men were fighting each other with their bare hands and by hurling rocks at each other's heads, to the time of the application of chemistry as an agent of war, would cover a volume in itself. It is not necessary to go into such detail, however, and we will skip from the primitive methods of hostilities and the time of the catapult and the bow and arrow to the time of the introduction of chemistry as a war agent, bringing with it the most terrible means of destruction that the world has ever known.

"Chemistry probably took its first step in the field of war with the introduction of gunpowder. This powerful compound which is composed mainly of nitre, sulphur and charcoal, had been in use among the natives of India and the Chinese, in the making of their so-called terrestrial thunder, for centuries before the chivalry of Europe began to fall beneath its leveling power. It, however, did not come into general use for a long time after that. The main action of gunpowder depends upon the fact that when these three substances which compose it are ignited a volume of gas equal to as much as 1,500 times the original volume of the substances used is produced and the great explosive force which this gas would exert when the powder is ignited in a confined space may readily be seen.

"With the coming of such an explosive as this a wide field was at once thrown open for the invention of such destructive agents as bombs, torpedoes, bullets, mines, etc.

"Following the discovery of gunpowder came such explosives as guncotton, dynamite and nitro-glycerine, but although these compounds are even far more explosive than gunpowder they are not as extensively used as a means of warfare. They are used to quite a great extent, however, in the present European war for the blowing up of bridges and in blasting, but dynamite is the only one of the three mentioned that is used in firearms. Its main use in this respect is in the manufacture of the percussion caps for certain kinds of bullets. In dealing with the chemical composition of these compounds it may be mentioned that a mixture of sulphuric and nitric acids are their main constituents and the action of these two acids in connection with the other substances used is sufficient to produce a very unstable and explosive compound and so readily decomposed and exploded that it may go off without even being jarred, and in one incident on record a whole ship was destroyed and many ships around it injured when some cans of nitro-glycerine on the deck of the vessel exploded while the ship was lying at anchor in the harbor waiting to sail.

"After explosives such as these had made their appearance many more followed in rapid succession and new ones are introduced very frequently. Some of the later ones that might be mentioned are fulminate of mercury, maximite, lyddite and picrate of ammonia.

"Fighting by gas fumes is one of the latest methods of present day warfare and attacking under cover of gas was one of the methods used by German forces while attempting to break through the French lines to Calais on April 22 last. On a warm and sunny afternoon asphyxiating gases of green intensity, which indicates that the gases used were probably chlorine or mixtures containing chlorine, were suddenly projected into the French trenches compelling the men to give ground. A little later clouds of greenish vapors were seen rolling along the ground toward the trenches, which were soon filled with poisonous gases emitting a sickly odor and which affected the eyes and lungs of the men. These gases were ejected from pipes laid in the German trenches and were also produced by the explosion of shells especially manufactured for the purpose. Those attacking under cover of the gases wore especially designed respirators which supplied the men wearing them with oxygen and thus enabled them to keep from breathing the gases and to be free from their poisonous effects while making the attack.

"From the different applications whice have been mentioned and from the many things that we have doubtless heard of late on this subject, it is very evident that chemistry has done much toward increasing the effectivness of the methods of fighting and of slaughter, but it has also done a great deal toward the relief of those who suffer from the effects of war in the way of medicines, respirators and the like, and if it had not been for this application of chemistry the number of lives lost in battle would be far greater even than now. However, the application of chemistry to warfare is only in its infancy and it is enough to say what has been done as compared with what will be done, is nothing.

"And now the class of 1915 bids farewell. Our High School days are over, but although they are past they can never be forgotten. Yes, it would be impossible to forget the many happy days and hours that we have spent together in dear old N. P. H. S. while acquiring an education to help us on through the future years of our lives. This education which we have received through the taxpayers of the borough and which has been given to us by means of the Board of Education and by the teachers and instructors who have so efficiently prepared themselves for the work of teaching us, is surely appreciated by all, and it is only just that at this time we extend thanks to all who have had a share in the granting of this knowledge which is to mean so much to the future welfare and good of every one of us.

"Some having finished school, will journey on to higher institutions of learning, to take up further courses of study and to increase the store of knowledge which they have already received. Others will go into business to make direct application of the learning which they have obtained and to derive at once the benefits of an education which has been procured under the direction and guidance of the most apt teachers and in the midst of the best facilities that the time commands.

"Whatever any of us will do, however, or wherever any of us may go, either to take up further study or to enter into any of the various enterprises that life affords, it is certain that we shall always remember the foundation that we have laid for ourselves in the High School at North Plainfield, and that we shall always look with gladness on the memories of the days we spent under the old maroon and black."

In presenting the diplomas, Dr. Cooley paid a high compliment to the good record attained by the graduating class of 1915. The valedictorian, he stated, had made an average for four years' work of 94 plus, while the salutatorian's four-year average was 92 plus. Of the thirty-three graduates, fifteen will enter college or a technical school, he said.

Miss Julia Rowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowley, clerk of the North Plainfield Board of Education, who was never absent nor tardy once during a period of eleven years' attendance at the North Plainfield High School, was called to the front of the stage by Dr. Cooley and publicly commended. He said that Miss Rowley's honor was a distinguishing one, and some quick figuring showed that she had gone to and from school over 2,000 times during the eleven years she had been striving for her record. She was the first graduate presented with a diploma. The others followed, the salutatorian and the valedictorian among the first, and the others stepping to the front as they were called, pretty much in the order of their standing. To many Dr. Cooley addressed an apt remark bearing upon their work in the school or their future ambitions. Before concluding that part of his duty Dr. Cooley presented Mrs. Rowley to the audience and commended her upon the part she had had in her daughter's honor.

"Wedding of the Winds," a selection by the orchestra, was next on the program, then came the address of the evening, the speaker being Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst, of the North Plainfield public schools. In introducing him, Dr. Cooley spoke feelingly of the splendid work which Mr. Aungst has done during the one year he has held his position, and said that discord and lack of co-operation among the faculty had disappeared in North Plainfield and that nothing but harmony and good feeling existed there now. He praised Mr. Aungst's work and stated that so far there had not been a complaint against the supervising principal from teacher, parent or pupil. He introduced Mr. Aungst to the audience so that supervising principal and people "might get acquainted."

Mr. Aungst began with a few introductory remarks and launched into his subject, which was educational in character. He ended with a farewell and congratulations to the class. "Remember three things," he warned; "do your duty by yourself, your State and God," he ended.

His address follows:

"About twelve years ago a group of little children began going to school. Presumably their parents accompanied them to the schoolhouse that first day. And thus, day after day, one of the morning tasks in their home was to get the children ready for school. Without doubt the parents thought frequently of those absent children during the day. And through all these dozen years there have been countless little acts of love and sacrifice by the parents of that group. Tonight a portion of that group faces you and is called 'the graduation class.' Happiness is written on your faces because those children are these graduates.

"But there is another side to the occasion that is not happy. All life is a tragedy, and the tragic side is so common that we pass it by in ostrich-like forgetfulness. Twelve years ago 127 children entered the first grade of our borough schools. Thirty-three are here tonight for graduation, of which eight come from outside districts. In other words, 25 out of 127 have reached the goal. Where are those 102 children? Why are not they and their parents here also? Are those absent children waste products of our educational grist mill?

"Perhaps you say they have been changed from waste products into by-products and are now woven into our economic and industrial fabric. Doubtless that is true for the large part of the group. But is that the properly established order of things? If it is, whence the wisdom of this group in remaining away so much longer from the work-a-day side of life? If it is not the properly established order of things, why such a waste of opportunity for training and culture? Is human society better off because it receives an increment of almost 90 per cent. waste products year by year?

"The function of the public schools is to give back to human society men and women who have been trained for hours of work and hours of leisure. This training cannot be highly specialized. It must be fundamental, that is, deal with a good foundation for the things that count. But when almost 90 per cent. of the children do not reach the goal established for the schools because necessity has taken them out of the race, it follows that the quality of social efficiency and social happiness is seriously impaired. I have had this phase of the educational problem forced upon my attention again because today was promotion day. It became my unhappy lot to see certain children fall back in the race, either through nature's handicap or through society's selfishness.

"Promotion day is the only day of the year I dread, and if I were a moral coward I would be out of town on important business on such days. I can stand censure from disappointed parents; I can endure their abuse; I am immune to their tears; but I cannot bear to hear the little fellows crying as though their hearts would break because they didn't pass. A little boy found his way into my office. He was only seven years old and was crying bitterly. When I asked him what was the matter, said he:

"'Teacher won't promote me.'

"'And why have you come here?' I asked.

"'Will you promote me, Mr. Aungst?' he pleaded through his tears.

"If you had been supervising principal what would you have said and done? I laid my hand on that little child's head and said, 'My dear little boy, you are going to have vacation now, so don't cry. I want you to go home and have a good time. Ride your bicycle; go swimming; fly your kite; play marbles; spin your top; play with the other boys all day long; go fishing and have all the fun you can get. Next fall when school opens you will come back strong and happy. Then if you can recite your lessons well for two months I'll promote you to your old class.' And the little fellow went away relieved of his troubles, but nature has been unkind to that lad.

"Before human society became so complex in its organization children were educated in the home and its immediate environs. But the march of civilization has made numerous demands upon family life. The struggle for existence has become hard and bitter. Competition in all walks of life is keen. The law of supply and demand is finding a place in the social mind. To meet the necessities arising from these conditions there has sprung into being an institution known as the public school which is in fact the annex of the home. It is supported by the home for the benefit of the homes' choicest flowers—the children.

"This annex of the home, the school, is either a desert or an oasis for the children. It is a desert when the personality of the teacher is unsympathetic, ill-tempered, pessimistic and hateful. It is an oasis abounding with things that are good, true and beautiful when the teacher is a sympathetic master and lord of life.

"It has been my privilege and pleasure to work with your teachers for one year, and I want to say to you in their behalf that they belong to the latter class. Parents are not the only ones who sacrifice for the children. Day after day I find the teachers making sacrifices of one kind or another for the children in their charge.

"If there is one thing that blights the work of the teacher and fills her life with discouragement it is harsh, unmerited criticism. It makes the teacher feel like becoming the hireling she is sometimes considered. And finally it acts like the Australian boomerang which comes back and harms the one who throws it. Give your teachers the full measure of the support they deserve, and your children will receive dividends that will make them richer in spirit.

"My best wishes are extended to the parents of these young graduates. You are fully warranted in being proud and happy on this occasion. All I ask is to rejoice with you."

The awarding of the Yale Cup to the graduate having the best record in athletic as well as scholarship was in the hands of Henry L. DeForest, of 955 Hillside avenue. With the audience and graduates on the que vive, Mr. DeForest held up the cup and announced the name of the winner—Ralph Smalley. Another surprise came when Edson Day, president of the graduating class, presented the High School with a dictionary.

Another chorus by the glee club, "The Miller's Wooing;" the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Kues and a finale by the orchestra concluded the evening's program.

Following were the graduates: Hyman Abrams, Lester Chandler, Margaret Currin, Edson Day, Elsie Debele- Marion Doughty, Lucy Doug, lass, Frank Fetherston, Elmet French, Katherine Giddings, Viola Hauser, Margaret Hogan, Wesley Hughes, Anne Hull, Aaron Hirsch, Lizzie Hummer, Halbert Hutchinson, Russell Lee, Elva Lippincott, Harold Mead, Helen Meaney, Norah Meaney, Lena Mobus, Julia Rowley, Emma Ryno, Helen Schmidt, Richard Schroeder, Ralph Smalley, Hoyt Tomkinson, Lucy Tynan, Roscoe VanCamp, Augustus VanDeventer and Duclos VanMater.

The Alumni dance for the class of 1915 at the Park Club, last night, which followed the commencement exercises in the Plainfield Theatre, was a formal welcome to the graduates into the school alumni. It was a pretty dance and was well attended, about 150 being present.

A program of eighteen dances was presented—one-steps, fox trots, hesitation waltzes—and with the encores demanded, it was at late hour before the young people dispersed. The chaperone committee from the Parent-Teacher Association of the school, consisting of Mrs. Warren Townley, Mrs. W. O. Taylor, Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mrs. Fred Burner, Mrs. John Douglass, Mrs. John Chandler, Mrs. James Blair, Miss May MacLaughlin, Mrs. L. D. Townley, Mrs. Corra Ryno and Mrs. Frank Dunning, chaperoned the young people and every member remained until the last dance was concluded. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening.

The officers of the class of 1914 had charge of the dance. They are: F. O. Dunning, president; Ashley Burner, vice president, and E. F. Lowe, secretary and treasurer.

P. H. S. COMMENCEMENT

moral benefit, also, of school athletics?

"Let us consider next the opportunities for amateur journalism in High School. The average student, if he has shown any aptness in his English work, is usually nominated in his sophomore year for the Oracle board. Suppose he is elected to the board, and then chosen, for instance, an exchange editor. Here he receives his first training in writing clear English for publication, and in having it ready on time. He musters together all the training of his English class, for the thought of seeing his words in cold black and white urges great care upon him. Or suppose he goes on the business staff of the board. Here he receives, perhaps, his first practical business experience, and in scouring the town for 'ads' comes into contact with practical business men and their methods.

"The business end of school activities includes also the business managership of the school plays and the school teams. And these are no petty jobs. The business manager of a play must, besides distributing a thousand or more tickets and accounting for the proceeds from the same, attend to program and advertising, and keep account of many other incidentals, such as rented properties and costumes, and the paying of the make-up man. A senior play business manager of several years ago, who went directly into business from High School, remarked the other day to one of our faculty that the practical experience of running the play had helped him immensely in his latest work. The team manager, also, has the proceeds of all games and the travelling expenses of his team to look after, duties which require system and accuracy.

"To return to dramatics, the two other traditional dramatic efforts of our school are the junior and senior plays. The former is more or less of a tryout of material for the latter, which, precedent decrees must be something in keeping with the ideals supposed to be inculcated in us by our English course. Naturally, the successful production of a classical play calls for a keener sense of character and more careful interpretation than that of most of the frothy pieces manufactured especially for mutilation by High School students. The appreciation of good dramatic writing taught by taking part in one of our senior plays is worth, it seems to me, one-third the value of our English course.

"But is there not another standpoint beside that of practical value from which we may consider these sentiment? You alumni who are present tonight, what do your thoughts turn to, when, in some rare moment of leisure, you look back upon your High School courses? To the geometry that you just pulled through by getting an 'A' final after several months of dont't-care work? To your overtime spent in the physics 'lab?' To your tussle with German? Well, perhaps, in some cases. But don't you think oftener of the old times in the Oracle room, making up the 'dummy,' and fishing seventeen lines of jokes out of exchanges to fill up that last page—and the time your class 'stung' the juniors at Christmas—do you remember the tune of that taunting song?—and the feverish play rehearsals, with the frenzied coach despairing of success, and no one knowing his lines the day before the play, and the cold lunch sent from the restaurant, eaten in the 'gym' to save time?

"But this is not the final point in my plea for the value of outside interests. To come to that, I am afraid I shall have to go back to the much-abused 'All work and no play'—you know the rest. Educational leaders have, in the last few years, come to the conclusion that a certain amount of play is an essential part of education. It is my firm conviction, then, that well-directed outside interests give a wholesome tone to school life, promote efficiency, and develop a spirit of self-sacrifice in the student which is an important part in his education. They give him a perspective, and impress upon him the value of the real things in life—things that will help him in the broader life outside of school. What is a liberal education? Professor Huxley has defined it as follows: 'That man, I think, has had a liberal education, who has been so trained in youth that his body is the ready servant of his will, and does with each and pleasure all the work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of; whose intellect is a clear, cold logic engine, with all its parts of equal strength, and in smooth working order; ready, like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work, and spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind. Such an one, and no other, I conceive, has had a liberal education.' To give that liberal education should be the aim of every school.

"Classmates: Tonight we are saying good-bye to all these many interests of our school—to all the work and play of these four years. We are about to enter a far broader life than that contained between the four walls of our school. Let us not forget that the lessons of faithfulness, team-work, and clean playing, which we have learned through our various school activities, are as applicable to the greater activities of life in the outside world as the knowledge we have gained here through books. All effort in overcoming obstacles counts in that development of character which leads to success. As we separate and go our various ways, we can have, perhaps, no greater satisfaction than the though that, in every phase of our school life, we have fought cleanly and won fairly."

Miss Mary E. Smith, the salutatorian, said in part:

"In the early days of Rome, there was a tumult and insurrection of the people. Dissatisfied with the condition of affairs and unwilling to unite for the good of the whole country, the populace, crazed by mob spirit, threatened the unity of the republic. A famous Roman general who was called upon to quell the spirit of rebellion, told the people an old story, the famous fable of the Body and its Members. A long time ago, when the different parts of the body had the power of speech, great jealousy existed, as each member worked for his own benefit and thought only of his own gain. For some reason the all held a grudge against the stomach and resolved to cut off his allowance and to leave him to shift for himself as well as he could. The hands said they would not lift a finger to keep him from starving; the mouth wished he might never speak again if he took in the least bit of food as long as he lived; and the teeth said they would never chew the tinniest morsel for the despised member. This solemn promise was kept until each of the conspirators had pined away to skin and bones and could hold out no longer. Then they found that the stomach was necessary; that in order to secure the success of the whole, all the members had to work together.

"By this homely fable the Roman general taught his people the value of harmony and unity for the common good. What meaning has the old tale for us today in our community and school-life? It is the united efforts of all concerned that make our school a success. The life-long devotion of Dr. Maxson, our foster father; the untiring efforts of the Board of Education; the wise guidance of Mr. Best and our Faculty; the loyal support of all the citizens of Plainfield,—these are the elements that make for strength in our school. We are glad, indeed, to welcome you all here, and also our distinguished neighbor and friend, who is to speak to us this evening. We wish to take this opportunity to express our appreciation of your sympathetic interest.

"But aside from the strength of your support, what are the other elements, the elements within the school that produce that spirit of unity, this intangible feeling we call school spirit? Foremost among the links that bind our school together is the close friendship that exists between the faculty and the student body. This friendship helps not only during school hours, but the spirit of comradeship pervades our whole school life. Not only do we discuss x, y, z and our Latin and German verbs in consultation after school hours, but we enjoy friendly chats on the value of moving pictures, or the changing styles, or that last game.

"There is a second quality that exists in Plainfield High School which is an important element in sustaining harmony—the high standard of honor that is found in the student body. This spirit of honor vibrates in the very atmosphere of our school; it is felt immediately by all of our visitors,—its presence is evinced by numberless little incidents in our everyday school life. To take a very commonplace instance—When the circus came this year we were dismissed to see the parade on the promise to return within a stated time. One pupil failed to keep his word. Our principal merely called attention to the incident and, when the next circus came to town, we were again dismissed, on the same condition, with the result that not one student out of seven hundred and fifty failed to keep his word of honor. Again, we had permission to eat our luncheon over in the park, but some boys and girls carelessly left papers scattered about and abused the privilege. Only on condition that a self appointed committee of students would make themselves responsible to see that no debris would be left, could the privilege of going over in the park continue. The committee was soon arranged and immediately began its reform work. And how did the school respond to their appeal? Well, if anyone of you had chanced to pass here about noon hour lately, he would have noticed that the P. H. S. students still ate their lunch in the park. So could we go on and on, relating little bits of our school life that show in the true light the spirit of our school.

"But there is another element which produces our unity and spirit of co-operation—the High School Council. It consists of elected members, who represent the various classes, and Mr. Best, who represents the faculty. This body discusses matters of school interest, frames laws, arranges all our school social affairs—in short, our school is governed, not by the faculty alone, but by a healthful combination of teachers and students, each working for the one result, and each with the same point of view in mind. In this way, every pupil in the school is made to feel that he is truly a part of it and is receiving a square deal on all sides.

"All times and occasions when the whole school meets in a body foster a special spirit of unity. Have we not all felt a spirit of good fellowship on certain mornings, when, before a big game we send our teams to victory by making their auditorium ring with our school song? Or picture the baseball field, the score a tie at the ninth inning and all the bases full. Who in that tense crowd does not feel a thrill of school pride when our man at the bat makes a safe hit? It is at such moments as these that a special feeling of being a part and working for the whole, is predominant.

"Although we have many faults—and we are never allowed to lose sight of them—yet we sincerely feel that there is a rare spirit of esprit de corps within our ranks. The interest of those outside our inner school circles; the close friendship of teachers and pupils; the high moral standard of the student body; the co-operation of the High School Council; the good sportsmanship on the athletic field,—each in its own way working toward the one goal, have produced a spirit of loyalty that makes every one

STATE BUREAU EXPLAINS HIGH COST OF LIVING

Trenton, June 25. Some explanation of the present high cost of living is given in the annual report of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics, which shows that a bill of household goods that in the fiscal year of 1914 cost $14.60, in 1913 cost $13.63, or 97 cents less. The purchasing power of a dollar was, in the case of many articles of food, double in 1898 what it is now. The statistics were given out recently by George C. Lowe, director of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics.

All varieties of meat show small increases with the exception of smoked beef and pork shoulder, which advanced 5 cents and 1.5 cents per pound, respectively.

The first and second qualities of flour showed very small fractional reductions. Butter of the first and second grades show decreases of 2.3 and 2.4 cents per pound, respectively, eggs 2.4 cents per dozen, and tea 1.1 cents per pound.

In "the Game of Life" generally, as well as in want advertising, persistence wins in nine cases out of ten.

MERCY COMMITTEE SENDS 105 OUTFITS TO FRANCE

Outfits for 105 French babies, representing 2,630 articles, twenty-five articles to the kit, were exhibited at the home of Mrs. Chapman Fisk, on West Seventh street, yesterday, under the auspices of the Mercy Committee of New Jersey, which was organized here on May 4 last, the membership of which comprises well-known society women.

The outfits are now being packed and made ready for shipment abroad through the New York Clearing House for European relief supplies. They will go direct to France on a steamer leaving New York tomorrow. The remarkable work of the women has been the cause of much favorable comment. In addition to the articles there has also been raised $118.97 in cash for the relief work.

The officers of the Mercy Committee comprise the following: Chairman, Mrs. Charles D. Freeman; vice-chairmen, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers and Mrs. Jabez Gilbert; treasurer, Mrs. Henry C. Irons; secretary, Mrs. Chapman Fisk; assistant secretary, Mrs. E. S. Carvalho.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

Members of the local lodge of Elks, 200 strong, will this evening attend the grand picture show at the Plainfield Airdome and witness one of the greatest photoplays ever produced by any company, when Ethel Barrymore will be shown in "The Nightingale," a five-part screenette. The scenes in this photoplay, numbering 210, vary considerably, ranging from the reception room of the palace of an eastern prince to the typical American courtroom scene, with a trial in progress, with splendid settings, which will appeal to the eye of the most critical. Charlie Chaplin, the funniest of the funny, at least as far as the motion picture world is concerned, is also billed to appear this evening, coming in one of his greatest comedies, "His New Job."

Tomorrow evening is the date set for the appearance of Jack London's famous story, "The Valley of the Moon," in picture form. Possibly the most wonderful mob scenes ever taken by the moving picture camera appears in this picture, and it stands out as the marvel of the art of producing photoplays. In this picture, too, one will be able to see much of California's grandeur of scenery on the screen, thus adding much to the attractveness of the picture. Charliel Chaplin appears tomorrow evening in another of his playlets entitled "The Tramp," a picture which will break up the most stubborn case of the blues.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Since the first announcement was made two days ago that Proctor's Theatre was to observe "Charlie Chaplin Night," at its house on Monday evening, a large number of entries have been filed for the contest that is to be held at that time. The contest is to be among local followers of Chaplin, amateur actors, and others, the purpose being to secure "make-ups" or imitations of this great comedian of the screen. A number of prizes are to be given, among which will be two loving cups, a watch, together with a number of articles which are now being exhibited at Slonim's jewelry store on West Front street. Bear in mind that the Chaplin contest is on Monday evening, and that entries may be handed in at the Proctor boxoffice at any time, the sooner the better. Announcement is also made at this time that the next ice cream day is to be observed on the coming Tuesday, both afternoon and evening.

Despite the innovations which Manager Sanderson is introducing at his theatre the standard of the pictures are being kept up to the highest possible point. This will be evidenced by the following list of pictures for tonight: Betty Nansen in "A Woman's Resurrection," a Fox feature picture in five reels; "The Angle in the Mask," a Mutual masterpiece in two parts; another episode of the serial photo-play, "The Exploits of Elaine," and a one-reel Keystone comedy that is sufficiently funny to split one's sides.

The program of tomorrow afternoon and evening includes the following: "The Curious Conduct of Judge Legrade," in five parts; two reels of the beautiful serial production, "The Goddess," and two Mutual one-reelers, "The Soul of the Vase" and "The Race Love."

PLANS FOR BIG C. E. CONVENTION

Many New Jersey Delegates Will Attend Annual Gathering in Chicago.

REGISTRATION IS URGED

Increasing Interest in Endeavor Work is Evidenced Throughout the State — County Convention Number to be Issued July 1.

The International Christian Endeavor Convention at Chicago, July 7-12, is fast approaching and the enthusiasm of the delegates who expect to represent New Jersey, is being considerably aroused. The roll of our State delegates is continually increasing and should there be any who are planning to go to Chicago, who have neglected to register with the New Jersey representatives, it will be to their advantage to immediately notify the State transportation agent, Arthur E. Warner, 37 De Hart place, Elizabeth.

The Mercer County C. E. Union selected the St. Mark's English Lutheran church, of Trenton, as the place for their annual convention. The activities began with a Junior rally in the afternoon, this being followed by a conference of Junior workers in charge of Miss Mae Hice, of Flemington, State Junior superintendent. After a delightful banquet served by the members of the St. Mark's Society, the Young People's session was held, William Ralph Hall, of Philadelphia, being the principal speaker. William P. Moses, of Trenton, is the new president. Walter W. Anderson, the retiring president, has just been appointed State district secretary for Mercer county.

"The Christian Endeavor Marriage Certificate," (the pledge) was the subject of an address given by the Rev. Walter B. Greenway, D. D., of Philadelphia, at the afternoon session of the Somerset County C. E. convention, held in the Reformed church, of South Bound Brook. The evening address was delivered by Mary A. May, of Columbia University. Both programs were very complete, the C. E. "Symposium," which included five-minute addresses on vital subjects, being particularly helpful. Somerset county has a new president, the Rev. Charles G. Mallery, of Bedminster. Two new societies have been organized, the Neshanic Reformed and the Bedminster Reformed and there is an awakened interest throughout Somerset county, due largely to the visitation work which has been conducted under the leadership of the Rev. R. E. Vale, of Somerville, the retiring president.

Howard J. Peck, of Bayonne, succeeds Willard Randall as president of the Hudson County C. E. Union, the election having taken place in connection with the annual convention of Hudson county, held in the Bergen Baptist church, of Jersey City. Rev. S. Edward Young, of Brooklyn, gave the address of the evening. State President John T. Sproull also spoke and A. Harry Moore, of Jersey City, one of the State vice presidents, installed the officers.

The Morris County C. E. Union held their annual convention in the First Presbyterian church, of Dover. In the afternoon, addresses were made by State Vice President Moore and the State secretary, Miss Nellie K. Foote, of Elizabeth. The evening session was well attended, the convention address being given by the Rev. F. Boyd Edwards, of Orange. Rev. Robert L. Barbor, of Stirling, was re-elected president of the county organization, and Cyrus T. Loree, of Morristown, was re-elected secretary. President Barbor introduced Carl H. Hoagland, of Ledgewood, the recently appointed district secretary for Morris county. Mr. Hoagland is a member of the Baptist church, of Ledgewood, where a new society has been organized with ninety members.

Part Three of the special "County Convention Number" press bulletin, will be issued about July 1, and will include accounts of conventions of Atlantic, Essex, Somerset's northern division, and other counties.

UNION COUNTY STUDENTS WIN HONORS AT YALE

Several residents of Union county, as well as other parts of New Jersey, earned many of the honors in Yale University this year. Oliver McKee, Jr., of Summit, was mentioned in the appointments for the class of 1915, being listed in orations. Honors in special studies also went to Mr. McKee for his thesis on "Sophokle's Treatment of His Plots."

Willard Stuart McKay, of Plainfield, is named as the Walter Joseph Austrian scholar for the class of 1917. John Carlisle Peet, of Summit, and Frank H. Randolph, of Rahway, obtained honors in first disputes. Mr. Randolph also secured membership in Sigma Xi, and honors in special studies for his thesis on "The Preparation of Metallic Strontium by Electrolysis."

THE PURE FUEL LABEL

THIS sign, displayed by a garage or supply station, means the same thing to your motor that the pure food label means to you.

It means pure fuel—not a "blend" or a "mixture," but a straight-distilled refinery product.

Standard Motor Gasoline is so much better than "just gas" that it is worth while to be particular when you are having your tank filled. It is homogeneous—every drop is like every other drop. It is uniform—every gallon is like every other gallon whenever and wherever you buy it.

Standard Motor Gasoline is obtainable wherever you can drive your car. It costs no more by the gallon—less by the mile.

Polarine Oil ends friction and carbon troubles. Obtainable wherever you see the "Standard Motor Gasoline Service Station" sign. Look for it.

RETURNS TO FAITH AFTER YEARS OF APOSTASY

After eighteen years of apostasy, the Rev. B. Fay Mills, whom many Plainfielders will remember as the evangelist in charge of a remarkable series of revival meetings held in this city many years ago, has returned to a firm belief in the deity of Jesus Christ and has made a statement before the Presbytery of Chicago regarding his attitude on the doctrines of the othodox churches. When Mr. Mills lost his faith he became an advocate of New Thought and of Unitarianism. He lectured in many cities.

The former evangelist is a Jerseyite, having been born in Rahway fifty-eight years ago.

It is said that he gave Chicago Presbytery a thrilling hour as he told of the changes of his theological beliefs, and the manner of his return to his former adherence to the Presbyterian confession of faith. He was questioned and cross questioned at length and satisfied all of his soundness of faith. He has been telling the story of his return all the week in Chicago churches, his topics being "The Deity of Jesus Christ" and "Why I Am Coming Back to the Church."

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

"I don't reckon so," said Herman, laughing.

"What!" Penrod transferred his nose to the immediate vicinity of Herman's nose. "You don't reckon so, 'bo, don't you? You better look out how you reckon around here. You understan' that, 'bo?"

Herman bore the eye to eye very well. Indeed, it seemed to please him, for he continued to laugh, while Verman chuckled delightedly. The brothers had been in the country picking berries for a week, and it happened that this was their first experience of the new manifestation of Penrod.

"Haven't I been up at the Third?" the sinister Penrod demanded.

"I don't reckon so. How come you ast me?"

"Didn't you just hear me say I been up there?"

"Well," said Herman mischievously, "hearin' ain't believin'!"

Penrod clutched him by the back of the neck, but Herman, laughing loudly, ducked and released himself at once, retreating to the wall.

"You take that back!" Penrod shouted, striking out wildly.

"Don't git mad," begged the small darky, while a number of blows falling upon his warding arms failed to abate his amusement, and a sound one upon the cheek only made him laugh the more unrestrainedly. He behaved exactly as if Penrod were tickling him, and his brother, Verman, rolled with joy in a wheelbarrow. Penrod pummeled till he was tired and produced no greater effect.

"There!" he panted, desisting finally. "Now I reckon you know whether I been up there or not!"

Herman rubbed his smitten cheek. "Pow!" he exclaimed. "Pow-ee! You cert'ny did lan' me good one nat time! Oo-ee, she hurt!"

"You'll get hurt worse'n that," Penrod assured him, "if you stay around here much. Rupe Collins is comin' this afternoon, he said. We're goin' to make some policemen's billies out of the rake handle."

"You go' spoil new rake you' pa bought?"

"What do we care? I and Rupe got to have billies, haven't we?"

"How you make 'em?"

"Melt lead and pour in a hole we're goin' to make in the end of 'em. Then we're goin' to carry 'em in our pockets, and if anybody says anything to us—oh, oh, look out! They won't get a crack on the head—oh, no!"

"When's Rupe Collins coming?" Sam Williams inquired rather uneasily. He had heard a great deal too much of this personage, but as yet the pleasure of actual acquaintance had been denied him.

"He's liable to be here any time," answered Penrod. "You better look out. You'll be lucky if you get home alive if you stay till he comes."

"I ain't afraid of him," Sam returned conventionally.

"You are too." There was some truth in the retort. "There ain't any boy in this part of town but me that wouldn't be afraid of him. You'd be afraid to talk to him. You wouldn't get a word out of your mouth before old Rupie'd have you where you'd wished you never come around him, lettin' on like you was so much. You wouldn't run home yellin' 'mom-muh' or nothin'. Oh, no!"

The Fat Faced Boy Appeared Upon the Threshold and Gazed Coldly About.

"Who Rupe Collins?" asked Herman.

"'Who Rupe Collins?'" Penrod mocked and used his rasping laugh, but instead of showing fight Herman appeared to think he was meant to laugh, too, and so he did, echoed by Vermah. "You just hang around here a little while longer," Penrod added grimly, "and you'll find out who Rupe Collins is, and I pity you when you do."

"What he go' do?"

"You'll see; that's all. You just wait and"—

At this moment a brown hound ran into the stable through the alley door, wagged a greeting to Penrod and fraternized with Duke. The fat faced boy appeared upon the threshold and gazed coldly about the little company in the carriage house, whereupon the colored brethren, ceasing from merriment, were instantly impassive, and Sam Williams moved a little nearer the door leading into the yard.

Obviously Sam regarded the newcomer as a redoubtable if not ominous figure. He was a head taller than either Sam or Penrod, head and shoulders taller than Herman, who was short for his age, and Verman could hardly be used for purposes of comparison at all, being a mere squat brown spot, not yet quite nine years on this planet. And to Sam's mind the aspect of Mr. Collins realized Penrod's portentous foreshadowings. Upon the fat face there was an expression of truculent intolerance which had been cultivated by careful habit to such perfection that Sam's heart sank at sight of it. A somewhat enfeebled twin to this expression had of late often decorated the visage of Penrod and appeared upon that ingenuous surface now as he advanced to welcome the eminent visitor.

The host swaggered toward the door with a great deal of shoulder movement, carelessly feinting a slap at Verman in passing and creating by various means the atmosphere of a man who has contemptuously amused himself with underlings while awaiting an equal.

"Hello, bo!" Penrod said in the deepest voice possible to him.

"Who you callin' 'bo?" was the ungracious response, accompanied by immediate action of a similar nature. Rupe held Penrod's head in the crook of an elbow and massaged his temples with a hard pressing knuckle.

"I was only in fun, Rupie," pleaded the sufferer, and then, being set free, "Come here, Sam," he said.

"What for?"

Penrod laughed pityingly. "Pshaw, I ain't goin' to hurt you. Come on." Sam, maintaining his position near the other door, Penrod went to him and caught him round the neck.

"Watch me, Rupie," Penrod called, and performed upon Sam the knuckle operation which he had himself just undergone, Sam submitting mechanically, his eyes fixed with increasing uneasiness upon Rupe Collins. Sam had a premonition that something even more painful than Penrod's knuckle was going to be inflicted upon him.

"That don't hurt," said Penrod, pushing him away.

"Yes, it does, too!" Sam rubbed his temple.

"Puh! It didn't hurt me, did it, Rupie? Come on in, Rupe; show this baby where he's got a wart on his finger."

"You showed me that trick," Sam objected. "You already did that to me. You tried it twice this afternoon and I don't know how many times before, only you weren't strong enough after the first time. Anyway, I know what it is, and I don't"—

"Come on, Rupe," said Penrod. "Make the baby lick dirt."

At this bidding, Rupe approached, while Sam, still protesting, moved to the threshold of the outer door, but Penrod seized him by the shoulders and swung him indoors with a shout.

"Little baby wants to run home to its mom-muh! Here he is, Rupie."

Thereupon was Penrod's treachery to an old comrade properly rewarded, for as the two struggled, Rupe caught each by the back of the neck, simultaneously, and, with creditable impartiality, forced both boys to their knees.

"Lick dirt!" he commanded, forcing them still forward, until their faces were close to the stable floor.

At this moment he received a real surprise. With a loud whack something struck the back of his head, and, turning, he beheld Verman in the act of lifting a piece of lath to strike again.

"Em moys ome!" said Verman, the giant killer.

"He tongue tie'," Herman explained. "He say, let 'em boys alone."

Rupe addressed his host briefly:

"Chase them nigs out o' here!"

"Don' call me nig," said Herman. "I mine my own biznuss. You let 'em boys alone."

Rupe strode across the still prostrate Sam, stepped upon Penrod and, equipping his countenance with the terrifying scowl and protruded jaw, lowered his head to the level of Herman's.

"Nig, you'll be lucky if you leave here alive!" And he leaned forward till his nose was within less than an inch of Herman's nose.

It could be felt that something awful was about to happen, and Penrod as he rose from the floor suffered an unexpected twinge of apprehension and remorse. He hoped that Rupe wouldn't really hurt Herman. A sudden dislike of Rupe and Rupe's ways rose within him as he looked at the big boy overwhelming the little darkey with that ferocious scowl. Penrod all at once felt sorry about something indefinable, and with equal vagueness he felt foolish. "Come on, Rupe," he suggested feebly. "Let Herman go, and let's us make our billies out of the rake handle."

The rake handle, however, was not available if Rupe had inclined to favor the suggestion. Verman had discarded his lath for the rake, which he was at this moment lifting in the air.

"You ole black nigger," the fat faced boy said venomously to Herman. "I'm a-goin' to"—

But he had allowed his nose to remain too long near Herman's. Penrod's familiar nose had been as close with only a ticklish spinal effect upon the not very remote descendant of Kongo man eaters. The result produced by the glare of Rupe's unfamiliar eyes and by the dreadfully suggestive proximity of Rupe's unfamiliar nose was altogether different. Herman's and Verman's Bangala great-grandfathers never considered people of their own jungle neighborhood proper material for a meal, but they looked upon strangers, especially truculent strangers, as distinctly edible.

Penrod and Sam heard Rupe suddenly squawk and bellow, saw him writhe and twist and fling out his arms like flails, though without removing his face from its juxtaposition. Indeed, for a moment the two heads seemed even closer.

Then they separated, and the battle was on!

Of Interest to Women and the Home

And Mamma Sparrow, Tom Tit and Tweetie Joined In.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Birds That Live In Mr. Shakespeare's Pocket.

"OH, but, daddy, Shakespeare died ever so many years ago!" cried Jack when daddy told him and Evelyn the title of the evening story.

"I know that, but some clever people called sculptors have made heaps of marble Shakespeares, and they have been placed in some of the big public parks, and the pocket of one of these Shakespeares is the home of a family of sparrows—nice little chirrupy sparrows. Mamma and daddy had settled there in the springtime and had raised a family.

"But you know how fussy mammas are about their houses and how they just love to clean house. Well, one sunny April morning, very early, Mamma Sparrow determined to clean house. There were no people in the park.

"So Mamma Sparrow called, 'Here, Tweetie, you take the straw rugs up under Mr. Shakespeare's cloak and shake them well, and Tom Tit, you hang the horsehair on his right thumb and give it a good beating.'

"Well, by 10 o'clock that home in Mr. Shakespeare's pocket was topsy turvy, I can assure you, and Mamma Sparrow was as happy as all good housewives should be when they see their homes being put into spick and span condition, and she sang away at her work with her very best voice.

"But suddenly Mamma Sparrow, peering from under the folds of Mr. Shakespeare's sheltering cloak, saw a great crowd of visitors approaching. They stopped in her front door yard.

"She watched them with dismay because her home was really not fit to be seen and certainly not by this splendid looking lot of humans.

"Then Tom Tit came fluttering down from the big right thumb where the horsehair was waving in the air, and he fairly quivered with excitement.

"'Mamma, it's Miss Edith Wynne Matthison, and she says it is Mr. Shakespeare's birthday and that they are celebrating. Come on.'

"So down the mall went the procession, Mamma Sparrow, Tom Tit and Tweetie following up the rear. Down the stairs by the fountain in a sheltered nook some men and women read long addresses praising Mr. Shakespeare's poetry and telling what a wonderful writer he was.

"And then they began to sing, and Mamma Sparrow, Tom Tit and Tweetie joined in, and so did all the birdies in the great park.

"'Well,' said Mamma Sparrow as they wended their way homeward, 'I don't know about Mr. Shakespeare's poetry, but I do know about his pocket and what a fine home it makes, and I am certainly glad to sing my little song in his praise on his birthday.' And then she finished cleaning house."

Household Hints

HOMEMADE WINES

Dandelion Wine—An excellent spring tonic and a delightful drink. Three quarts freshly picked dandelion blossoms; put in stone jar and pour over four quarts briskly boiling water. Let stand two days, stirring four times daily; strain, add three pounds granulated sugar, grated (rind, yellow part only) one lemon; heat quickly, boil twenty minutes, add three quarts more hot water, two oranges pared and thinly sliced, juice of one lemon, one-half yeast cake. Let stand twenty-four hours to ferment; strain and when clear add one pound washed sultana raisins. Let stand one month, then put in air-tight bottles. Serve in thin glasses with chipped ice.

Elderberry Blossom Wine—Take one quart elderberry blossoms, pour four quarts boiling water over them, let stand one hour, then strain to one gallon; add three pounds sugar, boil until skimmings are all off, let stand until morning. Then put in three lemons and one tablespoon yeast; let stand twenty-four hours, then strain and bottle. Cork tight.

Elderberry Wine—One quart elderberry juice, two quarts water, three pounds sugar, mix together and let work until it works itself clear, then strain and bottle. Leave cork out of bottle until it's done working, then cork and set in cool place. In a few months it will be ready for use.

APPETIZING SALADS

Banana Salad — Carefully peel firm, ripe bananas, cut into strips and arrange on bed of lettuce leaves. Moisten with lemon juice, cover with pecan meats; dot over with mayonnaise and serve chilled.

Chicken Salad—Two cups cold white meat of the fowl cut into cubes, one and one-half cups blanched almonds, two cups diced celery; mix well and serve on lettuce dotted over generously with rich oil dressing.

Fish Salad—Take a fresh whitefish or trout, boil and chop it, but not too fine; put with the same quantity of chopped cabbage, celery or lettuce. Garnish with lettuce leaves and spread over with mayonnaise dressing.

Bean Salad—String your beans; break into half-inch pieces or leave whole; wash and cook soft in salt water; add finely chopped onions, pepper, salt and vinegar; when cold add olive oil or melted butter.

Peanut Salad—Soak a pint of peanut meats in olive oil; drain and mix lightly with the same quantity of chopped celery and a dozen pitted olives. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Lettuce Salad—Take the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs and salt and mustard to taste; mash it fine; make a paste by adding a dessertspoonful of olive oil or melted butter (use butter when it is difficult to get fresh oil). Mix thoroughly, then dilute by adding gradually a teacupful of vinegar and pour over the lettuce. Garnish by slicing another egg and laying over the lettuce. This is sufficient for a moderate-sized dish of lettuce.

Potato Salad (cold)—Chop cold boiled potatoes fine with enough raw onions to season nicely; make a dressing as for lettuce salad and pour over it.

Salad Dressing—Two eggs beaten light, half cup vinegar, one tablespoon sugar, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, butter size of a walnut. Boil until thick; when cold add one cup whipped cream.

Orange and White Grapes—Equal parts of orange cut in dice and white grapes cut in half and seeded. Mix and serve with mayonnaise dressing in orange shells.

All salads should be served perfectly cold.

MONEY SAVING HINTS

Make sleevelets of baby's shrunk stockings. Cut off the feet, crochet a neat shell stitch top and bottom of leg; nice and warm to slip on children's arms under their coats in cool weather, when short-sleeve dresses are worn.

Make petticoats of lower parts of underskirts, which are seldom worn. Cut off upper part, crochet a shell stitch around bottom, put band at top, and you have an underskirt for one of the children.

Never throw away stockings when tops are good. Cut off the foot, lay stockings flat, have seams inside. Slit both sides of each stocking, sew the center top together, then the lower centers together, sew laps around the outer slits, band front and back. You have a pair of underdrawers for a small child.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Oh, daddy, Fred Joplin just phoned and asked to come out. I thought we were going to have such a quiet evening with Dr. Ellson and Nell." Olive's tone was regretful.

"I shall have undisputed possession of the doctor in that case; that will keep me interested. Joplin, for some cause, never devoted himself to me to any extent." There was a wicked twinkle in Mr. Dunn's eyes.

"Comfort yourself, girlie; lead this fine young man in ways of pleasantness."

"Instead, I want to be led awhile myself, not saddled with the responsibility of someone's happiness all the time," replied the girl.

As it turned out, the young man seemed in need of guidance, if he was to find happiness, so lost in gloom was he, when he discovered the doctor was a guest in the house. They had met at Fairport and the doctor was a familiar enough figure about town. Not until he received the anonymous letter telling him that a plot was on foot to marry Olive to the doctor did it occur to him that he could be a rival. The fact that he was a divorced man put him out of the running in his mind, but here he was, evidently a welcome guest. It was evident that Mr. Dunn was enjoying his sallies of wit and humor and Olive's attention seemed always to be on what they were saying.

The doctor excused himself early to make the night train to Chicago, that he might hear some of the prominent speakers at the medical convention, and Nell said she must get back to her baby, so they left together.

"How did he happen to come to Detroit to attend a convention at Chicago?" The young man was showing an unpleasant side of his nature, one utterly different from the carefree spirit that he usually radiated.

"He came on with Nell, to help her with the baby. It was kind of him."

"I suppose this is part of the 'plot' my anonymous letter referred to," he said in an unpleasant voice.

"Really, Mr. Joplin, I am surprised that you give that vulgar letter so much notice. The 'plot,' as you call it, is an hallucination of a crazy brain. The doctor and I are mere acquaintances," said Olive coldly.

"I thought he was being entertained on a very friendly footing," said the young man gloomily.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Joplin. I do not have to account to you for my manner of entertaining guests." Olive tossed her head.

"Pardon me; I am so jealous of everyone who enjoys your smiles. I feel that my chances of winning you are so slim, anyway."

"Believe me, you are not improving your 'chances,' as you call them, by acting like a spoiled child. The wisest thing for you to do is to seek seclusion and get command of yourself." The girl rose as if to end the interview.

"Can you forgive me?" said the young man, extending his hand. "I have been unpardonably rude, I fear, but I love you so much, Olive, that I lose all nerve when I think I may lose you."

"Real love makes one manly, not childish," rejoined the girl. "Let us talk of something else."

"You are angry with me," he said, humbly. "I do not blame you; I am a boor. Only say I may have hope."

"If you insist on forcing the issue, I can say that I care for you only as a friend." The youth looked crestfallen and sank into a chair.

"Life has been a succession of easy victories for you, and it makes disappointment hard to bear. I have tried to save you from this," said the girl kindly.

"I know," he answered in a low voice, "but this is not final, surely. Think it over. I spoke too soon. Good-night." He wrung her hand and was gone.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THE BOSS STRONG ON FAREWELL BRIDAL CEREMONY — BY "HOP"

CLOSING EXERCISES AT 'PLAINS SCHOOL

Fifteen Boys and Girls Are Graduated and Receive Diplomas.

The Scotch Plains Baptist church was filled with friends and relatives last night, when fifteen members of the graduating class of School No. 1 received their diplomas. Flowers were banked around the stage, with red and white predominating, while a replica of the class was flanked on either side by American flags.

As Miss Anna Littel played the "raduates' March," the seven girls marched into the church, followed by eight boy graduates. The girls were gowned in white and wore a red and a white carnation pinned on each, while the boys wore suits of blue.

The entire class sang in chorus, "How Sleep the Brave," after which Miss Ruth Russell delivered a recitation entitled, "L'Enjor." Edmund Garrabrandt gave an interesting talk on "At Appomattox Fifty Years Ago." Miss Beatrice Head gave an original picture of life in America one hundred years ago in a letter written by Patience Allen to a friend in England, and Charles Schlief recited "The Boy Ratisbon." Charles Roberts rendered a violin solo.

The address of the evening was made by the Rev. Raymond E. Marshal, pastor of the Scotch Plains Methodist church. After congratulating the people of Scotch Plains on their excellent schools in charge of a competent corps of teachers, he delivered an interesting address on "The Public School System As a Child of the Government."

He gave something of an idea as to the magnitude of that system in briefly describing the normal schools where nearly half a million men and women were fitted to teach the next generation. He touched on the fact that although the public school education children in America received was far better than the majority of foreign children were able to get that graduation from the Grammar School should not be the end of school when a four-year course in High School is in the grasp of nearly all. There was a time, he said, when the High School was merely an experiment, but now with its several different courses it could fit the student with an education that would always triumph over just a Grammar School education. In closing he spoke of the recent graduation of a class where every student intended continuing in their studies and expressed a hope that that could be so all over the country, as it resulted in better citizen-ship and better men and women.

Miss Mae Hardgreaves rendered a pleasing vocal solo, "The Wonder Staff," and Miss Madeline Clark read an original essay on "Irrigation and Drainage in the United States." In the way of observing the one hundredth anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, Chester Reid recited the poem, "The Eve of Waterloo," and Charles Roberts, "The Charge at Waterloo." Miss Beatrice Head played a piano solo, after Miss Anna Murray had read a selection from "The Headless Horseman," and was followed by Joseph Horak, the honor pupil of the class, who made an address on "The Character of a Happy Life."

The presentation of diplomas was made by Dr. F. W. Wescott, president of the Board of Education. The exercises were closed by the singing of the class song, "Labor Omnia Vincit," which translated means, "Labor Wins Out."

Two of the members of the class, Miss Joyce Thompson and Charles Moony, were unable to be present and take part in the exercises, the others being Madeline Clark, Ruth Russell, Sadie Schenck, Anna Murray, Mae Hardgreaves, Beatrice Head, Francis Barret and Edmund Garrabrandt, George Jespersen, Raymond Archibald, George Venizio, Chester Reid, Joseph Horak, Carl Schlief and Charles Roberts.

The want ad way of tenant-finding is the accepted way—and means small expense and delay.

INSTALLATION OF MEBANE RAMSAY

Becomes Pastor of Watchung Church at Impressive Services.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM

Rev. Phineas B. Kennedy Acts as Moderator—Sermon by Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton—Other Ministers Assist—Music a Feature.

Rev. Mebane Ramsay, who has been supplying the pulpit of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church at Watchung for the past year, was installed as pastor of that church, last night, with impressive services, in which a number of local ministers had a part. The chapel was filled with members and friends and the new pastor was given a cordial reception.

Rev. Phineas B. Kennedy, missionary of the Presbyterian Church to Albania, was the moderator of the service, and Rev. Lewis Bond, his father-in-law, opened the program with prayer, after which the congregation sang, "O Worship the King."

Rev. C. S. Gillespie, pastor of Grace M. E. church, read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer, which was followed with an anthem, "The Awakening Chorus," by the choir.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, who is pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, preached the sermon, taking his text from Matthew 16:18, and 1st Timothy 3:15: "Church of the Living God, Pillar and Ground of Truth." Dr. Eaton said that the Kingdom of God is larger than the church and that the church should endeavor to make a community a more liveable place in which to dwell. He urged that in every relation in life that it is the duty of the Christian as well as the minister to help to make man and woman better.

After the singing of a solo, "I've Found a Friend," by Miss Elsie G. Schmidt, Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, offered the installation prayer. The charge to the pastor was given by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, and in his address he charged Mr. Ramsay to be a preacher, a pastor and to live the life of Christ.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, of this city, chaplain of the State Senate, and who has on numerous occasions preached at this church, charged the people to pray for their pastor, to cordially cooperate with him, to be a co-woker and help in the Bible school and to help carry the financial responsibilities.

The questions of faith was put to Mr. Ramsay by the moderator and answered in a satisfactory manner. After the singing of the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers," Mr. Ramsay pronounced the benediction. Following the service there was a reception in which those present had an opportunity to meet the new pastor.

Mr. Ramsay will make his home for the present with Charles E. Spier on Hillcrest road, Watchung.

CASE POSTPONED.

L. V. Harris, whose car ran down and injured Louis Tuisch, at Liberty and West Fifth streets on June 11, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning to answer to a charge of reckless driving. After a short preliminary questioning, Francis J. Blatz, counsel for the complainant, stated that he could secure witnesses who would produce additional testimony, and on the strength of this statement Judge DeMeza granted a week's postponement in the case.

LOOKING FOR FUGITIVE.

The local police have been requested by the Morris county authorities to be on the lookout for one Charles Dohle, who broke away from the sheriff while being transferred to the county jail last night. The fugitive is described as being forty years of age; 5 feet 7 inches in heighth, with a dark moustache and dark hair, and wore a black hat and brown suit.

ELKS AT AIRDOME.

A representative gathering of Elks from local Lodge No. 885 attended the motion picture performance in the airdome on East Front street last night, the event being dedicated to the Elks. BANQUET MARKS 43D ANNIVERSARY

Perseverance Lodge, K. of P., Provides an Attractive Program.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., observed its forty-third anniversary last night with an election of officers, speech-making and a banquet. Past Grand Chancellor William D. Quick, of Somerville, was present and delivered the principal address of the evening. At the banquet an appetizing menu was served in which individual chicken pies, buttered rolls, ice cream, cake, coffee and cigars formed the chief dishes. The Ritz catered for the banquet, Manager Haff having charge of the affair. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Master of the work, William J. Trembath; chancellor commander, George Neilson; vice-chancellor commander, Clarence Rittenhouse; prelate, Bertram Trotter; master at arms, Peter Lung; inside guard, George Goble, and outside guard, Peter Stram. Last night saw Mr. Stram entering upon his thirty-fifth year as outside guard in Perseverance, an unusual record.

Mr. Trembath, who vacated the office of chancellor commander, had charge of the lodge during a very successful six months of the lodge's history, the most successful the lodge has ever had. Twelve candidates were taken in during his term. A class initiation will be held July 16, when some candidates from Unity Lodge will be taken into Perseverance. The installation of the newly elected officers will take place next Friday night.

P. H. S. PARTY WILL ENTER MAINE WOODS

Head of Science Department and Two Graduates Will Make "Rough" Trip.

Plans for a land and water trip through the Maine woods, combining educational and pleasure features, have been perfected by Henry R. Hubbard, head of the Plainfield High School's science department, and accompanied by Frederick Chamberlain and Daniel F. McNamee, who graduated from the institution this year, he will leave Randolph, N. H., July 6. Mr. Hubbard left Plainfield today for New Hapshire to complete the arrangements for the novel trip and he will be joined by the two High School boys the night before the trip is scheduled to start.

Mr. Hubbard's familiarity with the Maine woods classes him among the best qualified guides in the country and the tour will touch many points of interest. He has spent many summers camping in Maine and is thoroughly acquainted with the streams and woodland trails. Leaving New Hampshire the tourists will carry only the luggage essential for such a trip and will take with them a canoe which will be used wherever possible. When the water route is abandoned the party will hike over the hills through the woodlands. The outing will consume about four weeks' time all of which will be devoted to "roughing it." The party will live entirely in the open and a majority of the food used will be taken from the streams and woods.

DR. VAN HORN CHAIRMAN OF MEDICAL CONVENTION

Dr. A. F. VanHorn, of Central avenue, who is medical inspector in the local public schools, is acting as chairman of the first annual meeting of the New Jersey State Association of Medical Inspection and School Hygiene, being held in City Hall, Newark. Prominent physicians and nurses addressed the meeting yesterday and the sessions were continued this morning and afternoon. Malnutrition, the school child, the school nurse and other problems were considered at yesterday afternoon's session and last night medical inspection and gymnastics, physical education, faulty attitude and open-air rooms were the problems under discussion.

Yesterday afternoon the problem of the "Exception Child," was discussed by Dr. M. P. E. Groszman, of this city. The association, young as it is, numbers about one-sixth of the nurses and physicians engaged in school work in New Jersey.

EXEMPTS ELECT OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected at the Firemen's Relief Association meeting held in fire headquarters, Thursday night: Presideint, Chief T. O. Doane; vice president, V. W. Nash, Sr.; secretary, G. Thorn, and treasurer, Captain Townley.

PLAYLET ENJOYED BY LARGE AUDIENCE

"Popping the Question" is Presented by St. Mary's Social Club.

The capacity audience that attended the play given by St. Mary's Social Club, in T. A. B. Hall, last night, unanimously proclaimed the production the best ever. "Popping the Question" was replete with humor and the various intricate incidents of the bashful lover and his final triumph were presented in a finished style. William Sullivan, in the role of "Leslie Primrose," captured all the laurels of the evening, while Miss Nellie McCauley and Miss Annabelle McAfee, playing "maid" and "Ellen Murray" respectively, played their parts in a splendid fashion. The complete cast was as follows: Frank Donnolly, "Frank Thornton;" William Sullivan, "Leslie Primrose;" Miss Annabelle McAfee, "Ellen Murray;" Miss Nellie McCaule, "Bobbin;" Miss Helen Hagen, "Sara Tylan," and Miss Molly Traynor, "Irene Goodall." Much of the credit for the success of the performance is due to the effort of Miss Mary Murray, who coached the youthful thespians in the various characters and the finished amateurs reflect on her endeavors.

Following the play, the attendants enjoyed dancing until a late hour, music being furnished by a four-piece orchestra. Refreshments were served throughout the evening. The following members of the club were on the committee having charge of the affair: Miss Mary Murray, chairman. Misses Kathryn Neylon, Regina Brady, Millicent Forristel and Alice McAfee.

MEETS DEATH ON HORSEBACK RIDE

Rev. Mebane Ramsey Receives Word of Fatal Accident to His Sister.

Rev. Mebane Ramsay, of Princton, who was installed as pastor of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church at Watchung, last night, received sad news just prior to the service, a telegram conveying to him the information that his sister, while out for a horseback ride in California yesterday, fell from her mount and was instantly killed.

This information was withheld from those who gathered at the church last night until after the service, when a formal announcement was made. Mingled with the congratulations to the new pastor were many expressions of sympathy to Mr. Ramsay1 on the sudden death of his sister. The telegram gave no details of the accident, and Mr. Ramsay is now anxiously awaiting a letter from his relatives in the West.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.

The strawberry festival given by the members of St. Stephen's church, last night, was well attended and was a hugh success. Strawberries, cake and ice cream were served throughout the evening by a corps of pretty little girls. The committee of the parish having charge of the festival was composed of Mrs. Charles L. FUND IS NEARING THE $300 MARK

Percy H. Stewart Contributes $50 Toward the Independence Day Celebration.

OTHER CONTRIBUTORS

Public Recreation Committee Plans to Present a Patriotic Drama—Many Other Features Are Being Arranged.

Monday night will decide whether Plainfield is to publicly celebrate Independence Day. If there are not sufficient funds in hand at 5:30 when the Playground Commission meets at the Y. M. C. A., to provide a display in every way suitable to the expectations of Plainfielders, the money that has been contributed by public spirited citizens will be returned to the donors.

This is what the Commission believes will be an adequate program: A high-class band concert between the hours of 6:30 and 8:30 at Parker Field, preceded by a torchlight procession of Boy Scouts and supplemented by a very fine display of fireworks. The cost of the tentative program will be $300. Approximately half of this amount has been raised. Can Plainfield contribute the remainder over the week-end?

To do this requires the co-operation of twenty-eight citizens as follows: 3 contributing $20, total $60; 5 contributing $10, total $50; 10 contributing $5, total $50; 10 contributing $1, total $10—$170.

The contributors to this fund will provide entertainment for between 9,000 and 10,000 people at the grounds to say nothing of the shut-ins all over the city who will get their only glimpse of the celebration of the nation's birthday by the glimpses of the aerial pyrotechnic showers in the heavens. The small boy who views with elation a really creditable fireworks display takes a deep seated pride in the community in which he lives when it provides on a day like the anniversary of his country's birth, a display such as is tentatively planned for this year. At this time, especially, the impression an alien gets of Plainfield's patriotism may help to make or unmake his loyalty to his adopted city and country. It has a definite tendency toward shaping his patriotism. The provision against injury to life and limb by concentration of night fireworks display in a public place is a consideration that should have weight with those who are impeled to give toward this worthy object and on that count alone, the general philanthrophy reflected by a contribution no matter how small, is commendable.

Those whose names appear on the list of contributors, "are genuine public benefactors," said a member of the Commission this morning, "because they are not only providing a means for inspiring patriotism in the young and old at a time when patriotism needs stimulation, but the mere prevention of only one case of powder burning in this city on Independence Day is alone worth the cost of the entire celebration."

PATRIOTIC DRAMA OF COLONIAL DAYS

Public Recreation Committee to Assist in "Safe and Sane" Fourth.

The Public Recreation Committee is to contribute to the celebration of a "safe and sane" Fourth of July. On Saturday evening, July 3, a patriotic drama of colonial days will be presented by the Washington School Dramatic Club. A rare treat is in store for those who attend. Aside from the stirring dramatic incidents the setting and costuming of the play will be an inspiration. It will quicken the patriotic spirit and arouse a new pride in Old Glory.

The drama introduces historic incidents touching upon the movements of General Washington, of the American army, and General Clinton, of the English army. John Tallmage, Washington's bodyguard, plays an important part in the many situations. His escape from detection by the Tories which is accomplished by the beautiful daughter of Reuben Adamson, a staunch Royalist, is one of the tense moments in the drama and gives an inkling also of the romance which is to follow. It is a faithful representation of colonial life, with its hospitality, homely fireside scenes, its faithful slaves, beautiful women and uniformed soldiers, brave and true.

Following the play there will be a dance for which a four-piece orchestra will furnish music. A nominal fee is to be charged merely to cover expenses. Fifteen cents will include a good seat and the dance.

The folowing young people will take active parts in the presentation: Miss Edith Allen, Miss Anna Pierson, Harry Shirley, Walter Glaentzer, Henry Donnelly, Peter Walsh and Raymond Wilson. Henry C. White of the Recreation Committee, has personally coached the production and its artistic success is assured.

SHROPE GIRL CHARGE DISMISSED BY JURY

Accused Minister May Seek Vindication in Court—Involves Serious Counts.

Withdrawal of charges filed by seventeen-year-old Laura Shrope, of Railroad avenue, South Plainfield, has led the Hudson County Grand Jury to dismiss the indictment found against the Rev. Walter G. Jones, of Jersey City. Miss Shrope was employed as a nurse girl in the Jones' household until December 20, 1914. Early in March she was taken ill and caused the arrest of the minister. When called recently before the Grand Jury she withdrew her charges, as exclusively related in the Daily Press.

The arrest of Rev. Jones, who is the pastor of the North Baptist church, which is one of the largest of its denomination in Jersey City, caused a sensation last March and he was held a prisoner in the Jersey City jail for hours pending the furnishing of $2,500 bail. Since the charges were filed detectives, said to be working for the accused minister, have been constantly stationed in South Plainfield, and it is said that evidence of considerable value to the defense was available if the case ever came to trial. The withdrawal of the charges, according to reports, will result in the filing of a complaint against the girl by the minister, it being known that the Jersey City man is desirous of obtaining absolute vindication in the courts. He has the backing of many wealthy and influential Jersey City citizens who are willing to pledge large sums of money to have the case aired in court. Miss Shrope is the daughter of a Lehigh Valley Railroad conductor.

DIES IN HOSPITAL AFTER BEING HURT

New York Woodcutter Fatally injured When Stump-pulling Machine Snapped.

As the result of injuries sustained when a stump-pulling apparatus broke in the woods at Hillside and Putnam avenues, yesterday morning, Max Yulet, a woodcutter living at 36 Henry street, New York city, died in Muhlenberg Hospital last night. The man was removed to the local institution in the ambulance soon after the accident occurred, but his injuries were not at first considered to be of a critical nature.

When the apparatus broke a huge cable, weighing in the neighborhood of 500 pounds, swung against the man's body, breaking his leg and causing severe internal ruptures. The fatal accident happened at a point where a clearing is being made for the continuation of Hillside avenue.

At the hospital the man suffered considerable agony during the time he lingered between life and death and in the early afternoon it was reported that his life could not be saved. The body has been removed to Higgins' morgue, awaiting the arrival of relatives.

HAD VISIONS OF OUTBREAK IN COLONY OF FOREIGNERS

Shouts of "I killee you," ringing forth from an alley-way in the vicinity of Richmond and East Third streets shortly after 6 o'clock last night, caused a stir in that neighborhood and a subsequent investigation on the part of the police. It was learned that an Italian whose name is unknown, but who formerly lived at 535 East Third street, and a Bennie Marmleo, of 800 North avenue, had indulged in a wordy fracas and, according to Marmleo, his opponent became angered and fired a revolver at him.

Luckily for the North avenue Italian his fellow-countryman's aim was not of the variety that would gain for him sharpshooter's laurels in the Italian army, and the bullet went wide of Marmleo's heart. Patrolman Charles Wicht, who was dispatched to the scene of the disorder, could find no trace of the second party to the disturbance and as a consequence no arrests were made.

HEAVY GUNS FOR GERMAN FRONT

Kaiser's Army Preparing to Capture the Polish Capital at Warsaw.

DEFEAT AT DNIESTER

British Aviators Drop Bombs Near Roulers, Belgium, Exploding Large Ammunition Depot and Killing Fifty German Soldiers.

London, June 26.—A Central News Amsterdam dispatch says several trains loaded with heavy guns have left Essen for the German front on the Bzura river in Poland, where it is believed they will be used in an advance against Warsaw.

A Rotterdam dispatch says the Belgian frontier was against closed Friday, indicating a large influx of troops from the east.

Since the fall of Lemberg military experts in London have expressed the belief the Austro-German allies would not be content with forcing the Russians beyond the borders of Galicia, but would attempt to continue their terrific drive and capture Warsaw, the capital of Poland. On previous occasions the Germans have hammered their way to a point almost within artillery range of Warsaw, but have been driven back.

The success of the Teutonic allies in Galicia was due largely to a preponderance of artillery and the expenditure of an overwhelming number of shells.

If additional heavy guns have been sent from Essen, where the famous Krupp works are located, it would seem to indicate an intention to continue in Poland operations of a similar nature.

Petrograd, June 26.—The following Russian official statement regarding the progress of hostilities was given out here last night:

"During the course of the night of June 24 and the whole of the following day in the Shavli region an artillery duel proceed with advance guard encounters on the front Latzkovo-Popeliary and along the right bank of the Niemen.

"West of the middle Niemen the German offensive during the night, between the Kovno-Wirballan railway and the Amalva marshes, was repulsed by our fire.

"On the Narew front the fighting was confined to sharp artillery firing and local outpost encounters.

"The firing was most violent during the night of the 21st in the district of the Omulew and Orzyc valleys. After artillery preparation the Germans took the offensive along these rivers but were soon stopped.

"In this action we took in the Omulew section eighty prisoners, but in the Orzyc valley were forced to give way. One of our works was completely destroyed by the enemy's annihilating fire.

"On the Vistula front, south of the Pilica, the enemy yesterday thrice attempted to make headway with weak effectives west of Coeleff but were repulsed with great loss.

"On the Tanew front in the direction of Zolkiew and Lemberg there was no important change. The enemy attempted to attack us along the railway leading from Lemberg to Kamenka and Brzezany."

London, June 26.—Bombs dropped by British aviators near Roulers, Belgium, caused the explosion of a large ammunition depot, and also resulted in the killing of fifty German soldiers loading an ammunition train, says a despatch from Rotterdam.

Rome, June 26.—The Turks have abandoned Adrianople, according to a despatch to the Messaggero from Bucharest, which says that the garrison of the city has been removed to Chatalja.

Copenhagen, June 26.—The Dutch steamer Ceres, of 1,749 tons, was sunk by a mine or torpedoed in the Gulf of Bothnia on Friday. Twenty-five members of her crew were saved.

Constantinople, June 26.—Turkish War statement: "Near Sed El Bahr the positions of the opposing forces are the same as before the last battle, when the enemy was driven back to his former positions. Since then he has made no move."

Rome, June 26.—The latest Italian War statement says: "Our reconaissances extended beyond the front in the Tyrol-Trentino region in Cadora and Carnilo indicate increased activity on the part of the enemy in the work of reinforcements and placing new batteries. We are fruistrating this work by the efficacious fire of our artillery and the bold operations of small detachments."

An agent of the Servian government was in Garwood, Thursday, to inspect the plant and give advance instructions for the manufacture of certain war munitions. Not having the proper facilities, the signal factory has been obliged to order new machinery at a cost of $50,000. Generous orders of shell and shrapnel are expected, it is reported.

At present the Hall Switch and Signal Company is working in conjunction with the International Motor Company, of this city. The plant is making numerous small parts for Saurer trucks. When the new work arrives a large night and day force will no doubt be necessary.

REFUSE INCREASE.

Atlantic City, June 26.—Flat refusal for wage increases has been given the delegates of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers in conference with representatives of the Western Bar Iron Association. The employers indicate that if business warrants they will consider the demand later.

PILLAR OF FIRE SERVICES.

Under the auspices of the Pillar of Fire, tent and street services are being held in this city for several days. Mrs. Alma White, one of the principal speakers, addressed an assemblage Thursday night at the tent on Watchung avenue, near the trolley station.

A Galley o' Fun!

HE PROBABLY WAS.

Leap year! She was seated in a rocking chair in the parlor and he was seated in her lap. She had but just served him with refreshments and, man-like, he was for the moment quite content. Outside the wind howled gleefully, but the occupants of the rocking chair cared not. Both were quite satisfied with the situation inside.

Quite slowly she kissed his forehead. "Dearest," she said, "I love you. No one else can ever know, not even yourself, just how much I love you—how much I have always loved you—always will. You must succeed in the world for my sake; but whether you do or not I will always love you just the same and I hope that we will always—always be together!"

He did not at first reply to her, or respond in any way to her message of endearment. Instead he looked straight before him into the bright firelight with a dreamy, far-away expression in his eyes. She seemed not abashed by his silence, however, and after a few minutes continued:

"It will always be a pleasure and a delight for me to serve you in any and every way that I can, and in the years to come, dear, you will find that all I have said to you is true."

Again she kissed him, not once, but many times, and drew him close to her heart.

Man-like he did not understand all or half that the full meaning of her words stood for. He simply accepted her love as quite the natural thing. He made no promises as to his future—whether he would try his best to succeed in the world or not. Instead he stirred a little, and said something she could not quite understand.

"What is it, my ownest own?" she cooed lovingly, pressing her velvet cheek rapturously against his.

He returned her caress almost mutely, yet certain murmurous sounds came from his lips which the woman's unutterable love interpreted aright.

She looked into his eyes, her own full of concern.

"Are you hungry again?" she asked.

"Goo—goo!" repeated the baby.

BELOW STAIRS.

The Spokeslady.—I beg pardon, missus, but would yez mind making a little less noise while we are eating of our dinner?

FULL FARE.

Caroline.—How do you like George, Susan?

Susan (not yet out).—Not at all; he has the manners of a street car conductor.

Caroline.—Why, what do you mean?

Susan.—He is always saying: "Let's see, little girl, how old are you?"

HIS WATERLOO.

He would face without a flicker
The destructive cannon's mouth;
He would sit and lick up liquor
With a Colonel from the South.

He was never known to falter,
Even on the witness stand;
Fate itself could hardly alter
Anything he took in hand.

When they made him gush and drivel
In a garbled interview,
He just smiled and acted civil
Without threat to kill or sue.

E'en the sudden auto-siren
Couldn't freeze him or appall,
And we thought him made of iron
With no weaknesses at all.

But, alas! his end was simple—
Weep your hardest for the brave!—
For one tiny, twinkling dimple
Made him run around and rave!

LOYALTY.

"So lightning struck Speeder's automobile?"

"Well, Speeder claims it was his automobile that struck the lightning!"

BREAKING IT GENTLY.

Oswald.—Myrtle, I have an important question to ask you.

Myrtle.—Oh, Oswald, this is so sudden!

Oswald.—What I want to know is this: What date have you and your mother decided upon for our wedding?

Self-interest will induce hundreds of people to read and consider your "Business Opportunity" ad.

BEGAN CELEBRATING EARLY.

The North PPlainfield authorities are determined to enforce the Fourth of July ordinance this year and the police are kept busy warning youthful offenders. Two boys, whom the police had warned repeatedly against firing blank cartridges—Clarence Garthwait and a lad by the name of Minard, both of Harmony street—were arested yesterday and haled before Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., this morning, Recorder Hand being away. After lecturing them soundly and confiscating their pistols, the Mayor suspended sentence on the lads.

PLAINFIELD MILK SUPPLY AND INSPECTION.

The most important branch of public health is that which has to do with the milk supply. It may safely be said that it is even more important than the control of contagious diseases, which are very often caused by impure milk. How many people realize this; and how many ever stop to consider the tremendous amount of work the Plainfield Board of Health has to do in order to maintain a careful inspection of its three hundred and five dairies, some of which are located as far as Ithaca, New York?

Very often you hear a person say, "I always boil water before drinking it. This kills the germs that are in it." Ask that same person if he boils the milk he drinks and he will undoubtedly say "no." An incident that occurred not so long ago illustrates this very well. Farmer Blank's daughter was ill, and the doctor diagnosed the case as typhoid fever, attributing the cause to impure water. Accordingly, special precaution was taken to boil the water. Later an inspection of Farmer Blank's dairy showed that the stalls were not clean, the cows dirty, the milk pails old and rusty, and the farmer wore an apron that was covered with filth. How could the milk from this dairy be anything but impure? It was not until the doctor learned of the condition of the dairy from which the girl got her milk, that he was convinced her disease was due to the impurity of the milk, which had been infected by typhoid germs.

Disease germs do not multiply as rapidly, nor do they live longer than six hours in water. The pollution must be fresh and in a large quantity to be harmful. This is not the case with milk, however. Milk is the proper temperature, and contains the food necessary for the development of bacteria. In many other foods the danger is mimimized by cooking, but milk is used raw as much as it is cooked. Since it is used for young, old and sick, the most susceptible to disease, more care should be taken of it than of other foods. Yet, how many people forget to cover the milk bottle after using it?

In 1897 an epidemic of scarlet fever, caused from infected milk, made it necessary for the Plainfield Board of Health to make some provision for the control of its milk supply. In 1900 another epidemic occurred, when there were seventy-three cases and one death. A man was employed to make an inspection of the dairies and a plan was made by the health department for certifying them. This was a safeguard for the public, but it proved to be an expensive method, and the result was that only three dealers ever had their dairies certified. As this was unsuccessful, some other plan had to be adopted.

In 1902 a health officer was employed and the ordinance concerning milk was changed. A labratory was established the milk was analyzed, and the dairies inspected at regular intervals. Of course, since then it has been necessary to revise the old methods of inspection and analysis, as there are many more dairies that supply milk for this city now.

Today the Board of Health has three or four men to make inspections, and at present they are using a score card system by which the dairies may be compared. Analysis is made every month or oftener, and is a check on the methods used by the dairymen. If milk comes a distance of two or three hundred miles, and has a bacterial count of 10,000 when taken from the delivery wagon here, the health department knows that it is clean and has been properly handled. The dairy from which it comes needs no inspection because the number of bacteria cannot be decreased by cooling. If milk has a large bacterial count, it is essential to make an inspection of the dairy from which it comes, for unless the number of bacteria is kept down the possibility for disease is great.

The Plainfield Board of Health has kept in close touch with the various sources through which its milk is suppplied. The exact conditions have been checked up by means of analysis in the labratory. In October they began taking more than one sample from each dealer, who receives his average on the monthly report of the Board. The percentage of fats shows the quality of the milk, and the bacterial count is the evidence of cleanliness or otherwise, as the case may be. In order to show the dealer the condition of his milk, the cotton disk through which the sample is filtered is sent him and marked none, dirty, considerable, as the case may be.

The foot and mouth disease prevailing through the country, necessitated having the dealer's cows examined by a veterinarian, and a report was sent to the city Health Department. The disease was only found in two districts from which we get our milk, but it had not invaded the dairies there. This disease has been checked by stringent laws made by the State authorities, who are making inspections daily and doing all in their power to get rid of this disease.

Three hundred and sixty-five dairies, and nine creameries supplied the nine thousand quarts of milk used in this city. The milk was distributed by sixty dealers; twenty selling retail from wagons, forty from stores, and nine selling a few quarts.

Seven hundred and sixty inspections of milk were made during the year nineteen thirteen, and four hundred fifty-three samples of cream were analyzed. Anyone who desires a record of his milk may obtain it from the Board of Health.

The citizens of Plainfield are greatly indebted to their Board of Health for the pure milk supply.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The growing section of the East End of our city embraces the territory from Berckman street to the railroad on one side; the brook on the other, and the city line on the extreme boundary. During the last five or six years this portion of Plainfield has developed by leaps and bounds, in fact to a greater degree than the average citizen realizes.

Many new homes have been erected representing thousands of dollars in investments, culminating in enhanced land valuations and an inevitable growth in increased revenue to the city.

The residents of this section are rightfully proud of the advancement that has made and on account of its many advantages believe it is bound to increase in the future. Yet what inducement has an investor to spend his money to improve the open property when there is no regularly graded school anywhere in the extended territory to accommodate its children except the one on Berckman street, which is over-crowded. This school accommodates a few of the children in this section, but is wholly inadequate as a large majority come from Richmond street and vicinity. The Board of Education is fully acquainted with the importance of erecting a school for the needs of the many children of school age in this district and now that the annual budget has long since been considered by our Honorable Council it should weigh, and weigh earnestly this pertinent necessity if the community is to continue to grow and increase as it should. Already some families have found it necessary to move to other sections of the city, for no other reason than to secure proper school facilities for their children.

These may be days for economy in expenditure but our city authorities should not overlook the making of worthy improvements, which means so much to its growth and proper developments.

Representative citizens have banded themselves together in an organization to further the interests of this community, and at one of its regular meetings the Mayor, president of the Board of Education and superintendent of schools were present, and heard in person the appeals of its citizens for school accommodations appropriate to the needs. Is this appeal to be ignored and the youth of this portion of Plainfield neglected? It is to be hoped and our residents are firm in the belief that definite and positive action should be taken in the matter now for the good of all.

If need be cut down appropriations on things that can be held off but the East End without further hesitations wants and must have a graded school.

E. WALTER HUGHES,

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

I am much interested in the response of the public to the request of the Board of Playground Commissioners for subscriptions to provide a band concert and a fireworks exhibit at the Parker Field playground on Monday night, July 5.

Inasmuch as the exhibit last year attracted over 10,000 people it will certainly be a regret to a great many citizens if this exhibit cannot be held this year, and it is hoped that during the next few days a more general response will be given to the appeal.

The Playground Commissioners regret the necessity of asking for subscriptions to this fund, but the sum allowed the Commission by the Common Council for the general playground work of the year does not warrant any money being expended from the general treasury of the Board for this July 4th exhibit. Small subscriptions will be appreciated, and the Board of Playground Commissioners must know within the next few days whether the plans can be carried out or given up for the need of funds. One citizen has generously offered to bear 25 per cent. of the deficit in cast the entire amount of $300 is not raised, providing four other men would promise an equal amount. This fund should not be contributed by a few, but by the many.

The Commissioners have only one end in view, to aid in the theory of the sane Fourth and to provide for our many citizens who cannot leave town on the holiday, an interesting and enjoyable evening entertainment.

GEORGE P. MELLICK,
President Board of Playground Commissioners.

WHILE THE WEDDING BELLS ARE RINGING

- Proctor's Theatre -

Those expecting to enter the amateur "Charlie Chaplin Make-up Contest" Monday evening at Proctor's Theatre, when a number of prizes will be given to those who present the best make-up of the famous comedian, are given the privilege today to see the accompanying photo of the comedian, that they may adjust their costumes to suit the occasion. Entries for the occasion should be left at the boxoffice at once, containing the name and address of the person entering.

The feature photo production for Monday afternoon and evening has been announced as "The Builder of Bridges," in which such stars of the screen as Sidney Mason, C. Aubrey Smith, and Miss Marie Edith Wells take part. This is a photo dramatization of the play by Alfred Sutro replete with plenty of dramatic action and is greatly enhanced by the widened range of artistic scenic effects, a picture well worth special effort to witness.

The entertainment for this evening includes one of the most interesting five-part photo productions ever presented to a Plainfield audience, having been placed before the camera with a strong cast headed by Lionel Barrymore, who is ably supported by Miss Edna Pendleton and William H. Tooker. "The Curious Conduct of Judge Legarde" presents an interesting and absorbing story, a mystery, and a tale of love woven into one photo-play.

PLAINFIELD AIRDOME

Lovers of the stories from the pen of Jack London will be privileged this evening to see one of his greatest yarns in picture form at the Plainfield Airdome, when "The Valley of the Moon" is to be presented. This picture is in seven parts and is worthy of witnessing. The leading parts are taken by John Conway and Miss Myrtle Stedman, thus affording the patrons of the open-air picture show an opportunity of seeing two stars who are making good in western pictures.

The famous Charlie Chaplin is also to be on hand tonight, appearing in his great comedy, and his followers will be pleased to see him in this photo-play of merit. An excellent program of feature plays have been prepared for next week, announcement of which will be made on Monday.

Read classified advs. today.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Love Route," a photo-drama of powerful theme, which will appeal to all lovers of exciting photo-play, will be the feature film today at the U. S. Astor Theatre. "The Love Route" gratifies the eye in every scene; it reaches the sympathies; it satisfies a desire for a logically balanced romantic story and it offers some uncommonly fine acting.

Whether the first appeal in "The Love Route" be attributed to the sympathetic quality of the leading characterizations, or to the artistic tone and superior quality of the production in its entirety, is of small consequence. Everything is made to harmonize in the creation of a completely artistic picture, dramatic without being melodramatic, human, charming and occasionally humorous.

Monday's dramatic feature will be the world famous character actor, Albert Chevalier, in "The Middleman," a photo-drama of engrossing interest from beginning to end. Mr. Chevalier is known all over the English and French speaking world for his artistic characterizations of men distinguished in history. He has played in the legitimate and vaudeville in this country with great success. Through his excellent performance in "The Middleman," Mr. Chevalier has attained a position of high distinction in the film world. "The Middleman" begins with a leap and has a punch like Jess Willard's. It is worthy the patronage of the most discriminating theatregoers in town. Tuesday, "The Millionaire Baby," will be the dramatic features of a particularly meritorious program at the Astor Theatre. Anna Katherine Green's story of the baby that was bought by the wife of a millionaire to deceive her husband into thinking that it was his own, has many points that make it a very potent film.

I'SCREAM

HIS SPEECH WAS SHORT.

It Was Also Right to the Point, and the Jury Did the Rest.

A Chicago lawyer tells of a prosecuting attorney in a circuit court of an Illinois county some years ago whose early education had been defective, but who was so shrewd and "long headed" that few more dangerous antagonists could be found at the bar in that region.

At one time he had procured the indictment of a man for theft. The amount alleged to have been stolen was $5, and at that time the penalty for stealing $5 or more was imprisonment at hard labor in the penitentiary. For stealing less than that amount the punishment was confinement in the county jail without labor.

The evidence proved beyond dispute the theft of a five dollar note of the State Bank of Illinois, but the prisoner's counsel brought several business men to swear that it was not worth its face value in gold, but all agreed that in ordinary transactions it would pass for $5.

Over this testimony the prisoner's counsel quibbled for two hours while the prosecuting attorney listened in patience.

When his turn came he arose and delivered himself as follows:

"Gentlemen, I hope the learned counsel won't get offended if I don't talk but just one minute. All I've got to say is this: The prisoner don't pretend to deny that he stole our money, and all he asks of you is just to give him the privilege of stealin' it at a discount."

He sat down, and the jury sent the thief to the penitentiary.—Case and Comment.

TECHNIC OF PAINTING.

Modern Color Methods and Those of the Old Masters.

Many persons think that the paintings by the old masters owe their permanency in some degree to secret processes now lost. In the Journal of the Franklin Institute Dr. Maximilian Toch points out that as a matter of fact the old masters used only those few colors (madder, for example) the permanency of which was well established, and that they avoided mixing colors known to have a bad chemical effect on one another.

Incidentally he describes the scientific methods of detecting later day copies. Zinc white, where flake white would have been used, protoplasmic remains in the cells of the wood used for the picture and the transparency of the bitumen in the shadows are proofs that a picture is not a genuine antitique. In respect to deterioration the author mentions the bad effects of smoke and modern gas fumes and, after saying that either light or darkness may bleach a picture, points out that some pictures that have been kept in the dark can be restored by placing them in bright sunlight.

Finally Dr. Toch condemns those modern painters who substitute the collapsible tube or palette knife for the brush on the ground that the flakes of color thus attached to the canvas will crack off and become detached. If that method had been used by the ancients no trace of their work would now exist.

The Heroines of Novels.

If I were his Satanic majesty and a novelist came to me for judgment I should beetle my brows in a horrible manner and quiz him thus:

"Did you ever make your heroine eighteen years old? Did you ever endow a maiden with the repartee of Pinero, the intuition of Blavatsky, the carriage of Garden, the hauteur of the Medici, the beauty of Aphrodite and the wisdom of Athene—all at the age of eighteen years?"

If the novelist answered me "Certainly not!" I should say, "To heaven with you!" But if he answered, "Sure, I did!" I would blast him where he stood.

For of all the iniquitous, fallacious, unfair and dangerous doctrines this takes the icing off the cake—that the female species reaches her apogee at the immature age of eighteen.—George Weston in Saturday Evening Post.

Types of Feet.

Among the various races of men, three types of feet occur. Certain pure races have one type of toe which is characteristic of each race. Thus, the Zulus, the Basques and probably most pure Celts have the even toed foot, while the Papuans, the Boschmen and a number of African tribes, as well as both ancient and modern Egyptians, have the arch toed foot. Many European nations, however, have a mixture of the three types. But it is certain that among the English, and probably among the Germans, French and Greeks, the even toed foot is the commonest.—Strand Magazine.

Reward of Writers.

Writers of nonfiction today seldom fare more handsomely than did Chief Justice John Marshall, who, 110 years ago, received $60,000 for his life of Washington. After Stevenson's death the royalties on his books amounted every year to ten times the sum he had received a few years before.

The Swordfish.

So powerful is the jaw of the swordfish, from which the sword projects, that it has been known, in attacking vessels, to pierce through oak timbers to the depth of ten inches.

The Cossacks.

No matter how old a Cossack is he belongs to the reserve forces of the "national defense" in Russia and, if required, accompanies his sons and grandsons to battle.

YALE CREWS TRIUMPH IN THREE RACES; RECORD CROWD SEES HARVARD GO UNDER

New London, Conn., June 26—For the first time in many years Yale crews yesterday swept the Thames in the annual dual regatta with Harvard, and last night Eli alumni and undergraduates were cheering their three crews and Coach Nickalls until the din was deafening.

Intervarsity regatta records have to be searched for many years to find a Yale triple victory, although similar Harvard successes have been of more frequent and recent occurrence.

The entire four-mile course from the railroad bridge to Bartlett's Cove was lined with boats until in places the racing crews were hidden from those in shore and train.

Fully 10,000 spectators witnessed the contests from the observation cars which followed each race, and the shores were populated by throngs ranging from hundreds of thousands at every point of advantage.

Chief interest centered in the outcome of the varsity races when the Yale oarsmen demonstrated that the eight-inch victory af last year's English-coached crew was not a fluke by winning yesterday's contest by almost six lengths.

That the Blue has a crew of particular power and finish is shown in the figures of the four-mile race, where the Yale oarsmen set their own pace and in so doing established a new upstream record of 20 minutes, 52 seconds, beating the time made by the Yale eight of 1907 by 18 seconds. The time of both crews by half miles follow:

Haly mile—Yale, 2:05; Harvard 2:08½.

One mile—Yale, 4:40; Harvard, 4:45.

One and one-half miles—Yale, 7:27½; Harvard, 7:34.

Two miles—Yale, 10:05; Harvard, 10:14.

Two and one-half miles—Yale, 12:39½; Harvard, 12:52.

Three miles—Yale, 15:27; Harvard, 15:39.

Three and one-half miles—Yale, 18:22; Harvard, 18:40.

Four miles—Yale, 20:52; Harvard, 21:13½.

The freshman race rowed in semi-darkness over a mile and a half course, was won by the Yale first crew by approximately one length, the times being, Yale, 8 minutes * seconds; Harvard, 8 minutes, 10 seconds.

A southwest wind and choppy water delayed the start of the varsity race more than one hour and the lower half of the course was still choppy when the shells darted away from the railroad bridge. The tide was still running up stream and the sky was overcast, but the Harvard oarsmen retained their canvas hats when they set out on what was to prove a stern chase in the wake of the winners. With the possible exception of the first half mile, Harvard never appeared to have a chance, although little or no fault could be found with the watermanship of the Cambridge crew.

The speed that Coach Nickalls' eight developed with its slow, far-reaching stroke, was uncanny at times. Though Stroke Morse evinced a tendency to fight his oar at times, the Yale shell traveled at high speed throughout the entire four miles and there was not the slightest evidence of the usual check in the progress of the craft between strokes. Every stroke appeared identical with its fellows, regardless of whether the beat was 30 or 40. Much of this success was due to the powerful leg drive and the final snap given the blades just before they were taken from the water.

Both eights fought gamely without a sign of faltering or break. Once over the finish line, there came the temporary reaction and exhaustion common to college crew races, yet it was but momentarily and soon the oarsmen were heading back for their quarters.

When the Yale shell shot across the finish line Coxswain McLane was standing up, cheering on his rowers like a Roman chariot driver urging his steeds to further speed. His words of praise fell on deaf ears in several cases, for Winman and Meyers toppled forward, while Captain Sturtevant had to grasp the gunwale to keep from falling backward. Other members of the crew splashed them with water and soon they joined in cheering the Crimson eight, floating close by.

Harvard was slower to recover. Stroke Lund, victorious pacemaker in nine races for Harvard, including those on the English Henley course, collapsed as his oar trailed past the finish posts. Cabot, No. 7, followed suit, and Harwood, No. 4, slumped down while tired hands scooped water on the gasping oarsmen.

ONE OF THE FAVORITES IN WINDY CITY RACE TODAY

Chicago, June 26.—"The fastest track in the world"—Chicago's new board speedway at Broadway—was cleared for action today. Only starters duly qualified to race in the 500-mile auto derby remained in possession of the two-mile oval, and all were ready to take a whirl at the $54,000 prize money the speedway park association has hung up for the dedicatory race on the new course. Those who failed to make the course at a clip of 85 miles an hour or better were disqualified.

Here is the official list of starters, the order of starting and the average time per hour each made in the elimination trials:

PREDICT THAT THE FEDS GRAND SPLASH IS COMING

In spite of expressions of confidence in the future uttered by the Federal League backers President Johnson, of the American League, and other big magnates in Organized Baseball predict a total collapse of the independent circuit next month. They insist that the Feds cannot bear their financial burden much longer. The O. B. leaders have reports that seem to indicate disaster unless somebody identified with the Feds provides a huge bankroll.

There seems to be no doubt that the Feds are trying to reduce expenses by releasing players and managers. But the patronage of all the clubs has become so small that ultimate success appears to be impossible. It must be remembered that the salary lists in the Federal League are almost as great as those of some of the major league clubs and that many of the Fed contracts are ironclad.

MRS. MAC DONALD BEATEN.

Shawnee, Pa., June 26—Practically all those who qualified in one of the three eights had a chance to continue at match play yesterday in the women's golf tournament at the Shawnee Country Club for the reason that the committee decided to make provision for beaten fours. In the struggle for the chief cup the semi-final matches brought together Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, of Merion, and Mrs. A. K. Billstein, of Bala, in one bracket, and Mrs. Henry Stetson and Miss Eleanor Chandler, both of Huntington Valley, in the other. In the second eight Mrs. Albert MacDonald, of Plainfield, was beaten by Miss Florence McNeeley, of Merion, 4 up and 3 to play.

THROCKMORTON WINS.

Harold A. Throckmorton, the 18-year-old schoolboy and metropolitan junior champion, climbed to the top of the heap yesterday by defeatinfi Walter Merrill Hall in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, in the final round of the tournament for the championship of the Middle States at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club, Mountain, N. J. The youngster fairly outdid himself, putting up a brand of fast all-round tennis that had Hall, the title-holder of 1911, guessing from first to last. Throckmorton will face Karl H. Behr, Middle States champion, in the challenge round at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

DROVE GOLF BALL HALF MILE; WITH AID OF MAN IN SULKY

One of the strangest golfing incidents on record took place yesterday at Fox Hills, when A. P. Roth, Manhattan Club, drove his ball into the pocket of a man who was driving a horse in a racing sulky on a road crossing one of the holes.

It was some time before Roth, who was playing with F. V. Sullivan, Fox Hills, guessed where the ball had gone. The sulky had no body, the seat resting on four iron supports.

The driver did not know the ball struck him. Roth had to chase the driver nearly half a mile. After recovering the ball it was taken back, dropped and the match played out.

FAMOUS DRIVERS ENTER BRIGHTON BEACH RACES

The auto racing meet to be held at the Brighton Beach race track on the afternoon and evening of July 5 has taken on a brighter aspect with the arrival of entry blanks from some of the most noted drivers in the country. "Wild Bill" Endicott, of the famous Maxwell team, was the first to record his entry with his teammate, Nate Lonsbury, following suit. This pair was the largest winner of cash prizes for a whole season.

The two entries were closely followed by Louis Disbrow, dirt track champion and winner of more world's records over a mile track than any other living driver. Disbrow holds twelve world's records, and is conceded to be the best mile track driver in the country. Another entry received was that of Eddie Hearne, one of the original drivers of the celebrated Benz team.

ANOTHER EVIDENCE THAT THE INDIANS ARE ON EDGE

Newark, June 26—Suit for $1,750, with interest, against the Newark Baseball and Amusement Company, owners of the Newark baseball club of the International League, for rent of Wiedenmayer's Park, where the club grounds are located, was brought in the Circuit Court yesterday by the owner of the park. The action is for unpaidd rent up to June 1, dating back, it is alleged, to last September.

The suit is brought under terms of a ten-year lease made in 1910 and signed by Joseph J. McGinnity as president, and Thomas F. Martin as secretary of the defendant company. The annual rental was to be $3,250, of which $2,250 was to be paid April 1 of each year and $500 every six months.

SO THINK WE ALL OF US; 'SMATTER WITH THE COPS?

There doesn't seem to be any reason why the police cannot form a baseball league. There is all the evidence in the world that the bluecoats can get together to organize a circuit, even if it be on a small scale. It will be a loop after all and that is what they desire. They will have their games every week and that is what they need. There will be interest in the outcomes of the games and that is what is necessary.

At a meeting held here last week all attempts to form a league went up the flue. The delegates supposed to appear disappointed the coppers that were on hand, and everything then was abandoned. But a ray of hope now appears, and it is so strong that it cannot be obliterated unless the police themselves extinguish it.

Everyone knows that the Elizabeth and Newark cops want a league. Very well, then, what is the matter with the idea of taking in Plainfield? Why, up in the Queen City the minions of the law are just about crazy over the idea. There isn't any reason why that city cannot be taken in.—"Vic" Fallon, Elizabeth Evening Times.

TOOK BUT TWO INNINGS FOR "SUFFS" TO BEAT BOYS

If the brand of ball put up by the girls' team representing the Suffragists' Union against a picked aggregation of High School players at the Peps Park, Newark, yesterday afternoon, preliminary to the Newark-Kansas City game, is to be taken as a token of success to follow earnest endeavor, New Jersey women will surely win the right to a ballot at the special election on October 19.

The feminine aggregation actually "put it all over" the team composed of the supposed to be stronger sex, beating the lads by a 2 to 0 score. Of course the boys will have an alibi owing to the fact that the contest went but two innings, thereby depriving them of an opportunity to get started.

M'GRAW WOULD PAY $50,000 FOR THIS HURLER

The unwritten law that a negro cannot play in the major leagues has kept at least three promising pitchers from taking the little hillock in the grounds where the people look down from all sides. Donaldson, a Kansas City semi-pro, pitched thirty innings without allowing a hit or run. When McGraw saw Donaldson pitch in Cuba, he said: "If the unwritten baseball law did not bar negroes from the major leagues, or if Donaldson were a white man, I would pay $50,000 for him, and I would think I was getting a bargain at that." In addition to his record of no hits or no runs in thirty innings, Donaldson has struck out twenty-five men in a twelve-inning game, more than two strike-outs an inning.

Wickware, a Chicago semi-pro, struck out nearly 250 batsmen in thirty games. In one game he fanned fifteen batters. In his last twenty games he allowed on the average only five hits, and in the last fifteen he allowed only two runs to the game. He throws what is known as the "bean ball," a shoot that darts straight for the batter's head, and then swerves to cross the plate.

Cuba has another negro pitcher, Mendez, who is known in Havana as "the Black Matty" because he pitches like Matthewson.

W. Conover	193	163	159

Homes of Individuality

Selected by Walter J Keith, Architect

COLONIAL COTTAGE DESIGN NO. D-1331

The illustration above has been selected as an artistic example of a modernized Dutch Colonial Cottage. The fresh white of the delicately detailed entrance and the paling of the uncovered porch to either side produce an effective contrast against the warm tones of the shingled side walls. Flowers, in the tubs surmounting the brick porch posts, furnish another bit of contrast and further add to the air of hospitality and refinement of which one is conscious on approaching this delightful home.

Below are suggested floor plans in harmony with such an elevation. All modern requirements are provided for and the rooms are of generous size. The reception hall will make a most hospitable entry with the broad stairway ascending at the rear and the glass doors opening into adjoining living and dining rooms. A door at the rear gives direct access to the kitchen and a small closet at the side is convenient for storm coats and umbrellas. The kitchen has service way to the dining room through a commodious pantry, and refrigerator space is provided in the rear entry. A rear stair, under which is a roomy pot closet, leads to the landing on the main flight. The living room, the full depth of house, is particularly attractive. A cheery fireplace is built in at the side, and cozy seats recessed at either end add considerable interest to the room.

The chambers on the second floor are of good proportions and provided with generous closet room. Good storage space is had in the attic reached through a scuttle in the hall ceiling.

The cost of this charming home is estimated at $3,200, exclusive of heating, plumbing, electric work, and decorations. Price of plans and specifications, $30.

All inquiries concerning "Homes of Individuality" will be cheerfully answered by simply addressing "Homes of Individuality Department," Plainfield Daily Press.

THREE BIG JOBS NOW UNDERWAY

Contractors Report Progress on Buildings Now Being Constructed.

MANY MEN EMPLOYED

Most Recent Operation is the Razing of Old Structures on the Gloekler Corner—Sand Received for New Postoffice.

The three or four big construction jobs under way in Plainfield and North Plainfield are progressing with more or less speed. The most recently begun operation, the razing of the Gloekler building at Front and Somerset streets, is now under way, and the ground will soon be ready to begin the erection of the $15,000 business structure which will rise in its place. The work of demolishing the old building was begun simultaneously with the filing of the plans and the issuing of the permit by the building inspector.

Work on the new postoffice building for Plainfield is not going along very fast. Government work, as a rule, moves slowly, but very little outside of excavating for the cellar, laying the forms for the concrete footings and a little filling in with concrete has been done since the building was staked out the last of April, about two months ago. A slight delay was caused this week by an adverse verdict rendered by the government inspector in charge of the work on the sand which the contractors expected to use. It was not sharp enough to suit the inspector, and he condemned it. Another lot was shipped from Dover, this State.

Interest still continues to center in the big apartment house which the Crescent Realty Company is erecting on East Seventh street, near Watchung avenue. Sixty thousand dollar buildings are not common in Plainfield, and the public is watching the erection of the Crescent Court Apartment house day by day.

There is no hold up in the work on the new Harrison avenue public school building in North Plainfield. The mason contractor was ready for the plasterers a week ago, and was only waiting for the State inspector to make his visit before starting in with the plastering. This job will require all of two weeks. It is thought that the building could be completed by rushing the job as early as August 1, but it is not likely that any effort will be made to have it ready for occupancy before September 1. It is likely that the grading about the new building will be done by that time, as at the last meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education arrangements for filling in the low places and grading the grounds were made, and the building and grounds committee of the Board was authorized to purchase what dirt will be needed.

The contract for the improvements to the Somerset Public School building in North Plainfield will be awarded as soon as alternative bids, which will be figured on certain changes in mason material, have been received. It is expected that the contemplated changes can be made before school reopens in the fall.

GULF REFINING COMPANY TO START WORK SOON

Work on the construction of the local supply station of the Gulf Refining Company is to be started in a few days, according to latest reports. Permits for the construction of the building were issued at the last meeting of the Dunellen Common Council.

The Equator Building and Development Company, of New York, has transferred to C. J. Wrage, of Dunellen, a lot beginning at a point in the northeasterly side of Duer street, North Plainfield.

NO SPECULATIVE BUILDING UNDERWAY IN PLAINFIELD

Local real estate men, architects and contractors are complaining about the small amount of building going on hereabouts. They say that building has not been so slow for a long time as now. There is little demand for vacant houses, but many of these, it is explained, would not be waiting for tenants if they were taken in hand by their owners and made modern. There are a few new residences going up, but in almost every case they are to be occupied by their owners. There is practically no speculative building in progress here.

ACTIVE MARKET IN MATERIALS

Wholesale Dealers Report a Sharp Improvement in Volume of Business.

ORDERS FOR SUPPLIES

Westinghouse Company to Erect Extensive Plants at Elizabeth for the Manufacture of Cartridges —Demand for Metal Lath.

New York, June 26.—Wholesale building material dealers in this city reported a sharp improvement in the volume of business placed for New Jersey building construction this week. Lumber was particularly active in this regard. The report that the American Locomotive Co. and Westinghouse Electric Company were about to erect extensive plants at Elizabeth, the latter for the manufacture of cartridges, was responsible for a sharp upturn in inquiries from that quarter for basic factory material, including Portland cement, brick, roofing, partition and siding material and pine flooring. From New England came inquiries for larger supplies from dealers looking forward to heavy mill construction in their territories, and from Athenia, N. J., came inquiries for material to supply the plant of the Richardson Scale Company.

There was a better tone to speculative building material, indicating that investors have been able to find money to prosecute their plans at rates of interest more attractive. Structural steel is still reported at practically the same level as heretofore on current business, but on deliveries running over the third quarter there is a tendency to stiffen quotations, not because of any marked improvement in tonnage being specified, but because other demands upon the capacity of the steel mills is such as to make it necessary to get a higher price for structural material to make it profitable to give even 10 per cent. of capacity to rolled building steel. War orders and railroad equipment demands are now taking up about 90 per cent. of the capacity of the United States Steel Corporation.

Current steel prices are now around 1.85c. and 1.90c. store, Waverly, N. J., for metropolitan district delivery, which price ruled when the output of the steel plants was nearer 65 per cent. of capacity. The new price for third quarter business is reported to be near 1.95c. and 2.00c.

In spite of a strike of the laborers at the Haverstraw common brick plants up the Hudson, the price of Hudson brick dropped this week on run-of-kiln 1914 brick. Good, well-burned 1915 common brick brought $6 and $6.25, as against $5.75 and $6 for last year's product of uneven color and burn. There was a moderate buying movement by dealers to take up this material where they had jobs capable of absorbing this sort of material, but the better grades of brick were held for higher class jobs. Raritan common brick was firm at $6 and $6.25 a thousand.

Linseed oil continues to recede, the current price being 62 and 63 cents New York, and 63 and 64 cents for out of town. There is a chance of this commodity moving down still further, but it will not affect the paint and varnish market because of the high cost of gums and colors owing to the difficulty of getting them into this country.

There is reported to be a sharpening of demand for metal lath, the increasing use of this material for reinforcing tile floors, to prevent cracking, having developed to such an extent that certain companies have been prompted to make special grades to meet this requirement.

Copper and brass salesmen said this week that they looked for another increase in the price of these two commodities before the first of the month. Also in lead and spelter, which would immediately send the price of galvanized ware higher. Sheet copper now brings 25½ cents and sheet brass 30. The expected levels are 26½ for copper and 31 for brass. Manufacturers of decorative brass goods, like andirons and fireplace fixtures, have had to increase their wholesale quotations another ten per cent. This is the second increase reported since the first of the year, and represents a total of 20 per cent.

The war is making the glass market firm. Quotations are on 90 and 20 per cent. discounts now, whereas May 1, 1914, lists showed a discount of 90 and 30. That is why builders are having to meet higher retail prices except in cases where dealers are using old stocks and are willing to shade quotations of competitors not quite so fortunate.

The easing of the money market in New York is expected to have a reflected effect upon suburban building projects if the reply of Germany to the American note is satisfactory to Wall street, thereby causing no reaction in finances. Conditions are ripe for a very active building movement in this vicinity after the turn of the half-year and the present easing of money is attributed to the belief generally felt that the German note will be pacific.

The Week's Work In Brief

Cultivate and fertilize the roses.

When blossoms on melons and squash have set to sufficient number, pinch back ends of vines. Apply wood ashes or potash.

Plan for fall planting of hardy bulbs. Order now.

Make a seed-bed for hardy perennials and ow.

Set out late celery plants.

See that tomatoes, pole beans, peas have proper support and are attached o it.

WATCH the roses carefully for any signs of mildew. This disease usually appears after the mid-summer shoots are grown and remedies, to be most effective, should be applied before it gets a firm hold. Flowers of sulphur is sometimes employed to advantage. Sulphide of potassium, at the rate of one-half ounce to a gallon of water, is also a reliable remedy. Keep the rose beds well cultivated and, if the season is unusually dry, apply a mulch of rotted compost, leaves or cow manure. This, however, is better deferred for a fortnight, persisting, in the meantime, in the cultivation, keeping the surface of the soil well pulverized. Bone dust, well scattered about the plant, keeping in mind the fact that the feeding root fibres are spread out in the bed, not clustered closely round the stem, should be applied now. Liquid manure, diluted until it is the color of weak tea, should follow half a month later.

Keep the ground around the melons and squash well stirred to preserve the surface mulch. When four melons have set to each vine, pinch off all subsequent blossoms if fruit of the best quality is desired. Previous to this, however, pinch off the ends of the vines when they are about two feet in length to induce branching, thus distributing the fruit to better advantage. Permit fewer fruits to form on the squash than on the melon if best results are desired—three at the most are enough for a plant to mature. See that running varieties do not root at the joints as this increases their growth at the expense of their crop. A light application of muriate of potash will prove beneficial. Set a thin board, a shingle, for instance, under each fruit to keep it off the ground. Spray with Bordeaux and arsenate of lead, an ounce of the latter to a gallon of water.

Orders for hardy, spring-flowering bulbs should be placed at once. Make up your mind to try some new varieties. Darwin tulips—and very properly—are increasing in popularity and should be planted in quantity. They are far superior in every respect to the early-flowering sorts. These and narcissi in all their numerous varieties should be planted liberally. Many dealers make special prices on orders received before July 1, a fact which the gardener can turn to advantage not only financially but also in making sure that he will get what he wants and the choicest bulbs in addition.

Seeds of hardy herbaceous perennials should be sown at once. If an empty cold frame is available, this makes an ideal site for the seed bed. Spade the soil thoroughly and pulverize it, or, better still, sift the top layer, to a depth of two inches or more, through a quarter-inch mesh sieve. Level the surface and then, in straight rows, sow the seed. Scatter in thinly on top of the soil. Label each row or drill and then sift over the entire surface a mixture of leaf-mold and sharp sand, half and half, to a depth of one-half inch. Next, water carefully, with a fine hose. Then, on four corner supports, standing fifteen or sixteen inches above the surface of the bed, lay a lathe cover, with spaces between the lathes as wide as the lathes themselves. This provides the necessary shade. It is best to have the south end of this cover a few inches lower than the north end. Among the most popular varieties that are readily propagated in this manner are aconitum, aquilegia, campanula, delphinium, gypsophila, hollyhock, lupin, lychnis, pentstemon, poppy, pyrethrum, sweet William and phlox. Phlox and hollyhock, it should be borne in mind, seldom come true to seed.

Get late celery plants set out as soon as possible. If possible, obtain seedlings that have already been twice transplanted so that, when set out in your garden, they will then have been transplanted three times. Celery grows a tap-root, which transplanting destroys, forcing fibrous roots from which spring the best, sturdiest and strongest stalks. The flat, or level, method of growing as opposed to the old-fashioned trench method, will make cultivation easier and, as a rule, grow the tenderest crop. Soon after the plants are established, apply nitrate of soda at the rate of a tablespoonful to the square yard.

Avoid contact with bean bushes or vines while they are wet. Keep the pole limas and string beans firmly secured to the poles and the tomatoes tied up neatly to their supports.

ONLY SIX PERMITS ISSUED THIS WEEK

One of Which is for the Erection of Modern Building on Gloekler Corner.

One of the largest building jobs, a permit for which was issued by Building Inspector T. O. Doane this week, was the one for the new building to go up on the corner of Front and Somerset streets, where the Gloekler building now is being torn down. The permit, as issued, calls for a one-story structure with room for an additional story or two, to cost about $15,000.

That sleeping porches are still popular is shown in the application of Mrs. Gertrude Patterson for a permit to building a porch and sleeping porch to her residence at 740 West Eighth street. She will spend about $1,150 on the improvement. The permits issued for the week are as follows:

Second Ward.

Dr. William H. Murray was granted a permit for an extension to his residence at 737 Watchung avenue, to cost $170.

Third Ward.

A permit to build a machine shop at 704 South avenue was granted C. F. Fulmer. The building will be 26x20x38 feet and will cost $500.

At an estimated cost of $500, twenty-one partitions will be removed from the second story of the Plainfield Public Library, corner Park avenue and Eighth street, a permit for which was issued the other day.

Charles W. Beiter, of 912 West Sixth street, was granted a permit for the erection of a frame dwelling at 838 and 840 Stelle avenue. It will be a one-family house, two and one-half stories high, and will cost $4,500.

Fourth Ward.

N. Meyers, of 456 West Second street, was granted a permit to make extensive alterations to the rear of his property at that address. An extension will be built on his dwelling at a cost of $200.

Don't forget that classified advertisements must be in by noon on Saturdays.

VITAPHONE COMPANY IS PLANNING FOR IMPROVEMENTS

The Vitaphone Company is having plans prepared to roof over an open space between the two buildings now occupied by the concern, a space about sixteen feet wide, and to lay floors and in other ways fit the space for storage or manufacturing purposes. The improvement will cost about $800.

Ground was broken this week by the Bloom Construction Company for a store and apartment building to go up on the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Third street. There will be two large stores and six apartments of five rooms and bath each. The building will extend 93 feet on Third street and 49 feet on Plainfield avenue. The apartments will contain all modern improvements, and stores and apartments will probably be heated from a central steam heating plant. F. L. Lancaster drew the plans, and the estimated cost is $15,000.

PLAINFIELD BUILDERS BUSY.

Among the building contracts that have been filed at the office of the county clerk of Middlesex county is one made by the firm of Cohen & Osrielsky, builders, with the Merchants and Traders Realty Co. for the erection of a two and a half story building at South Plainfield. R. L. Robinson, of Plainfield, is the architect for the building. The contract price for the building is $2,100.

TO BUY FIRE ESCAPE.

William H. Demick, of this city, will likely purchase the old iron fire escape now on the McKinley public school, Kenilworth. Mr. Demick made an offer for the fire escape of $25 at a recent meeting of the Kenilworth Board of Education, and after the school architect had declared that in his opinion the offer was ample, the details of the sale were left in the hands of the Board's attorney.

TO BUILD A HOME.

Albert Zabriskie, of Park avenue, is having plans prepared for a fine residence which will be erected for him on Willow avenue, North Plainfield. The dwelling will probably cost in the neighborhood of $15,000.

CHAPTER XVI.

Colored Troops In Action.

HOW neat and pure is the task of the chronicler who has the tale to tell of a "good rousing fight" between boys or men who fight in the "good old English way," according to a model set for fights in books long before Tom Brown went to Rugby.

There are seconds and rounds and rules of fair play, and always there is great good feeling in the end—though sometimes, to vary the model, "the butcher" defeats the hero—and the chronicler who stencils this fine old pattern on his page is certain of applause as the stirrer of "red blood." There is no surer recipe.

But when Herman and Verman set to't the record must be no more than a few fragments left by the expurgator. It has been perhaps sufficiently suggested that the altercation in Mr. Schofield's stable opened with mayhem in respect to the aggressor's nose. Expressing vocally his indignation and the extremity of his pained surprise, Mr. Collins stepped backward, holding his left hand over his nose and striking at Herman with his right. Then Verman hit him with the rake.

Verman struck from behind. He struck as hard as he could. And he struck with the tines down. For, in his simple, direct African way he wished to kill his enemy, and he wished to kill him as soon as possible. That was his single, earnest purpose.

On this account, Rupe Collins was peculiarly unfortunate. He was plucky and he enjoyed conflict, but neither his ambitions nor his anticipations had ever included murder. He had not learned that an habitually aggressive person runs the danger of colliding with beings in one of those lower stages of evolution wherein theories about "hitting below the belt" have not yet made their appearance.

The rake glanced from the back of Rupe's head to his shoulder, but it felled him. Both darkies jumped full upon him instantly, and the three rolled and twisted upon the stable floor, unloosing upon the air sincere maledictions closely connected with complaints of cruel and unusual treatment, while certain expressions of feeling presently emanating from Herman and Verman indicated that Rupe Collins, in this extremity, was proving himself not too slavishly addicted to fighting by rule. Dan and Duke, mistaking all for mirth, barked gayly.

From the panting, pounding, yelling heap issued words and phrases hitherto quite unknown to Penrod and Sam; also a hoarse repetition in the voice of Rupe concerning his ear left it not to be doubted that additional mayhem was taking place. Appalled, the two spectators retreated to the doorway nearest the yard, where they stood dumbly watching the cataclysm.

The struggle increased in primitive simplicity. Time and again the howling Rupe got to his knees, only to go down again as the earnest brothers in their own way assisted him to a more reclining position. Primal forces operated here, and the two blanched, slightly higher products of evolution, Sam and Penrod, no more thought of interfering than they would have thought of interfering with an earthquake.

At last out of the ruck rose Verman, disfigured and maniacal. With a wild eye he looked about him for his trusty rake, but Penrod in horror had long since thrown the rake out into the yard. Naturally it had not seemed necessary to remove the lawn mower.

The frantic eye of Verman fell upon the lawn mower, and instantly he leaped to its handle. Shrilling a wordless warcry, he charged, propelling the whirling, deafening knives straight upon the prone legs of Rupe Collins. The lawn mower was sincerely intended to pass longitudinally over the body of Mr. Collins from heel to head, and it was the time for a death song. Black Valkyrie hovered in the shrieking air.

"Cut his gizzud out!" shrieked Herman, urging on the whirling knives.

They touched and lacerated the shin of Rupe, as, with the supreme agony of effort a creature in mortal peril puts forth before succumbing, he tore himself free of Herman and got upon his feet.

Herman was up as quickly. He leaped to the wall and seized the garden scythe that hung there.

"I'm go' cut you' gizzud out," he announced definitely, "an' eat it!"

Rupe Collins had never run from anybody (except his father) in his life. He was not a coward, but the present situation was very, very unusual. He was already in a badly dismantled condition, and yet Herman and Verman seemed discontented with their work. Verman was swinging the grass cutter about for a new charge, apparently still wishing to mow him, and Herman had made a quite plausible statement about what he intended to do with the scythe.

Rupe paused but for an extremely condensed survey of the horrible advance of the brothers and then, uttering a blood curdled scream of fear, ran out of the stable and up the alley at a speed he had never before attained, so that even Dan had hard work to keep within barking distance. And a cross shoulder glance at the corner revealing Verman and Herman in pursuit, the latter waving his scythe overhead, Mr. Collins slackened not his gait, but rather, out of great anguish, increased it, the while a rapidly developing purpose became firm in his mind and ever after so remained not only to refrain from visiting that neighborhood again, but never by any chance to come within a mile of it.

From the alley door Penrod and Sam watched the flight and were without words. When the pursuit rounded the corner the two looked wanly at each other, but neither spoke until the return of the brothers from the chase.

Herman and Verman came back laughing and chuckling.

"Hiyi!" cackled Herman to Verman as they came. "See 'at ole boy run!"

"Who-ee!" Verman shouted in ecstasy.

"Nev' did see boy run so fas'!" Herman continued, tossing the scythe into the wheelbarrow. "I bet he home in bed by diss time!"

Verman roared with delight, appearing to be wholly unconscious that the lids of his right eye were swollen shut and that his attire, not too finical before the struggle, now entitled him to unquestioned rank as a sansculotte. Herman was a similar ruin and gave as little heed to his condition.

Penrod looked dazedly from Herman to Verman and back again. So did Sam Williams.

"Herman," said Penrod in a weak voice, "you wouldn't honest of cut his gizzard out, would you?"

"Who? Me? I don't know. He mighty mean ole boy!" Herman shook his head gravely and then, observing that Verman was again convulsed with unctuous merriment, joined laughter with his brother. "Sho! I guess I uz dess talkin' whens I said 'at. Reckon he thought I meant it f'm de way he tuck an' run. Hiyi! Reckon he thought ole Herman bad man. No, suh; I uz dess talkin,' 'cause I nev' would cut nobody. I ain' tryin' git in no jail—no, suh!"

Penrod looked at the scythe; he looked at Herman; he looked at the lawn mower, and he looked at Verman. Then he looked out in the yard at the rake. So did Sam Williams.

"Come on, Verman," said Herman. "We ain' got 'at stove wood f' supper yit."

Giggling reminiscently, the brothers disappeared, leaving silence behind them in the carriage house. Penrod and Sam retired slowly into the shadowy interior, each glancing, now and then, with a preoccupied air, at the open, empty doorway where the late afternoon sunshine was growing ruddy. At intervals one or the other scraped the floor reflectively with the side of his shoe. Finally, still without either having made any effort at conversation, they went out into the yard and stood, continuing their silence.

"Well," said Sam at last, "I guess it's time I better be gettin' home. So long, Penrod."

"So long, Sam," said Penrod feebly.

With solemn gaze he watched his friend out of sight. Then he went slowly into the house and after an interval occupied in a unique manner appeared in the library holding a pair of brilliantly gleaming shoes in his hand.

Mr. Schofield, reading the evening paper, glanced frowningly over it at his offspring.

"Look, papa," said Penrod; "I found your shoes where you'd taken 'em off in your room to put on your slippers, and they were all dusty. So I took 'em out on the back porch and gave 'em a good blacking. They shine up fine, don't they?"

"Well, I'll be a d-dud-dummed!" said the startled Mr. Schofield.

Penrod was zigzagging back to normal.

. . . . . .

The midsummer sun was stinging hot outside the little barber shop next to the corner drug store, and Penrod, undergoing a toilet preliminary to his very slowly approaching twelfth birthday, was adhesive enough to retain upon his face much hair as it fell from the shears.

There is a mystery here. The tonsorial processes are not unagreeable to manhood—in truth, they are soothing—but the hairs detached from a boy's head get into his eyes, his ears, his nose, his mouth and down his neck, and he does everywhere itch exerutiatingly. Wherefore he blinks, winks, weeps, twitches, condenses his countenance and squirms, and perchance the barber's scissors clip more than intended—belike an outlying flange of ear.

"Um—muh—ow!" said Penrod, this thing having happened.

"D' I touch y' up a little?" inquired the barbar, smiling falsely.

"Oob—uh!" The boy in the chair offered inarticulate protest, as the wound was rubbed with alum.

"That don't hurt," said the barber. "You will get it, though, if you don't sit stiller," he continued, nipping in the bud any attempt on the part of his patient to think that he already had "it."

"Pfuff!" said Penrod, meaning no disrespect, but endeavoring to dislodge a temporary mustache from his lip.

"You ought to see how still that little Georgie Bassett sits," the barber went on reprovingly. "I hear everybody says he's the best boy in town."

"Pfuff! Phirr!" There was a touch of intentional contempt in this.

"I haven't heard nobody around the neighborhood makin' no such remarks," added the barber, "about nobody of the name of Penrod Schofield."

"Well," said Penrod, clearing his mouth after a struggle, "who wants 'em to? Ouch!"

"I hear they call Georgie Bassett the 'little gentleman,'" ventured the barber provocatively, meeting with instant success.

"They better not call me that," returned Penrod truculently. "I'd like to hear anybody try. Just once, that's all! I bet they'd never try it ag—Ouch!"

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Girl Who Saved The General.

"Little maid," he said hurriedly, "will you hide me?"

"LITTLE girls are often just as brave as little boys," declared daddy, "if not braver, and they show real resource in danger. I will tell you a little story which will illustrate this.

"It is a story of the Revolution, when the thirteen colonies of America gained their independence and became the United States.

"A great deal of the fighting was done in the state of Pennsylvania. Some of the people were in favor of England and helped her troops, but a great many more were on the side of the colonists. There were many farms throughout that section, and the farmers and their sons took up arms for the colonies in many cases, and this is where the little girl of my story comes in.

"This little girl was about twelve years old, and she was the daughter of a farmer who favored Washington and his brave men. But he was lame and couldn't be a soldier, so he helped the cause in other ways. Colonial troops who passed by were welcome to the produce of his farm and might stable their horses in his barns. His family made clothing for the soldiers too.

"One day the farmer and his wife were called away, and they left the little girl at home spinning. It was a very interesting sight to see the little maid, with her prim little cap and her long flowing brown skirt and tiny apron, sitting there turning the big wheel and dreaming dreams.

"Suddenly she heard a step and looked up to see a man in a Continental uniform and a sword at his side, right there in the quaint old kitchen, with its sanded floor and the big clock ticking on the wall, looking at her.

"'Little maid,' he said hurriedly, 'will you hide me somewhere? British troops are after me. They shot my horse from under me and will be here shortly. If you are a friend of the colonists you will aid me.'

"Then the little maid had a bright idea. Right under her feet was a trapdoor leading to a walled off part of the cellar that was seldom used. 'Right down here,' she said, and, rising, she tugged at the iron ring and lifted the trapdoor, and down into the cellar went the soldier, sword and all.

"In a few moments along came the British soldiers, and they looked all over that house, while the little girl sat and spun, with her skirt over the closed trapdoor. Then the British went away, and the little maid opened the trapdoor and let the soldier out and took him to the barn, where he got one of her father's horses and safely escaped.

"Later he sent that little maid a letter and a present. Then she found she had saved a great American general from capture."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

As Fred Joplin went down the steps of Olive Dunn's home, staggered under the blow of her rejection of him, he almost stumbled against the figure of a woman, who sprang into his path from the shadow beside the steps.

He stepped back, but the woman laid a hand on his arm.

"Is this Mr. Joplin?" she asked in a low voice.

"Yes," he replied after a moment's hesitation. "What do you want with me?"

"I was the wife of Dr. Ellson," said the woman, glancing nervously from side to side. "May I speak to you a moment? Let us not stop here," and they moved on together.

"I have been waiting here to speak to you. You got a letter that I wrote to you anonymously?" she said after a pause.

"Yes," he answered laconically. The woman was uncanny; he felt like taking to his heels.

"You know the doctor came on here to see this girl; missed a day at the medical convention to take her to the theater and be entertained at her home. I can't think of letting that beautiful girl marry him and suffer what I suffered. It's unthinkable. You must stop it."

"I can do nothing," he answered moodily.

"She won't marry you?" So deadly earnest was the woman's voice that it did not even occur to Joplin to resent the woman's question, or withhold the truth from her.

"Then together we must think of some way to end this impossible situation." They walked along in silence for a time; then the woman said:

"We can do nothing with her, but perhaps a letter from a man of your position might show the doctor how the world regards these things; might shame him into keeping away from her."

As they passed under an electric light he noticed that the woman was fiercely wringing her hands and her face was drawn and pale.

"Miss Dunn says they are the merest acquaintances," he began.

"That's not true," she interrupted fiercely. "He has sent her roses and she has been heard to say he was very attractive. I suppose it is that morbid pity that some girls have for criminals."

"That can't be; she's not that kind of a girl," began Joplin. The woman stopped and fixed her piercing black eyes on him.

"Much you know about women," she began. "Trust me, that friend of hers, Mrs. Morton, has filled her full of his supposed sufferings; she is half in love with him herself. He has charm; that's where the danger lies. I tell you she's in grave peril."

"Let me see you to your home, madam." Joplin spoke in low tones, as if he feared listeners. The tense excitement of his companion was putting him under a spell.

"Thank you, I have a room not far from here, and I prefer to go alone. Write to this address if you wish to reach me." She handed him a slip of paper. "Good night." She turned and was gone.

Joplin stood staring after her, unable to move until she disappeared from view; then he walked slowly to the garage, where his car was waiting, and drove away through the dim, starlit night.

What should he do? Was the woman insane? He remembered Olive had called the 'plot' an hallucination of a crazy brain. Would anything he could do or say help the matter any? Yet could he sit idle and see Olive marry a divorced man, one whose wife from some cause was almost a lunatic? He pondered the question all the way back to Ann Arbor.

Household Hints

SOUP WISDOM

In making cream of tomato, corn, spinach or any other vegetable cream soup, it is a good plan to thicken the soup before straining the vegetable. Then one straining will remove the thick parts of the vegetable unsuitable for soup and will remove any lumps from the thickening.

Remember in mixing a cream soup to pour the meat or vegetable liquid on the milk to avoid curdling. Always pour the tomato mixture in the milk in cream tomato soup. Many cooks do not use soda in mixing tomato soup, for they say that when the tomato is poured on the milk there is no danger of curdling. However, a pinch of soda is a safeguard.

To give an amber color to stock, add finely grated carrot to it. Tomato juice gives a red tone. Spinach leaves, pounded until the juice is pressed out, give a green color. Add enough of the green juice to gain the desired tint. A little burned sugar or flour gives a deep brown color to soup.

The addition of cold or warm water to soup in the cooking spoils it. If it is necessary to add more water to cooking soup, add bubbling, boiling water.

TABLE WARE

Among the customs of our grandmothers was that of giving personal care to the fragile cups, saucers and other pieces of fine china and glass, and it was probably this appreciative attention which made the china last so long. A little tub or sometimes a silver basin filled with hot soapsuds was brought to the housemother on a tray, directly after each meal. She would then gather up the silver, glass and egg shell cups, and wash, dry and put them away.

The idea is again becoming popular, and no housekeeping outfit is complete without its small cedar tub, mop, tray and soft linen towels.

THE TABLE

Baked Egg Hash—Ordinary hash may be greatly improved in this way: Chop the beef and potato as usual, season well, add milk to moisten slightly, put in baking dish and bake about half an hour, or until slightly browned on top. Then separate the yolks and whites of as many eggs as may be required, being careful not to break the yolk. Beat whites to a stiff froth, and pile in as many heaps as you have yolks on the hash. Make a slight depression in each side and slip a yolk into each of these. Place in oven until the yolk is set and white slightly browned. This makes a very attractive dish.

Good Bran Bread—Three cups sour milk, three-fourths cup brown sugar, two teaspoons soda, one pint bran, one teaspoon salt, two pints graham flour. Stir soda into sour milk till it foams good; put in salt and sugar, stir till dissolved. Lastly, add bran and graham flour. Pour into two well-buttered bread pans and bake one hour in very slow oven.

Brown Bread Which Is Excellent—One cup brown sugar, one cup white flour, three cups graham flour, two cups sour or buttermilk, one half cup milk, one egg, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla, spoon butter, one level teaspoon soda. Put in two pans and bake one hour.

Johnnycake—One cup corn meal, half cup flour, pinch of salt, three tablespoons brown sugar, one tablespoon melted lard, one cup butter milk with one teaspoon soda dissolved in it. Add two well-beaten eggs just before baking. Bake about thirty minutes in a hot oven.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES

For Toothache—Heat two tablespoons vinegar. Dip a little absorbent cotton in the hot vinegar and apply to the gum at the root of the aching tooth.

To Relieve Pain—A turpentine compress is made of half pound corn meal, half cup turpentine. Make mush in usual way, add turpentine, spread between two cloths. Lay flannel over the flesh, then mush bag, then cover thickly, so the patient will form a sweat. From thirty to sixty minutes usually stops pain.

"Hello, Agnes! It's Louise talking. I'm 'phoning to say good-bye to you; we're leaving on the afternoon train. Tired? Why should I be? I haven't fussed a bit to get ready. We're going to a rather quiet place on account of the children, you know, so I don't need much in the way of clothes, and as for the youngsters, I took them both over to Hahne's, had them fitted out from head to foot in the Infant Wear Department, and there you are! Expensive? Not nearly so much as having everything made, and the bother of it! Not for me.

"Wish you were coming with us, Agnes, but if I had a place like yours I'd not change either. Yes, our trip will be in the nature of an experiment, but I like the fun of trying out new places. Risky on account of the children's milk? Nonsense. I always take a large supply of Imperial Granum with me. What for? Why to modify cows' milk, of course. Agnes, please listen to me—my children have never had a sick day since they've had Imperial Granum. I'm not afraid to take them anywhere. Imperial Granum renders the milk digestible and makes a nourishing food, and the way I prepare it, the milk is really sterilized in the process of cooking and is made absolutely safe. Then, I've been places where I could not get cows' milk, so I used condensed milk with the Imperial Granum. Well, Agnes, you doubter, of-course I know condensed milk alone for continuous baby feeding is harmful, but Imperial Granum adds the nourishing elements lacking in the condensed milk. You'll certainly have to admit that my 'kiddies' are pretty healthy specimens, and all I've ever used for that result has been Imperial Granum and common sense.

"Well, bye-bye, Agnes dear, have a wonderful time in your wonderful 'home-by-the-sea.' See you in the Fall. Yes indeed, I'll write as soon as I arrive. Good-bye!"

IMPERIAL GRANUM, the Unsweetened Food for Nursing Mothers and Babies, is sold in three sizes at Hahne's Infant Wear Department, second floor.

Ask for a free copy of "The Care of Babies," a book every mother should own. If unable to call, write to Hahne & Co.'s Infant Wear Department, and a copy will be sent you, free of charge.

FRIEND OF GENERAL GRANT IS DEAD IN ELIZABETH

Henry Clay Russell, who had a harness business near the tannery of General Ulysses S. Grant, of Galena, Ill., when the later was a lieutenant after the Mexican War, died suddenly yesterday of paralysis at his home, No. 27 West Jersey street, Elizabeth. He was eighty-seven years old. He was a native of Mendham, Morris county, and early in life went to sea, making two trips across the Pacific Ocean abord a whaler. When on one of these trips he was attacked with scurvy and on being taken ashore was buried three days on an island until he recovered. In later years he settled in Galena.

Mr. Russell was one of the founders of the Republican party in Illinois. He voted for Fremont and Dayton in 1856. During the Civil War he commanded a vessel which carried wounded soldiers from the South to hospitals in the North. He had lived in Elizabeth forty years. A wife, one son and a daughter survive him.

METUCHEN LAD IS FINED $50 FOR 50 CENT THEFT

Metuchen, June 26.—Andrew Garsick, 15 years old, the sole support of his mother and three young sisters, was convicted by a jury of the Middlesex County Court of Common Pleas of stealing 50 cents worth of brass junk from the shipyard of former City Treasurer John H. Gregory, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men of Middlesex county. He was sentenced yesterday by Judge Peter Francis Daly to pay a fine of $50 and to be put on probation.

Steven F. Somogyi, counsel for the boy, made a plea for leniency. Judge Daly said he would have to impose a fine inasmuch as the lad had cost the county the expense of a trial.

Y. W. C. A. MEMBERS IN DAZZLING LAWN FETE

Affair on Association Grounds Last Night Witnessed by Large Audience.

The beautiful lawn in the rear of the Y. W. C. A. scintillated with variously colored lights last night, the occasion being the presentation of the Japanese lawn fete, under the auspices of the Camp and Conference Club of the association. Japanese lanterns, candles and gorgeous gowns of the far eastern countries, all tended to make the atmosphere as oriental as possible. The spacious piazza of the building was occupied with friends and parents of the performers who received round after round of hearty applause from the appreciative audience.

The folowing young women attired in Japanese costume and with fan in hand gave an exhibition of the dance of that country in an excellent fashion: The Misses Ethel Blazier, Henrietta Englehardt, Marion Englehardt, Nettie Steiner, Reba Kline, Doris McCarrick, Elizabeth Wetherell and Ella Coddington.

Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, director of the physical department, delighted her spectators with an aesthetic dance, her grace and beauty of movement captivating her audience. Throughout the evening Japanese souvenirs were on sale and dainty refreshments were served. Miss Wetherell had charge of the affair and coached the participants in the various productions.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASS'N AIDS FUND

Appropriates $25 for the Independence Day Celebration at Parker Field.

MAYOR SENDS A CHECK

Only $35 is Needed to Complete the $300 to Make the Observance a Great Success—Commission Meets This Afternoon.

Only $35 is needed to complete the fund of $300 required to provide for the Independence Day celebration at Parker Field, and it is believed that this small sum will be subscribed today. The Playground Commission will meet at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., and it is the opinion that by that time the $300 will be reported.

The Business Men's Association gave the fund a big boost this morning by contributing $25, and a little later a check for $15 was received from Mayor Calkins, who is in Boston. He expressed the hope that there would be no trouble in raising the required amount, adding, "as the celebration will give a great deal of pleasure to many people; and the Playground Commission works hard with very little to work on, and deserves support."

Other contributions today included: Councilman George S. Clay, $10; "M. C. E.," $10; "Visitor," $2, all of which brings the total amount up to $265. The members of the Business Men's Association contributing to the fund are:

WILL GIVE AWAY SHETLAND PONIES

Merchants and Manufacturers Combine for Great Advertising Campaign

The leading merchants of Plainfield and manufacturers of various products will inaugurate a selling and advertising campaign in this city and surrounding territory beginning tomorrow and extending over a period of seventeen weeks. They will offer rewards for efforts of the boys and girls under the age of sixteen years who assist in promoting the sale of these products and patronizing merchants who have subscribed to the plan. Three thoroughbred registered Shetland ponies will be given to the contestants who secure the largest number of votes, also a beautiful buggy and harness will be given, in other words, a complete Shetland pony outfit, valued at $350.

Every girl and boy's desire is for one of these little pets and if they can get the support of their friends and relatives and do a little hard work for a few weeks their efforts will be rewarded. In each issue of the paper on page five you will find a valuable coupon. Cut this out and bring it to central headquarters and receive 100 votes. With every dollar paid by subscribers of the Plainfield Daily Press they will receive 2,000 votes. So assist them by subscribing for this paper, give them a good start, as a good start generally wins in contests.

On page three a full page description advertisement appears today. Read every word of it, then lay your plans to win one of the little beauties. Proctor's Theatre is the only theatre in Plainfield which gives 100 votes with each admission in the McKean three pony contest.

PARK AVE. STEEPLE WILL BE SAVED

Money to Make Needed Repairs Pledged by Congregation at Morning Service.

The steeple of the Park Avenue Baptist church has had a narrow escape from demolition, but all danger is past for the present. During the thirty-five or forty years it has reared its pinnacle towards the sky it has been a constant source of expense to the church, and the board of trustees has often considered removing it. This action was just about decided upon at a board meeting the other evening because repairs to the slate roof on the steeple which have become absolutely necessary, will cost at least $100.

But sentiment protested loudly against the removal of the steeple which has always been associated with the church, and when the matter was put up to the congregation by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, yesterday morning, money enough to insure the necessary repairs was pledged immediately, and the steeple was saved.

The pinnacle is roofed with slate which has been in place ever since the church was erected, and many of the slate are hanging so loosely that there is imminent danger of their falling and doing injury to some one passing. Whether this condition of the roof was brought about through the ordinary wear and tear of the elements or whether the steeple was struck by lightning at some time the trustees do not know, but they had estimates presented, both for repairing the roof and removing the steeple altogether. Six hundreds dollars was the lowest estimate for removing the steeple and $100 for renewing the roof.

Mr. Hudson stated these facts to the congregation yesterday morning and declared that a large number of the church members would be sorry to see the steeple go. He urged the people to raise the $100 needed to repair the steeple and in a short time pledges for the sum required were in the hands of the trustees. The work of repairing the roof will proceed at once.

WILLIAM T. JOHNSON.

William T. Johnson, colored, well-known to many Plainfielders, died yesterday and will be buried tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the undertaking parlors at 200 West Second street. Johnson was employed as a coachman by some various families here, having been a driver for the Boice, Runyon Company just before his removal from this city. He was 65 years of age.

MUSIC PUPILS GIVE EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Mrs. Grace Powell Karr-Giese' Proteges Render Pleasing Recital.

A program representing the best compositions of classic composers, past and present, was rendered Saturday night in the auditorium of the Franklin School, when the pupils of Mrs. Grace Powell Karr-Giese presented their second recital. The audience was an enthusiastic one and parents were well pleased with the quality of the pupils' work.

The following took part: Misses Mildred M. Clark, Marion V. Avery, Ruth R. Carver, Mary E. Roth, Gertrude E. Rittenhouse, Grace H. Gillahan, Beatrice E. DeCamp, Alice F. Simon, Grace E. Kelly, Adele M. Keen, Madeline H. Maguire, Dorothy M. Johnson, Marion D. Rose, and Masters Herbert M. Hooker and Paul J. Johnson. Prizes were awarded to Misses Alice F. Simon and Beatrice E. DeCamp for being on the monthly honor roll at least six times during the year and to Miss Gertrude E. Rittenhouse for having the best all round lessons of any class pupil since Christmas.

A feature of the recital was the address given by Ludwig Thoms, the blind composer of "On Wings of Joy" or "I Should Worry." In speaking he gave a brief resume of the life of some of the greatest musicians the world has ever known and their gradual rise to fame. Concluding he called attention to some points which are of special interest to music students, namely, repose, concentration, touch, technic, will power, perseverance, reviewing and memorizing.

U. S. INSISTS THAT PORT REMAIN OPEN

Gunboat Marietta Disatched to Progresso at Full Speed to Protect Shipping.

Washington, June 28—Another attempt by the Carranzistas to shut the Port of Progresso up and end exports of sisal fibre, brought swift action from the United States today. Orders were sent by wireless to the gunboat Marietta on her way from Havana to Vera Cruz to proceed at full speed to Progresso and see to it that the port is kept open and shipping protected.

Official information reaching the State Department today indicated that the conditions in Mexico City are again intolerable and that there is no food there. How long the Zapata soldiery can withstand the attacks of the Carranzistat is believed to be a matter of hours. Thus far the two attacks by General Gonzales have failed, but the arrival of reinforcements is expected to turn the tide in his favor.

SEVERAL ORGANIZATIONS MAY ASSIST IN CEREMONY

The cornerstone of the new post-office building in this city will be laid with Masonic ceremonies, the assistant secretary of the Treasury having granted the request of A. H. Osmun to that effect, and so notified Superintendent of Construction Nealy. The permission carries with it the proviso that the United States be not involved in any expense thereby and that no inscription be placed on the cornerstone other than what is shown on the full size drawing now in the possession of the superintendent.

Any other responsible organization may also have a part in the ceremonies. Permission of the contractor will have to be obtained before any definite plans for the cornerstone laying are made.

ENJOYED PICNIC.

A party of local young women spent yesterday hiking to Washington Rock, enjoying several hours' rest there and a trolley ride home. Those who made up the party were: The Misses Elizabeth V. Casey, Nellie C. Casey, May Day, Josie Birmingham, Rita Carty, Margaret Burke, Mamie Burke and Teresa McGinley.

SUFFAGE MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield will be held at suffrage headquarters tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A large attendance is urged as matters of importance pertaining to the summer campaign will be brought up for discussion.

WAS ILL A LONG TIME

Admitted to the Bar in 1862 and Had Been Active up to a Year Ago—Father of Assemblyman Runyon Who Was His Law Partner.

Following upon an illness which recently necessitated his permanent retirement after more than a half century of professional life, death came to Nelson Runyon, father of Nelson Runyon.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon, at the latter's home, 136 East Ninth street, at 2:15 this morning. Increasing infirmities made his death not wholly unexpected to immediate members of the family, but it came as a decided and sudden shock to his wide circle of acquaintances throughout this State when it was announced this morning. His activity at the New Jersey bar up to the time of his withdrawal from public notice made him one of the best known and most highly respected practitioners in Union county and Central New Jersey and his demise is mourned by hundreds. Had he lived until December next he would have been able to

TORWALD LARSEN DIES AFTER WEEK'S ILLNESS

Torwald Larson, 27 years old, died at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday after a week's illness, from pneumonia. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church, East Seventh street, of which the deceased was a member and a tenor singer in the choir. Rev. Carl Anderson, the pastor, will have charge, assisted by Rev. J. C. Westlund, of Summit, with which church Mr. Larson was connected before his removal to this city.

The young man was a carpenter by trade and boarded at 726 West Fourth street. He was single, but was to have been married to a Summit woman in the near future. As far as is known, he leaves no near relatives in this country, having come to the United States from Sweden eight years ago. He had resided in Plainfield for a year and a half. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

EDWARD WAY IMPROVING.

Edward J. Way, of Arlington avenue, this city, at present a patient in St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, continues to improve, and is well on the road to recovery. Mr. Way was seriously injured a week ago in an automobile accident near Metuchen that nearly cost him his life, his right lung being punctured at the time. The young man expresses appreciation for all the kindnesses shown him during his confinement in the institution and wishes to thank all his friends for their interest. Mr. Way is connected with the Plainfield Auto Tire Company.

MRS. MC CANN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Laura A. McCann, whose death occurred last Thursday in Muhlenberg Hospital, was held from the mortuary chapel of J. J. Higgins on West Fourth street, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Attlee, of this city, and interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Daniel Rapalje, wife of the Rev. Daniel Rapalje, of Carlton avenue, was taken to the hospital this morning to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

PROPERTY OWNERS FAVOR MOVEMENT

Sentiment Advanced by Those Who Sign Somerset Street Widening Petition.

The petition calling for the widening of Somerset street, as mentioned exclusively in last Friday's issue of the Daily Press, was put into circulation Saturday morning by Herbert Grant, who is acting as a representative of Elston M. French in the matter. The petition has already been signed by seven of the eleven property owners on the thoroughfare between Front street and the bridge over Green brook, and it is expected that two other names will be added before evening. These two men could not be reached this morning, but have expressed themselves as being favorable to the improvement.

Mr. Grant also stated this morning that another petition, to be signed by business men in the centre of the city, would be circulated when the first one is completed, and both would be filed with City Clerk MacMurray on Friday or Saturday of this week. Maps showing the improvements are being prepared, and blue prints of the same will be on file at this office, as well as the office of E. M. French, on North avenue, some time tomorrow.

The petitions, together with available information relative to the movement, will be presented to the Common Council when it gathers for the July meeting on Tuesday evening of next week. What attitude the present Council will take on the subject at this time is not known.

OPTIMISTIC OVER ANTICIPATED REPLY

State Department Believes Germany's Answer Will Be Favorable.

Washington, June 28.—Optimism reigns in the State Department regarding the reply of Germany to the last note on the Lusitania sinking. An official despatch from Berlin to the State Department today indicated very strongly that the German note would be along favorable lines. It is believed here that the popular demand published throughout Germany for peaceful settlement of the German difficulties with the United States has had its effect on the government in Berlin and that the German note will make a counter proposition to the United States which will, it is believed, result in peaceful and satisfactory settlement of the matter. The nature of this proposition is not known at present to the American government, neither is the probable date of the American reply.

THIRST QUENCHING EMPORIUM RAIDED BY THE LOCAL POLICE

Following a period of several weeks' espionage Captain John J. Flynn and Lieut. Maurice Higgins "pulled" a "yellow dog speak-easy" in the rear of French's Mill on Somerset street at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, taking into custody Arthur, alias "Slippery" Thompson, the proprietor; Boyle Jackson, Eldrige Kline and Emery Gillette, all colored. The police came upon Thompson's "get-rich-quick" idea just as the three inmates were devouring beer which they had purchased at the Sunday "speak-easy" price of fifteen cents a bottle.

During the period of surveillance Higgins and Flynn saw much that will be of material value in convicting the men when they are arraigned for trial tomorrow morning, the evidence being of a nature that will serve to round up other keepers of illegal Sunday thirst-quenching emporiums.

PICNIC IN HYDE'S ORCHARD.

Members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Lutheran church and a large number of their friends enjoyed an outdoor picnic in Hyde's orchard Saturday afternoon and night. During the afternoon sports of various kinds were played and prizes for the winners were awarded. In the evening a supper was served by the members of the Ladies' Aid. Miss Alma Joanson had charge of the outing and she was assisted by the members of the club.

SMALL CHIMNEY FIRE.

An alarm from box 12, corner Park avenue and Somerset street, about noon yesterday called the department to a colored tenement house in the rear of 34 Somerset street, where a small chimney fire above the apartment occupied by Henry Wilson was discovered. Two extinguishers put out the blaze.

GEORGE T. ROGERS NOT A CANDIDATE

Former Borough Councilman Will Support Mayor Clark and Present Council.

Rumors in circulation in North Plainfield political circles today connected the name of former Councilman George T. Rogers with the mayoralty nomination at the fall primaries. When questioned about the matter, Mr. Rogers said:

"While I have the highest regard for William L. Smalley and have always been friendly with him, I believe that Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and the present Council have an important work on hand and they should be allowed to carry it out, provided they wish to do so. In that case I would feel like lending my support to the present officials. I make this statement at a great sacrifice, but believe that this is a poor time to swap horses."

Another rumor had it that Councilman Julius J. Stahl would seek the nomination for mayor to succeed Mr. Clark, but when he was questioned Mr. Stahl emphatically denied that he had any such intentions of entering the race.

Thus far Mr. Smalley is the only one who has declared his intentions of going after the office now held by Mr. Clark. The latter was reported last week as having decided to retire at the end of his term, but it is possible that pressure may be brought to bear to have him seek a re-election. Many strange things are likely to happen between now and the primaries in September.

PILLARS OF FIRE IN FEAR OF THEIR LIVES

Religious Sect Claim They Have Been Threatened and Ask Protection.

Prejudice caused by certain alleged verbal attacks on other denominations of religious worship made by speakers during the meetings of the Pillar of Fire revival in this city Saturday night, caused a near riot on the Watchung avenue meeting grounds and threats to carry the disturbance still further have been made by various individuals to go into effect if the Pillars do not discontinue their present campaign. Statements made by speakers and construed by some persons as being direct attacks on exponents of the Protestant and Catholic faiths, have been the cause of the present ill-feeling and the opponents of the Pillar of Fire creed were out in full force Saturday night. The only violence done, however, came in a hard "right to the jaw" delivered by a perturbed bystander and which landed with telling effect on one of the Pillar's chin.

A delegation of the sect, which has been dubbed the "Holy Jumpers," visited Chief Kiely at police headquarters this morning, making a complaint against the annoyance caused them and telling the chief that one of their men had to remain at the headquarters in Bound Brook this morning owing to the condition of his countenance following the effects of the administering of a pugilist's sample treatment Saturday night. They further complained that during their trip from this city to Bound Brook, via Lincoln late Saturday night, they were pelted with overripe eggs that had long since passed the state of usefulness, until certain members of their flock resembled human omelets.

In speaking to the leader of the clan this morning, Chief Kiely said: "Your people will receive the same consideration and protection from my department as any other religious sect or meeting receives. But during the twenty-six years I have been connected with the Plainfield police department I have never had a case of this kind called to my attention. I am at a loss to understand why our city's people, who as a class are thoroughly law-abiding, would lower themselves to commit an assault on exponents of any creed if there was not some just cause for it."

FATHER BOGAN ASSISTED.

Funeral services of Mother Mary Xavier Mehegan, sister superior of St. Elizabeth's Convent, who passed away on Thursday, after a lingering illness, were held this morning at 10 o'clock in the convent. The Rt. Rev. Bishop John J. O'Connor, celebrated the solemn pontifical high mass. Rev. B. M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's, this city, acted as deacon.

RUSSIAN ARMY AGAIN IN FLIGHT

Officially Admitted That Germans Have Crossed the Dniester on the Front.

WAR COUNCIL IS HELD

Mehmed Naby Bey, Turkish Ambassador, to Leave Rome—Political Situation in Greece Will Remain Unchanged Until July 20.

London, June 28.—Austro-German guns have again driven the Russians back and the Czar's army is again in flight north and south of Lemberg.

The Russians officially admit the Germans have crossed the Dniester on the front between Bobska and Zurawna in Galicia south of Lemberg.

The Teuton forces, according to the German foreign office, have crossed the river west of Halicz and have driven the Russians back into the hills for miles.

Petrograd reports that the Czar was at an important war council at army headquarters.

The new Austro-German guns are responsible for the retreat of the Russians.

Most devastating of all are the new Skoda shells of the German allies, which are 17 inches in diameter and weigh 2,800 pounds. The Skoda howitzer shoots at a high angle, and its shells penetrates twenty feet into soft earth before exploding two seconds after striking. These howitzers do not resemble the Krupp mortars of the same calibre, to which they are said to be superior in every way.

When a Skoda shell hits it means death to everything within a radius of 150 yards and even farther off. The mere pressure of its gas rips open the bomb shell proof and catches those who escape the metal fragments and flying debris.

This gas enters the body cavities and tears flesh asunder, sometimes stripping men of their clothes. Of course, the men in the immediate neighborhood of the explosion are annihilated.

So strong is the heat of the explosion of the shell that it melts rifle barrels as if they had been struck by lightning.

Seven-eights of the wounds in the Galician fighting were caused by shells, half of which were fired from big calibre guns, according to Surgeon-Major Lesghintseff in an interview at Warsaw in returning from the front.

"Bullets play no part now," he continued, "and the infantryman's rifle is a toy. Infantry merely occupy the trenches the cannon have won."

Petrograd, June 28—A Russian official statement given out today admits the Russians on the Bobrka and Zurawna front in Galicia, south of Lemberg, are falling back. The statement adds that in the Caucasus theatre, in the region of Van, Turkish Armenia, a battle between Russian troops and a great hostile force is in progress.

Rome, June 28—Mehmed Naby Bay, the Turkish ambassador to Italy, has demanded his passports and it is now believed that Italy is about to join in the Dardanelles operations.

It was officially denied today that the Cabinet Council had decided upon an Italian expedition to the Dardanelles and had already despatched warships thither. Commenting that an official denial may be more useful than accurate, the Tribuna indicates that yesterday's news of the co-operation of Italy with the Anglo-French forces at the Dardanelles was not censored, although today it is contradicted. It draws the conclusion that war time denials are justifiable.

Paris, June 28—The French war office gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"Nothing of importance occurred during the night except two German attacks, one at the Calonne trench and the other to the east of Metzeral, both of which were repulsed."

Athens, June 28—The political situation in Greece will remain unchanged, so far as can be judged at present, until the new Parliament is convoked July 20. The present Ministry will remain in office until that time. The condition of King Constantine is reported to be satisfactory as he is gaining strength as rapidly as could be expected.

London, June 28 The Donaldson Liner, Indrani, 640 tons, bound from Glasgow to Quebec, has been torpedoed by a German submarine. The crew was saved. The Indrani was a British steamer used for transporting war supplies from Canada to Great Britain.

A despatch from Petrograd today says that the officers of the Russian general staff announced that they

POLICE HEADQUARTERS TO REMAIN OPEN ALL DAY

Police headquarters and the Borough Hall are now being treated to new lettering on the windows and doors, the work having recently been authorized by the Borough Council. Police headquarters will hereafter be open all day, owing to the fact that the members of the force have recently experienced inconveniences by the place being closed. Recorder David S. Campbell will be in charge of the place at all hours.

In this connection, a movement has been started whereby the office of Tax Collector Isaac J. Stites would be moved from North avenue east of Washington avenue, to the same building as the borough court and the Borough Hall, thus bringing all of the offices of the municipal departments under one roof. Many of the citizens have expressed themselves as being in favor of the move for the sake of the convenience of the greater portion of the population who may have business of a public nature to transact.

HARRIS-SILVER-BAKER CO. PLAN SEVERAL HOMES

Following the announcement last week to the effect that the concern now erecting a chemical factory at New Market was to erect from fifteen to twenty dwellings with five and six rooms and bath, during the course of the summer to accommodate their employes, comes a like announcement from the Harris-Silver-Baker Company, of Brooklyn, who are erecting a structural iron plant in the Samptown section of Piscataway township. One or two of the Dunellen real estate agents and contracting builders, however, are now in communication with the latter concern in view of being able to secure a portion of the work, at least, for local craftsmen.

An effort is to be made to determine the number and style of houses needed as well as the time when the dwellings will be needed, in order that local capital as well as local labor may be interested in caring for the work which will be created when a large number of out-of-town employes will be brought to this vicinity.

From present indications neither of the plants will be ready for the employment of any great number of men for some little time, and probably not until after September 1, although the work is being pushed on both of the shops. New Market and adjacent portions of the township, in the meantime, are planning to keep as many of the future employes of the shops as they possibly can.

COUNCIL TO MEET.

The fourth meeting of the Borough Council for the month of June occurs tonight, at which time a number of matters of a routine nature and other questions relative to the construction of the sewerage collecting system will be taken up. The Borough Council thus far this year has averaged three sittings a month, owing to the large amount of pressing business in connection with the sewer and street work which has been going on in Dunellen.

The Misses Alice Biggs and Lillian Nagle, who have been confined to their homes with cases of diphtheria, have recovered and are now able to be about.

ROBERT BOGARDUS WILL COMPLETE THE CENSUS TODAY

The taking of the census of the borough will be practically completed today by the enumerator, Robert Bogardus, of New Market road. Mr. Bogardus has been retarded somewhat in his work by a certain type of foreigner who it is hard to make understand just what is wanted. At this time Mr. Bogardus is of the opinion that the population of the borough will be just a trifle shy of the 3,000 mark, although sure that it will pass the 2,500 by far.

The census returns will be made up and sent to the Capital City by Thursday, after which time official announcement will be made as to the exact population of the borough.

DUNELLEN PEOPLE ARE DISCUSSING FUSION TICKET

The hot weather political bee is beginning to buzz in certain sections of the borough, as the terms of Mayor Ernest A. Latham, Councilmen Richard M. Ryan and William C. Castner, and Tax Collector Isaac J. Stites all expire on January 1 of next year. The Mayor is a Republican by affiliation, while the other three are Democrats. From present indications, it is highly probable, as has been the case in previous years, that a fusion ticket for local offices will be in the field, thus giving the borough a sense of certainty that the administration will be non-partisan in its makeup. The fusion ticket has been tried out in previous campaigns, and the borough has benefitted in having the best men in office. The present incumbrants will all be candidates for the fusion nominations next fall.

FRANK MAGOWAN, FORMER MAYOR OF TRENTON, DEAD

Frank A. Magowan, one-time Mayor of Trenton, long a power in the business and political affairs of New Jersey, and at various times mentioned as a candidate for Governor and United States Senator, died yesterday in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, after being in a condition of uraemic coma for more than two days.

He was sixty-one years old and was found unconscious in Hudson street, Hoboken, late Thursday night by a policeman who, not knowing his identity, had him carried to the hospital. Only once during the last two days did he regain consciousness, and that was for a moment when he whispered to Dr. Pflugh, the attending physician, that he was "all right."

The tragic death of Mr. Magowan in such circumstances brings to an end a stormy and picturesque career and the manner of his taking off is in keeping with the losing fight of twenty years against adversities. Had it not been for a chance conversation between two policemen of Hoboken there is a chance that the man once regarded as one of the wealthiest in New Jersey would have died alone and unknown in the charity ward of a public hospital.

Dumas and His Porthos.

Dumas, like Balzac, was fond of his own creations. Among them all he loved Porthos best. The great, strong vain hero was a child after his own heart. One afternoon, it is related, his son found Dumas careworn, wretched overwhelmed. "What has happened to you? Are you ill?" asked Dumas fils "No," replied Dumas pere. "Well what is it then?" "I am miserable." "Why?" "This morning I killed Porthos—poor Porthos! Oh, what trouble I have had to make up my mind to do it! But there must be an end to all things. Yet when I saw him sink beneath the ruins, crying, 'It is too heavy too heavy for me!' I swear to you that I cried!" And he wiped away a tear with the sleeve of his dressing gown.

An Old Indian Drum.

The Sioux Indians formerly had a conjurer's drum, which they called wakanchanchagha. It was used on religious and ceremonial occasions, had two heads frequently decorated with crude pictures of animals, and was beaten with great vigor for the purpose of appeasing the wrath of their offended deities or of contributing to the recovery of the sick.

Africa.

Africa is the most elevated of all the continents. It is the "continent of plateaus." The great tableland in the south has a mean altitude of over 3,500 feet. The wide tableland on the north has an average elevation of about 1,300 feet.

Mr. Flubdub.—You women are mighty slow. During the time it took you to select that hat I went out and made two hundred dollars.

WHERE HER THOUGHTS WERE.

The husband was reading a newspaper account to his wife. Now and then he paused and asked a question. The nature of her replies made him doubt that she was listening closely. He accused her of having thoughts elsewhere, and she indignantly retorted that she had heard every word.

He continued reading for a few minutes, and then glanced at her. From the far-away look in her eyes he knew her thoughts were not upon the item he was reading. So, turning the sheet as an excuse for the pause, he continued as follows apparently reading:

"'Last night, at about two o'clock in the afternoon, just a few minutes before breakfast, a hungry boy about sixty years old bought a doughnut for nine pins and threw it through a concrete wall twenty feet thick. With a cry of despair he jumped into a dry mill-pond, broke his arm at the knee-joint, and was drowned. It was only ten years later, on the same day and at the same hour, that a goat gave birth to six elephants. A high wind then came up and killed three dead horses and a wooden cigar Indian.' What do you think of that, dear?" he questioned suddenly.

She gave a little start, smiled, and said:

"I think that's a splendid bargain, Henry. You had better get a half-dozen, for your stock of shirts is low!"

THE CAUSE OF HIS TROUBLE.

The Professor.—Interesting! Very interesting!

The Drone.—That's it! I'd be let alone if I wasn't so blamed interesting!

ANTIQUITY.

A chair encumbers our dim hall,
Moth-eaten is its faded seat;
Its legs are short, its back is tall;
'Tis but a trap for passing feet.
You cannot sit upon the Chair,
Its framework is so very weak;
But Wife insists its place is there
Because it's real antique.

A Table came from our home town
'Twas shaky, scratched, and full of nicks;
One leaf folds up, and one folds down;
It holds a brace of candlesticks.
It wobbles if you go too near;
The knobs are chipped, the drawers all leak;
Yet it has come to stay I fear,
Because it's real antique.

A Bed has shown up to replace
The staunch couch where I sought repose;
Bold Cupids stare me in the face;
The hanging draperies brush my nose;
And each one of the post quartette
Has a distinctly different squeak;
But Wife is singing paeans yet,
Because it's real antique.

All through our house it's just the same;
I'll grin and bear it, I suppose.
Perhaps, when I get worn and lame
And dull and careless of my clothes;
Perhaps, I say, they'll prize me then
And in endearing terms they'll speak,
And praise me to my fellow-men,
Because I'm real antique!

KIND OFFICES.

The young person in the story, on being apprised that she was about to sleep a hundred years, so to become the Sleeping Beauty, was not a little skeptical.

"Beauty, nothing! Why by the time I wake up every blessed thing I've got will be out of style!" she exclaimed petulantly.

But her fairy godmother, resourceful ever, could offer some consolation.

"At all events, my dear," chirped she cheerfully, "you need have no fear of the usual effect of slumber in making your nose shiny, for I shall drop in every little while and dab on a bit of powder!" With what result is well known, since the Prince, who at length broke the spell, is squarely on record as never having seen anyone half so ravishing.

The Men's Class of Grace Methodist church will hold a meeting tonight at the church parsonage.

PATRIOTIC CALL TO ALL CITIZENS

Observance of "Americanization Day" is Urged by Commissioner of Education.

Over fifty mayors of our largest cities have appointed mayor's committees as part of the National movement to make the Fourth of July, 1915, "Americanization Day."

"Americanization Day" is a patriotic call to all citizens, American-born and foreign- born alike, adults and children, to rally to American ideals, purposes, and common interests of many people united into one Nation.

These mayor's committees represent the city government, naturalization officials, board of education, city clubs, women's patriotic and civic organizations, social agencies, patriotic societies, and benevolent and fraternal organizations of foreign-born residents. These committees are arranging citizenship receptions for newly naturalized citizens and a national Americanization day committee is assisting these mayor's committees.

Among the features for this occasion already adopted by various cities is the giving of special recognition to the new citizens by having special admission tickets for them and their families so that, on entering the auditorium, they will be ushered to a special, raised platform on the stage. After American National airs have been rendered by a band, orchestra or singing societies, the pledge of allegiance will be recited in unison as the American flag is unfurled and the entire audience stands and salutes the colors. Several cities are planning pageants or tableaux presenting in vivid form American history; moving-picture films like "Uncle Sam at Work" will be shown.

Among the things the speakers on this occasion will emphasize are: That every foreign- speaking person in America should learn English by attending the public schools, because the English language is the master key to American opportunities and life, and the first step to real citizenship; that every illiterate immigrant should learn to read and write, so that he can read American newspapers and attend personally to his business matters; and that adults and children, native and foreign-born, be given civic training in both evening and day schools, so that every one in our country will understand the functions of our Government, the principles of democracy and for what America stands.

New York and St. Louis, through their public schools, have planned to have a special civic lesson on Flag Day, June 14, for the school children. These children will learn from their teachers the history of the American flag, what it represents and the "Declaration of Independence" as a "Declaration of Citizenship" will be explained. * * * Full particulars of the local citizenship reception on the Fourth of July will be given and each child will be requested to invite his parents to take him to the Americanization day celebration.

The schools have an opportunity, not heretofore offered, to co-operate with naturalization officials, mayor's committees, and others and should seek to place school facilities at their disposal to make the coming Fourth of July not only a celebration of our independence, but a day for strengthening the American spirit of nationality and uniting all classes, creeds and races into one intelligent democracy.

AMERICAN RIGHTS TO BE MAINTAINED

Japan and China Are Warned Concerning "Open Door" Policy

Pekin, June 28.—Warning that the United States would not recognize any agreement between China and Japan which impaired American rights in China or endangered the so-called "open-door" policy was conveyed to the governments of both China and Japan in an identical note from Washington which was delivered about May 15.

The note was handed to the Foreign offices of both countries a week after China had acceded to the demands contained in the Japanese ultimatum, insisting upon concessions from the former nation.

The United States note was, in substance, as follows:

"In view of the negotiations now pending between the government of China and the government of Japan and of the agreements which have been reached as a result thereof, the government of the United States has the honor to notify the government of the Chinese republic that it cannot recognize any agreement or undertaking which has been entered into, or which may be entered into, between the governments of China and Japan impairing the treaty rights of the United States and its citizens in China, the political or territorial integrity of the republic of China or the international policy relative to China, commonly known as the open-door policy. An identical note has been transmitted to the Japanese government."

NELSON RUNYON MOURNED

celebrate his seventy-fifth birthday, having been born December 3, 1840.

He was the son of Squire and Mary LaFarge Runyon, who resided at the time of his birth on a farm at Greenbrook, Warren township, Somerset county. He was the eleventh of a family of twelve children, two of whom survive him. They are Mrs. Cornelius K. Compton and Mrs. J. R. Morrison, both of North Plainfield. His early education was obtained in a country school near his home, but he later took an advanced course in the public schools of Plainfield, the family moving here in 1854.

He early held a leaning toward the law and studied Blackstone in the offices of Cornelius Boice, father-in-law of the late Joseph B. Coward. His law apprenticeship, however, was interrupted by the outbreak of the Civil War and he enlisted in Company H, Thirtieth Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers, with his brother, the late Francis S. Runyon. Their terms of enlistment covered a period of nine months and immediately upon his discharge from the army he resumed his studies. In 1862 he was admitted to the New Jersey bar, an event that was fittingly commemorated by the Plainfield Bar Association when it tendered him a testimonial dinner April 16, 1912 in honor of his completion of fifty years of legal practice. Mr. Runyon was one of the incorporators of the association.

After acquiring his credentials to practice law in this State he formed a partnership with his eldest brother, Enos W., under the firm name of E. W. and N. Runyon. His brother's death in the late eighties caused the discontinuance of this firm and in 1898 he entered into a second law partnership with William N. Runyon, one of Union county's present representatives and majority leader in the New Jersey Assembly. The firm then took the title of Nelson and William N. Runyon, continuing as such up to the present time.

Mr. Runyon was Plainfield's first city clerk, being elected in 1869 and serving during the successive years up to 1877. He was succeeded in 1878 by W. B. Smith. In 1880 he was elected city judge and held that position for three years. His affiliation with the local Y. M. C. A. dates back to the time of its organization, his name being enrolled on the charter list. Mr. Runyon was active in the association's work both as a member and director, serving on the board of directors for a number of years. He joined the Second Baptist church when a young man and later attended its successor, the Central Baptist church. When the Park Avenue Baptist church was founded his name was enrolled on the original roster of members and his interest with the religious institution continued up to the time he was stricken with his fatal illness.

On October 21, 1869, he married Miss Wilhelmina F. Trow, the daughter of the late William and Jane R. Trow, who passed away February 26, 1908. Four sons were born to the union but only two survive, William N. and Carroll T., a mechanical engineer, both living at home.

The funeral services will be held in the Park Avenue Baptist church Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

—The monthly business meeting of St. Mary's Social Club will be held tomorrow night in T. A. B. Hall. All members are requested to be present.

Plainfield, N. J., June 28, 1915.

It is gratifying to note the evident interest that the younger generation in our city is taking in municipal affairs, as exemplified in the results of this year's competition for the Daily Press literary prize among Plainfield High School seniors. Writing on subjects pertinent to civic welfare the contestants presented a commendable array of essays, many of which would be a credit to the veteran author. That the judges in charge of the award of the prize had a difficult task is admitted and the winner and the others who took part are to be congratulated on their success. The Daily Press published the prize winning essay Saturday and the one that received honorable mention is found in today's issue. Tomorrow the one classed as third best by the judges will be appear. Those who doubt the efficiency of our public school system are urged to carefully read these essays and see just what calibre of literary ability and acquaintance with municipal affairs is shown in black and white.

There are automobile owners in Plainfield who seem to have the notion that the convenience of other persons is not to be considered. This class of autoists inhabit every city, but Plainfield appears to have more than its just share of the variety. Evidences of "hoggishness" present themselves daily in the form of big cars left standing at the curb for hours at a time. The drivers are using the public streets for parking spaces and some there are who care little how long they leave their vehicles stationed in one spot or how much inconvenience they bring upon shopkeepers. The fact that examples have not been made of a few of this class of motorists has probably caused the spread of the nuisance and it is high time the proper authorities took a hand and stirred up the sleepers along the curbs.

Councilman "Ted" Martin is authority for the statement that the West End may have its new fire apparatus before that much talked-of piece of equipment is installed in the Netherwood house. Therein he offers the first word of explanation that the fire committee has given for its action in selecting "young blood" to fill department vacancies of late. Anyone of the present fire laddies will consider himself lucky if he lives to see the day when the Netherwood engine is made ready for use.

Writing to a metropolitan sporting editor recently one of New York's reformers suggested certain ways to increase the attendance at baseball. Plainfield is particularly interested along this line because of the "unhealthy" conditions of the national pastime here in late years. Among the causes he assigns for the decrease in turnstile receipts are: Slowness between the innings; the racket caused by venders; smoking, and a reduction in the price of seats.

Indications lead us to believe, however, that he favors aeroplaning as a sport in preference to baseball. In this departure of recreation we get away from slowness between innings, the vile fumes of a jitney corncob and the ever intolerable admission fees.

Plainfielders have been given an unusual chance to familiarize themselves with the art of swimming during the coming summer and if every individual in the city doesn't know how to handle his or herself in the water when fall rolls around it will be their own fault. The High School tank will be open daily from now until September and it's up to those persons who have been complaining about the need of a public bath for years past to get in line and make the experiment a success.

Remember we're on the home-stretch now to make that "Fifth of July" celebration at Parker Field a record-breaker. Have you done your little part toward boosting the fund to put the "safe and sane" idea to a practical test? The fund has been swelling in a gratifying manner during the past few days but the committee still needs a few more contributions to stage the event on a scale that will be a credit to the Queen City.

While the "boss" is away the "cubs" are grinding out editorials. Remember his parting admonition, viz.: "To hold off on libel suits until Monday next." So say we all of us for without the protecting hand of the "boss" we would't have a chance in the world to battle against some of the grievance bearers who would take us to task.

Headline reads—"Commencement echoes from the Borough High." Strikes us as though it was a little too soon to expect echoes from this year's graduates.

The Work of the Recreation Committee of Plainfield.

By Sadie Rothberg

Second prize essay in the competition for the Daily Press prize at the Plainfield High School.

No one organization has done so much for the public along social and literary lines, in the betterment of health, and in the uplifting of morals, as the Public Recreation Committee of Plainfield. Its lines of work include all phases of natural inclinations from gymnastic work to singing for both men and women.

In our city the work is in charge of a group of prominent citizens who take a live interest in the various activities. Some of the members even act as leaders to the various clubs and it is through their untiring efforts that the movement has met with such success.

The public schools have been opened for social and educational work. Surely, there can be no more fitting place for meeting than in surroundings which breathe of culture.

In these environments, both healthful to mind and body, were formed clubs for the benefit of the people at large. The Committee has now in charge twenty clubs, each pursuing a special line of endeavor.

Among them is the Italian Social and Educational Club formed to bring this class of people together in surroundings which tend to produce a more friendly and social feeling toward themselves and toward others. One school has been set aside for their use and they have become interested in many lines of endeavor.

Then, there is the Dunbar Club for colored people. Their lines of work are similar to that of the Italian Club. Every Friday night they hold a dance at the Washington School.

Among other organizations, we find the Banjo Club, Choral Society, Symphony Orchestra, and Pianoforte Club, which bring those people together who are interested in the art of music. The musical courses are directed by instructors and the recent success of Handel's "Messiah" by the Choral and Symphony Orchestra certainly shows the enthusiasm both of the participants and the hearers.

Along the intellectual lines, we have the Public Speaking Class, Class in English for Foreigners, Debating Society, and Colored Women's Reading Circle. Along this line we might mention the Thespian Society, a dramatic club. These societies meet once a week and men and women of culture take part. It brings people, who might not otherwise meet, into closer connection with each other through their general interest for these societies.

One of the finest phases in literary work is a course of lectures arranged for the year which permits the public to hear educating subjects discussed in an interesting manner. The lectures are usually accompanied with stereopticon views and some with music.

Classes are conducted by teachers to instruct women and girls in sewing and basketry. There is a Needlecraft Club and a Colored Women's Sewing Class. These arts are both useful and instructive.

Preservation of health is one of the chief aims of the Recration Committee. The Committee has spent much time in forming a Girls' Gymnasium and Swimming Class, a Men's Gymnasium and Swimming Club and a Colored Girls' Gymnasium Class, all at the Plainfield High School. These classes are largely attended and all the members realize the great benefit derived in spending their evenings in this way.

The moral standards of the individual are not overlooked. The various dances are in charge of supervisors who see that nothing but proper dancing is done. The Municipal Dance, which is held at the Washington School every Saturday night, has become very popular, showing the need for just this kind of amusement. As a direct result, several public dance halls have been forced out of business. At these affairs only a small sum is charged for admission to cover the necessary expenses. The educational feature tend to make the people better morally by teaching them higher ideals.

Each of the clubs is in charge of either a paid supervisor or a voluntary leader. In this way, the members come in contact with men and women from whom they can learn by example. The Recreation Committee work is directly under the care of two leaders who spend all their time, day and evening, in the promoting of new organizations and in awakening new interests in those already formed.

All this goes to show how much the people of Plainfield should be indebted to the Recreation Committee. When we see all the work that the Recreation Committee has done for the City of Plainfield and for humanity, we cannot but be grateful to them. It is not enough for a handful of citizens to do the work of scores of "reformers." We must all join in and help the good cause along.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

Here is one easy inexpensive way that town promotion could be helped. Have 100,000 slips printed the size of bank notices, padded in lots of 250 sheets. Print only on one side, five good reasons why Plainfield is the most desirable place to live in. First—Its location at the base of Watchung Mountains 25 miles from New York and 50 miles from Philadelphia. Second — Its schools, churches, societies, clubs, associations and playhouses. Third—Its clean streets, beautiful homes, its pure air, its pure water, with no mosquitoes and no malaria. Fourth—Its city government, its control of liquor, courteous officials and its freedom from graft. Fifth—The ease and comfort of travel to and from the greatest city in the world. The above gives an outline of a plan by which every office in Plainfield could help advertise our town by having a pad of these slips and enclosing a slip with each letter sent out. The trouble with the printed matter sent out heretofore has been that there was too much of it.

A few lines right to the point that could be read at a glance would do a lot of good. The wide circulation given by placing the slips in 10,000 pieces of mail that daily leave Plainfield would keep us before the business world, who would never know us otherwise.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The last opportunity to enter names in the contest for the best make-ups and imitations of the famous comedian of the moving picture world, Charlie Chaplin, occurs this afternoon, all entries to be at the box office at 4:30. The contest is to be conducted this evening at Proctor's Theatre, and a thousand laughs are promised to those who attend this great occasion, the first of its kind to be held in any of the local moving picture houses.

"The Builder of Bridges," one of those famous Frohman productions, is announced as the feature picture for tonight, with Miss Marie Edith Wells playing the leading role. No lover of good photo-plays should miss Marie Wells in one of her greatest parts.

Tomorrow baseball fans will be catered to, for the greatest baseball story ever put into a film version is to be shown both afternoon and evening. "Little Sunset" is the title, and the story is all about a young red-headed mascot. In unfolding the story, actual views of a crack Pacific Coast League team is shown in action, close-up pictures of batters at the plate are shown; the famous hook-slide of the New York Giants, and a thousand and one other little details which makes the national pastime interesting will be thrown upon the screen tomorrow at Proctor's Theatre.

CHURCHES UNITE FOR SIN CAMPAIGN

Representative Congregations Pledge Support to Evangelistic Plan Proposed.

Representatives of the churches of Plainfield and North Plainfield met in the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon in response to the notice sent out by the Ministers' Association to discuss the proposed evangelistic campaign which is to be inaugurated here next winter.

The following churches were represented: First Methodist, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Netherwood Reformed, Seventh-Day Baptist, Trinity Reformed, First Presbyterian, Grace Methodist, Congregational, Monroe Avenue Methodist, Park Avenue Baptist, Temple Baptist, Warren chapel and Hope chapel. It was reported that each congregation represented at the conference had acted favorably on the plan to institute a series of revival services.

A committee of seven members was appointed to select an executive committee which shall consist of at least twenty-one members, which committee shall have entire control of the proposed evangelistic campaign. This committee of seven consists of William D. Murray, chairman; G. W. Rittenhouse, Rev. E. S. Ralston, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church; Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Dr. Norman H. Probasco, E. F. Sheppard and Rev. Frank Fletcher.

The committee of twenty-one will be selected later. Men who are known to be heart and soul in the work will be appointed and the committee will have power to organize, appoint the necessary sub-committees, secure an evangelist and fix the dates of the series of meetings.

No selection of an evangelist has been made as yet. Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, whose contemplated European trip has been interfered with by the war, would insure the success of the campaign. He has been spoken of. Rev. Dr. Anderson, of Scranton, another big man in the evangelistic world, is also being considered.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET

Will Assemble at Hightstown Tonight for a Religious Conference.

All roads, at least for Baptist young people of New Jersey, lead to Hightstown, where at Peddie Institute the first young people's assembly of the denomination will open tonight. The purpose of the assembly, sessions of which will continue until July 5, is to train leaders for efficient service in the church.

Approximately 150 young people from churches in all parts of the State, including those of Newark and vicinity, will be in attendance. Among those who will address the classes into which the assembly will be divided, or speak to the delegates as a body, are Wayland F. Ayers, of Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. Raymond M. West, of Elizabeth; Ivan P. Flood, secretary of the Baptist Young People's Work for the New Jersey convention, and General Secretary Isaac B. Burgess, of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association.

Throughout the assembly there will be two study periods each morning on "A Program of Missionary Education," under the leadership of Morris W. Ennis, of New York, and "Modern Organization for Service," directed by Rev. Clarence Hill Frank, secretary of the New York Baptist Young People's Union.

These will be followed by three group conferences held simultaneously at 10 o'clock each day. The first for teacher and workers with girls and young women will be led by Miss I. Ruth Tapping of the Elizabeth Young Women's Christian Association; Charles O. Wright, of Ridgewood, will direct a conference for leaders and workers with boys. The third will be for officers and workers in young people's societies. This will be led by A. H. Vautier, of Philadelphia.

At 11 o'clock all delegates will meet in assembly hall for an address on important subjects. These will be followed by discussion. Among the addresses will be "A Graded System of Young People's Work," on which Rev. H. V. Howlett will speak. Mr. Burgess will speak on "The Genius of Organized Sunday-school Work," and Dr. C. H. Woolston, of Philadelphia, on "The Art of Object Teaching." Mr. Ayer's topic will be "Efficiency in Sunday-school and Young People's Work," and I. H. Meredith will discuss "Sunday-school and Young People's Music." The afternoons will be given over to recreation.

"Assembly Sunday," as Sunday, July 4 is designated, will be featured by an address by John T. Sproull, of Arlington, on "The Call to Colors." A quiet hour service will be held in the afternoon. At night President Elmer Burritt Bryan, of Colgate University, will address a union service at Hightstown Baptist church.

REGULAR 35.00

KEYSTONE WARDROBE TRUNKS

For 25.00

How do we do it? Well, the manufacturers of these famous trunks, Messrs. Ragnow & Hall, of Philadelphia, were overstocked owing to the falling off in European travel and we secured a big lot of their wardrobe trunks for our various stores at such a low price so that we can offer them at $25 instead of $35—that's the story. Now as to the trunks, Keystone Wardrobe Trunks are built of 3-ply basswood veneer, covered with vulcanized fibre, painted with best quality oil paint and finished with two coats of weather proof Spar Varnish. All thoroughly riveted with cement coated wire nails which do not rust. The carrier rods are of cold roll steel, triple nickel plated. The garment carriers are made of 5-ply laminated white maple. The drawers are built of air dried mountain basswood, table jointed, all carefully fitted, nailed and lined. We could go on filling a whole page telling you of the goodness of Keystone Wardrobe Trunks, but here's the keynote of the whole story. Keystone Wardrobe Trunks are built by well trained experienced workmen, receiving a weeking wage (not piece work) for their labor, which in itself is a guarantee of the quality, style and finish of the trunks.

We cordially invite your inspection of these trunks.

MEXICO CITY TAKEN BY CARRANZA TROOPS

Huerta is Arrested at El Paso and Released on $15,000 Bail.

Washington, June 28—Mexico City has been taken by the Carranza troops under General Gonzales. This information was received by the State Department from Vera Cruz today. The despatch failed to indicate the date on which the capital fell into the hand of Gonzales, but announced that the Zapatistas had been completely defeated and driven from the city.

Further arrests of prominent Mexicans in the United States probably will follow the arrest of former President Huerta and General Orozco at El Paso. This was acknowledged today by Assistant Attorney General Warren in charge of the customs and neutrality laws of the United States It developed today that the arrest and detention of Huerta was the result of a constant espionage of the two ever since the former landed in the United States and took up his residence in New York. According to the officials it was known that they contemplated an invasion of Mexico and the movements were known to Washington.

El Paso, June 28—The arrest yesterday of Generals Victoriano Huerta and Pascual Orosco on charges of violating the neutrality laws of the United States, officials believe, has forced the abandonment, temporarily at least, of any movement to launch a new revolutionary movement in Mexico.

Huerta was released on $15,000 bail and Orozco was given his liberty under a bond of half that sum. With the former generals at liberty Mexican and American officials are watching developments among their adherents.

Despite Huerta's declaration that he would never enter Mexico again at the head of an armed force and would not return to his country until peace had been restored, Federal officials have not relaxed their vigilant watch on his movements.

A large crowd that gathered at his daughter's home here continued to shout "vivas" for Huerta until long after midnight.

As to the legal phases of Huerta's arrest, no action is looked for until July 1, the date set for the Huerta-Orozco hearing.

RECREATION WORK IN LINE WITH SAFE AND SANE POLICY

Plans are well underway for the Recreation Committee's "Safe and Sane" celebration of the Fourth. On Saturday evening there is to be a performance of "Soldiers Brave and Maidens Fair" at the High School Auditorium. The play will be followed by a dance which will last until midnight.

The auditorium is to be suitably decorated and the splendid floor and good music will insure the young people a good time. Those who have seen the performance of "Soldiers Brave and Maidens Fair" say that it will charm everyone.

The cast of characters is as follows: "John Tallmage" (Captain Washington's bodyguard), Harry Shirley; "Captain Armstrong" (a British officer), Walter Glaentzer; "Reuben Adamson" (a staunch Loyalist), Henry Donnelly; "Tarpo" (negro servant), Peter Walsh; "Marshall" (negro servant), Raymond Wilson; "Patience Powell" (Ruth's friend), Miss Anna Pierson; and "Ruth Adamson" (daughter of a Loyalist but herself a Colonist), Miss Edith Allen.

DILL GOING AFTER VIOLATORS OF LAW

Instructs Inspectors Strictly to Enforce the Provisions of Headlight Glare Act.

Trenton, June 28—Noting that nearly three months have elapsed since the enactment of the law providing for the attachment to all automobile lights certain devices, to remove the glare and dazzle from them on the roads at night, and that, while many motorists have complied with the law, there are many who have not, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles William L. Dill today notified all his inspectors to begin a rigorous enforcement.

The motor vehicle commissioner says that the department is not now willing to concede that those who have made no attempt to comply with its provision are ignorant of them.

Instructions are given especially with reference to drivers who frost the lenses of their lamps so as to remove the glare of the lights and orders that "whenever the frosting of the upper part of the glass fails and the lower frosting of the glass will bring about the desired result, then you must insist that the frosting be removed from the top and applied to the bottom of the lens. In all such cases as these, warn them that the number will be at once reported to the department and that is a second report is made, based upon a continued violation, the department will summon them to Trenton on the question of the revocation of licenses.

"Where you find that no attempt has been made to comply with the act, issuea summons returnable before the nearest magistrate within the district in which the violation occurs, or if none such be available, then before the commissioner in Trenton."

Mr. Dill further advises the inspectors to spend as much of their time on the roads at night as they possibly can, to be courteous to motorists and aid them as much as possible in endeavoring to comply with the law."

WILL DECIDE TONIGHT WHO OWNS SCHOOL PHONOGRAPH

New Providence, June 28.—The climax in the phonograph case is promised for tonight, when Justice of the Peace O. C. Henderson, of Berkeley Heights, will try to decide whether the machine belongs to the New Providence Township Board of Education or to Miss Camilla MacDonald, a former teacher.

The machine is now in the possession of Simon P. Debbie, who took it from the Diamond Hill School when the exercises in that place were abruptly terminated by a demand on Miss MacDonald for the machine, coupled with a threat to hold back her last month's salary if it was not turned over to the Board. Miss MacDonald burst into tears before the audience.

Mr. Debbie seized the machine and notified the Board that it could get it from him only when it could prove ownership.

The machine was purchased from money privately donated and money raised at a social last fall. All but one of the subscribers to the purchase of the machine have signed it over to Miss MacDonald.

ALBERT DUSCA WEDS MISS MARY CABALA

An attractive church wedding took place at 11:30 yesterday morning in St. Joseph's church, when Miss Mary Cabala, of this city, became the bride of Albert Dusca. Father F. J. Hart, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Cabala was attired in a charming gown of white satin with an over-dress of lace and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by six bridesmaids, four of whom wore white dresses and two pale pink.

Mrs. Sophia Dusca was the maid-of-honor, while Walter Strock was best man. Mrs. Alfred Seidel sang several vocal selections, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Harry DeMeza. Following a short wedding trip the couple will reside on Liberty street, this city.

HEAVENLY REST CHURCH FESTIVAL GREAT SUCCESS

The annual summer festival of the Church of the Heavenly Rest was held Saturday afternoon and evening and was largely attended by members and friends of the church. The lawn and parish house were brightly illuminated with electric lights and presented a pretty appearance. On the various tables scattered about were displayed eatables and fancy articles for sale, and the festival was patronized to a degree very satisfactory to the women managing the affair, Mrs. William B. Grannatt and Mrs. Juan A. Babcock.

During the evening music was furnished by the Public Service Band of Dunellen. A concert was given early in the evening, which was followed by dancing. This was continued until 11:30 o'clock. Until complete reports are made it will not be possible to tell exactly how much money was made, but it will probably prove to be close to $75. This will be shared by the Sunday school, the Men's Club and the Women's Guild.

Presiding over the Sunday school table, where candy and small articles made by members of the Sunday school were sold, were Miss Elizabeth Forster, Miss Alice Forster and Miss Frances Crandall.

Mrs. Robert Jackson, Mrs. Lyman Jillson and Miss May Jackson had charge of the cake and grocery table. Selling fancy articles were Mrs. James Chamberlain, Mrs. Augustus Corbin and Miss Julia Tabbing. The soda water stand was in charge of the boys, John Kriney, Lewis Kriney and Ralph Ludgate, who dispensed soft drinks to the thirsty. J. A. Maynard, Ernest Dorflinger and Robert Larmour sold ice cream.

By winning their engagements Saturday afternoon, the Hope Chapel and T. A. B. contenders for the City Baseball League title held on to their first place berths and much interest now centres around the meeting of these undefeated aggregations next Saturday afternoon. Netherwood was dropped from first place to second by virtue of the defeat administered by the Clinton Avenues, and the latter aggregation climbed into the percentage column through the victory.

Strange to relate, the Saurer team, originally considered to be the strongest contender for the title, has suffered its second reverse and is still in the cellar, with the winless Baptist outfit as a companion.

JINX STILL TRAILS FACTORY BALL CLUB

Hope Chapel Scores a 3 to 2 Victory Over the Saurer Club in League Match.

Two runs in the opening canto went a long way toward bringing home the bacon for the Hope Chapel team in its meeting with the Saurer City Leaguers on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, the Chapelites romping away with the bigger end of a 3 to 2 decision. Light hitting on the part of both teams featured the combat. Particularly was this noticeable of the playing of the factoryites, who could garner but four scattered bingles from the delivery of Dick Schott. Hope gathered seven safeties, one a triple base slug by Tommy Heron.

The contest was a well played one from start to finish and the verdict was either teams' up to the last round. Just to show that they were still making a bid for the decision the Saurer combination came back with a run in the ninth, after the Fourth street churchboys had tallied their final marker.

The game was witnessed by a large crowd of fans, both teams having their share of supporters on hand. Besides fanning eight and keeping the hits down to a minimum, Schott led his team in batting, helping the cause to the extent of a brace of beauties.

A new pitcher appeared on the Saurer mound and this was no less a personage than "Babe" Gleason, an overgrown youngster of herculean stature who did well, considering the fact that it was his debut in fast company. He fanned eight of the opposition and assisted in the fielding department by gathering in a pair of putouts. Schott happened to be the only individual on the field who could break into the hit column on more than one occasion, this being a fair example of the twirling ability of the rival slab artists.

BIKE RACES HALTED.

Newark, June 28.—A rain and wind storm made it necessary to call off the bicycle races here yesterday afternoon, before they were half over. Before the storm broke, however, Reggie McNamara, the Australian, succeeded in beating Caesar Moretti, the Italian, in a one-mile match race. The race is termed the Brassard, and takes with it a prize of $50. The feature race on the card, a two-thirds-mile match race between Frank L. Kramer, the national champion, and Alfred Goullet, the speedy Australian, was called off after one heat had been won by Kramer.

APGAR SHINES WHEN CLINTONS WIN GAME

Rosenson's Pitching Also a Big Point in Victory Over Netherwood Clan.

"Box" Apgar, captain-elect of the Plainfield High School baseball team and manager of the Clinton avenue City League outfit, led the leaguers to a 5 to 4 victory over the speedy Netherwood clan on the Clinton avenue rendezvous Saturday afternoon. Apgar's work was suppliemented by some good hitting on the part of his brother and stellar twirling on Bennie Rosenson's part, the latter holding the opposition to five well distributed bingles. Of the eight hits gathered by the Clinton combination, the Apgar brothers were responsible for five, the high school product getting a trio and his brother counting for two.

Both aggregations performed in a finished style in the field, three excusable errors were credited to each contestant during the nine rounds of play. Rosenson's ability to tighten up in bad places and the support he received from his teammates, both at the bat and in the field, brought victory to the Clintons and got them in the league's percentage column for the first time.

The winning outfit was particularly busy in the field, getting besides the usual twenty-seven putouts of a regulation contest, fifteen assists, three each being credited to L. Brown, Hendry and R. Apgar.

THROCKMORTON BEATEN.

Orange, June 28.—Charles M. Bull, Jr., and C. Frederick Watson, Jr., won the Middle States doubles final at the Orange Tennis Club, at Mountain Station, yesterday. They defeated Harold A. Throckmorton and Lindsay Dunham, 6-3, 7-9, 6-3, 6-4. Saturday two sets were played, Throckmorton and Dunham winning the first at 7-5, and Bull and Watson the second at 9-7, and then darkness forced a halt.

BUSHERS IN LONG GAME.

Burlington, Ia., June 28—Burlington and Keokuk, in the Central Association, played twenty-two innings to a scoreless tie yesterday, breaking the records of organized baseball for the longest game without a score. The game was called because of darkness. The longest previous game without a score was between Portland and Oakland, of the Pacific Coast League, at Oakland, Cal., in 1910. It went eighteen innings.

PLENTY OF FLUKE.

Yesterday was a great day for fluke. Thousands were caught far up in the bays, where they are seldom found. One boat from Perth Amboy, fishing the twenty-one foot channel, brought in sixty. Two boys of Tottenville has a bushel basket full that they caught off Ward's Point. Hundreds of them were caught at Sewaren and Kreicherville, a resort opposite Sewaren.

Some of today's "To Rent" ads will cause placards to disappear from windows and doors.

STRETCH INNING WAS LUCKY FOR THE TABS

First Baptist Outfit Snowed Under by Four Runs in the Seventh Canto.

Engineering a swatfest in the stretch stanza that netted them a quartet of runs, the T. A. B. outfit held onto its unblemished record in the City League's official standing column Saturday afternoon by taking a 7 to 4 verdict at the expense of the First Baptist contenders for the municipal title. Up to the seventh round the issue was closely and evenly waged, the Baptist youths having the better of the argument up to the fifth, when the Abstainers pulled the tying run across the gutta percha.

Up to the time the T. A. B. batters got "to him" Patterson was well nigh invincible and indications pointed to a pitchers' battle to the finish between him and Tone Denny, the Plainfield High School's leading artist during the past season. When the fray ended, however, the Tabs had ten counters laid away on the shelf and the Baptists were credited with an even half dozen. Denny fanned six and Patterson went him one better, making seven take the count.

Both twirlers pounded out a safety. Brennan led the clouting for the winners, with a couple of bingles, while Savidge got a pair for the losing side. Each team made four slips, the ones levied against the Baptists being particularly costly. Compton, Townley and Savidge were the long distance hitters of the fracas, Compton and Savidge getting twin sackers and Townley getting a triple.

QUALIFYING ROUND FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Premier Event Attracts Big Field to the Plainfield Country Club.

The qualifying round for the golf championship of the Plainfield Country Club attracted an unusually large field to the course on Saturday, there being more than fifty players engaged in the competition, all striving to qualify for the coveted honor. This is the premier event of the year at the club and the competition is keen throughout.

The players turning in the first sixteen lowest scores compete for the championship, while the second and third sixteens continue at match play. The scores on Saturday were generally low, showing that the contestants are well up in the game.

ALL IN READINESS FOR FINAL BOAT RACES OF THE SEASON ON THE THAMES LATE TODAY

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 28—All the flags and pennants and armbands of the shopkeepers have been taken out of camphor, dusted off and placed in the windows. All the missing wheels have been put on the reserve supply of trolley cars. All the launches and skiffs capable of baffling Davy Jones' locker have been launched. All the ham and cheese have been shaved down into sandwiches. All the ice available has been packed around that sort of summer necessity which requires cooling, and Poughkeepsie is ready for her one-big-day-in-the-year.

Everything's up today—college atmosphere, betting, noise, excitement and all the rest that goes with a Poughkeepsie regatta. The normal population of the town is 32,000. There may be as many people here tonight as 32,100. The odd hundred are either experting around the corridors of the Nelson or Morgan Houses, or wandering up and down Main street looking at the lithographs of the movie houses and wishing that one was open.

"Never again on a Monday!" is the ardent wish of all the people here who have things to sell, meaning that they don't want the big affair pulled off any more on the first day of the week. A semi-dry theatreless town is scarcely the place to attract a night-before crowd, and so no night-before crowd was here.

But a great crowd is here today. Now that this race is no longer a set, sure thing for Cornell, the old enthusiasm about it has come back, and the town is entertaining a crowd of 20,000 visitors.

Columbia is especially well represented among the rowing enthusiasts because of the splendid victory of the Blue and White last year. One special train alone, coming from Asbury Park, N. J., brought nearly 1,000. There are many other thousands of wearers of the colors from New York city.

Expert opinion seems to favor Cornell or Columbia as most likely to win, with Pennsylvania and Syracuse figuring pretty well up toward the front.

Popular sentiment is "anything but Cornell." The reason for this is simply that the Cornelian and White has floated victoriously from the top of the bridge too many times, and that for the good of the town and the good of general interest in the race, the Ithacans should win no oftener than any one else. So there you are. Take your pick and have a little bet down on somebody the experts don't mention.

Following are the events, distances, starting times, crews and courses, course No. 1 being nearest to the west shore of the river:

and the material developed has been far superior to that of previous years. Winning the Interscholastic League's baseball and basketball championships; defeating Rahway High School in a baseball struggle for the first time in years; playing well in the Interscholastic Tennis League; being one of the leaders in county football circles, and recognized as the Northern New Jersey field and track champions, the red and blue supporters have certainly earned a prominent place for themselves in all-around endeavor and the year 1914-15 will go down as a banner one in the history of the athletic association.

Plainfield High won back the inter-Rosenson captaining the nine for the second game. The team played sterling ball throughout the season and had little difficulty in asserting its superiority over the North Plainfield and Leal school teams, rival contestants for the Interscholastic League title.

By defeating North Plainfield in two straight one point decision matches the red and blue team regained the Interscholastic League basketball title which was lost by the 1914 outfit. Daniel F McNamee captained this combination and it set a record that has been equalled by few of its predecessors at P. H. S. Several long trips were indulged in and the proportion of victories outweighed by far the number of reverses.

Opening the season under the most discouraging conditions the local schoolgirls' waded through a fairly successful basketball season, scoring victories over teams that were conceded to be stronger and losing matches to rivals thought to be weaker. North Plainfield gained its one interscholastic title of the year by defeating Captain Irma Good's sextet for the feminine championship.

INSERT THREE CAPTAINS CUTS

William Peacock, winner of the Yale Cup and recognized as the school's best all-around athlete, captained the football eleven and to his line bucking powers and good kicking must be attributed a large amount of credit for the successes attained during the fall months. The team was a speedy one and put up an excellent exhibition of the pigskin pastime. Peacock, as well as McNamee and Rosenson, theo ther captains, were graduated Thursday night.

In Ralph Runyon the High School has a track captain whose equal would be hard to find among schoolboys. He is recognized as one of the country's best pole vaulters and has won many honors for his school in field and track competition. The track team, coached by Jack Fritts, completed its first year of competi-

PRIMA DONNAS HAVE LITTLE ON EDDIE COLLINS, HE IS SO TEMPERAMENTAL

Eddie Collins, Columbia College graduate and leading second baseman of the major leagues, is very superstitious. The White Sox star has some freakish ideas. Here's how he keeps his luck at work:

Put his cap on first when donning his uniform.

Racks his bat in a certain position and raves if anyone disturbs it.

Carries chewing gum stuck to button of his cap.

Transfers the gum to his mouth if he gets two strikes.

Bars his fellow players from certain parts of the greensward while he's at bat.

Must be last man to handle the ball before it is returned to pitcher following an out.

PENROD

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

"Why? What'd you do to 'em?"

"It's all right what I'd do! I bet they wouldn't want to call me that again long as they lived!"

"What'd you do if it was a little girl? You wouldn't hit her, would you?"

"Well, I'd— Ouch!"

"You wouldn't hit a little girl, would you?" the barber persisted, gathering into his powerful fingers a mop of hair from the top of Penrod's head and pulling that suffering head into an unnatural position. "Doesn't the Bible say it ain't never right to hit the weak sex?"

"Ow! Say, look out!"

"So you'd go and punch a pore, weak, little girl, would you?" said the barber reprovingly.

"Well, who said I'd hit her?" demanded the chivalrous Penrod. "I bet

"They better not call me that," returned Penrod Truculently.

I'd fix her, though, all right. She'd see!"

"You wouldn't call her names, would you?"

"No, I wouldn't! What hurt is it to call anybody names?"

—"Is that so?" exclaimed the barber. "Then you was intending what I heard you hollering at Fisher's grocery delivery wagon driver fer a favor the other day when I was goin' by your house, was you? I reckon I better tell him, because he says to me afterwerds if he ever lays eyes on you when you ain't in your own yard he's goin' to do a whole lot o' things you ain't goin' to like! Yessir, that's what he says to me!"

"He better catch me first, I guess, before he talks so much."

"Well," resumed the barber, "that ain't sayin' what you'd do if a young lady ever walked up and called you a little gentleman. I want to hear what you'd do to her. I guess I know, though, come to think of it."

"What?" demanded Penrod.

"You'd sick that pore ole dog of yours on her cat if she had one, I expect," guessed the barber derisively.

"No, I would not!"

"Well, what would you do?"

"I'd do enough. Don't worry about that!"

"Well, suppose it was a boy, then. What'd you do if a boy come up to you and says, 'Hello, little gentleman?'"

"He'd be lucky," said Penrod, with a sinister frown "if he got home alive."

"Suppose it was a boy twice your size?"

"Just let him try," said Penrod ominously. "You just let him try. He'd never see daylight again; that's all!"

The barber dug ten active fingers into the helpless scalp before him and did his best to displace it, while the anguished Penrod, becoming instantly a seething crucible of emotion, misdirected his natural resentment into maddened brooding upon what he would do to a boy "twice his size" who should dare to call him "little gentleman." The barber shook him as his father had never shaken him; the barber buffeted him, rocked him frantically to and fro; the barber seemed to be trying to wring his neck, and Penrod saw himself in staggering zigzag pictures, destroying large, screaming, fragmentary boys who had insulted him.

The torture stopped suddenly, and clinched, weeping eyes began to see again, while the barber applied cooling lotions which made Penrod smell like a colored housemaid's ideal.

"Now what," asked the barber, combing the reeking locks gently, "what would it make you so mad fer to have somebody call you a little gentleman? It's a kind of compliment, as it were, you might say. What would you want to hit anybody fer that fer?"

To the mind of Penrod this question was without meaning or reasonableness. It was within neither his power nor his desire to analyze the process by which the phrase had become offensive to him and was now rapidly assuming the proportions of an outrage. He knew only that his gorge rose at the thought of it.

"You just let 'em try it!" he said threateningly as he slid down from the chair. And as he went out of the door, after further conversation on the same subject, he called back those warning words once more: "Just let 'em try it—just once! That's all I ask 'em to! They'll find out what they get!"

The barber chuckled. Then a fly lit on the barber's nose, and he slapped at it, and the slap missed the fly, but did not miss the nose. The barber was irritated. At this moment his birdlike eye gleamed a gleam as it fell upon customers approaching—the prettiest little girl in the world, leading by the hand her baby brother, Mitchy Mitch, coming to have Mitchy-Mitch's hair clipped against the heat.

It was a hot day and idle, with little to feed the mind, and the barber was a mischievous man with an irritated nose. He did his worst.

CHAPTER XVII.

"Little Gentleman."

MEANWHILE the brooding Penrod pursued his homeward way; no great distance, but long enough for several one sided conflicts with malign insulters made of thin air. "You better not call me that!" he muttered. "You just try it, and you'll get what other people got when they tried it. You better not jack fresh with me. Oh, you will, will you?" He delivered a vicious kick full upon the shins of an iron fence post, which suffered little, though Penrod instantly regretted his indiscretion. "Oof!" he grunted, hopping, and went on after bestowing a look of awful hostility upon the fence post. "I guess you'll know better next time," he said in parting to this antagonist. "You just let me catch you around here again and I'll"— His voice sank to inarticulate but ominous murmurings. He was in a dangerous mood.

Nearing home, however, his belligerent spirit was diverted to happier interests by the discovery that some workmen had left a caldron of tar in the cross street close by his father's stable. He tested it, but found it inedible; also as a substitute for professional chewing gum it was unsatisfactory, being insufficiently boiled down and too thin, though of a pleasant, lukewarm temperature. But it had an excess of one quality—it was sticky. It was the stickiest tar Penrod had ever used for any purposes whatsoever, and nothing upon which he wiped his hands served to rid them of it, neither his polka dotted shirtwaist nor his knickerbockers; neither the fence nor even Duke, who came unthinkingly wagging out to greet him and retired wiser.

Nevertheless tar is tar. Much can be done with it, no matter what its condition. So Penrod lingered by the caldron, though from a neighboring yard could be heard the voices of comrades, including that of Sam Williams. On the ground about the caldron were scattered chips and sticks and bits of wood to the number of a great multitude. Penrod mixed quantities of this refuse into the tar and interested himself in seeing how much of it he could keep moving in slow swirls upon the ebon surface.

Other surprises were arranged for the absent workmen. The caldron was almost full and the surface of the tar near the rim. Penrod endeavored to ascertain how many pebbles and brickbats dropped in would cause an overflow. Laboring heartily to this end, he had almost accomplished it when he received the suggestion for an experiment on a much larger scale. Embedded at the corner of a grass plot across the street was a whitewashed stone the size of a small watermelon and serving no purpose whatever save the questionable one of decoration. It was easily pried up with a stick, though getting it to the caldron tested the full strength of the ardent laborer. Instructed to perform such a task, he would have sincerely maintained its impossibility, but now, as it was unbidden and promised rather destructive results, he set about it with unconquerable energy, feeling certain that he would be rewarded with a mighty splash. Perspiring, grunting vehemently, his back aching and all muscles strained, he progressed in short stages until the big stone lay at the base of the caldron. He rested a moment, panting, then lifted the stone and was bending his shoulders for the heave that would lift it over the rim when a sweet, taunting voice close behind him startled him cruelly.

"How do you do, little gentleman?"

Penrod squawked, dropped the stone and shouted, "Shut up, you dern fool!" purely from instinct, even before his about face made him aware who had so spitefully addressed him.

It was Marjorie Jones. Always dainty, and prettily dressed, she was in speckless and starchy white today, and a refreshing picture she made, with the new shorn and powerfully scented Mitchy-Mitch clinging to her hand. They had stolen up behind the toiler and now stood laughing together in sweet merriment. Since the passing of Penrod's Rupe Collins period he had experienced some severe qualms at the recollection of his last meeting with Marjorie and his Apache behavior—in truth, his heart instantly became as wax at sight of her and he would have offered her fair speech. But, alas, in Marjorie's wonderful eyes there shone a consciousness of new powers for his undoing, and she denied him opportunity!

"Oh, oh!" she cried, mocking his pained outcry. "What a way for a little gentleman to talk! Little gentlemen don't say wicked"—

"Marjorie!" Penrod, enraged and dismayed, felt himself stung beyond all endurance. Insult from her was bitterer to endure than from any other. "Don't you call me that again!"

"Why not, little gentleman?"

He stamped his foot. "You better stop!"

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Story Of the Boy With the Hoe.

He Planted Them With All the Care In the World.

"A CLEVER man once wrote a poem about 'The Man With the Hoe,'" said Daddy, "but this story is about the boy with the hoe, and it's an entirely different thing. The poem is sad, but the little boy wasn't.

"This little boy loved play. Isn't that funny, Jack, that a little boy should love play? Well, anyway, this little boy did, and I am afraid he didn't love work as much as he did play.

"It is something of a job to change a little boy's work into play so he'll regard it more as play than work. I think he in her has to look at it that way himself. Anyway, that's the way this little boy did.

"It all started with some seeds which the grocer man gave him in the spring. 'Say,' said the grocer, 'would you like to plant a garden?'

"'Oh, my, yes!' replied the little boy. 'How do you do it?'

"So the grocer man told him about it, and he gave him some seed, and the little boy took them home, just as pleased as he could be, and he told his papa and mamma that he wanted to make a garden.

"And they got him blue overalls and a spade and a hoe. 'That grocer man is a nice man,' said the little boy's daddy. 'This is going to help a lot to keep our little chap out of mischief, you'll see.'

"The little boy, with some help from his daddy, laid out a nice garden plot and planted his seed. There were many seeds to plant, and the little boy was so pleased because he knew they would all come up different.

"He planted them with all the care in the world. He did it just the way he was told, just as well as a grownup could have done it, and if he had left that garden alone I suppose it would have been one of the most successful gardens that was ever heard of.

"But he couldn't leave it alone. He had lots of curiosity, which I think is generally true of little boys. The seeds hadn't been in the ground very long before he wanted to see if they were sprouting. So he dug them up to see. They looked the same, so he put them back.

"Of course he didn't dig them all up, but that was only because he forgot where he put some of them, and when these came up he dug up the little tender plants to see what the roots looked like, and if the little boy's parents hadn't induced him to let nature help him he wouldn't have had many plants. But there were a few which escaped his attention, and they grew into nice vegetables for the table."

SMART SUMMER DRESS.

Nos. 8883-8936.

Frequently a new style will appear and sweep the country from coast to coast without anyone's being perceptibly conscious of it. Such a style must be, however, inherently good. This has been the reception with which Empire waists, Bolero jackets, roll collar and full skirts have met because of their daintiness and charm. To get the most desirable combination of these, either in fact or effect, is a work of art and requires the trained knowledge of specialists. Ladies' Home Journal Pattern Nos. 8883-8936 shown above, an excellent product of this skill, is a misses' overblouse dress, with neck and amscye cut in round or square outline and a four-piece skirt. Kimono waist, No. 8883, opens in the front and has standing collar or low V-neck, with roll collar, cutting in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure, requiring in size 36, 2⅝ yards 36-inch goods. No. 8936 cuts in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Dress in size 18 requires 4¼ yards 36-inch material.

Household Hints

THESE GREEN PEPPER DISHES OUGHT TO BE RELISHED NOW

Stuffed Green Peppers—Wash and core one dozen large peppers. Have ready prepared the following mixture: One pound seedless raisins, one-half loaf soaked bread, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoonful olive oil. Fill peppers and bake in steady oven forty-five minutes to one hour. When baked sprinkle sugar over peppers.

Salad No. 1—One small head cabbage cut fine, one large green pepper minced, one-half cup English walnuts cut fine. Season with salt and a dash of paprika and mix with mayonnaise dressing.

Salad No. 2—One small head cabbage, one-half cup finely cut tomato (not too ripe), one-half cup finely cut celery, one green pepper minced; season with salt and mix with mayonnaise.

Sandwiches No. 1—Half pound boiled ham, put through the grinder with one green pepper and one pimento; season with salt and paprika and moisten with mayonnaise; spread on bread, slightly buttered.

Sandwiches No. 2—Five hard boiled eggs, mash while still warm, with butter, pepper, salt, a little prepared mustard and a small green pepper ground fine; spread on bread.

Sweet Pepper Hash—One dozen green sweet peppers, one dozen red sweet peppers, six medium sized onions. Grind all in food chopper, cover with boiling water; let stand ten minutes. Drain, cover again with boiling water and cook ten minutes with two tablespoons of salt in water; drain, add two pints vinegar, two cups granulated sugar, two tablespoons celery seed, two tablespoons mustard seed; cook ten minutes; seal. This is fine for meat.

THE TABLE.

French Toast—Dip slices of bread cut fairly thin in beaten egg to which has been added a little milk and salt. Fry brown in butter. Serve hot. Salmon Salad—Use any fresh salad vegetables desired, to which is added shredded salmon. Place on bed of lettuce, garnished with hard boiled egg, and over all dip any good salad dressing.

Toasted Cheese Sandwiches—Cut bread as for sandwiches and after buttering, place between slices, thinly cut cheese. Toast the prepared sandwich on both sides, thus melting the cheese. Serve hot.

Ham En Casserole With Potatoes—Place a medium thick slice of ham in bottom of casserole. Over this slice potatoes thinly, seasoning a little, and cover same with milk. Place in oven and bake at least an hour, or until potatoes are well done. This makes the ham very delicious, and at the same time flavors the potatoes splendidly.

Spanish Cream—Two cups of milk, three eggs, one-fourth package of Knox gelatine, three-fourths cup sugar, pinch of salt and a scant teaspoon corn starch; soak gelatin in cold water; beat yolks of eggs lightly and add to milk; add gelatin and sugar, heating all in double boiler, add corn starch and salt. When of a creamy consistency, remove and when cool fold in whites of eggs beaten stiffly. Flavor with vanilla and pour into mold. Serve with whipped cream.

Bouillon made at the table: A pitcher of boiling water, one beef extract to a cup.

Salad Dressing for vegetable salad; keep always on hand; it will keep for weeks. Cook in double boiler two large tablespoonfuls flour, one cup of milk, two teaspoonfuls sugar, salt, pepper and mustard to suit taste, yolks of two eggs, mix thoroughly. Stir until smooth before taking from stove, add one-half cup of vinegar and fold in the beaten whites of eggs. When using the dressing thin with cream if too thick.

BAKE VEGETABLES

Do not boil vegetables in the old-fashioned way and throw away most of the substances in the water.

Cook them in the oven and preserve the flavor and prevent odors in the house.

This last is especially true of sauerkraut, cabbage and onions. If you have no casserole, cook them in a granite pan, placed in a pan of water in the oven. If to be served with a cream sauce, pour a thin sauce over the raw vegetables and cook till tender, or cook with butter or meat fryings or bacon.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Hello!" called Nell from the kitchen as she heard Dick open the front door. "Come here, dear."

When Dick stuck his head in the kitchen door he asked, "Where's Mary?"

"I've fired her," announced Nell grimly.

"Oh, dear, you have not rested enough to do the work alone. What happened?" There was regret in Dick's voice.

"Just wait till you hear what happened before you say anything. That girl was Mrs. Ellson's spy." Nell stood watching the effect of this bomb with set lips.

"What!" Dick was alert in an instant.

"I started down street to do some errands and forgot my memorandum, so came back, and as the baby was asleep and I did not want to wake him, I tiptoed into the house. I found Mistress Mary seated at my writing desk reading Olive's last letter."

"What!"

"Just calmly reading my letters. She sent Mrs. Ellson Olive's home address; right here in our house was the tool who sent all the poison pen letters from that woman."

"Oh, you are not sure. It may have been only morbid curiosity that caused her to read the letters."

"No, it wasn't, Dick. I accused her of sending the letters and she owned up to it."

Dick sank into a chair, overcome with the suddenness of the revelation.

"You remember the night I thought I heard someone leaving the dining room door? We were talking of the doctor and Olive then, I remember. How dull we were not to have caught on sooner," mused Dick.

"She knows my home address; knows that I plan to go east in December; that the doctor is going to a medical convention at the same time, and will help me with the baby, and every crumb of information she picked up, you may be sure Mrs. Ellson knows.

"Please hand me the small vegetable dish from the china closet. No, not that one, it's too large."

"There is no other here," said Dick from behind the cupboard door.

"There must be one; a small oval one."

"Is this it?" he asked, reaching a dish from the top shelf.

"Yes; what a queer place for it. Here, let me wipe it off; it looks dusty," and Nell rubbed it vigorously.

"Now, take the baby in the dining room and I'll serve dinner."

While Dick propped up the baby in his buggy he heard a crash in the kitchen, and rushed out to see what had happened.

Nell was gazing despairingly at the conglomeration of broken china and creamed carrots on the kitchen floor.

"How did you do it, dear?" he asked sympathetically.

"I didn't do it. It did itself. I had filled it and it stood on the stove shelf. Suddenly the dish parted and crashed to the floor, scattering the contents broadcast. Mary had broken the dish, probably, and glued it together and put it on the top shelf out of reach. The hot vegetable melted the glue. Who would have a maid!" she added tragically. "My best china, too."

"That's about what you might expect of a girl who would read private correspondence. I'm glad you shipped her," said Dick sympathetically.

"We'll get along some way. The little girl to wash dishes and help with the baby worked pretty well, and when china was broken at least it was not hidden, and my letters were safe, which was something. I dread to clean the pantry. No telling what I'll find." Nell was cleaning up the wreckage as she talked.

"Come on now, before dinner gets cold. You carry the chop plate," she added.

"We can talk all the secrets we want to tonight and not be afraid of eaves-droppers. That's a comfort," said Dick as they sat down.

MISS ROBLEY BRIDE OF COLLEGE DOCTOR

Dr. Joseph S. Vanneman, Formerly of Plainfield, Weds Borough Teacher.

In the Methodist Episcopal church in Asbury Park, at 11:30 this morning, Miss Mary Alice Robley, until last week an instructor in the North Plainfield High School, was married to Dr. Joseph S. Vanneman, formerly of this city, but who is now connected with the medical department of Princeton University, where he makes his home. The ceremony, which was a quiet affair, attended only by the immediate relatives of the couple, was performed by Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church in this city, assisted by Rev. L. K. Killman, of Asbury Park.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ann Robley, as bridesmaid, and Edwin L. Harris, of Rising Sun, Md., was best man. Immediately following the marriage service the newlyweds left for Cape Cod, where they will spend the summer months.

Both the bride and bridegroom are widely known in this city and the borough. During her connection with the borough High School, Miss Robley made a host of friends and her loss next year will be keenly felt. Dr. Vanneman, whose home is in Havre de Grace, Md., came to Plainfield in 1908 and lived here for several summers while pursuing a course of study in Dickinson College. Upon his graduation from Dickinson he entered John Hopkins University to study medicine and last September accepted a position as a member of Princeton University's faculty, being connected with the infirmary. Dr. McCrea, who officiated, is a close personal friend of the bridegroom and his family.

ITALIAN DRUGGIST FINED $50 FOR SELLING LIQUOR

Evidence obtained by the police indicated that he had been disposing of liquor illegally for some time past and the judge in sentencing him announced that he was determined to break up the practice.

NOTEWORTHY HONOR FOR PROBASCO BIBLE CLASS

For six consecutive years the Yale cup, signifying the best in scholarship and athletics has been presented to members of that class. In 1910 Russell Miller, of P. H. S., had the honor; 1911, Herbert Stein; 1912, William Taylor; 1913, George Townley; 1914, Ashley Burner, and Ralph Smalley this year, all the last five being from N. P. H. S. These boys typify the kind of boys that belong to this well known Bible class. The membership is constantly increasing and any fellow that wishes for friends is more than welcome.

BRILLIANT FUTURE FOR THE KIDDIES

Playgrounds Will Be Open July 6 and All Are Anxious to Welcome the Event.

SUPERVISORS NAMED

Much is Promised in the Way of Recreation—Banner Year is Expected—Many Novel Features Add to the Joys of Kid-dom.

The season on the various playgrounds of this city opens Tuesday, July 6, and already the boys and girls are counting the days to the time when organized play will relieve their minds of the great question, "What shall I do next?" Then too, beside the purely recreational side of the work, the different playgrounds will immediately take up instruction in useful handiwork—sewing, basketry and modelling. Last, but by no means least, the tiny kiddies are provided for in beautiful sand boxes where they can build their mountains, houses, tunnels and all the other products of their imaginations to their hearts content, while tired mothers at home are relieved of the fear of street accidents overtaking their little ones. Contrary to general impression, a sand box is about the most hygienic play place for the child. Porous sand, in the open air exposed to sunlight at least part of the day, keeps itself pure and free from germ life, according to the testimony of eminent investigators.

Swings and slides are provided on all the grounds and popular out-of-door games are led by the supervisors and their assistants.

Almost at once folk dancing is taken up as a training in grace and

INTEREST INCREASING IN PONY CONTEST

Many Boys and Girls Have Already Enrolled Their Names.

Great interest in the McKeon Pony Contest has been demonstrated, judging from the number of boys and girls who enrolled their names in the contest book at pony headquarters up to noon today. The fact that many manufacturers' labels, and trade-marks are exchanged for votes make the contest of double interest. Then again, there will be three ponies given away and that many youngsters of the city will be made happy. Girls and boys are urged to go among their friends and have them trade at the merchants' stores who give the voting tickets. Each ticket marked 10 represents one hundred votes. Have them subscribe for The Plainfield Daily Press and every dollar paid will give you 2,000 votes.

Below you will note the list of merchants who give the cash sales voting tickets with each ten-cent purchase: Proctor's Theatre; Leo Zeisel, 222 West Front street; Alprin & Miller, grocers, 330 Plainfield avenue; Olson & Givens, grocers, 222 East Front street; W. M. Walsh, druggist, 211 North avenue; Harry Werner, clothing, 214 West Front street; W. W. Warnock, baker, 237 West Front street; Carl Silbert, jeweler, 251 West Front street; F. M. Wagner, 121 North avenue; Consumers Coal Company, 225 Madison avenue; L. B. VanCamp, furniture, Front and Somerset streets; A. Baum, cleaner and dyer, 143 East Fifth street.

The attention of contestants is called to the fact that Kornfield bread wrappers are valuable and can be exchanged for votes. Tops of Colonial cake boxes count for votes. Save them.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PICNIC.

The annual Sunday-school picnic of the German Reformed church will be held tomorrow afternoon in Saengerbund Grove on Interhaven avenue. SMITH GLAD HE IS STILL ALIVE

Hotel Clerk Threatened With Assasination by Fair Visitors.

NEWLYWEDS MISSING

"Now I Think They're Just Too Mean for Anything," Said One Pretty Serenader, "They Knew We Wanted to Use This Rice."

Claiming that a couple of newlyweds had registered at Hotel Kensington and refusing to accept the clerk's assurance that no two individuals who might be taken for bride and bridegroom had been seen around the place for a week or more, two automobile loads of noisy New Brunswick residents of the younger generation conducted a serenade in front of the North avenue hostelry for more than an hour about midnight, last night. The excited party swooped down upon C. V. Smith, the clerk, who claims to be strictly neutral in matters of this kind and also to be of a peace loving disposition, demanding to know if a "Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. VanMater," of New Brunswick, had made their headquarters there for the night. Despite the fact that Smith, while clasping a dark covered dictionary, swore with all the solemnity he could master together that he had not had the pleasure of meeting the much sought young folks, the noisy visitors staunchly proclaimed that they were from Missouri and would have to be shown, so there was nothing left for Smith to do but produce the register. This failed to convince them, however, and they were not backward in letting Mr. Smith know that they thought he was concealing something from their curiosity. They finally went on their way, peeved and wishing vengeance on the head of the innocent and sleepy hotel clerk.

The fair sex in the party were not to be daunted, however, and before their chauffeurs had reached the outskirts of the Queen City the women had prevailed upon their gallant escorts to return with them to Hotel Kensington for the purpose of further examining Mr. Smith. Their second session in many respects resembled the first and they were no more convinced of the fact that the newlyweds were not safely roomed in the Kensington then they were when they arrived.

Between the exciting jabberings of the women folks Smith managed to get a word or two in edge-wise and occupied the portion of the time he was forced to remain silent in distributing postals with a picture of the hotel on them among the visitors.

Pledging themselves to write apologies to Mr. Smith on the souvenirs if they later found that they had been mistaken the party finally took its leave, heading for Brunswick. According to Mr. Smith the damsels in the party who are in the field for marriage, and a majority of them were of this class, promised him that they would return to Hotel Kensington to spend their honeymoons.

The young couple causing the fuss were Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. VanMater, both of New Brunswick. Up to 6 o'clock last night Mrs. VanMater was Miss Helen M. Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Turner, and they were married in the Christ Episcopal church. Mr. VanMater graduated from Rutgers College in the class of 1913. Following the wedding they visited Hotel Kline, where a reception was held. During the course of the evening the newlyweds managed to wriggle out of the range of vision of the watchful eyes in the party and it was said that they had left for Plainfield to spend the night prior to departing for Nova Scotia this morning. Hence the chase.

CANADIANS INSURE SOLDIERS.

Toronto, Canada, June 29.—The city of Toronto has insured the lives of 3,700 of her soldiers who have enlisted for the war for $1,000 each, the premiums costing the city $43 a year for every man. In the case of every enlisted man, this insurance policy will be maintained until the death of the soldier or the end of the war.

TO SUCCEED GOETHALS.

ALLIES BOMBARD PILLARS OF FIRE

Interdenominational Factions Use Gaseous Bombs and Thin-shell Ammunition.

ANNOUNCE SURRENDER

Holy Jumpers Hoisted the Flag of Truce This Morning and Declared They Would Hold No More Meetings in Watchung Avenue.

Under a bombardment of "ancient" eggs and other unique varieties of ammunition that have not yet come into use in the European trenches, the exponents of the religious sect known as the "Holy Jumpers" were driven from Plainfield last night, thus putting a sensational climax on their attempt to conduct an outdoor revival in this city. Threats of violence were circulated by certain individuals who had been offended at remarks made by speakers at the meeting Saturday night and the attack was not wholly unexpected. The program in the Watchung avenue tent was nearing its conclusion when the record crowd of visitors were driven from the place by the sudden onrush of fumes not wholly pleasing to the human nostrils and which were said to have been caused by novelties discharged by boys lurking mischievously in the immediate vicinity. Shortly after the tent had been partially cleared the ten guy-ropes gave way and the monster covering fell to the ground, making further demonstration on the part of the worshippers impossible.

Wild excitement was created by the thrilling sequel and a lane had to be formed with armed men on each side for the "Jumpers" to walk

MEXICANS ENGAGE IN ANOTHER REVOLT

Fears Are Expressed for the Safety of Many Americans.

Washington, June 29—For practically six days there has been no word received here as to what has happened in Mexico City.

Latest news came to Vera Cruz by courier and reached here several days old, when conditions were described as extremely critical.

What has happened since then no one here knows, because the Mexican capital has been cut off from telegraphic communication with the outside world.

These advices said that Zapatistas had defeated Gen. Gonzales' Carranza army and had taken a good deal of ammunition and other military supplies.

It is feared here that the fighting may have been carried into the capital, thereby jeopardizing lives of Americans and other foreigners, and much concern is felt over the situation.

Government agents are today keeping close watch on movements of prominent men who have been active in Mexican politics, and also those suspected of such activity, to prevent violations of American neutrality.

El Paso, June 29—Despite the detention here of Gen. Huerta under Federal bonds, events point to continued activity in the new revolutionary movement across the Rio Grande.

Doubt is expressed by some close observers that Huerta would make any effort to cross into Mexico even should he be released at his hearing July 1.

Huerta himself says that as soon as he is released he will continue his interrupted journey to San Francisco. To a group of reporters he said:

"Of course, I cannot leave until after Thursday, my hearing is set for that day. However, I will give you my word of honor that I will tell you men of the press the date of my departure."

NEW AUTOMOBILE LAW.

The new automobile law which recently went to effect, is very radical in many of its features, and motorists generally have found it difficult to comply with its requirements. Recognizing this, The State Trust Company has had copies of the law prepared in pamphlet form, and these may be obtained free of charge, by anyone interested, if they will call at the bank.

WILL MEET JULY 12.

Because of the fact that Fourth of July will be celebrated on Monday the monthly meeting of the Women's League, of St. Joseph's church, will be postponed for one week and will be held in the new hall on Monday night, July 12.

WEDDING DAY IS HAPPILY OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Burner Celebrate Their Thirty-first Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Burner, of 32 Jackson avenue, observed their thirty-first wedding anniversary last evening. About twenty-five guests were present at an informal card party and reception, and passed an enjoyable evening with cards, games and music. The guests were from Lakewood, Califon and this city.

In the card games, awards were made to Mrs. John Snyder, Mrs. William Dunn and Mrs. A. A. Cannon, first, second and third respectively, among the women, and to Walter Walker, B. R. Waldron and A. A. Cannon among the men. The Women's Card Club, of which Mrs. Burner is a member, presented her with a silver plate and another club to which she belongs made a gift of linen.

Mr. and Mrs. Burner were married in England thirty-one years ago and came to the United States twenty-six years ago. For eighteen years they have resided in Plainfield. They have five children—Percy B. Burner, who is in the United States Navy and is at present on the Nashville, and Ashley B., Stanley, Elsie and Violet, all of whom live at home.

Mr. Burner said that he considers the United States the best country in the world, and Plainfield the best city in the country, to live in. "If I had to be born over again and had my way about it, I would surely select the United States," he declared.

FINAL PLANS ARRANGED FOR ELKS' CARD PARTY

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the card party to be given in the Elks' clubhouse, Friday afternoon, held last night at the home of Mrs. V. W. Nash, Jr., final arrangements were completed for the event. Reports of the various members indicate that a large number of tickets have been sold and a capacity number of players is expected. Up to yesterday sixty-five prizes have been donated for the winners, everyone of which is both useful and handsome. Bridge and "500" are the two plays scheduled.

The floor committee in charge of the first floor is composed of Mrs. William R. Townsend, Mrs. George Wescott and Mrs. Walter Apgar; second floor, Mrs. Edward Harding, Jr., Mrs. W. L. Hetfield, Jr.; third floor, Mrs. C. L. Crist. The seating committee is composed of Mrs. William Pope and Mrs. Corra Ryno.

NORTH PLAINFIELD MAN MOTORING TO CALIFORNIA

P. Edward Wisch and family, of 80 Mercer avenue, left today by automobile for California. With his chauffeur and an extra man as assistant, the party left their North Plainfield home about 9 o'clock and are well on their way by this time.

Mr. Wisch apprehends no difficulty in getting through and expects to arrive at his destination in thirty days. That means an average of one hundred miles a day. He is competing for the trophy offered to all motorists who make the trip by automobile inside the thirty-day limit, and will make the stops required by the rules of the contest at the various cities on the route to have his entry card certified. Mr. Wisch expects to be away until some time in September.

MANY ATTEND RECEPTION IN ST. JOSEPH'S HALL

Sociability was the feature of the entertainment and reception given in St. Joseph's Hall last night, and those who attended the affair unanimously voted it the most successful of the socials ever held in the hall. The large auditorium was a fairyland of flowers, palms and pretty girls whose dainty dresses in all the latest modes of fashion presented an especially attractive scene. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, Allen Squire's orchestra of four pieces furnishing music for the occasion. A number of the latest steps in the terpischorian art were demonstrated by several local experts. Their numbers were loudly applauded. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

The committee having charge of the reception was composed of Mrs. Andrew E. Kenney, Mrs. W. Harper, Mrs. Joseph Aller, Mrs. A. Seidel, Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. P. Cooper, Miss Mary McCurr, Miss Anna Regan, Miss Rose Cooper, and Miss Helen Mead. Harold P. Mead and Vincent LaPorte assisted.

BERLIN PLANS TO END TORPEDOING

German Admiralty to be Notified of Course of American Ships.

TO PREVENT ATTACKS

A Stubborn Battle on the Ozarow in Poland Marks Intensity of New German Drive Against Warsaw—German Forces in Russia.

Washington, June 29—The United States has adopted the practice of notifying the German Admiralty through Ambassador Gerard of the time of departure of every passenger ship sailing under the American flag and approximately the hours during which it will pass through the war zone.

This precaution is being taken in order that German submarine commanders may be on the watch for American vessels and prevent a repetition of the attack upon the American tank ship Gulflight which was torpedoed by a German submarine. The commander's excuse was that he supposed the vessel was a British ship because it was in company of two English patrol boats and the American flag was not observed until after the torpedo had been fired.

Officials here believe that if the German Admiralty sends to its submarine commanders notification of what American passenger ships are passing through the war zone there con be no doubt of their identity.

Dispatches from Berlin intimate that the note to America will be delayed until the Fourth of July is safely passed, and it should reach Washington about July 6.

The answer is likely to be very friendly, both in leter and spirit, reaffirming ancient ties of friendship and putting the question of the safety of Americans at sea in the war zone squarely up to England. If England is willing to do certain things Germany will do her part, too. If America is able to induce England to guarantee that her merchantmeat will not practice ramming tactics, attempt to escape, or commit other hostile acts, and also will abandon "the flag swindle," Germany is willing to stop torpedoing without warning and give ample time to save crews and passengers.

Probably also Germany will make a suggestion that America might help to establish a mutually satisfactory modus vivendi by agreeing to a novelty, namely, immunity of ships for American passengers. Ships guaranteed by America to have no contraband aboard would not even be molested in the war zone. Thus Germany would be left free to torpedo ammunition ships particularly.

Petrograd, June 29.—A battle in the clouds overhanging Gheidag Mountain in the Caucasus resulted in the defeat of the Turkish forces with heavy losses, according to official despatches to the War Office today.

"The enemy attacked under cover of heavy mists and attempted to storm our positions," said the official statement. "Our artillery was trained down the mountain slopes with deadly effectivness. When the enemy retired we counted more than a thousand Turkish dead and hundreds of wounded."

Supported by thousands of Kurdish irregulars, the Turks are continuing their attacks in the Melaghersk Volley of the Caucasus. Russian troops on Saturday dispersed an attacking body and captured a commander of the Kurds.

London, June 29.—A stubborn battle on the Ozarow in Poland marks the intensity of the new German drive against Warsaw. Petrograd reports desperate fighting in this region, particularly around the town of Glinian.

So far it is clear that the Austro-Germans have not transferred any of their troops from the Galician front to the west in France. The German General Staff seems to be devoting all its strength to clearing the remnant of the Russian forces out of Galicia and to pushing the campaign against Warsaw, particularly in the Przasnyz region.

The Russians are putting forth their strength along the San to offset the drive on the Dniester and prevent the investment of Warsaw.

One of the main battle sectors at the present time is along the Vistula just north of the San, where the Germans are attempting to force the river and flank the Russians on the Tanew. Success in this operation would unite the Germans on the left of the Vistula with those operating in Poland against the Tanew front.

A despatch from Berlin says that the official statement given out by the German army headquarters staff today announces that to the north of Lemberg the Austro-German forces are now on Russian territory.

CHANGES IN SEWER CONTRACT HELD UP

Dunellen Councilmen Think They See a "Joker" in the Agreement.

The Borough Council met last evening, at which times changes in the contract covering the work on the sewer collecting system with the H. K. Corbin Company were taken up. The changes had been gone over by the sewer committee, who reported the same last night to the Council recommending their adoption. However, it was found that the changes included what the Council all considered to be a "joker" relating to the price to be paid for the lumber in the sheathing in that part of the system, where the sanitary and storm sewer are being installed in the same trenches on North avenue.

Much time was spent in the discussion of the proposed changes and the members of the governing body appeared to be ready to adopt the same when the so-called "joker" appeared, showing that the borough, by the changes, would have to pay $4.20 a thousand feet for the sheathing lumber, instead of $3.50, as was generally supposed to be the price on the part of the councilman. Mr. Sanderson, who was present, representing Mr. Corbin, attempted to explain away the contention that $3.50 was the price, but the borough fathers decided to lay the whole matter over until the regular July meeting, when Mr. Corbin is expected to attend the meeting.

Other business of the evening included resolutions authorizing the laying of nine crosswalks in various parts of the borough, the installation of two catch basins, and the decoration of the Borough Hall and Police Headquarters for the Independence Day celebration. The question of extending the sewer on Fairview avenue and other thoroughfares on the south side of the Central Railroad tracks was informally discussed, but was laid over until a later date. A number of the councilmen, as well as Mayor Latham, will attend the finance conference at the Plainfield Council Chambers tonight, under the auspices of the legislative committee headed by Assemblyman Arthur Pierson, of Union county.

LODGE ELECTIONS.

Court Dunellen, I. O. O. F., elected officers last evening, while William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will elect tonight. The installation exercises will be held at the respective meetings to be held next week.

RECORDER CAMPBELL HAS A BUSY DAY

Many Cases Are Disposed of by Him in the Borough Court.

Yesterday was a busy day at the borough police headquarters, a number of cases coming before Recorder David S. Campbell. Stephen Hodack was up on the charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, being arrested by Marshal Patrick Tarpey. A fine of $5 was imposed and paid.

Two men were up on the charge of riding bicycles on the sidewalks. Walter Kennedy, of Plainfield, was arrested by Marshal I. V. Smalley on this count, as he rode his wheel on Bround Brook road just as he was leaving his work at the Hall Printing Press Works. A fine of $2 was imposed. Leslie Apps was arrested on a similar charge, on Front street, by Marshal E. E. Kepler. A fine of $2 was imposed.

Louis Mesina, one of the laborers at present employed on the sewer system construction, and Mrs. Rose Pennell, colored, were arrested on the charge of disorderly conduct, this case being heard before Justices von Minden and Campbell. The sentence of thirty days in the county jail or a $30 fine rested upon the prisoners at the conclusion of the trial. The fines were paid.

The fines of the day amounted to $41, the largest amount paid to the Borough Court in several months. All of the fines were paid.

MRS. STEWART CORIELL GIVEN BIRTHDAY PARTY

A number of friends gathered Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Stewart Coriell, in honor of her birthday. The evening was spent in a general social time, games occupying the major portion of the evening, during which musical selections were well rendered by the Misses Mary Lotz, Anna Coriell and Mayola Smalley. Among the guests were Miss Mary Lotz and Miss Augusta Hubner, of New Brunswick; Louis Lane, of Plainfield; Clarence Gottsblen and Alfred Parker, of Newark, and the following from Dunellen, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Coriell, William Coriell, Miss Anna Coriell, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Smalley and daughter, Miss Mayola Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smalley, Mr. and Mrs. William Smalley and daughter, Miss Helen Smalley, Miss Helen Griggs, Miss Miller, Miss Naeoma Snyder, Miss Florence Haver, Mrs. Hill and daughter, Miss Sarah Hill, Harvey Messerole, Russell Davison, William Herlick, Raymond Wyckoff, Elmer Russell and others. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the affair.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The organization meeting of the Dunellen League for Equal Suffrage will be held at the home of Mrs. E. F. Feickert, at Greenbrook. The organization, which was started at the last meeting of the Board of Trade, will be completed, officers elected and the charter list of members closed.

WANT SERVICE EXTENDED.

It has been reported that the Harris-Baker-Silvers Company, at present erecting a structural iron factory in the Samptown district of Piscataway township, will make application to the Plainfield Transit Company to extend the services of its auto buses from South Plainfield to the plant, after the shops have been completed. The service would not be started until September 1, and only two trips made, one in the morning and one in the evening.

IT'S A GIRL.

A girl arrived this morning at the home of Captain and Mrs. Benjamin Cole, the child being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cole's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Firstbrook, of Newark. Mrs. Firstbrook has been visiting her parents for the past two weeks.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Alice Sisty, of Wayside Park, is spending some time visiting Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Asbury Park.

F. R. Stephens and family, of Front street, will leave the borough about July 10 to take up their home on Duer street, North Plainfield, where a new dwelling is now being completed for them by the Apgar Construction Company.

Mrs. Henry Vail and granddaughter, Miss Gladys Richardson, formerly of the borough, but now of Mountville, Pa., are spending a few days here.

Westfield.

The county sealer of weights and measures finished the inspection of the weights and scales of the local druggists Saturday. Only very light discrepancies were found.

The work of putting tar on the Westfield streets is about completed for the season.

The local police are paying particular attention to enforcing the law concerning automobile lights.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The congregation of the St. John's (colored) Baptist church has started a campaign to raise money to build a church. The number of negroes in the Graceland section of the township has increased so rapidly that the building now used, a ten by fifteen foot cabin, is not big enough to hold the seventy odd members.

W. K. Woodbridge, of Paterson road, is on a business trip to Philadelphia.

The Boy Scouts have completed their program for the benefit entertainment in the Parish House on Thursday night and are advertising the affair as "ninety minutes of side splitting fun." There will be two sketches besides several individual efforts.

The different committees arranging for the union picnic of the township Sunday schools are completing plans for the affair that are sure to meet the approval of all, and will make definite announcements at a meeting to be held in the lecture room of the Baptist church on July 12.

Frank Hand, the only local boy in the minor leagues this year, is getting his chance to show his backstop ability after warming the bench since the start of the season. He has displaced a veteran and is first string catcher for the Worcester team of the New England League. He was leading the league with the willow from last reports with a percentage .332.

A large number witnessed the dress rehearsal of the three-act play "June" in the Willow Grove chapel last night. The performance will be given in the chapel tonight at 8 o'clock.

Charles Gorton, Sr., of North avenue, is on an automobile trip to Buffalo and other points in New York State.

The Rev. Raymond E. Marshal is arranging for a meeting to be held in the Methodist church on Sunday night in place of the regular evening service under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

As soon as a large quantity of dirt is carted away, the P. S. C. will have completed making all of the improvements asked for by the Township Committee. It is probable that the township street department will see to the disposal of the dirt as it will be needed as a binder when stone is put on the roads.

The P. S. C. has installed one new light and shifted another on Montague avenue so as to give pedestrians coming from the trolley more light. It was authorized at a recent meeting of the Township Committee.

The Township Committee has about completed negotiations with the Plainfield-Union Water Co. concerning the installation of a number of new hydrants in various parts of the township. The exact locations have not, as yet, been picked out, but it is probable that the several points where residents have petitioned for fire protection will be taken care of.

After being housed in the tool house on Forest road for a number of years, a purchaser for the old hook and ladder wagon and hose cart has been found. The two vehicles were discarded by the Scotch Plains fire fighters when the more up-to-date apparatus was obtained and has come near being burnt up several times, but a neighboring village, the name not being given, is about to inaugurate a fire department and wants the two carts as starters.

The police committee of the Borough Council has been delayed in the installation of the new police alarm system, but will probably have it in working order by the monthly meeting a week from tomorrow.

co-ordination of the various parts of the body and as a preparation for the gala day of the season, the big exhibition of playground work at Parker Field the latter part of August.

The following are in charge of the work at the various grounds this summer: Parker Field, George W. Wriston, supervisor; Irving School, Miss Ruth Wean, supervisor; Miss Marion Mair, assistant; Franklin School, Mrs. Frances Nischwitz, supervisor; Miss Molly Franke, assistant; St. Mary's School, Miss Helen C. George, supervisor; Bryant School, Miss Harriet E. Moe, supervisor.

At Parker Field the older boys and girls are taken care of. The tennis courts will be open the whole season and from present indications will be more popular than ever this year. There are four courts in excellent shape which are in constant use even now, before the regular playground season has started.

This year, as for the last three years, baseball leagues will be organized with regular schedules for the boys who frequent Parker Field. This year there will be a Junion League, a Middle League and a Senior League. Juniors, roughly speaking, will be boys less than fourteen years of age. Middlers will be boys about fourteen to sixteen and one-half years of age, and to the Seniors there is no age limit. Any boys, members of a team which they may wish to enter in the league should make it a point to see or drop a line to Mr. Wriston sometime before July 2, in order that the league schedules may start at the very beginning of the season.

The apparatus of the field provides as vigorous exercise as a young man can wish and the long slide will be more popular than ever this year, hundreds of boys and girls spending a part of their time on it each week. The grove of trees at the east of the field is provided with long rope swings and with benches. Here there is always cool shade and, most important, a breeze. Many are learning the advantages of this grove and use it for picnic lunches in the open.

Any one who may wish to help such an important public institution to keep the boys off the streets and occupied with healthful sport under supervision could do a great deal by contributing a dollar or two to be expended for that paramount necessity on a large playground—baseballs.

All around development is to be sought this summer, and preliminary strength and speed tests will be given and exercises prescribed. These will culminate in trials for the official badge of the Playground Association of America. There are three grades of this badge and only winners of it are allowed the privilege of wearing it.

ATTACK PILLAR OF FIRE

through to reach a Main Line trolley car for Bound Brook. Certain members of the sect beat a nasty retreat up East Fifth street to Madison avenue and thence to the borough headquarters at Duer street and Craig place; others walked toward Front street, but a majority boarded the trolley headed for the Bound Brook camping ground. Each delegation, however, was followed by an escort of hoodlums and automobiles and when they got over the city limits the atmosphere in their immediate vicinity became suddenly clouded with white missiles bearing a strong resemblance to "hen fruit" and which gave forth an odor that rivaled that of the famous gaseous element being used by the Germans in the conflict across the water.

According to the statement made by one of the leading "Jumpers" to a Daily Press reporter, this morning, the assault was carried as far as Bound Brook, where the representatives of the sect had to abandon the rest of their proposed journey to the farm near Weston and put up for the night at the former headquarters on the old Bound Brook baseball grounds. The man from whom the information was secured this morning, was loud in his denunciation of the treatment accorded the revivalists here and said that the scene enacted at Bound Brook was disgraceful. His words of condemnation were directed principally to what took place outside of the boundaries of Plainfield and he declared that some of his party still felt the effects of the rough treatment they received this morning. He said that the party on the Main Line trolley car was pursued by several automobiles, but all efforts on the part of the Daily Press this morning to locate others besides those included in the Pillar of Fire group, who had seen automobile parties in pursuit proved futile.

R. Henry DePew, who owns the lot on Watchung avenue where the meetings were being held, notified the "Jumpers" to break camp this morning, saying that had he known they would have created this disturbance he would never have rented the ground to them. The management of the religious organization told a reporter that they did not intend to continue the meetings on Watchung avenue, but that they might possibly attempt to raise the moral standards of Plainfielders up to a higher level by holding a revival in the borough.

You can't, even through a "For Sale" ad, sell that used article for its original cost, nor near it; but you can get its cash value at the present time for it.

REPLIES TO LETTER OF CARDINAL GIBBONS

Mrs. E. F. Feickert Refutes Statements Made by Catholic Prelate.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, of this city, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, yesterday gave out the following statement, in reply to a letter of Cardinal Bibbons to former City Counsel James R. Nugent, of Newark, in which the former expresses his views on woman suffrage. Mrs. Feickert said:

"The Anti-Suffragists are giving considerable prominence to a letter of Cardinal Gibbons to James R. Nugent, in which His Eminence states that he fears woman suffrage would not work well. In this connection, it is interesting to note that all the leaders of the Catholic church do not agree with Cardinal Gibbons, and those who are most strongly in favor of woman suffrage are those who have had actual experience in the workings of it.

"Among those are Father Searle, of the San Francisco Paulist Fathers, who says: 'It is quite true that I am, and have been all along, in favor of woman suffrage; that is to say, as far as the right to vote is concerned; which is, of course, the right and proper meaning of the word. I regard the argument so commonly advanced about woman's 'sphere' being the home as simply and obviously absurd. One might as well say that the doctor's sphere in his office or the hospital, or his patients' houses; or the priest's sphere the pulpit, the altar or the confessional.

"'The point is that no time need to be taken from one's regular duties in order to vote. Women may have to make some fuss in order to get the right to vote, but when they have got it they make less fuss than men do. That is our experience here. They learn what is needed in order to vote correctly and avoid mistakes in marking their beliefs better than men do.

"Rev. J. Elliott Ross, Ph. D., C. S. P., Chicago, Ill., says: 'Personally, I am very much in favor of woman suffrage, and that for three reasons. The first is, that women need the suffrage as much for their own highest spiritual and intellectual development as for a protection against man-made laws. The second is, that men need women as helpmates in political as well as domestic life. And my third reason for suffrage is, that there is no reason against it.'

"The Very Rev. John Tubman, dean of Christ church, Timaru, New Zealand, who is visiting his brother, Father Tubman, in Nevada, says that the Catholic Federation in New Zealand is active in getting the voters, men and women both, to register. He stated that woman suffrage works well in New Zealand, the women being humanitarian and public spirited. He heartily approves of women exercising the right of the franchise.

"All this tesimony is in line with the oft-quoted statement of Cardinal Moran, of Australia, that suffrage has been an unqualified success in his country."

NOT GOING TO EXPOSITION.

Washington, June 29.—President Wilson has been forced to abandon his plan of attending the Panama Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in the autumn. The foreign situation and the President's determination to take personal charge are the factors leading to this determination it was learned.

GREAT BRITAIN PERMITS SHIPMENT OF COTTON

Washington, June 29—Great Britain has agreed to permit the shipment in Sweden each month of ten thousand bales of American cotton. The announcement was made by the British embassy here today. The agreement was reached by the British government in conjunction with the Swedish cotton Spinners' Association and will become effective at once. This is twice the normal amount hitherto taken by the Swedish mills.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF ROBERT H. COOK HELD

With the home thronged with relatives and friends of the deceased the funeral service of Robert H. Cook, who died on Friday, was held yesterday afternoon at his late residence, on Crescent avenue. Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, officiated at the obsequies. The floral offerings were numerous and handsome.

Two solos were sung by William Holmes during the service, "Lead Kindly Light" and "There is a Green Hill Far Away." Burial was made in Hillside cemetery. The following acted as pallbearers: Willard Young, William H. Cook, Raymond Cook, Charles E. Eoff, Charles DeGraw and Harry H. Coward.

THIRTY CHARLIE CHAPLINS HOLD FORTH AT PROCTOR'S

Charlie Chaplins, thirty strong, held forth last night at Proctor's Theatre, when a Chaplin make-up contest was held under the personal direction of the management. The entries included amateurs from this city and suburban territory, ranging from six years of age and up. The entries were divided between the two evening shows, both of which were attended by capacity audiences. For next Monday, a Pearl White, the star of "The Exploits of Elaine" serial photo-play, contest will be held under the same rulings as prevailed last night.

The prizes as awarded in the first show contest last evening went to John Harris, of Elizabeth, for first honors, and Fred Mellick, a six-year-old youngster, secured second honors. William Dunbar took first prize at the second show, while William Gough, of the borough, and Allan Mongenes divided second honors. Ice cream day will be observed tomorrow, both afternoon and evening, at 4:30 and 8:30.

LAST DRINKS IN ALABAMA.

Montgomery, Ala., June 29.—At 11 p. m. tomorrow the State of Alabama goes dry. Under the provisions of the new law passed in January over Governor Henderson's veto, the local option system is discarded, and the entire State is made "dry" territory. This is the second time the State has gone dry. In 1909 prohibition was enacted, and the Carmichael law was in force for two years. Then came local options, under which only eight of the sixty-seven counties voted to license saloons. Besides the ban on saloons, Alabama inaugurates restricted regulations for the transportation of liquor in the State. No transportation company after tomorrow can deliver more than one quart of liquor a month to any one person in the State. Governor Henderson refused to sign this bill, also.

CIRCUSES MUST PAY.

Washington, June 29.—Just because the fiscal year of Uncle Samuel ends on June 30 and begins on July 1, the circuses and traveling carnivals must again dig down this week for the special tax, now known as the "war tax." In every state, territory or the District of Columbia, but only once in each state, in which a circus, wagon show, dog or pony show, traveling carnival or similar exhibition presents a program, a tax must be paid to swell the Treasury receipts, under the emergency revenue law. The bigger shows are taxed $100 in each state or territory visited, while the wagon shows, dog and pony shows pay $10.

OPEN TO NAVIGATION.

Washington, June 29.—No reports have been received at the War Department, it was said today, of a new slide at Culbera Cut in the Panama Canal. Major Boggs, chief of the Panama Canal Bureau of the War Department, stated today that no new slide had developed along the Canal. Today, said Major Briggs, the Canal for its full length is open to navigation for heavy draft vessels and if necessary we can send through most of our big navy boats.

Plainfield, N. J., June 29, 1915.

Just why the city street department should select the middle of the day for raising clouds of dust with its big road sweeper is a thing householders would like to find out. The complaints that came to this office yesterday from individuals who had dusted their porch furniture for the sixty-eighth time in the same number of minutes indicate that there is something the matter with the system now being used to rid our thoroughfares of surplus dust, before treating them with tar. Taking the city street department's own word for the fact that the combination of dust and sprinkling water makes an excellent binder which perserves the roadbed we're at a loss to understand just why a little water is not used. Householders along the route of the sweeper are kept busy cleaning away dirt that becomes accumulated on every object during the visit of the dust distributer and if the street commissioner would instruct his men to water the streets before sweeping them he would win the everlasting gratitude of those affected.

In Newark the Board of Education has instituted an investigation to determine whether or not the apparatus being used for physical training purposes in the schools is practical. The opinion prevailing in that city that heavy, cumbersome and unwieldy play-toys, not suitable for small children, are in use does not apply to Plainfield's system of physical training. In this city the Swedish calisthenics play the largest part in the training of our younger generation and the good that comes from this regularly supervised exercise speaks for itself in the records kept by the school instructor. The Plainfield schools are on the highest plane in this line and the fact cannot be too strongly emphasized on fond parents who might become alarmed over the action taken by a nearby city.

On his return from Honolulu United States Senator James E. Martine, our fellow citizen, has the following announcement to make: "A great wave of prosperity is on its way to the United States."

Well, we're glad there's something on the way, Senator, besides long days and sultry air, but your promised wave of prosperity has been a long time getting here. Your Democratic brethren find jobs just as scarce and times just as hard today as they did when you promised them great bounties two years ago.

Now that we're all satisfied that Plainfield has a pretty healthy looking jitney bus business operating along Park avenue, would it not be well for someone to attempt to "jitneyize" other lines? There are some few persons who would delight in a jitney motion picture show, a jitney lawn mower service or a jitney snow removing concern in the winter months.

It makes little difference who was responsible for the disorderly scene at a tent meeting conducted by the "Holy Jumpers" on Watchung avenue last night, the most deplorable feature of the affair is that a crowd of more than five hundred Plainfielders was permitted to engage in such disorderly conduct within two blocks of police headquarters.

A Newton farmer claims to be the proud owner of the most wonderful barnyard fowl the world has ever seen. She lays eggs every morning with the initials of the family marked on each. We presume that she lays double-yolkers for the twins and is supplied with a counting machine to go along with the rest of her accomplishments.

Lest they forget we must remind the councilmen that the promised tapper has not made its appearance at Second street and Park avenue. The assurance that there won't be another circus in Plainfield before next spring should not be used by our city fathers as an excuse to rest on mere promises.

They tell us that these are the longest days of the year, but, just why they make the longest ones the hottest is something we scribes have never been able to find out. Scoop adds: And there are mighty few things we don't know about.

What the Recreation Committee Did for Tom Ashley.

By Helen McCarthy

Third Essay in the Daily Press Prize Competition at the Plainfield High School.

The work of the Public Recreation Committee in its various activities has been most successful. Take for instance Tom Ashley's household, typical of so many Plainfield families.

A year ago, Tom Ashley slouched into the steamy kitchen. He glanced around, and with a discouraged sigh he hung his greasy hat and coat near the door. His frowzy wife looked up from the washtub and muttered something. Well he couldn't blame her. He did want her to have all the pretty things a woman loves, but his meager salary could heardly meet the bills. Bitterly he thought of his neglected education, his youthful desire "to work and make some money," his early marriage, and the long struggle to clothe the two children.

Then he noticed his eighteen-year old daughter in the corner absorbed in a "movie" magazine. She was pretty! That frilly waist that had made such a hole in last week's salary, did seem out of place in the kitchen, but he ought to be glad he could at least buy it for her.

The odor of boiling coffee aroused Maude from her movie hero. Yawning she poured out the muddy liquid and announced that supper was ready. Mrs. Ashley dried her soapy hands and called Bill, the sixteen year-old son, from his "Evening Journal." Tom Ashley ate the cold roast beef, left from Sunday's dinner and the soppy potatoes simply because a man was supposed to eat something at 6 o'clock every night.

For the twentieth time Maude told about the "swell time she had at Saengerbund Hall, Saturday night about the classy fellow she met who said he had a car."

"Mary Craig wants me to go to a dance over in the Washington School next Saturday night. I don't care much about going, but since I promised her—I'd go any place where I could dance."

Bill boasted about the twenty dollars one of the bunch had made on a baseball bet, and the number of cigarettes he had smoked that day. Well, his children must have some pleasure he supposed. When he was young he wanted it himself. But if he were not such a failure, probably Maude and Bill could have a different kind of pleasure. Other men had forgotten their troubles easily but he had kept away from that!

After the supper was over, Bill hurried off to meet the bunch on the corner and Maude went to the "movies" with her chum Grace. Mrs. Ashley washed the dishes half-heartedly.

The twitter of a robin, outside the window aroused Tom from his thoughts and he remembered his violin. Yes! that would help him forget. He began to play "Humoresque."

"Oh, don't play that creepy thing," complained Mrs. Ashley; "play 'The International Rag,' that's catchy, that is."

"I guess I don't want to play anyhow tonight. I'm going to bed."

Saturday night, Maude came home bubbling over to tell the family of the good time she had.

"There was an awfully nice crowd there—most all the boys and girls I knew in grammar school—the Public Recreation Committee gives it, you know. Oh, it's much nicer than at Saengerbund. I'm going next week too, I can't hardly wait."

All summer Maude went to the Municipal Dances. The association with boys and girls her own age who were interested in their daily work as well as pleasure, awoke in her a desire "to do something" too.

"I'm going to business college. Dad says I can go. I'm not going to sleep all morning and read all afternoon any more. I know I'm just as bright as some girls and I'll get a good position."

The Recreation Committee was so pleased with the results of the Municipal Dances that they decided to broaden the field.

Early in September, the papers announced that a Symphony Orchestra would be organized the following Monday night.

Tom Ashley induced his neighbor who played a cornet, to go with him. The orchestra leader discovered that Mr. Ashley had some talent so he encouraged the big bashful Tom in every way possible. No longer did he regard Monday as a day beginning a dreary week of work, but a day whose evening was the happiest in the week. He felt that what he did in the orchestra was appreciated, and for him life took on a brighter outlook.

A Needle Craft Club was also formed by the Committee.

"Why don't you go, mother?" asked Maude. "I remember you used to sew lots when I was little. Dad goes down to the Franklin School every Monday night, too, and he could meet you coming home."

"Yes," urged Tom. "It will be like old times for you and I to go out together."

"Probably I will go. I'll take that waist I started. Do you think my brown suit will look good enough, Maude?"

Mrs. Ashley knew no one there but the friendly woman sitting next to her confided that she was making "her daughter's weddin' clothes," and she wanted a few hints about them. The two women began talking about household problems, as most women will do.

"I'll come to see you Wednesday and bring the recipes for fixing roast beef," said her new-found friend after the seemingly short evening was over.

"Yes, do! Here's my husband."

When Tom met his wife he hardly recognized her. A happy, pleased expression had replaced the dissatisfied scowl on Mrs. Ashley's face.

"The Choral Society that Maude joined is going to give 'Elijah' in April. The Orchestra is going to help them, and they asked me to play a short solo part."

"Oh, Tom, I've had such an enjoyable evening, and I met the nicest woman. Everything seems so different, now. I've just been in a rut, that's all."

"I'm going to join a gym. class in the High School, Tuesday evening, and make Bill go with me. He's on the streets too much."

A few weeks afterward, Bill announced that he was going to join a club.

"I was imitating a fellow I saw in Proctor's in the office today and the manager said I should join the Thespian Club that meets every Wednesday night at the High School. They give plays and things. The manager is on the Recreation Committee, you know."

"Are you coming to the gym class tonight, Bill?" asked his father.

"Yes, and I'm going swimming. Gee, I'm tired of that corner bunch, nothin' to them. Say you know that crawl stroke—"

"Hurry, mother. I'll do the dishes. The Choral Society meets early tonight," said Maude, "and my stenography is all done, too."

Mrs. Ashley looked around at her family enjoying the well cooked supper. How everything had changed since last year. Tom was no longer the silent disheartened man, but contented and wideawake to every opportunity. Maude was not the lazy selfish girl of a year ago, but energetic and thoughtful. In the gymnasium, Bill discovered that cigarettes and a strong heart do not go together, and his pride in training his body to be physically fit, forced him to give up cigarettes entirely. Somehow she how changed too. But she must not waste time thinking, she must finish her new dress. Yes, the Municipal Dances, the Symphony Orchestra, the Choral Society, the gymnasium and swimming classes, the Needle Craft Club, and the Thespian Society, all organized by the Recreation Committee, had filled the wants of the Ashley family.

The Ashley family is only one example of the splendid results brought about by the Recreation Committee's work. By giving the wholesome pleasures that everyone needs they have brought to the Tom Ashleys in Plainfield a broader outlook on life.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Conducted by

THE W. C. T. U.

The action of Dr. Sigismund S. Goldwater, commissioner of health of the city of New York, in inaugurating a campaign against alcohol, is being favorably commented upon by members of the medical profession.

"If Dr. Goldwater is going to try to better the health of the people of New York by a war on the use of alcohol, he will have all the support I can give him. It is a most commendable undertaking," said Dr. William M. Polk, former president of the New York Academy of Medicine. "This is the biggest thing ever undertaken by any health officials," stated Dr. Haven Emerson, deputy commissioner of health. "It is a novel fight—health against alcohol—and one that should receive many recruits. I think the people of New York will appreciate what Dr. Goldwater is trying to do for them. Health regulation now does not remove enough causes. We are going after the greatest cause of human ills."

The growing interest during recent years of the State Board of Health of New York in the liquor evil has been noted by temperance workers with gratification.

One of the chief charts in an exhibit which has been recently prepared by this Board shows the relation of alcohol to disease. At the present time it is furnishing to certain papers of the State of New York articles under the title of "Health Hints," which deal with alcohol as a menace to the health of the individual and the community.

For a number of years the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has co-operated with the health department, this co-operation beginning at the time Dr. William A. Howe was in charge of the contagious disease work and asked the assistance of white ribboners in the appointment of women physicians who would present to audiences of women the dangers of contagious diseases. Five of the eleven appointed were named by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The State Department of Health agreed to furnish these women physician speakers free of charge wherever the Woman's Christian Temperance Union would make appointments for them. One year the Woman's Christian Temperance Union had them on the programs of all their institutes. The result was that all of these women physicians became white ribboners before the season was over. Through this co-operation there came to the Board of Health the realization that the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is a strong agency for the promotion of health.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, the president of the New York W. C. T. U., who takes occasion to visit the office of the State Board of Health whenever in Albany, says she has noticed a marked change taking place in the attitude of that department. "When I talked with Dr. Williams, an official of the Board, two years ago," said Mrs. Boole, "he remarked that there was a difference of opinion as to whether or not the use of alcohol by parents had any effect on the unborn child. Upon a recent visit a few weeks ago he not only emphasized this truth but said that if the facts were known the use of alcohol had very much to do with the alarming number of deaths among men in middle life and was responsible for many of the cases of kidney disease, pneumonia and also premature old age. He expressed the hope that before long there might be special emphasis placed on the study of alcohol."

Among recent "Public Health Hints" prepared by the Department of Health and published in the general press one notes such warnings as these:

"Alcohol is one of the most powerful allies of the pneumonia germ and even moderate drinkers show a much higher death rate from this disease than do abstainers."

"Alcohol is perhaps the most important of all factors in bringing on pneumonia and hardening of the arteries, and the other diseases of later life."

"Chancellor Lloyd George estimates that the abolition of vodka will increase the efficiency of the Russian people by from thirty to fifty per cent., and experienced physicians agree that he is right."

C. E. SOCIETY DONATES MONEY FOR COUNTY CAMP

Following the regular monthly business meeting of the society, the Christian Endeavorers of the First Presbyterian church held a sociable, last night. There was a good attendance, and a program of music and games was presented. The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, the pastor, and others favored the company with piano selections, and refreshments were served.

At the business meeting preceding the sociable the Endeavorers voted to donate the sum of forty dollars to the work of Camp Endeavor, the outdoor camp which the Union County Endeavor Union maintains on the mountain.

NORTHFIELD IDEAL PLACE FOR VACATION

Summer Conferences Will Attract People From all Parts of the Globe.

East Northfield, June 29.—Two business men were discussing vacation plans and one of them said "Wherever else I go in the summer I make it a point to spend a few days, at least, in Northfield." When asked his reasons he replied, "One reason is because I like to see things grow whether it be a child, a plant, an ideal or an institution, and I believe more splendid ideas have sprouted and grown there than in any other spot on this continent."

Many of these "splendid ideas" originated with D. L. Moody, and one of the most successful is the series of Conferences and Summer Schools which have just entered upon their thirty-third season.

The first conference this year was the Young Women's, and in numbers and enthusiasm reached high water mark. Over 800 delegates registered from eight States, and eleven schools and colleges were represented.

The scene on the campus on the afternoon when the girls had their field sports was a spectacle of great brilliancy and animation. The contestants came from schools in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Washington, Dobbs Ferry, Farmington, Westover, Andover, Westown and Northfield.

Next comes the Student Conference (Y. M. C. A.), June 25 to July 4, under the leadership of John R. Mott who declined to consider the ambassadorship to China because he felt he had a larger mission to fulfill. This always includes the patriotic celebration of a "safe and sane" Fourth, but one brimful of fun and frolic, of prowess and patriotism.

The rest of July is taken up with schools for the study of home and foreign missions under the auspices of women of national repute, also with a school for Sunday-school workers taught by some of the ablest men and women in the country engaged in religious pedagogy.

This combination of rest, recreation and study, practically out of doors, with a chance to hear so many eminent speakers, attracts thousands of visitors to Northfield each summer. The interest culminates in the General Conference of Christian Workers, July 30 to August 15, and the program this year shows names of men of power in the Christian world. The speakers from England, Rev. Messrs. Campbell Morgan, Stuart Holden, Charles Inglis and Len G. Broughton (formerly of Atlanta), are sure to bring messages of more than ordinary import on account of the war. And the seriousness of the world situation will be well interpreted by our own leaders of Christian thought—Drs. A. T. Robertson, of Louisville; Johnston Ross and C. E. Jefferson, of New York; J. R. Davies, of Philadelphia; Russell Cecil and Bishop Denny, of Richmond; Rev. Messrs. C. E. Scott and William Evans, and by one layman, Melvin Trotter, of Grand Rapids.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Proctor's Theatre was the popular rendezvous this afternoon for lovers of the diamond sport, old and young being numbered in the audience. The attraction was Charles E. VanLoan's famous baseball story, "Little Sunset," featuring Gordon Griffith, the boy actor, in the title role. "Little Sunset" Jones is the son of a professional baseball player. He scraps, umpires and does all the things which the American small boy won't do, even to having a big league outfielder as his idol. "Little Sunset" will be produced tonight and a capacity audience will undoubtedly witness the photo-play.

Tomorrow afternoon and night, Daniel Fronman presents William Farnum in Wilson Barrett's story of "The Sign of the Cross." "The Sign of the Cross" derived from the symbol which to scores of millions has for many centuries borne so profound a significance, has been filmed by the Famous Players Company with an extravagance of scenic and spectacular effects and a faithfulness to the original settings and atmosphere seldom seen in motion pictures. For many years the original play has fascinated the imagination and swayed the emotions throughout the civilized world as has no other drama of its type. For the most part, it glows with Titiansque luxuriance of coloring, as befits a fearless picture of life in Rome of Nero. This exciting world of intrigue and unbridled luxury covers but a portion of the canvas, and the play also reveals through its Christian characters, the exquisite reverence and saintliless and the serenity of unquestioning faith; and it is through a gallery of startling scenes, now splendid with throned sensualities and stately luxury, now beautiful with piteous suffering and illumined with holy hope and love, that Mercia and Marcus, the unfaltering Christian and doubting Pagan march to their decreed doom. It would be impossible to overestimate the emotional power of the film. In the role of Marcus Superbus, William Farnum is noble and dignified, both in the tender love passages with Mercia or when turning in fierce wrath upon his enemies and calumniators.

Tomorrow the management will serve its patrons with ice cream both at the afternoon and evening shows, one of the features that has met with the instant approval and appreciation of the audience.

SCHOOL OF METHODS OPENS ON JULY 7

Plainfield Churches to Be Largely Represented at Shore Gathering.

The twenty-second annual session of the School of Methods conducted by the New Jersey Sunday-school Association will be inaugurated at the Asbury Park High School, Tuesday, July 7. About 300 teachers, officers and other Sabbath-school workers will be in attendance at the classes, which continue to July 14.

Offering a three-year course of study and placing emphasis on the great essentials, the Bible, the study of the pupil and the fundamental principles of teaching that are the basis of all systems of Sunday-school lessons, the school presents a wide scope of work under the direction of thirteen widely known specialists who comprise the faculty. Among these are:

Rev. Milton S. Littlefield, district secretary of the Congregational Sunday-school and Publication Society, who will lecture on pedagogy and intermediate department work; Miss Margaret Slattery, formerly of the Fitchburg (Mass.) Normal School, who will instruct in the first and second courses on pedagogy; Rev. Dr. Benjamin S. Winchester, editor of Sunday-school publications of the Congregational Church, instructor in psychology and the Bible and leader of the adult department.

Others are Rev. Dr. Jesse Herrman, pastor in charge of the First Presbyterian church, Asbury Park, and instructor in the Bible; Rev. Dr. William J. Thompson, professor of religious psychology and pedagogy in Drew Theological Seminary, instructor in advanced courses; Miss Frances M. Hedden, intermediate superintendent of the Essex County Sunday-school Association, instructor in the intermediate department, and Ivan P. Flood, of Newark, instructor in the senior department.

One of the features of the school will be a congress of superintendents scheduled to be held July 10, 11 and 12. The aim of this congress is to bring up for discussion the various problems. These will be referred to a "senate" for consideration, a report being submitted by this body at the close of the session. Among the principle topic for discussion are "Sunday-school Records, Statistics, System and Management," "The Young People—How to Keep Them Interested," and "Evangelism in the Sunday-school." Among the members of the "senate" are Hamilton T. Disbrow, of Forest Hill Presbyterian Sunday-school, and James W. A. Smith, of St. John's Episcopal Sunday-school, Elizabeth.

Other appointees of this body include George E. Hall, of Plainfield; Francis Buckingham, of Franklinville; Arthur M. Harris, of Plainfield; Roy V. Wright, of East Orange; J. P. S. Alyea, of Clifton; Harry P. Bennett, of Long Branch; J. Van Liew Wyckoff, of Ridgewood, and J. O. Spencer, of Bridgeton.

Differing from the plan in years past, the adult class department will this year meet all week for consecutive study and also for an hour of conference each day. This will be under the leadership of Dr. Winchester, who will lecture on "The Principles of and Teaching Material for Religious Education of Adults" and "The Need and Possibilities of the Adult Bible Class Under Efficient Leadership."

WILL PLAY FOR A SILVER TROPHY

Leo Slonim Offers a Cup to the Winner of City Baseball League.

QUESTION OF PLAYERS

Several New Names Are Proposed and Filed While Others Are Dropped—Request of Umpires for More Pay is Denied.

Announcement was made at the weekly meeting of the representatives of the City Amateur Baseball League at The Daily Press office last night, that Leo Slonim, of West Front street, had offered to donate a handsome silver trophy to the team winning the local championship. The offer was received and Mr. Slonim's offer was accepted and Mr. Slonim will receive a letter of thanks from the league.

Considerable business was taken up and discussed at last night's meeting, including the question of players. The Saurer team at present is quite badly crippled, several of the best players being on the sick list. Manager Brit Martin posted the names of Harry Moulton and Hegeman, dropping "Warry" MacLaughlin and George Ortleib. Mr. Martin expects to have his team strengthened and in good playing shape very soon. Lou Slocum's name has been added to the list of the Netherwood A. C., and that of W. Brick dropped.

There was some discussion regarding the pay of the umpires. It was the opinion of the arbitrators that they should receive more money for holiday games, but the league decided that it could not afford to pay more than the present price of $1.50 per game, and they will be informed of that face.

Interest is increasing rapidly in the league series, especially as Hope and T. A. B., now tied for first place, will meet on Saturday. Both teams are confident of success in view of the fact that they are playing good ball.

The games thus far show that all six clubs are pretty evenly matched, even though some weak spots have developed. The managers are anxious to correct these and there is no doubt but that all of the teams will soon be fighting hard for first place with the old-time spirit of rivalry in evidence. The only teams not represented last night were Netherwood A. C. and the First Baptist, and they were notified that the next meeting of the League would be held on Tuesday night, July 6, at The Daily Press office and to be represented at that time.

LINING THEM OUT

"Kid" Brennan, the midget shortstop of the T. A. B. team, although guilty of three misplays in the last game, is a big "sticker." He nabbed two swats in the First Baptist conflict and, to quote a T. A. B. recruit, is the only man on the "soda-water" boys' outfit who can touch Dick Schott.

Harry Moulton, the old Public Service player, has been added to the Saurer combination, but did not figure in the counting columns on Saturday.

Add to the already long list of accomplishments achieved by the advent of the City League, the making of a new star in the person of "Babe" Gleason, who curved them over for the Saurer outfit on Saturday.

It must be admitted that the local T. A. B. S. team is the possessor of one of the best juvenile batteries in this section of New Jersey. Dick Lawton and "Art" Kyle are members. Lawton held the heavy-hitting New York Cubs to nine swats and Art Kyle obtained three wallops for the home clan.

Geary, of the T. A. B. S. team, seems to be quite a sticker as well as a player. He obtained two taps off Patterson's delivery.

Besides being the best flinger in the league, Dick Schott is upholding his batting average, garnering two timely bingles in the contest with Saurer's crew.

"Box" Apgar and his brother, both members of the Clinton Avenue team, were the stars in the field and at bat in the encounter with the Netherwoods. The P. H. S. boy nipped three wallops out of three chances, while T. Apgar nailed two slams.

"Benny" Rosenson certainly is an all-round ballist. On Saturday he fed a few of his curves to the boys from the "Orient," only five of which were edible.

Keep posted on building news. See Saturday's Press.

BOYS' CLASS GIVES 'GYM' DEMONSTRATION

Many Spectators See Y. M. C. A. Lads in Open Air Athletic Exhibition.

Witnessed by a large and enthusiastic audience a demonstration of outdoor gymnasium work was given by the Boys' Class, of the Y. M. C. A., last night, in the enclosed yard in the rear of the building. Lighted by electric lights, the yard was brightly illuminated, and the spectators were able to see every bit of the work done by the boys as plainly as though it had been day time. Physical Director Robert Meermans put the boys through their drills and exhibitions in a manner which called forth hearty applause. There was a precision and snap about the work which testified to the careful training they have been given.

Much of the work was class work in which the boys as a class participated. There were a few individual events and contests. The gold medals in the junior life saving contest was an event in which the public was greatly interested. Medals were awarded last night to Howard Willett and Charles P. Gates.

The first exhibition on the program was a maze and drill by the Indian League. This was followed by a pole vaulting contest, an open event, which was won by Augustus Weglau, with a mark of 7 feet, 10 inches, with Martin Synder second, 7 feet, 6 inches, and Edward Boyle third, 6 feet, 6 inches.

Two teams from the Indian League engaged in an exhibition tug-of-war, then came an exhibition of tumbling by the Employed Boys' Club and an exhibition volley ball game between picked teams from the High School College League and the Employed Boys' Club, which was won by the former. Group games by members of the Indian League came next.

Howard Willett won the tilting contest and James Brownlee the pie eating contest. Ice cream and cake were served at the conclusion of the demonstration.

Candidates for the junior life saving medals have to take a series of tests to prove their efficiency in swimming. The series lasts for several months. Only three medals have been awarded in this contest this year, the two given out last night and a medal awarded Harold Zeek some time ago. It is a much coveted honor. General Secretary Alfred C. Estes presented the medals last night.

EXPECT EARLY DECISION BY LANDIS IN BASEBALL SUIT

Chicago, June 29.—Judge Kenesay M. Landis, in the United States Court yesterday, promised an early decision in the injunction case involving conflicting claims to ball players brought about by the entrance into major baseball of the Federal League. The announcement was made in connection with a petition asking dissolution of the injunction which prevents Armando Marsans from playing with the St. Louis Federals. It was set forth that at the time of the raids and counter-raids for players seventeen players were enjoined from playing, but that all are working now except Marsans, who jumped from the Cincinnati Nationals.

Judge Landis declined to dissolve the injunction, which was granted by Judge Sanborn in St. Louis a year ago, but granted leave to file an intervening petition by means of which Marsans' case will be decided with the others. This, the court promised, would be soon.

Judge Landis, in saying he would render a decision in the Federal League suit, indicated that he would decide all the points involved, including the anti-trust questions. He said he had delayed the decision in the hope that baseball generally would benefit by the delay.

WOW! FREE BASEBALL.

After the Brookfeds had secured a four-run lead over Chicago at Washington Park yesterday, much to the delight of more than 10,000 fans who had been admitted to the park free, the Chicago batsmen charged and after routing two Brookfeds twirlers won the game, 10 to 5. It was "Fans' day" at the Fed Park yesterday, and the gates were thrown open to the public in commemoration of the opening of the new Fourth Avenue Subway.

VETERAN PLAYER WINS.

Playing with excellent judgment, and showing the same form that won for him the championship last year, Frederick G. Anderson yesterday defeated W. Halsey Wood, of the New York Tennis Club, in the third round of the Long Island tennis championship on the courts of the Kings County Tennis Club at Brooklyn. Anderson, who is a veteran and fully twenty years older than his opponent, won two sets to one at 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

JACK FRITTS ENTERED IN CELTIC PARK MEET

Among the Well Known Athletes Who Will Take Part in Events.

Eight well-known all-around athletes have sent in their entries for the pentathlon, consisting of three field events and two track events, and one of the features of the games of the Irish-American Athletic Club and Affiliated Building Trades, which will take place at Celtic Park, Long Island City, Monday afternoon. They are Howard Berry, University of Pennsylvania, winner of the pentathlon held in connection with the Pennsylvania Relay Carnival this year; Patrick O'Connor, J. Andromedas, Jack Fritts, of Plainfield, M. J. Fahey, Dave Politzer, Tom McLoughlin and Lester Harper. As it will take the greater part of the afternoon to run this event off, the running broad jump, which is the first event to be contested, will start at 1 o'clock.

The world's record is expected to fall when Paddy Ryan, Matt McGrath, Pat McDonald, John Cahill and Simon Gillis meet in the scratch thirty-five-pound weight-throwing contest.

WATER BOTTLES SET A COLLEGE PRECEDENT

Cornell Oarsmen Won the Big Race by Eight Feet.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 29.—In a triangular battle of blades unequaled in regatta history, the Cornell oarsmen won the varsity four-mile race here late yesterday afternoon, defeating the Leland Stanford crew by eight feet.

Trailing the Californians came Syracuse, exhausted by the struggle, but still gliding over the line two lengths ahead of Columbia, which crew wrested fourth place from Pennsylvania in the last mile of the premier feature contest of the intercollegiate regatta.

Cornell's victory gave the Ithaca university and Coach Courtney an edge on the crews of the other four colleges entered, for the red and white junior eight had previously won the event for second crews, while the freshmen race had been captured by the Syracuse first-year oarsmen, with Cornell second.

EXPECT INTERNATIONALS TO THROW UP THE SPONGE

President Ed Barrow, of the International League, yesterday issued a call for the club owners to meet with him at the Belmont Hotel, New York, tomorrow, to consider transferring the Newark club to Harrisburg, Pa., temporarily. Lack of patronage due to the Federal invasion is said to have prompted the move.

It is said on the best of authority that the league will suspend operations after July 4. Umpires and players are alleged to have such information. Inability to meet the salary lists is given as the cause. Other matters beside the Newark transfer will be discussed tomorrow.

RIDES 885 MILES.

After riding for thirty-eight hours and covering 885 miles, Elmer Mills won the Indian Motorcycle Club's endurance run at 3:25 o'clock yesterday morning. Lester Cramer was second, finishing at 4:03. He ran into a stone wall at Flemington on the tenth lap but quickly repaired his machine and resumed racing. Mills will receive a loving cup and Cramer a gold medal.

FORTY-NINE POUND BASS.

Long Beach, L. I., June 29.—Surf fishing is becoming popular here. For the fourth time this month another very large fish was caught yesterday. J. Gleason, of Manhattan, made the catch with a twenty-yard line. The fish was a forty-nine pound striped bass and was caught in front of the Nassau Hotel.

SIGNS COLLEGE INFIELDER.

Philadelphia, June 29.—Manager Mack, of the Philadelphia Americans, announced yesterday that he signed Thomas Healey, an infielder, from the University of Pittsburgh. Healey will report to the Athletics in Washington today.

BRUGGY'S RIVAL LET OUT.

Walter Tragessor, the catcher that gave Frank Bruggy such a hard tussle for the receiving job with the Boston Braves, has been released to the Jersey City team, of the International League.

LOCAL DOUBLET WIN OUT IN FIRST NIGHT CONTEST

Rahway, June 29.—While twenty-four high-powered electric lights made it like day, the first night tennis tournament ever held in New Jersey was opened here last night, under the auspices of the Olderan Outing Club, with contestants from many parts of the State entered.

The novelty of the tournament attracted a large number of entries, among whom were B. Throckmorton, Rowland Clark, M. Randall, and H. Bartlett, prominent players of this section. In one of the best doubles matches Glazebrook and Vendervent-er defeated Brinkerhoff and Holbrook, 6-1, 6-2. The finals of the tournament are expected to be reached by Saturday.

SWIMMING CLASS FOR WOMEN AT HIGH SCHOOL

The Wednesday night swimming class at the local High School pool still has a number of vacancies and any young woman of this city or borough is welcome to join the class. Many who will not have the time nor opportunity to go to the seashore this summer are enrolling in the classes in order that they may enjoy themselves in aquatic sports. The fee is nominal and the benefits the attendants derive from the expert instructions of the teachers are innumerable.

Beside gaining a knowledge of the art, physical development is a feature of the instruction. Many local young women have attended classes week in and week out and after a few sessions in the pool have learned the first rudiments of the swimming art and are now taking to diving and fancy strokes. For those who know absolutely nothing of swimming, pulleys and water wings are provided. Before going into the pool each girl must take a shower. Regulation one piece bathing suits are required, each girl furnishing her own.

GIRLS PLAN INDOOR TENNIS AT HIGH SCHOOL

The first meeting of all the girls interested in the indoor tennis is scheduled for tomorrow night and indications point to a large turnout of the feminine athletes. The games will be played in the gymnasium of the Plainfield High School and will be under the supervision of the Recreation Committee. Several well-known racquet wielders have entered their names and undoubtedly the committee will have a representative team to put in the field. Girls who do not know the court game should not be backward in sending in their names or attending practices as the main feature of the new field is to teach the game of tennis and the committee takes this opportunity to urge those who want to learn the game to come out for the practices. Tennis racquets will be provided those who do not possess one of their own.

Beside indoor tennis, the committee has arranged for a number of other indoor features, namely volley ball and baseball. Much interest and enthusiasm is evident among the feminine baseball fans in the latter announcement, and many who have engaged in light baseball playing with their brothers have signified their intention of entering and taking the opportunity of learning more about the national pastime.

RECORD FOR MISS BJURSTEDT.

Miss Molla Bjurstedt has established a brand new tennis record. The national champion won three titles in twenty-four hours. Saturday afternoon she captured the women's singles championship at the Middle States tourney in South Orange and followed with a victory in the doubles, playing with Miss Clare Cassel. Sunday, Miss Bjurstedt defeated Mrs. Marshall McLean, of Morristown, 6-3, 6-3, for the Pelham Country Club title. It will be remembered that Miss Bjurstedt recently gave an exhibition of her skill at the local country club.

RUNYON'S OPPONENTS.

Ralph Runyon, the local high jumper and pole vaulter, who has entered the New Brunswick athletic meet of July 5, will have as rivals in the high jump, Eugene Jennings, of the Millrose A. A., and Egon Erickson, a New York policeman, who competes under the I. A. A. C. colors and who holds the senior metropolitan championship.

LOCAL DOGS WINNERS.

Among the many dog lovers who were attracted to the annual show of the Orange Bide-a-Wee, which took place on Saturday in the Fifth Regiment Armory, of that city, was Mrs. J. G. Voorhies, of this city. Several of the dogs entered by Mrs. Voorhies proved prize-winners.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

LEADS AMERICAN LEAGUE IN PITCHING

George Dauss.

That Ty Cobb is not the whole Detroit baseball club is proved by one glimpse at the dope on some of the players of that remarkable organization. Crawford and Veach are playing about the best game of their lives; and George Dauss is leading the American league in pitching.

Two years ago, when Dauss was just breaking into the game, Frank Chance declared that Jennings' modest young righthander was the most promising prospect in the league, except Ray Keating. Chance predicted that Dauss would improve with time. He said of Dauss' ability:

"He uses a fast ball effectively and there are only a few better in the game, and his curve is as good as any I have ever seen. As soon as he gets the necessary experience he will be a star who will last a long time."

Chance's prediction is coming true. Dauss' fast ball with a sharp break, his curve and his slow one work in fine style for him. He has good control and a fine pitching head. Dauss knows just what he will put on every ball for every batter.

Hughie Jennings says Dauss reminds him of Bill Donovan. The manager claims Dauss uses his head in the same way and has Bill's style of delivery to a large extent.

The pick of the Tigers' pitching staff is of medium height and weight. He rarely extends himself and pitches at his top speed only when he finds himself in a pinch. His idea of pitching is to go as easy as possible as long as possible and conserve for a crisis.

Remarkable Tribute to Supreme Commander Bina M. West of the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees.

NEW HOME OFFICE BUILDING OF THE ASSOCIATION, PORT HURON, MICH.

ON June 18 the city of Port Huron, Mich., officially welcomed home Miss Bina M. West, supreme commander of the Women's Benefit Association of the Maccabees, in recognition of her remarkably efficient work for the association. The reception was in charge of Mayor Black and the city commission and was participated in by all the societies, clubs and business organizations of Port Huron. To quote the resolution of the city commission, it was a remarkable tribute to "Miss West, able worker for fraternity and humanity."

The Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees gives its protection and fraternal interest to white women of good moral character. It is nonpolitical and nonsectarian, and dispenses its fraternity in fifty-five states and provinces.

The protection of the association can be secured for whole life, and whole life combined with disability benefits; last illness and burial benefits; also sick benefits. The rates are scientifically graded, and no member pays more than the cost of her own protection. When it is known that Miss West has, with her own hand, signed away over $12,000,000, an estimate can be formed of what this association has already done toward mitigating the dread ordeal incident to death.

Every year finds this association progressing, but the past four years have recorded its greatest advancement. Women, by securing fraternal protection, are freer to seek out new fields of endeavor and become more independent and capable.

A woman's convention without one word of dissent is rather an unusual thing. This was the experience, however, of the recent eighth quadrennial convention of the association in New York. Every session was a model of business ability and parliamentary procedure, and plans were laid for the present quadrennial term which were aimed to meet the great and growing work of its 187,000 women.

Many important features were placed before the convention for decision, one being the changing of the name from the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World to the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees.

Another important step taken was the acceptance of plans for a handsome new home office at Port Huron, Mich. This will be a large, magnificent two story white stone building on the main street of the home city of the order, where the supreme commander, Miss B. M. West, started her project twenty-three years ago. To give the reader an idea of how this society has progressed it will be of interest to know that Miss West started out with a $150 debt, no members and unknown, to organize what today is meeting the needs of 187,000 women in the matter of home protection through fraternal insurance. Miss West has been a leader beloved and adored by her members, and as an insignia of their esteem the convention endeavored to prevail on her to accept the well earned salary of $10,000 a year for the next term. In a masterful address she declined, stating that the weal of the association was uppermost in her mind, not the remuneration.

Steps were taken at this meeting of representative women to endow a state hospital service in every state, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan already having their service in satisfactory use. By this philanthropy every member requiring expert medical attention may have it free of cost to herself.

Addresses were given by Mr. Miles M. Dawson, fraternal insurance actuary of New York city, and Mr. James V. Barry, Michigan insurance commissioner, congratulated the association on the signal success it has attained. "Your association," said Mr. Dawson, "is the first woman's benefit society in the United States to be established on a sound basis, and through the foresight of your peerless leader, Miss West, you are the largest society of your kind in the world. I congratulate you."

RUMORS OF PEACE HEARD IN ROME

Wondered Whether Olive Branch Will Come From Vatican or America.

Rome, June 29—Reports from authorative sources received here from different belligerent countries state positively that the continuance of warlike attitude and hopeful predictions are mere bluff on the part of the military powers, the truth being that the movement of exhaustion is approaching rapidly, so that serious intervention in favor of peace may soon have a fortunate result.

The people wonder whether the olive branch will come from America or from the Vatican, it being known that the greatest ambition of the present Pope is to surpass the laurels gained by his great master, Pope Leo, when, at the suggestion of Bismarck, he was intrusted to mediate between Spain and Germany in the dispute concerning the Caroline Islands.

It is even asserted that the Germanophile attitude of the Pontiff in some of his recent utterances is aimed to gain the confidence of Germany.

Amsterdam, June 29—The Cologne Gazette, whose Berlin representatives are usually well informed, declared today that Germany will make no peace proffers, but that any suggestions for ending war must come from her enemies.

"The time is near when our enemies will cry for peace," says the Gazette. "Until that time comes we must fight on, and above all we must remain united."

THREE BOYS ESCAPE FROM REFORM SCHOOL

Three boys each 16 years old, escaped last night from the New Jersey Reform School at Jamesburg. They made their way by a Pennsylvania train to Perth Amboy, where a freight favoring, they shifted to the Central Railroad of New Jersey with such good result that just after daylight they dropped off the freight in the yards at Communipaw.

Policeman Thom of the Jersey City police, and several Central Railroad detectives watching for trespassers rounded them up after a chase, and this morning the boys were taken back to Jamesburg. They were Frank De Francisco, 164 Paterson street, Jersey City, and Alexander McCabe and Raymond Bailey, both of Jersey City.

TRINITY C. E. SOCIETY ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Trinity Y. P. S. C. E. was held last night on top of the Watchung Mountains. The party, consisting of about thirty people, started from the foot of the mountains on Johnston's Drive at 7 o'clock. When the desired location was found the party divided up into sections. A very enjoyable time was spent in singing, playing of games and refreshments. At 10 o'clock the delegation started homeward.

The outing was arranged by the social committee with Miss S. Searing as chairman. Those present were: Misses Searing, Zimmer, Dilts, Coriell, Wherry, Brokaw, Sears, Hahn, Trewin, Runyon, Barkalow, Martin, Layton, Hoagland, Freeman, Back and Bucknell, and Messrs. Dilts, Snowden, Harper, French, Backer, Wherry, Sjarback, Smith, Harvey, Larrison, Sears, Prudon, E. Gayle and H. Gayle.

Berne, Switzerland, June 29.—An amendment to the Swiss Federal Constitution providing for the levying of a special war tax to meet the expenses incident to the mobilization of the army for the maintenance of Swiss neutrality submitted to a referendum vote of the entire people, has been accepted by 435,500 to 26,500.

ENJOYED PICNIC.

The pupils of Miss Florence L. Rosenthal's piano class enjoyed a delightful picnic at New Market, Saturday afternoon and evening. Games and sports featured the afternoon and refreshments were served. Among those in the party were the Misses Reba Mendelson, Jessie Onore, Beatric Brandt, Bertha Meistrage, Rose Mennen, Rose Meyerwitz, Sadie Kermpler, Nora Philips, Martha Alprien, and Masters Montiqu. Mendelson, George Escowitz, Lester Brinstein, Albert McIntyre, James Rafferty, Robert Morris, George Farbman and George Philips.

HAROLD CUNNINGHAM.

Harold Cunningham, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, of Jefferson avenue, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, following an illnes of three weeks. Notice of funeral will be given later.

MARIE MARILLO.

Marie Marillo, the six months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marillo, of Scotch Plains, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, last night.

A Galley o' Fun!

PEACE HATH HER VICTORIES.

She.—No, I can never marry you, but we can always be friends.

He.—Well, that is one of the advantages of not getting married.

REAL SWIFT.

"Haven't you forgotten something?" asked the maid, with a blush.

"Oh, that's all right," replied the swain, as he opened the door to go out. "You can keep the rest of the candy!"

IN THE SUBURBS.

"How are your vegetables looking?"

"As if they were ashamed of themselves. There isn't one in the whole patch that dares to look me in the eye!"

MAKING A BRAVE FIGHT.

Manager of Hicksburg Theatre.—Well, how's things theatrical in little old New York?

Actyn Barnes (gloomily).—The best I can tell you, my friend, is that the New Theatre is still a non-moving-picture house.

RUBBER.

The scientists tell us that rubber is elastic; but it may be so, nevertheless, it looks that way; and even laymen have sometimes thought they detected this tendency in it. Rubber will generally come back if you let it—wherefore it is a safer bet than pugilists, scientists, and other non-resilient bodies. We should also remember that if it weren't for rubber, every mother would have to board her own baby, and women's clubs would inevitably decay.

TOO MUCH.

He plucked the dandelion and blew upon it.

"She loves me—she loves me not!" he muttered inanely.

Now the flower had suffered long and if its patience hereupon broke down under the strain, what wonder?

"O, ask me about Schedule K, or something relatively easy!" it exclaimed bitterly.

THE SCHOOL OF FISH.

"Oneer how Jones always takes that pup along when he goes fishing!"

"Oh, I don't know; maybe he's teachin' it not to bite!"

HER INTERPRETATION.

Fragments of conversation drifted in from the billiard-room where the husband and his friends were enjoying their cigars. "I called," said the husband, happily, "and when it came to a showdown as to who was the winner why the other fellow simply didn't have a chance! And so I stretched out my hands and gathered in that which really gave me my start. I think that I did better that night than any man in our crowd has ever done. Ah, what a hand I held! I always recall that night with thrills of pleasure."

The young wife slipped away, her face dyed with a deep pink. "The old dear is telling Mr. Blinker how he cut out Freddy Banker and made me say 'Yes'," she whispered to herself. "Isn't he just perfect!"

BIRDS.

Mamma.—Wasn't it nice of the ravens to work for poor Elijah, Willie?

Willie.—Huh! Elijah's got nothing on pa. I heard him tell a fellow this morning about the bird he's got working down in the office.

HIS INTENT.

"Ah!" said the friend. "You expect to drain this swamp and sell the land to the public?"

"No," confessed the promoter. "I expect to sell the swamp as it now is and drain the public."

THIS SCIENTIFIC AGE.

Lives of burglars all remind us
We can make our lives in vain
And departing leave behind us
Thumb-prints on the window-pane.

The man or woman who have not the habit of "trying again" very often fail as want advertisers, wholly for that reason.

PENROD

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

Marjorie sent into his furious face her lovely, spiteful laughter.

"Little gentleman, little gentleman, little gentleman!" she said deliberately. "How's the little gentleman this afternoon? Hello, little gentleman!"

Penrod, quite beside himself, danced eccentrically. "Dry up!" he howled. "Dry up, dry up, dry up, dry up!"

Mitchy-Mitch shouted with delight and applied a finger to the side of the caldron—a finger immediately snatched away and wiped upon a handkerchief by his fastidious sister.

"'Ittle gellamun!" said Mitchy-Mitch.

"You better look out!" Penrod whirled upon this small offender with grim satisfaction. Here was at least something male that could without dishonor be held responsible. "You say that again and I'll give you the worst"—

"You will not!" snapped Marjorie, instantly vitriolic. "He'll say just whatever he wants to, and he'll say it just as much as he wants to. Say it again, Mitchy-Mitch!"

"'Ittle gellamun!" said Mitchy-Mitch promptly.

"Ow-yah!" Penrod's tone production was becoming affected by his mental condition. "You say that again and I'll"—

"Go on, Mitchy-Mitch," cried Marjorie. "He can't do a thing. He don't dare! Say it some more, Mitchy-Mitch—say it a whole lot!"

Mitchy-Mitch, with his small, fat face shining with confidence in his immunity, complied.

"'Ittle gellamun!" he squeaked malevolently. "'Ittle gellamun! 'Ittle gellamun! 'Ittle gellamun!"

The desperate Penrod bent over the whitewashed rock, lifted it and then—outdoing Porthos, John Ridd and Ursus in one miraculous burst of strength—heaved it into the air.

Marjorie screamed.

But it was too late. The big stone descended into the precise midst of the caldron and Penrod got his mighty splash. It was far, far beyond his expectations.

Spontaneously there were grand and awful effects—volcanic spectacles of nightmare and eruption. A black sheet of eccentric shape rose out of the caldron and descended upon the three children, who had no time to evade it.

After it fell, Mitchy-Mitch, who stood nearest the caldron, was the thickest, though there was enough for all. Bre'r Rabbit would have fled from any of them.

When Marjorie and Mitchy-Mitch got their breath, they used it vocally, and seldom have more penetrating sounds issued from human throats. Coincidentally Marjorie, quite berserk, laid hands upon the largest stick within reach and fell upon Penrod with blind fury. He had the presence of mind to flee, and they went round and round the caldron, while Mitchy-Mitch feebly endeavored to follow—his appearance, in this pursuit, being pathetically like that of a bug fished out of an inkwell, alive but discouraged.

Attracted by the riot, Samuel Williams made his appearance, vaulting a fence and was immediately followed by Maurice Levy and Georgie Bassett. They stared incredulously at the extraordinary spectacle before them.

"Little gen-til-mun!" shrieked Marjorie, with a wild stroke that landed full upon Penrod's tarry cap.

"Oooch!" bleated Penrod.

"It's Penrod!" shouted Sam Williams, recognizing him by the voice. For an instant he had been in some doubt.

"Penrod Schofield!" exclaimed Georgie Bassett. "What does this mean?" That was Georgie's style, and had helped to win him his title.

Marjorie leaned, panting upon her stick. "I cu-called—uh—him—oh!" she sobbed—"I called him a lul-little—oh—gentleman! And oh—lul-look!—oh, lul-look at my du-dress! Lul-look at Mumitchy—oh—Mitch—oh!"

Unexpectedly she smote again—with results—and then, seizing the indistinguishable hand of Mitchy-Mitch, she ran wailing homeward down the street.

"'Little gentleman?'" said Georgie Bassett, with some evidences of disturbed complacency. "Why, that's what they call me!"

"Yes, and you are one, too!" shouted the maddened Penrod. "But you better not let anybody call me that! I've stood enough around here for one day, and you can't run over me, Georgie Bassett. Just you put that in your gizzard and smoke it!"

"Anybody has a perfect right," said Georgie, with dignity, "to call a person a little gentleman. There's lots of names nobody ought to call, but this one's a nice"—

"You better look out!"

Unavenged bruises were distributed all over Penrod, both upon his body and upon his spirit. Driven by subtle forces he had dipped his hands in catastrophe and disaster. It was not for a Georgie Bassett to beard him. Penrod was about to run amuck.

"I haven't called you a little gentleman, yet," said Georgie. "I only said it. Anybody's got a right to say it."

"Not around me! You just try it again and"—

"I shall say it," returned Georgie, "all I please. Anybody in this town has a right to say 'little gentleman'"—

Bellowing insanely, Penrod plunged his right hand into the caldron, rushed upon Georgie and made awful work of his hair and features.

Alas, it was but the beginning! Sam Williams and Maurice Levy screamed with delight and, simultaneously infected, danced about the struggling pair, shouting frantically:

"Little gentleman! Little gentleman! Sick him, Georgie! Sick him, little gentleman! Little gentleman! Little gentleman!"

The infuriated outlaw turned upon them with blows and more tar, which gave Georgie Bassett his opportunity and later seriously impaired the purity of his fame. Feeling himself hopelessly tarred, he dipped both hands repeatedly into the caldron and applied his gatherings to Penrod. It was bringing coals to Newcastle, but it helped to assuage the just wrath of Georgie.

The four boys gave a fine imitation of the Laocoon group complicated by an extra figure—frantic splutterings and chokings, strange cries and stranger words issued from this tangle; hands dipped lavishly into the inexhaustible reservoir of tar, with more and more picturesque results. The caldron had been elevated upon bricks and was not perfectly balanced, and under a heavy impact of the struggling group it lurched and went partly over, pouring forth a Stygian tide which formed a deep pool in the gutter.

It was the fate of Master Roderick Bitts, that exclusive and immaculate person, to make his appearance upon the chaotic scene at this juncture. All in the cool of a white "sailor suit," he turned aside from the path of duty—which led straight to the house of a maiden aunt—and paused to hop with joy upon the sidewalk. A repeated epithet, continuously half panted, half squawked, somewhere in the nest of gladiators, caught his ear, and he took it up excitedly, not knowing why.

"Little gentleman!" shouted Roderick, jumping up and down in childish glee. "Little gentleman! Little gentleman! Lit"—

A frightful figure tore itself free from the group, encircled this innocent bystander with a black arm and hurled him headlong. Full length and flat on his face went Roderick into the Stygian pool. The frightful figure was Penrod. Instantly the pack flung themselves upon him again, and, carrying them with him, he went over upon Roderick, who from that instant was as active a belligerent as any there.

Thus began the great tar fight, the origin of which proved afterward so difficult for parents to trace owing to the opposing accounts of the combatants. Marjorie said Penrod began it; Penrod said Mitchy-Mitch began it; Sam Williams said Georgie Bassett began it; Georgie and Maurice Levy said Penrod began it; Roderick Bitts, who had not recognized his first assailant, said Sam Williams began it.

Nobody thought of accusing the barber. But the barber did not begin it. It was the fly on the barber's nose that began it, though, of course, something else began the fly. Somehow we never manage to hang the real offender.

The end came only with the arrival of Penrod's mother, who had been having a painful conversation by telephone with Mrs. Jones, the mother of Marjorie, came forth to seek her errant son. It is a mystery how she was able to pick out her own, for by the time she got there his voice was too hoarse to be recognizable.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

CLOTHES FOR THE LITTLE FOLK.

No. 8924.

This Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8924, opens n the back and has round neck and elbow sleeves, cutting in sizes ½, 1, 2, 4, 6 years, requiring in size 4, 2⅜ yards 27-inch material.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force and Company.

The services tomorrow evening at the First Baptist church promises to be one of remarkable interest. Following the service itself the ordinance of baptism will be administered to some eight or nine candidates and the following Sunday many more with these will receive the right-hand of fellowship. An additional feaure of interest tomorrow evening will be a solo by Mrs. Arthur B. Price, of Westfield, one of the members of the choir of this church.

Gimbel Brothers Purchase the $680,000 Stock of the Simpson Crawford Co.

It was officially announced June 22, 1915, that the offer of GIMBEL BROTHERS HAD BEEN accepted for the entire remaining merchandise stock of the Simpson Crawford Company, aggregating $680,000 at retail.

This purchase is one of the most important retail transactions chronicled in many years. Great interest will be aroused among the New York shopping public when the stock is placed on sale, which event will occur at an early date, and will be duly announced in advance.

With the closing of the Simpson Crawford Store a historic name will disappear from the retail dry goods trade. Founded 36 years ago under the name of Simpson, Crawford & Simpson, the concern has enjoyed high standing and a most honorable reputation. It has been noted for many specialties.

It is expected that the extremely low price which Gimbel Brothers are understood to have paid for the stock, will enable them to present some of the most sensational merchandise offerings the New York retail world has known for a long time, when the stock is placed on sale.

GIMBEL BROTHERS have added to their organization such of the 900 old employees of the Simpson Crawford business who were not otherwise provided for at the closing of that store. Many of these employees have been with the Simpson Crawford concern for a long period of years, and it is especially pleasant to note that all of them, including many with others depending on them for support, are free from anxiety, and the necessity of seeking other positions. The addition of this body to the Gimbel organization will be of material aid in serving the large numbers who will be attracted by the subsequent selling of the Simpson Crawford stock.

The closing of the Simpson Crawford Store, the judicious disposition of its stocks and the termination of its affairs in general, is commented on in the business world as an example of admirable arrangement.

The Gimbel Management is quoted as saying that it shall be their endeavor to welcome the many thousands of Simpson Crawford customers to the Gimbel Store, and to assure them of the same cordial and hospitable treatment as they received in the fine old store which has now closed its doors.

The Little Breeze Blew Right Through the Window.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Vagrant Breeze Became a Worker.

"ONCE a vagrant breeze became a worker," said daddy as he smiled at Jack and Evelyn and began the evening story.

"What's a vagrant breeze, daddy, and why did it become a worker?" asked Evelyn.

"A vagrant breeze," explained daddy, "is a breeze that apparently comes from nowhere, has nowhere in particular to go and nothing in particular to do. So it just blows around here and there, willy nilly."

"But how can a breeze work?" asked Jack.

"I'll tell you," said daddy. "Once this breeze that I am telling you about got loose somehow from the useful breezes and became a vagrant. It was a beautiful day, and the breezes roundabout were all happy, and the sun was happy, and the green leaves and grasses and the flowers that it shone upon were happy, too, and the children that ran around in the sunshine were happy, and I guess everything and everybody were happy except this foolish little vagrant breeze, which wasn't happy because it had nothing to do.

"The little vagrant breeze knew other breezes were happy and that there was a reason for it, but it couldn't just make up its mind what the reason was. So it made up its breezy mind to find out.

"There was a golden sunbeam floating around quite close to where the vagrant breeze was stirring, and the breeze determined to ask this sunbeam the secret. So it said to the sunbeam: 'I am a vagrant breeze, and I am not happy. What is the reason?'

"'That's easy,' replied the sunbeam. 'You are not happy because you are a vagrant breeze. What you need is something useful to do.'

"'What is there useful that I can do?' asked the breeze.

"The sunbeam had been looking around. 'Ah,' it said, 'the very thing! Do you see that child over there in that close little room, the little girl who is ill?'

"'Yes,' answered the vagrant breeze; 'I see her.'

"'Well,' said the sunbeam, 'you just blow right over there through that window and flutter around that little girl's face so she will be cooler and more comfy. Then you come back here, and I will tell you other things to do.'

"So the little breeze breezed right over through the window and fluttered ever so gently around the little girl's face. She smiled, and her little wan face really took on a touch of color which made the little breeze very happy somehow, and right then and there it became a busy breeze and was happy."

Household Hints

LUNCHEON GOODIES FOR MOTORISTS

Take some of these in your lunch basket on your next outing trip:

Potato Salad—Chop rather coarse cold boiled potatoes enough for one pint or more, with two hard-boiled eggs; make quite moist with cream, then add about two tablespoons of the following dressing, or to suit taste:

Dressing: Put half cup sugar, one tablespoon ground mustard, one teaspoon salt, pinch of cayenne pepper and one tablespoon flour, in a basin. Stir all well together, then add half cup sweet milk; put on stove and when warm add two well-beaten eggs and two-thirds cup medium strong vinegar. Let boil one minute, stir constantly. Remove from fire, add half teaspoon celery seed or celery salt. If kept in cool place, will keep as long as desired. Can be used for any purpose a mayonnaise dressing is used for.

Salmon or Meat Loaf for Sandwiches—Remove bones from one tall can pink salmon; work fine with the hand. Pour about two cups sweet milk over two large or three small slices of bread; crumb this fine, add to salmon with one beaten egg, one tablespoon butter and salt and pepper to taste. Bake in bread tin. When cold spread between slices of bread. Hamburg can be used instead of salmon if preferred.

Escaloped Beans—Cook navy or lima beans in usual way until quite dry. Butter a baking dish, put in layer beans, then layer of bread crumbs; salt, pepper and dot with butter, and bits of bacon if desired. Continue until dish is full. Pour over top one cup of milk and bake. A change from the usual cold baked beans.

Fruit Dessert—Use half box gelatin; soak in half cup cold water five minutes. Add one cup sugar and one cup boiling water. When about to set, add contents of can of peaches or cherries and pour in mold. Better made day before needed.

CANNING AND PRESERVING

Strawberry and Rhubarb Jam—Two cups rhubarb, three pints strawberries, two quarts sugar. Peel and cut rhubarb into small slices and cook with one pint sugar until tender. Then add remaining amount of sugar to berries. Let cook thirty minutes, then put up in small jars. This is good in winter served with cornstarch blancmange and whipped cream.

Mixed Fruit Conserve — Three pounds rhubarb, one pound pineapple, one-fourth pound blanched almonds, one-half pound seeded raisins, juice two lemons. Make syrup of sugar and add lemon juice. Cook rhubarb in syrup till tender, then add pineapple. Let it cook till thick, and just before removing from fire add nuts and raisins.

THE TABLE

Breakfast Cake—Try this delicious kuchen for your Sunday breakfast. Make a sponge of one cup milk, two yeast cakes, and enough flour to make a batter that can be beaten well with a wooden spoon (the milk must be lukewarm); then set aside to raise. Cream one cup sugar with half cup sweet butter. Beat four whole eggs till light, and stir into the creamed butter and sugar. Now stir this into the sponge with one teaspoon salt and one cup flour. Mix well. Now take one cup raisins, half cup chopped almonds, one-fourth teaspoon grated lemon peel; stir into the dough, mixing well, and adding enough flour to make a stiff dough. Work the bread mixer for twenty minutes, until dough is smooth and elastic. Place dough in well buttered bowl and allow to raise double its bulk. When ready, put into well greased tin and sprinkle with the following: Mix one tablespoon butter with two of flour, one tablespoon sugar and half teaspoon cinnamon. Work this with your fingers like you would pie dough, until the little crumbs hold together. Spread melted butter over the kuchen and sprinkle the crumbs over the top. Allow to raise double its bulk. Bake in moderate oven thirty minutes, being sure to keep it a nice golden brown color.

Chili Verdi—Take six large peppers, cut fine, fry in butter until tender. Just before taking up add six well beaten eggs. Stir all together, add salt to taste. If wanted hot leave in a few pepper seeds, but cut off most of the seed end or it will be too hot for most people.

Snowball Dumplings—Boil about two quarts potatoes until tender; drain and mash very fine. Allow to get perfectly cold, then add two or three eggs well beaten, salt and parsley to taste; mix well, add flour enough to make a stiff dough, form into small balls, drop in boiling salted water, boil about ten minutes, take out carefully, season with brown butter, or serve plain with roast meats and gravy.

Cream Cake—Three-fourths cup butter, two cups sugar, one and one-half pints flour, five eggs, one teaspoon baking powder, one cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla. Cream sugar and butter, add eggs (two at a time), beating five minutes after each addition. Sift powder with flour, mix all together, bake fifteen minutes in two layers.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD.

"Nell, I stood at the door after seeing Fred Joplin out last night, and as he went down the steps a woman in black sprang from the shadow and stopped him. They talked a moment and went away together. I am sure it was Mrs. Ellson. I feel like calling the police and having her put under lock and key."

Olive unfastened her fur and Nell held out her hand for it.

"You can find out by asking Mr. Joplin, and if it was Mrs. Ellson, have her arrested." Nell hung the wraps in the hall. "When will he be down again?"

"I don't know," was the brief reply."

"Well, write to him, then."

"I can't do that, either."

Nell looked surprised.

"You see," Olive continued, "we had a little—scene that evening after you left. Fred was jealous of the doctor and made some hateful remarks. I showed him where he stood so plainly that I doubt if he ever comes back. The idea of his criticizing a guest in my own home," blazed Olive. "To be sure, he apologized; that was all there was left to do. So you see I can't ask him about it. Mrs. Ellson is evidently trying to use him as a tool."

"He surely is too bright for that to succeed," said Nell.

"I don't know. Whom the gods would destroy they first make insanely jealous—to change a familiar quotation to suit the case." Olive laughed a bitter little laugh. "It's a pity. I liked the boy and needed his friendship."

"It's a penalty to your beauty," mocked Nell.

"I told daddy what I suspected and he laughed at me; said I had had too much excitement and was seeing double. No sane woman would be hanging around a cold night like that with nothing to be gained by it, he said."

"True, no sane woman," echoed Nell, "but he doesn't realize that she isn't sane." Nell softly rocked her baby. "The doctor's move will be to have her put in the asylum."

"I can't tell him about this last letter and all, it would be like calling his attention to the fact that he is expected to make love to me. No, I'll get rid of her some other way."

"What will you do?" asked Nell, a thrill of excitement in her voice.

"I haven't my plans matured; when I have I'll tell you. I may need your help."

"Count on me if it's not too much of a 'deed of daring.' I'm a born coward and in time of danger prefer 'absence of body to presence of mind.'"

Olive laughed with a far-away look in her eyes, her mind evidently on something else.

"Stay to supper, dear," urged Nell, as Olive rose to go after an hour's visit.

"I can't; it's my evening with daddy. I never let anything interfere with it. Mother attends guild meeting Thursday night, and my staying away would leave daddy alone. We are reading a series of books on sociology."

"Dear me, I never knew anyone so educated as you are. You'll cut my inane society soon, I expect."

"Oh, this is nothing new; these evenings with father have been an institution for years."

"Poor Olive," sighed Nell. "I see not only Mr. Joplin's but every other young man's finish. No modern young man can measure up to such a standard. You'll be an old maid."

"I guess you're right," said her friend, fastening her glove. "At least I know one glorious man."

CITY SYSTEM OF FINANCE PERFECT

Assembly Commission for Municipal Survey Approve Methods in Vogue Here.

SURPRISE FOR OFFICIALS

The Fact That Plainfield Has No Sinking Fund and Has Borrowed No Money Since 1900 Calls Forth Words of Commendation.

Plainfield's system of city financing was a surprise to the members of the commission for the survey of municipal financing which met here last night, and only expressions of praise for the system in vogue were heard. Members of the Common Council, City Treasurer William F. Arnold and all city officials having anything to do with the administration of city funds were heartily congratulated, and the commissioners declared that this city, because it conducts its affairs on a cash basis, holds a unique position among municipalities of the State.

The commissioners were mildly interested when Mr. Arnold, in answer to a question, stated that the city had no sinking fund, but they were visibly surprised at what came later in the examination.

"What rate of interest does your city pay on borrowed money?" came from Assemblyman Carlton Godfrey, smilingly, as he leaned forward.

"We haven't borrowed any money since 1900," was Mr. Arnold's reply, and an air of self complacency spread over his face and was reflected on the faces of the Mayor, the councilmen and Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed.

"Do you mean to say that you run this city on a cash basis?" Mr. Godfrey asked.

Mr. Arnold's answer was in the affirmative.

"Well, I am surprised. I would like to find another city in the State conducted like this one," said the assemblyman.

Mr. Arnold went on to explain that in 1900 about $70,000 was realized through a settlement in a number of delinquent tax cases, which fund has been kept as a working capital ever since. "The cost of running the city is about $250,000 a year," said Mr. Arnold, "and we had on hand at the beginning of the year cash and available assets enough to run us until late in the summer. We only borrow now and then in small sums for very short term periods."

"Yes, and we don't spend that capital as some of the people want us to do," said Mr. Reed. "We keep our budget up and don't lower the tax rate."

"I must say that you conduct the affairs of your city like a successful private business enterprise," said Mr. Godfrey.

Only two members of the commission appeared last night at the Common Council chambers, where the hearing was advertised to take place, Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson, of Union, and Mr. Godfrey, of Atlantic. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Leighton Calkins, who stated briefly that two members of the commission for the survey of municipal finances, appointed by the last Legislature to investigate the business methods employed in the various municipalities in the State with an idea of introducing remedial legislation next winter, were present for the purpose of inquiring into the methods in use in Plainfield. He introduced Mr. Pierson, chairman of the commission.

Mr. Pierson explained that the commission was going about the State with the idea in mind, not of investigating the affairs of any one town or city, but rather of making a survey of existing conditions so as to get suggestions for remedying defects in existing legislation. "We want a more stable code of laws to safeguard the interests of the taxpayers, and we are going about from place to place to enable ourselves to arrive at the very best solution of this problem. While city financing may not be a problem in Plainfield, it is so in many municipalities, and so we want to learn what is being done here in order that we may help your neighbors. While your present Council may be of first class quality, there is no assurance but what the incoming administration will be just the opposite in experience and knowledge. We represent the taxpayer and have only his welfare at heart."

Present at the conference besides the commissioners were Mayor Calkins, of Plainfield; City Treasurer Arnold, Councilmen Edgar and Claybrook, of the finance committee; Councilman Babcock, of the police committee; Councilmen Cose, Hylan and Graves, and Mr. Reed; Mayor Evans and Councilman Van Doren, of Westfield; Township Committeeman Walker, of Fanwood township, Mayor Latham and Councilman Ryan, of Dunellen, and Committeeman

TOUCHING EULOGY OF TORWALD LARSON

Many Lodgemen and Others Attend the Funeral of Popular Young Man.

The funeral of Torwald Larson, the young Swedish carpenter who died at Muhlenberg Hospital, was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at 200 West Second street, and at 3 o'clock at the Swedish Lutheran church, East Seventh street. The Rev. Carl Anderson, of this city, and the Rev. J. C. Westlund, pastor of the Summit church, which the deceased attended, had charge of the services.

The funeral was one of the largest ever held in the church. A delegation of thirty Good Templars from Summit came to this city in an autobus, and the Carpenters' Union, of Summit, was represented. The services at the undertaking parlors were brief. The flowers were numerous, many set pieces coming from relatives and organizations. There was a beautiful piece from the Good Templars, of Summit; one from the Carpenters' Union, of Summit; one from friends, who had inscribed thereon, "From ones who loved him;" one from his cousins, one to "Our Son" from the parents in Sweden, and another large standing piece from the choir, of which Mr. Larson was a member.

Both ministers spoke with deep feeling of the deceased, who was universally liked. Selections were sung by the choir and members of the Good Templars were the pall bearers. Interment was made in Hillside.

DRUG STORE ROBBED.

Reports received at police headquarters last night from the Somerville authorities indicate that one of the drug stores in the Somerset county town was robbed last night. It is the opinion of the Somerville police that the burglar boarded a Central Railroad freight train traveling in the direction of Plainfield, but all efforts to locate the miscreant at this end proved futile.

SUFFRAGISTS AIM TO REACH VOTERS

Enrollment Committee Reports the Results of An Active Campaign.

The monthly meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield was held in the headquarters at 110 Depot avenue, yesterday afternoon, a large number of members attending. Each member felt the grip of the Suffrage campaign and volunteered help to the full extent of her capacity. There was not a thought of warm weather indolence. Reaching the man who votes was the main topic for discussion. If the suffragists' plan carries the voter will be reached individually in his home and collectively at street meetings. The enrollment committee reported that it knew exactly how every man "stood" in one district of one ward and it hoped to be as thorough with other wards. No pledge is requested from those visited, but the members want to know how the voters feel about it. "Whenever a great political change is desired the non-voter has but one recourse—the appeal to the voter," said the chairman of the committee.

In order to reach the voters collectively street meetings will be held every Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the suffragists' stand, Park avenue and Second street. Here the best speakers—local men and women and well known orators from other States—will present their arguments in favor of votes for women.

Following a short trip to Atlantic City, the couple will reside in this city at 929 South avenue.

It is requested that those attending be very prompt in coming. The service will be held in the auditorium.

STATE SEALER HERE ON HIS ANNUAL TOUR

Drug Stores Visited Yesterday and a Thorough Examination Will Follow Later.

State Sealer of Weights and Measures Augustus Schwartz, of Elizabeth, visited Plainfield yesterday and made a tour of local drug stores. Examination of the scales and measures of various kinds in use here was productive of gratifying results, deceptive conditions being noted in only a few instances. The measures not coming up to the required scale were confiscated.

At this period of the year, when small fruits and berries are in the market the State Department of Weights and Measures is kept particular busy and Union County Sealer Seeley, of Westfield, is planning several visits to Plainfield in the near future to examine the baskets and other forms of measurement being used by hucksters. It is imperative that farmers coming in from surrounding suburbs to Plainfield be watched closely for deceptive measures and an urgent appeal has been made to the State Department to see to it that the county sealer is active in these parts.

It is the opinion of the State sealer that Plainfield merchants as a whole are of an honest class and the idea of having more frequent visits of the county sealer to this city is taken merely as a precaution and to protect the honest merchant against the crooked dealer.

While the visit yesterday was confined almost exclusively to drug stores it is probable that the fore part of next week will see a thorough examination of grocer measures and those in use in other stores in this city.

ALLEGE NON-UNION MEN ARE EMPLOYED

Joint Arbitration Board Will Meet in Effort to Adjust Labor Troubles.

The Joint Arbitration Board, composed of members of the local Building Trades Council and the master building contractors, will meet this evening to take up the case of William H. Dennick, a contracting mason, who has been, it is alleged hiring non-union hod-carriers, although he is generally supposed to be a union builder. The board will gather at Trades Council Hall at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Dennick at the present time has contracts for the new school building on Jerusalem road, Scotch Plains and the Crescent Court Apartments on East Seventh street, as well as other smaller jobs. Mr. Dennick, it is understood, has been employing union masons and non-union laborers and hod-carriers, and the local union composed of the latter craft have enterd objctions. Unless matters are satisfactorily adjusted this evening, it is believed that the union men of other building trades will be called off of the two jobs mentioned above, as well as other buildings for which Mr. Dennick has th masonry contracts.

From some quarters, it has been indicated that the labor men have worked under a misunderstanding with Mr. Dennick for some time on this question of employing non-union hod-carriers and building laborers, and the session of the arbitration board called for this evening is the outcome of repeated failures on their part to have the matter adjusted upon several previous occasions during the past two or three months.

The Hod-carriers' Local Union has been affiliated with the Trades Council for but a little over a year, and several hitches have come up since that time, but conferences have straightened these questions out practically all the master masons, with the possible exception of the one with Mr. Dennick. Members of the Trade Counail are of the opinion that the present problem will be settled to mutual advantage, and that little or no other trouble will come out of the meeting of this evening.

SAYS YOUTH HAD TOO MANY LOVE AFFAIRS

Mother Asks Court to Keep From Him the Control of $316,000 Estate.

Claiming that girls are his obsession, Mrs. Florence Potter Sheppard, of this city, endeavored yesterday before a sheriff's jury to prevent her son, Alexander M. Ross, from gaining control of $316,000. The boy will be twenty-one next October and is at present an inmate in the Bloomingdale Asylum, having been placed there upon his mother's application. After listening to testimony for three hours, the jury failed to reach a verdict yesterday.

Mrs. Sheppard is the widow of Albert Sheppard and until recently lived in Chicago, where her son was educated. When seventeen he ran away and married, according to his mother. This marriage was happy only for a few months, however, for the boy found other women who pleased him better and eventually the first marriage was annulled.

In nearly every school which he attended he managed to start a love affair, which resulted in his leaving the school, according to Mrs. Sheppard.

William L. Russell, superintendent of Bloomingdale Asylum, where Ross has been confined for more than a year, reported his findings to the jury under an order by Justice Greenbaum.

"I believe that the boy is mentally not more than ten or eleven years old," he said, "although he is well developed physically. He cannot grasp any complicated series of facts and cannot reason clearly or concentrate for more than a few moments."

Ross has an income estimated at $18,000 a year.

SOMEONE STOLE HORN FROM THE HOLY JUMPERS' BAND

Oliver Wilson, one of the Pillar of Fire disciples, who played in the band at the Watchung avenue camp meeting Monday night when the insurrection broke out, reported to the police yesterday afternoon that he was minus a big brass horn which in the past had been very useful to him in aiding the "cause." Chief Kiely has ordered and investigation and members of the force are today trying to locate stray "toots."

Suspicion is directed at certain juvenile miscreants who were in the vicinity of the band's corner when the riot occurred and it is thought that some youthful adventurer purloined the instrument out of pure deviltry.

"HABITUAL" WIFE-BEATER GETS SIXTY DAY SENTENCE

Classed by the police as a "habitual" wife-beater, John McCormack, of 245 East Front street, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning charged with creating a disturbance and abusing his family at 10:30 yesterday morning. He was committed to the county jail for a period of sixty days.

When arrested by Patrolman Roy E. Martin the man had just finished administering a severe beating to his wife, an occurrence that has become frequent in the McCormack household and which has been very annoying to neighbors.

TO DRAW RESOLUTIONS ON NELSON RUNYON'S DEATH

Members of the Plainfield Bar Association have been notified by Samuel S. Swackhamer, the president, of a meeting to be held in the District Court chambers at 5 o'clock this afternoon, at which time a committee will be appointed to draw up suitable resolutions of regret on the death of Nelson Runyon, one of the charter members of the local organization. The resolutions will be engrossed and sent to the family. It is also probable that the association will be represented in a body at the funeral, which will be held in the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Having practiced at the bar for a period of more than fifty years, Mr. Runyon was perhaps the best known lawyer in this section and his demise has caused State-wide regret among men of this profession. He always took an active interest in the work of the Plainfield Bar Association up to the time of his retirement a year ago and was personally acquainted with each of its members.

DRIVE RUSSIANS OVER FRONTIER

Three Teuton Armies Are Pressing on Toward the Polish Capital.

TOMASZOW IS SEIZED

French Report Violent Cannonading Near Arras—German Submarines Torpedo Norwegian Ships—Crews Are Saved.

London, June 30.—Three Teuton armies are crushing forward toward Warsaw, all trying to find a way to separate the retreating Russian troops. It is thought that if the Germans can take the Polish capital and command its railroad communications they will be so firmly intrenched that a million or more men can be released for work against Italy, France and England.

Driven back over their own frontier north of Lemberg, with the loss of Tomaszow, and forced to cross the River Gnila Lipa, in southeast Galicia, the Russian armies continue their retreat along a front of approximately 250 miles, about equal to the distance between Arras and the Vosges.

Berlin records progress by the Teuton troops in virtually the entire southeastern theatre, although violent fighting is still in progress beyond the Gnila Lipa, which joins the Dniester at Halicz.

Having forced a passage of this stream, Gen. von Linsingen's army is presumably astride the railway running from Halicz to Lemberg and Stanisslau, and now doubtless is aiming at the Odessa-Lemberg railroad at Tarnopol.

It seems evident that Germany is bent on further punishment for the Russians before relaxing the intensity of her Galician campaign, but, with the Russians across the frontier, the Germans will have to rely almost solely on road transport, and their advance will necessarily be slower.

Berlin (by wireless), June 30.—The following statement was given out at German Headquarters today:

"Eastern Theatre—German attacks in Galicia are progressing. Between the Bug and Vistula we occupied Beltz, Konarow and Zandsc. We have reached the northern border of the wooded lowlands on the Tanew, where the Russians are still retreating. On the left bank of the Vistula near Zawichost a hostile aeroplane landed and was captured.

"Near Arras the enemy was not very active yesterday. The Germans, however, made further progress in expelling the enemy from trenches taken from us during the past few weeks. Charges of the French against our positions at the labyrinth and north of Ecurie were repulsed."

Paris, June 30.—The French War statement says: "In the region to the north of Arras the night was marked by a violent cannonade and some infantry engagements. To the south of the Red Inn a German attack was repulsed. In the Vosges the Germans about 2 a. m. attempted a new attack against our positions to the east of Metzeral, which was easily broken up."

Lausanne, June 30.—The German authorities in Alsace and Baden are advising the people of those regions that they may again purchase petrol for all purposes as an abundant supply of oil will soon be available from the Galician wells.

Rome, Italy, June 30.—In addition to their campaign in Northern Albania, which resulted in the occupation of Scutari on June 27, the Montenegrins have despatched an army to the north across the border into Boshia and have occupied the town of Voutcheva, says a despatch from Cettinje.

London, June 30.—The Norwegian ship Cambuskenneth, which sailed from Portland, Oregon, February 9, for Liverpool or Manchester, was sunk today by the German submarine U-39. Thirteen members of the crew were landed, eight other sailors being German subjects, were taken aboard the submarine.

The Norwegian steamer Gjeso was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea yesterday. The crew was saved.

Grimsby, Eng., June 30.—The trawler Horatio, missing since March 25, with a crew of fourteen, is believed to have been sunk by a German submarine. It was given up for lost today.

A celebration of a private nature is to be held by the local lodges of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, of Bound Brook and Plainfield, at Wayside Park, where dancing and athletic sports will predominate.

The Borough Hall will be decorated for the day, and it is the desire of Mayor Latham that as many citizens as possible display the flag at their homes in respect to the nation's birthday.

COMPLETE CENSUS.

Enumerator Robert Bogardus has found it necessary to continue his work in taking names, but expects to be through in plenty of time to send the returns to Trenton by this evening. The population of Dunellen in previous years is shown by the following figures: 1890, 1,422; 1900, 1,428; 1910, 1,990. It is to be noted that from 1900 to 1910 a net gain of 562 was made, and from present indications, an equal gain was made during the past five years.

MAYOR LATHAM FAVORED FOR ASSEMBLY NOMINATION

Republicans of the borough have started a boom favoring Mayor Ernest B. Latham for the Assembly nomination next fall, as his public service during the past two years as Mayor of the borough has been exceptionally commendable. At present, Middlesex county is represented in the lower house of the Legislature by three Democrats, none of whom, it is felt by many, have any particular interest in either Dunellen or the surrounding territory, including Piscataway township and Middlesex Borough. The present incumbrants are Arthur A. Quinn, of Perth Amboy; Eldon L. Loblein, of New Brunswick, and Charles Anderson, of South River.

POLICE NOTES.

A number of extra marshals will be on duty next Monday during the Independence Day celebration, provision for this having been made by the Borough Council.

The police department have notified all fireworks dealers not to sell any of this type of goods before Saturday afternoon. This step has been found necessary because of the large number of children who are buying explosive and setting them off in the streets and other public places before the proper time.

A crusade against those who habitually ride their bicycles on sidewalks contrary to local ordinances has been started by the local police. This action is taken after several months of issuing warnings to the public on the question. Arrests will be made in all cases brought to the attention of the police.

OPEN-AIR PICNIC.

Miss Helen Griggs and Elmer Russell, of the borough, have arranged for an open-air picnic to be held this evening at Smith's Grove, Greenbrook. Invitations have been sent to twenty couples of the borough and Plainfield.

Mrs. Bridget Doyle, wife of Michael Boyle, of South avenue, died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the State Hospital, after being there for the past year. Mrs. Boyle was sixty-two years of age.

Mrs. Boyle was a native of Ireland, but had been a resident of Dunellen for several years. While she has been at the State institution but for the past year, her health has been failing for some time previous to that time from worrying over the death of a son some time previous to that time.

Aside from her husband, Mrs. Boyle is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Downey, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Mary Hunt, living in Ireland; one brother, Martin Kane, of Plainfield, and one step-daughter, Miss Mary Boyle, who lives at home.

The funeral services will be held Friday morning, the hour of which will be announced later. The burial will be made at the family plot, St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

'Plains & Fanwood.

After several months of preparation, the Boy Scouts are ready to present their entertainment in the Parish House tomorrow night, and as a reward hope to have a large enough audience to make sure their camping trip next month. All of the members of the patrol will have a chance to make the affair a success and several local young people who have taken an interest in the Scouts will also help. The program follows: Sketch, "A Bowery Night School," Monsieur Marfin Beacher, Luther Banks; School Director Muller, Harry Paff; Mikey DeBitt, Joe Widener; Izzy Letzosky, Robert Anson; Bong Sing, Russell Johnston; Guido Copairo, Edmund Garrabrandt; Hans Schwartzzelheimer, Walter Morel; Aiderman Hogan, Mr. Garrabrandt. A five-minute monologue by John Southard will be followed by a dialogue by Howard Ward and Robert Hodge. Karl Wilson and Luther Banks will sing a duet entitled, "The Veteran's Toast," accompanied on the piano by Miss Madeline Clark. Sketch No. 2 is entitled "The King's Wardrobe," and is supposed to be staged on the private grounds of "King Borogoloo on the Island of Nowhere." Russell Johnston takes the part of the King; Wilbur Hodge, prime minister; Richard Vincent, Captain Gink; Frank Bopp, Lieutenant Bink; Robert Howell, Sergeant Mink; Harold Hodge, Corporal Link; while the privates will be Edward Ward, Frank Weldon, Daniel Schenck and Carl Pomeroy. Everett Robinson, Norman Hallenbeck, Kenneth Tullock, Edmund Garrabrant, Howard Ward and Robert Hodge are the cannibals and are supposed to be clothed in garments taken from a wreck on the Island of Nowhere. Luther Banks has coached the boys for the entertainment while other local people have helped with the clothes and other things. A trio composed of Miss Ester Meyer, piano; Charles Roberts, violin, and John Southard, cornet, will render several selections.

The three-act comedy, "June," was presented in the Willow Grove chapel last night and was a decided success in every way. The scene was laid at a house party in a suburb of New York, the rather complicated parts being excellently acted by the members of the cast. The different situations that arose were exceedingly funny and were connected by a love affair in a light vain, that part being acted best by the local amateurs. The members of the cast were the Misses Ethelwn and Elizabeth Terry and Emma Dickson, and James Small, Earl Benard and Henry Miller. A musical program was rendered by Miss Lillian Lambert, pianist, and William Smith and Emil Burner, violinists. Miss Georgette Lee was in charge of the affair and coached the members of the cast.

CO-WORKERS HONOR MISS WETHERELL

Departing Physical Director of Y. W. C. A. Receives Basket of Pink Roses.

As a final token of the esteem in which her friends and co-workers hold her, Miss Elizabeth Wetherell, who severs her connection with the local Y. W. C. A. physical department today, was presented with a huge basket of pink roses at the mock "First Aid" commencement exercises held in the parlors last night. Miss Reba Kline made the presentation to the departing instructor giving a short resume of the splendid work she had done in the association during her stay here. Miss Wetherell was deeply affected and it was some time before she could respond to thank the donors.

The parlors of the association, decorated in pink and white, were thronged with relatives and friends of the graduates of the First Aid to the Injured classes of whom there were twenty-six. Dr. Clara B. Krans presided during the exercises. Miss Matilda Coddington read the salutatory address while Miss Mildred Caleen rendered the valedictory speech. Both were unusually clever and presented many interesting facts pertaining to the course. The class poem was recited by Miss Gertrude Mair and the entire assemblage sang the class song. A feature of the gathering was the participation of members in an oral quiz of questions on subjects studied during the course. Great interest was centered in the answers, each girl replying without the least hesitation.

In presenting the girls with their diplomas Miss Kathryn Aller, general secretary of the association, complimented each upon her success in passing the difficult examination and urged them to apply the practical instruction they had received in their everyday life. Beside being an honor mark from the National Y. W. C. A. the diplomas also possess value from the American Red Cross Society, each examination paper having gone through the two headquarters before being marked.

The following young women received the diploma certificates: Misses Alice M. Benedict, Katherine M. Browne, N. L. Brown, Matilda Coddington, Margaret Eaton, Winifred Eaton, Pricilla Baker, Margaret Miller, Emma Ryno, Sarah M. Van Boskerck, Alice H. Smith, Dorothy Jewett, Ella H. Benedict, Mildred Caleen, Ruth Hedenvall, Gertrude Mair, Marion Mair, Elizabeth Wetherell, Mrs. I. W. Hawkins, Mrs. E. C. Johnson, Mrs. Olive B. Koons, Mrs. J. F. Lansdale, Mrs. Amy L. Lough, Mrs A. V. Searing, Mrs. Edward Suffren and Mrs. Charles H. Wetzel.

Following the presentation of diplomas, Miss Dorothy Jewett presented Dr. Krans with a large bouquet of sweet peas, in appreciation for her efforts and services rendered during the entire course. Dr. Krans responded thanking the graduates at the same time complimenting them and calling attention to the high marks received by the members. Miss Mildred Caleen, valedictorian of the class, attained the high average of 100 per cent during the entire season while Miss Matilda Coddington was a close second with 99 per cent.

The classes in First Aid have completed their second term at the association with the culmination of the exercises last night. Because of the intense interest and enthusiasm taken in the course it is highly probable that the session will be in the regular curriculum of the institution next fall on resumption of classes. After the program all the attendants adjourned to the veranda in the rear of the association where dainty refreshments were served. The lawn and piazza were beautifully lit up with Japanese lanterns.

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

Plans for another birthday social were completed last night at the monthly business meeting of St. Mary's Social Club in T. A. B. Hall. All members of the club whose birthdays fall during the month of July will be given a party at that time. Included in other routine business were arrangements for a "shirtwaist dance" to be given on July 20. Miss Anna Howe was appointed as chairman of the committee. Following the business session, refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

The leg was amputated and the little lad is resting fairly well today.

A Galley o' Fun!

IN SEARCH OF A MAN.

"Do you know a man by the name of Legion?" inquired Dumley of a friend.

"Legion? No. I never heard of him."

"Jenkins told me last night that I had been called the biggest fool-jackass on earth, and when I demanded the man's name he said it was Legion. I'm looking for him!"

RUFF NECKS.

PAST AND PRESENT.

IN MEMORIAM.

Once I had a meerschaum yellow
Nevermore I'll know its fellow.
How one whiff of it would banish every care!
And its loss I still deplore,
But I'll never see it more,
For my wife has got them put away somewhere.

And my pair of slippers oldest
That I loved when nights were coldest,
When close to the cheery hearth I drew my chair,
Now from mortal eye are hid,
Like the gold of Captain Kidd,
For my wife has got them put away somewhere.

'Tis a rule that's ne'er unheeded
That what's sure to be most needed
She must hide away with skill beyond compare.
To the things that once we knew
We can find not e'en a clue
When my wife has got them put away somewhere.

Oft I've told her, "Burn it, break it
Or to some poor family take it;
Let me know it's gone, and save me from despair;
But do not, I beg and pray,
Let me hunt till I am gray
For the thing I know you've put away somewhere."

When the sea gives up its dead,
When the Judgment Book is read
When the last cold-storage chicken is laid bare:
Then perhaps we'll find some trace
Of the secret hiding place
Of the things my wife has put away somewhere.

THEIR MUDDLEFICATION.

"Niece Lillian writes," said good Mrs. Honk, in the midst of her perusal of a letter just received from her young city relative, "that she thanks us a thousand times for the invitation, but she knows she'd just simply die of 'enny' before she had been here a week."

"Die of 'any'?" repeated honest Farmer Honk, somewhat mystified. "What does she mean by that? Any what?"

"Why, just enny—er-er—mebby—ain't pronounced the word exactly right; it's spelt 'e-n-n-u-i.' 'Pears to me, I read somewhere, once, that it was called 'ong-wee,' or somethin' like that, and—"

"Aw, that's it, hey? Wa-al, you just write her that she ain't in no manner of danger of ketchin' no such foreign disease as that here; there ain't been a Chinaman in this neghborhood for I d' know how long!"

OUR CITIZEN'S DEMAND

Fully Complied With—A Plainfield Resident Furnished It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Plainfield people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Plainfield and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 540 West Front street, Plainfield, says: "I had a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and other medicines, but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store. They made a lasting cure."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Driscoll had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR BORO SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

Work on the alterations to the Somerset Public School building, North Plainfield, will be commenced in a few days, the contracts having been awarded. About $7,000 will be spent in improvements. Wyman & Haberle have the carpenter work and Townley Brothers the mason work. Minor contracts will not be awarded until after the special election set for July 13, when the district will vote on the question of borrowing about $3,000 to be used to complete the Somerset School improvements and to pay for grading, etc., about the new Harrison Avenue School building.

The Somerset School work was started last year but not finished on account of the opening of school in the fall. The plans call for a remodeling of some of the schoolrooms, arranging more light and other changes made necessary by the new school law.

SYSTEM OF FINANCE PERFECT

William De-la Roche Anderson, of North Plainfield township. When called, North Plainfield, Bound Brook and Somerville made no response.

Mr. Arnold bore the brunt of the examination and fortified by his annual reports, and a mass of figures in his head, proceeded to enlighten the commissioners on whatever point they inquired into. In answer to questions put to him by Messrs. Pierson and Godfrey, Mr. Arnold stated that the city assesses to take care of its sinking fund bonds, which brought from Mr. Godfrey, "You manage your affairs better than the average city—fine management." Mr. Godfrey added, "You are in very good shape," when Mr. Arnold stated that the bonds brought in four and four and one-half per cent.

A hint as to what would be included in the proposed finance legislation next winter came when Mr. Pierson asked Mr. Arnold, "Would you, as a financial expert, advocate no more sinking fund bonds in the State, substituting a serial bond in every case?

Mr. Arnold's reply was in the affirmative. "We want no more sinking fund bonds here. We want serial bonds," he said.

"Serial bonds are meeting with more and more favor everywhere in the State," said Mr. Pierson.

Mayor Evans, of Westfield, gave a new turn to affairs when he explained that the sinking fund to provide for that municipality's bonds grows too fast and that Westfield has constantly to plan for a surplus for which the law makes no provision. He stated that this surplus is borrowed by the municipality, from itself, at a nominal rate of interest—one per cent.—which proceedure, he stated, the corporation counsel assured him, was legal.

Mr. Pierson explained this accumulation of money in the case of Westfield by saying that the statute governing sinking fund bonds stipulates that too large an amount be laid aside in some few cases, which results in an accumulation of funds which no one knows what use to put them to. Mr. Godfrey added that this same condition had been noticed in a very few other places, but that in the majority of cases the sinking fund is inadequate to care for the sinking fund bonds through neglect to put aside the money called for by the statute, waste or somethings of that nature. Such cases, he said, the commission seeks to remedy. "Somebody forgot that sinking fund bonds have an earning power when the law was adopted, ordering the setting aside of so much to pay off the obligations," said Mr. Pierson.

Mr. Evans suggested that the State supervise the financial affairs of municipalities just as the affairs of banks are examined. Mr. Pierson rather favored the idea. He asked Mr. Arnold if the State didn't owe it to the people to examine into the sinking fund accounts, and the answer was an affirmative one. "I find many people who think that way," Mr. Pierson said.

Mr. Reed favored an examination by State officials, the same as is in vogue for banking institutions, but added that the commission could not find a better system than is in force here.

"Plainfield comes as near perfection as any municipality," he declared, adding, "There is never even a suspicion of graft. We can't stop all waste, for the people don't all think alike." He did not advocate prohibiting the issuing of all sinking fund bonds, but thought each community ought to be allowed to decide the matter for itself.

The members of the commission are: Messrs. Pierson and Godfrey, E. Morgan Barradale of Essex; George H. Dalrymple, Passaic; Ogden H. Hammond, Somerset; Archibald M. Henry, Hudson, and Alonzo D. Herrick, Warren. The commission has already visited Newark, Elizabeth, Camden, Trenton and various other cities.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

When death come to Mother Mary Xavier, head of the Sisters of Charity in this State, there was removed a woman whose career was worthy of renown, although she sought obscurity. If she had not accepted the principle of self-effacement for the general good, which is a rule of religious organizations in the Catholic church, she might have been the subject of many articles that would have given her fame as an educator, a philanthropist and an executive. This she deserved as an organizer of schools, the foundress of charitable institutions and the administrator of the business connected with the management of them. She has left behind her monuments that will recall her memory and has made an impress on the history of education and philanthropy in the State that will not be effaced from the pages of the State's progress. As the distinguished Mother Elizabeth Anne Seton founded the Sisters of Charity in the country, Mother Mary Xavier was the pioneer in this State, and was a worthy successor to her distinguished predecessor. Mother Mary Xavier broadened out the work of her order, extending its activities so as to include not only the ministration of mercy but also the education of youth.—Newark Evening News.

Tax Equalization.

County tax boards have done much in the way of equalizing valuations among the different political divisions of their respective counties. If all were agreed in adopting the same standard of valuation they could do the same as between counties throughout the State. Senator Pierce had this in mind when addressing convention of members of county tax boards at Trenton the other day. Forecasting the probability of a State tax in the near future, he said that when it came it would necessitate an equalization of assessments throughout the State, and he appealed to the county tax boards to assist in bringing about such equalization.

If the time shall come when a State tax becomes a necessity, equalization of assessments in all parts of the State will be imperative if the tax burden is to be equitably adjusted. Otherwise those counties which make some effort to assess property at its true value will pay a disproportionate share of the tax. Even now some counties pay more than their share of the State school tax because in others property is under-assessed.

There is nothing in the Constitution that requires that property shall be assessed at its full value. The requirement is that it shall be assessed "according" to its true value. But whatever the system adopted it must be uniform or inequality will follow. The county tax boards have done considerable to bring about such uniformity.

It is evident, however, that with a State tax no variation can be permitted. Then all counties must observe the same rule as to valuations. If Essex assesses a full value Sussex must do the same, or the burden will be unevenly distributed. There must be a State-wide rule as to valuations, and that rule must be applied without discrimination.

It is doubtful if the county boards can be trusted to bring this about. Their members are subject to too many local influences. To make assessments uniform throughout the State will demand the best efforts of a State body whose members are free to give impartial consideration to property valuations everywhere and to see that one county does not benefit at the expense of another. It is to the State Board of Taxes and Assessments rather than the county boards of taxation that we must look for State equalization.—Newark Evening News.

SUBMARINE H-3 IS DRIVEN ASHORE

U. S. Under-sea Craft is Reported North of San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 30.—United States submarine H-3, commanded by Lieut. W. F. Newton, went ashore late last night, five miles south of Point Sur, 120 miles from San Francisco.

So report radio dispatches early today to Capt. F. M. Bennett, at Mare Island navy yard. The cause of the accident was not given, but it was stated that the submersible was in no danger, and that she had not sprung a leak.

Later radiograms from the steamer Arizonian, from New York for San Francisco, said she was standing by the stranded submarine and that it probably would be possible to float her soon.

The H-3 left San Diego in company with submarines H-1 and H-2, convoyed by the monitor Cheyenne and was on the way to San Francisco to take part in a Fourth of July program at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Early in the evening the H-3 outdistanced the other vessels, and when she went ashore was fifty miles north of them.

Port navy officials here communicated with the Cheyenne by radio and informed her officers of the plight of the under-sea craft.

PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE ON AUTO RIDE

Windsor, Vt., June 30—President Wilson had a narrow escape from what might have been a serious automobile accident this morning, when his car, turning a sharp bend in the road to the golf course, encountered two heavily loaded lumber wagons. A dexterous handling of the wheel of the President's machine and a sharp turn into the ditch got the car by without a scratch.

The President arose at 7 o'clock and presently was off on a twenty-mile ride for eighteen holes of golf at Hanover, N. H. He rode on the front seat with the driver, with Dr. Grayson occupying the tonneau. The trip was made at a fast clip.

Tomorrow afternoon the President will push an electric button located at Harlakenden House, which will loosen the flag and start the Wilson Day celebration at the San Francisco Exposition.

FOE COULD LAND WAR GAME BY

Result of Maneuvers Proves Navy Is Too Weak to Guard Long Coast, Experts Say.

THE war game of the Atlantic fleet off the eastern coast came to an end quickly in a defeat, or, rather, outwitting, of the United States navy. The "invaders" are supposed to have effected the landing of a large army and the establishment of a base in Chesapeake bay.

How this was accomplished will not be accurately known until the official reports are received from the commanders. Some say the thick and squally weather aided the "enemy." In any case it is understood that the result proves that the eastern coast is at the mercy of a skillful foe.

Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight, the umpire, sent a laconic telegram to the navy department announcing that he had terminated the game on deciding that the imaginary enemy had attained his object, the landing of a large force on the American coast. As the mimic engagement was carried out under a silence almost as complete as in actual hostilities and with a censor in active operation only meager details are available.

Practice Proves Theory.

But the experts agree that the result proved by actual practice what theory has so long asserted—that no defending fleet can insure a long stretch of coast from attack unless the defenders are sufficiently numerous and powerful to meet the aggressors at any point with equal or superior numbers. The Atlantic fleet, which steamed out of New York harbor while President Wilson and hundreds of thousands of people cheered, completely failed to protect the coast from the invaders.

This outcome of the war game is thought to be all the more significant since the Atlantic fleet in defending the American coast received the overwhelming advantage of being in contact with the attacking fleet almost from the outset of the maneuvers.

It has still to be learned whether it was speed or gunpowder which was put to the test. It has not yet been disclosed whether the enemy eluded the United States fleet or met and crushed it. The common belief is that a decisive engagement did take place. Another view is that while the defenders were cruising about, expecting a dash for Boston or New York, the enemy got by the line of scouting destroyers and landed far away to the south at the entrance to Chesapeake bay.

Backbone of Navy.

The sixteen battleships of Admiral Fletcher's command, with their attendant destroyers and submarines, constituting the backbone of the navy, formed the defense. This was known as the blue fleet. The enemy, represented by the auxiliaries of the Atlantic fleet, was under command of Rear Admiral Frank E. Beatty and called the red fleet.

By the rules of the war game formulated by the general board in conjunction with the war college the blues were required to intercept and bring to battle a stronger enemy force—to defeat his fleet and destroy his transports. The area in which this enemy was to be found extended from Eastport, Me., to Cape Hatteras and seaward to a distance of 1,200 miles.

The red fleet represented a force superior to the Atlantic fleet. Although neutrality would forbid that that superiority in strength be compared with the superiority of the German fleet, that is about the situation which this war game presented to all practical intents and purposes.

On May 19 the reds began to approach the American coast from some unknown point in the middle of the Atlantic ocean. Its task was to defeat or elude the Atlantic fleet which was defending the coast and establish a base where troops could be landed at any point between the Maine border and Hatteras.

Blues Off Nantucket.

The blues took station to the southward and eastward of the Nantucket shoal lightship. A wide range of scout vessels in the shape of destroyers covered the entire stretch of coast from Eastport, Me., to off Cape Hatteras. It was believed that the scouts would pick up the advancing scouts of the "enemy" and thus communicate to the main defending force the probable advance of the navy.

Despite all the skill and energy of Admiral Fletcher and his able commanders, all eager to gain the commendation of the war college, the blues failed. The United States fleet was adjudged incapable of protecting the country from invasion by a foreign foe of superior naval strength and of preventing that superior force from convoying transports with an invading force aboard safely to American shores. The foreign fleet was considered able to establish a base from which to conduct land operations, and it landed where it could march against Washington, the national capital.

Since it is assumed that the United States could in time of war commandeer some scout cruisers Admiral Fletcher received the advantage of a few constructive scout ships. The first contact of the fleets was purely "constructive" work, two scout officers performing that part of the war game on a war game board on board the umpire's ship.

After that Admiral Fletcher was required to keep in touch with the enemy through the use of his destroyer scouts. In the engagement the attacking fleet received the advantage of a superiority in battleships and battle cruisers.

Game Just as In War.

The game was made as nearly as possible true to the conditions that would confront the Atlantic fleet if a superior navy of a European power should steam forth, convoying transports, to attempt a landing on the American coast to establish a base to have those troops begin an invasion of the country.

The landing at Chesapeake was somewhat of a surprise to naval officers at Norfolk since they had guessed that Admiral Fletcher had taken his fleet northward and had expected to encounter and engage the enemy fleet at some point off the New England coast. It was thought that Cape Cod was the objective of the attacking fleet.

But it will be recalled that the German cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich and Kronprinz Wilhelm were both able to reach into the Virginia capes despite the strict guard maintained off that port by British cruisers. The Virginia coast north of Cape Hatteras permits of running close inshore, and in thick or hazy weather a fleet could follow close up the beach, be outside of observation from the shore and yet well within the cordon line which scouts might assume as reasonable for the apprehension of an advancing fleet.

To marine men it seems plausible to believe that Rear Admiral Beatty doubled the flanks of the long line of scouts and made the Virginia capes by reason of the weather conditions, which favored his side of the operations.

Chesapeake Undefended.

The Chesapeake at its lower end is undefended, and troops could be landed either at Lynnhaven Bay or in the vicinity of Yorktown without having to take the fire of Fort Monroe. In this connection the historical fort looms large. In 1812 the British entered the Chesapeake, landed at the mouth of the Patuxent river, advanced on and took Washington and burned the capitol of the United States.

The game was one of the most important ever enacted, and the details were carried out to the minutest point. The sending of the wireless messages in code and the censorship of the stations resembled real warfare.

Nor was the game without accidents that were real as well as disasters that were imaginary. Five of the twelve submarines, the G-4, D-3, E-2, K-1 and K-6, met with various mishaps and had to fall out of the maneuvers. The battleship New Hampshire, Captain Anderson, was also in trouble. A blade snapped off her starboard propeller and in falling hit and damaged the next blade. She had to be taken to Newport, R. I.

The broken propeller imparted so curious a movement to the New Hampshire, causing her to go in jumps, that it was at first thought she had gone over a submarine or a derelict. Every part of the battleship was strained, and the bulkhead of the engine room was wrenched.

Fighting Top Injured.

A curious feature of the accident was that the forward cage mast or fighting top was disturbed by the vibration to such an extent as to bend six of the elements which go to make up the structure. This is not considered as a serious matter, for the mast, by its construction, will stand even the breakage of that many parts before losing its usefulness.

Among the imaginary disasters reported was the sinking of the super-Dreadnought Wyoming, flagship of Admiral Fletcher, in an engagement with the flagship of Admiral Beatty, the scout cruiser Chester. According to unofficial reports Admiral Fletcher constructively went to the bottom with his entire crew. Four divisions of the first line of defense were also reported scattered if not destroyed.

It is supposed that this attack of Narragansett was made by Admiral Beatty to mislead Admiral Fletcher and hold the defending blues off the New England coast while other vessels of the reds and their transports crept silently round the scouts and made their successful landing.

The fleet is now assembling at Newport, R. I., and will remain there a few days. Then the ships will undergo general overhaulings at their home yards. The general opinion is that brief as was their game it will have far-reaching effects.

PRESENTED RETIRING LEADER WITH A FOB

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Boys Remember Secretary Edwin Glaentzer.

Boys' Secretary Edwin Glaentzer, of the Y. M. C. A., who has resigned his office to take up mechanical engineering work, was given a surprise by his boy associates yesterday. He is wearing the surprise today—a gold watch fob, with the official Y. M. C. A. emblem, which was presented to him as a testimonial from the boys.

Invited to go with them on a hike and picnic yesterday afternoon, Mr. Glaentzer accompanied the lads to a point near Holly's Pond where the balance of the afternoon was spent with games and athletic sports. The presentation came as a climax to the afternoon's fun. Martin Snyder, president of the boys' council, made the presentation. The fob came from members of the boys' council and the boys' leader corps.

While Mr. Glaentzer's resignation does not become effective until July 1, he will see the last of Plainfield tomorrow when he accompanies the first group of Y. M. C. A. boys to the summer camp. His active duties in this city will cease today. Mr. Glaentzer is a mining engineer by profession and will enter on that work.

HID FROM CENSUS MAN.

Census-takers the country over encounter numerous peculiarities, but it remained for a local numerator to establish somewhat of a record in this line. One man, of foreign birth, upon seeing the census-man approach, hid and it took several men to convince him that the "man with the big book" was not a foreign agent looking for men to enlist in his nation's army.

SAFE AND SANE CELEBRATION.

Gratifying in the extreme has been the response forthcoming from public spirited Plainfielders to meet the demand for funds to promote a safe and sane Fourth of July celebration here next Monday. As is usually the case when a plea is made for funds to finance an enterprise of this kind the response was prompt and the expression of approval in support of the project has been city-wide. Indications point to one of the finest demonstrations we have ever had in Plainfield and the committee in charge has been working zealously to place the event on a high plane of excellence. Through popular subscription Plainfield's citizens have put themselves on record as being in favor of the national movemnt to put an end to the annual slaughter of American children. The Fourth of July is a day never to be forgotten, but there is absolutely no need of making the eagle scream. Toy cannons, giant crackers and other nerve wreckers can well be left alone. The belief that if we make noise it should be made by properly accredited citizens is general and the "safe and sane look out for the lock-jaw germ" observance will be substituted for the old-fashioned "hospital harvest" here next Monday. If you have not done your part through pecuniary subscription lend your individual co-operation toward making this Fourth the most sensible one Plainfield has ever enjoyed. The day can be fittingly and nobly celebrated in other ways than by insane powder explosion.

THE MORAL TONIC OF RELIGION.

Under the above caption a well-known writer says:-"The world today is full of uncertainty and unrest. Men and women are looking upward for a leader around whom they can rally, and in whom they can all unite. An unselfish guide."

That the world is full of unrest no one will deny. But much of this is due to the kind of religion that is being offered in one form and another. There is a tendency on the part of some religious leaders to "entertain," believing that this will attract large congregations and amuse the people. The fallacy of such an idea was never more apparent than today. There never was a time when people liked to go to church more than the present and there would be no complaint about empty pews if the preachers devoted their time and attention to giving their hearers the truth.

Plainfield is particularly fortunate in having ministers who do preach the Gospel and individually and collectively they are unceasingly doing all in their power to lead and guide people in the straight and narrow path. Under such leadership there is no reason in the world why the churches of the city should not be strong in all departments and continue to be a power for good in the community.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS.

Once more we welcome the opening of the playgrounds and once more we welcome the announcement that George W. Wriston, the popular Plainfield High School teacher, is going to have direct supervision over them. Just what we would do without our playgrounds is a question better left unanswered, but just what we are going to do for them is one that every loyal citizen should consider. Hundreds of future American citizens are going to be kept away from the temptations of the street during the summer months and while securing the recreation every red-blooded American demands they are going to be learning something of an educational value that will be useful for them in later life. Too general is the idea among parents that the playground is a place for recreation alone. On the contrary everyone of Plainfield's playgrounds has a competent instructor at the head who is well qualified to teach a variety of approved domestic arts that will be useful to the boys and girls in after life.

Summer weather brings out the curb-crowding element in Plainfield as it does in any other city and during the past couple of weeks people having occasion to walk through the business section in the early hours of the evening have been greatly annoyed by panhandlers and idlers who pass pointed remarks that come within earshot of women as well as of men. This is an old issue to be sure and one that the Daily Press has been emphasizing for years, but the need of a little more strenuous efforts on the part of the minion of the law patrolling the business section would go a long way toward reducing the practice to a minimum. The only reasonable solution is to drive every loafer away from the business section, or in other words, keep him on the run. This congregation along the curbs and up against buildings will result seriously sooner or later if the present conditions are allowed to prevail. Not every man is going to stand for the insult brought upon his sister or wife when he is escorting her through the business section by having her ears pierced by the vile utterances of the bums who frequent the streets.

After a few of the half-drunken idlers, who while away their time discussing matters not of the parlor variety, see a beating administered to some of their own calibre they will cease to indulge in the nuisance. One effective way would be to round up a gathering of these street corner loafers and have the city judge make an example of them.

Plainfield's Ideal Citizen

By Maibelle Filmer.

One of the essays in competition for the Daily Press prize at Plainfield High School.

I, a mere school-girl, apologize for choosing the subject, Plainfield's Ideal Citizen. Nevertheless, I will endeavor to tell you what I think an ideal citizen is and should be.

We realize that none but ideal citizens could make our beautiful city as prosperous and up-to-date as it is. And we know that it is they who are keeping it prosperous and attractive. No matter how thriving and foresighted a city may be, problems come up, often and unexpectedly, which demand instant and careful handling. Men who are ever ready to meet such problems, often very complicated, and who straighten them out wisely with justice toward all concerned, make ideal citizens. For example, the problem of the unemployed was by no means an easy task; but after much perseverance and deep thought it was accomplished with great success. In this our Ex-Mayor, Mr. Percy H. Stewart, deserves much credit.

To be an ideal citizen one does not necessarily need to hold a public position, nor is he ideal by alone keeping "within the law" and doing no violence to other citizens. But he must be interested in the common welfare and social education of his fellow men. He can help promote the social welfare and develop the character of other citizens, not alone by his support but, also, by not hindering the means of doing it.

In Plainfield the opportunities, especially within the last few years, for furthering public spirit, have not been seized upon in vain. Those things which were sought have been achieved. Today we have better order, stronger unity, and many more ideal men and women. I think it fitting that I should here add some of those committees who have so successfully shared in promoting public welfare; as The Charity Organization Society, The Public Recreation Committee; The Parent-Teachers' Association, The Board of Health, and The Local Newspapers. Of course, there are many others I ought to mention and the work of each would provide a theme by itself. If those citizens who conceived and made up such as the above organizations had not been ideal men and women (citizens) would they have had such excellent success?

Men who are interested in public spirit are sincere, honest and unselfish in purpose. Ideal citizens have no private or hidden purposes but work for the good of their fellowmen. "There is the way of avarice. Those who follow it make haste to be rich. The almighty dollar rolls before them along the road, and they chase it. Their motto is, 'Lay up for yourselves treasures upon earth.' There is the way of social ambition. Those who walk in it have their eyes fixed on various prizes, such as titles of honour, public office, large acquaintance with prosperous people, the reputation of leading the fashion. This is less like a road than like a ladder. Most people who are on it are 'Climbers.' Through all this tangle there runs another way,—the path of faith and duty. Those who walk in it endeavor to put their talents to the noblest use in the service of their fellow-men." We are all of us in some path but I think I may truthfully say that most Plainfield citizens are in the right path, faith and duty. Perhaps some have failed in that they wished to accomplish, but if they keep straight ahead they will win out. Those who endeavor to keep in the path of faith and duty are ideal citizens.

Religion is surely most essential to ideal citizens. But, by being religious, I do not alone mean going to church, which is right and wise, but, by living a clean life and having faith in God. "The result of your life depends upon your choosing the good way and walking in it." Your faith should be so firm that you could and would commend it to others. We ought all bear in mind those words of King Arthur when he was dying,

"More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of.
For what are men better than sheep or goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain,
If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?"

Ideal citizens demand the best conditions possible in their city. Therefore those men of Plainfield who have helped make our city attractive, clean and prosperous, are ideal citizens. For no ideal citizen takes pride in a dirty, unattractive, spiritless city. He loathes it as much as he does a shiftless, untidy, pleasure-seeking man or woman.

As I have shown an ideal citizen from the standpoint of interest in public welfare, he will likely be the man who is interested in his family. For to be an ideal citizen he must be an ideal father or head of his home. "Home is the cosiest, kindliest, sweetest place in all the world, the scene of our present earthly joys and deepest sorrows."

I wish to say that ideal citizens are not few in Plainfield. They are many. We meet them often and everywhere as we pass thru the streets. At the New Jersey Conference which met here in 1913 Mr. Fox said that there is danger that the people in such prosperous and happy communities as Plainfield may become a little bit complacent and self-satisfied. Yes, there is such a danger but I am sure that the ideal citizens, who have so far accomplished so much, will prevent that danger. President Moore at the same conference said, "The people of this beautiful city must be really great-hearted, have had in their minds thru the years many wise plans and high ideals that have brought into being the physical, mental and moral conditions, the evidence of which we see all about us when we enter within your gates." We thrill with pleasure when we hear such words of praise. And why should we not feel proud to think Plainfield impresses people in this way? But why does it thus impress them? It is surely not only its beauty and cleanliness. No! it is the fact that it was made beautiful and clean by its citizens. So let us never forget this fact because we wish to say with pride, "I live in Plainfield, New Jersey."

POLITICAL POT IS BOILING IN WARREN

John C. Cooper Announces His Candidacy for the Office of Freeholder.

One sure sign that the political pot is beginning to boil is the announcement that John C. Cooper known as the "uncrowned king" of Warren township, will be a candidate for freeholder on the Republican ticket next fall. Like a bolt from the blue came the announcement and it is not even known whether any particular organization is behind Mr Cooper's candidacy. However, it is asserted that he will have the solid backing of his party at the proper time, and that he will be a sure winner is admitted by his friends.

For many years Mr. Cooper has served the township in various offices, and it is predicted that should he be elected freeholder he will be an aggressive force at Somerville and will represent his constituents. Mr. Cooper's friends declare that he is energetic, enterprising and progressive. It is not expected that he will be opposed by any Republican in the primary contest.

The Passaic Valley News of last week in commenting on Mr. Cooper's candidacy says:

"John C. Cooper's candidacy for the freeholdership of Warren township gives promise of a most interesting campaign, and also of equally interesting public service afterward. There is no more forceful figure in Warren politics than his, and there is no man there who as a member of the county board would more surely 'put Warren on the map' than he. As for us, we cordially wish him success in his campaign."

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"The Sign of the Cross," a stupendous and impressive film version of Wilson Barrett's sublime and immortal drama as originally seen on the legitimate stage, is to be shown tonight at Proctor's Theatre, with William Farnum taking the leading role as "Marcus Superbus." The picture has been produced by the Famous Players Company, with an extravagance of scenic and spectacular effects seldom seem on the motion-picture screen. See this marvelous picture founded on early Christian history and life in ancient Rome, and you will see a picture never to pass from the memory. Ice cream will be served every patron this evening at 8:30, and it will be of the famous Ritz make.

The attention of the patrons of Proctor's Theatre is called at this time to the highly educational and most interesting travel pictures now being shown each day. This fact should be of more than passing interest to young people.

Dustin Farnum appears tomorrow in the fascinating southern dramatic romance by Booth Tarkington, "Cameo Kirby." Mr. Farnum is ably assisted by an exceptional cast, and presents an interpretation interesting to those who have seen the play.

The feature pictures for Friday and Saturday are: "When the Mountains Call," a three-part travel and drama picture, and "The Silent Command," a four-part picture with Robert Leonard and Ella Hall, respectively.

Young women between the ages of sixteen and twenty-five who desire to enter the contest for the best make-up of Miss Pearl White, the heroine of the "Exploits of Elaine" serial photo-play, should leave their entries at the box-office. Prizes, as was the case of the Charlie Chaplin contest of last Monday evening, will be awarded.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

GREAT GRANDSON OF KING IS A JANITOR

James C. Fitzherbert, of Newark, of Royal Blood, Works in Overalls.

Newark, N. J., June 30.—An humble janitor in Newark City Hall James C. Fitzherbert has produced documentary evidence that he is the great-grandson of King George IV of England. Garbed in overalls and jumper, with a time clock to check his going and coming, he works each day with broom, mop and dustpan, awaiting the day when he can claim his rights.

The claim of Fitzherbert is based on family records and on documents that have lain buried concerning the agreement between King William IV, Princess Alexandrina, later Queen Victoria, and her line of successors, by which the offspring of the morganatic marriage of George IV was to leave England and refrain from going to London or any part of Western Europe until the year 1912. This remarkable agreement was signed May 17, 1832, and bears the signatures of King William, Queen Victoria, Maria Ann Fitzherbert, the morganatic wife, and her son, James H. A. Hayward. It was witnessed by Charles Grey, Earl of Hanover, Henry Brougham, chancellor, Arthur Wellesley, Lord Wellington and Rev. Sidney Smith. The document bears the royal seal.

As a part of the pact, six thousand pounds, $30,000, was to be paid annually during the natural lifetimes of the deported family, and to deposit in the Bank of England a million pounds, or $5,000,000, or rather, an amount that would reach the five million mark in the year 1912.

It was also provided in the solemn document that in case the succession should not result in an heir to the throne, and Parliament should recall the line of King George IV, then, and not otherwise, would the fund be cancelled.

By a peerage patent also issued at that time, the Fitzherbert heir was given the right to the title of the Duke of Malta, after the year 1912, or to receive instead a grant of $250,000.

The Fitzherbert claim adds another chapter to a long controversy, one of the great mysteries of English history, as to whether there were children born to George IV and Maria Ann Fitzherbert, whom he made his morganatic wife in 1785. This remarkable woman was born Mary Ann Smythe. She married at 18 Edward Weld, of Lulworth Castle, in the county of Dorset. He died early and she married Thomas Fitzherbert, of Swinnerton. He died after three years. The young widow was known as the "beautiful Mrs. Fitzherbert," and it was not long after she lost her second husband that she met the Prince of Wales, afterward George IV. He was 23 and she 29. History records that he paid ardent court to the fair widow. It was when the Prince was injured and she had gone with the Duchess of Devonshire to his bedside that the proposal of marriage was made. Finally, on December 21, 1785, they were wedded by an Anglican clergyman. The marriage was invalid because it was contracted without the consent of George III. The couple lived happily together for ten years. Then the King married Princess Caroline, who afterward became a royal exile, and by consent of the Pope, Mrs. Fitzherbert and the King renewed their relations in 1803. The King died in 1830 and his morganatic wife in 1837.

Before his death, King George IV tried in vain to get possession of numerous documents held by his morganatic wife. His successor, William IV appears to have accomplished by kindness what George tried to do by force.

According to the present claims of the Fitzherberts, a son was born to the King and Mrs. Fitzherbert in 1786. This son is said to have lived in Ireland, where he married and had three children, two sons and a daughter, and it is from these two sons that the branches of the family in this country trace their lineage. J. Theus Fitzherbert, of Shunk, Sullivan county, Pa., is claimed to be the present head of the family here. It was he who discovered the long-lost documents relating to the family. They were buried in an earthen jar in the family cemetery lot, and had lain there for over a half century.

One of the choicest bits of evidence which the family holds is the letters of Queen Victoria, written in 1844, which states that she is sending a decoration as insignia of rank to be worn after the year 1912.

Not until the great European War is over can the heirs hope to come into possession of the $5,000,000 placed to their credit in the Bank of England, nor can the legality of the claims be established.

LITERARY

TY COBB, BASE-RUNNER.

"Ability to run bases as he does, in addition to his skill as a batter, is what makes Cobb so extraordinary a player. There are any number of players who can hit almost as well, there are any number of players who have as much speed; quite a few are even more fleet of foot, yet there are few modern players who compare with Cobb on the bases. He seems able to get a bigger lead than the average player; he seems to be able to guess accurately when the pitcher is going to deliver the ball, or when he means to throw to first; he seems to be able to squirm safely into a base, whether the ball is there ahead of him or not, unless the field blocks him off.

Baseball managers are crying for more players of the Cobb type. They want men who are fast, and also willing to take a chance with their speed. A player with only fair hitting ability, and plenty of speed on the bases is often given a greater chance to display his worth, than a far better hitter who happens to be slow on foot. It is no wonder then that base-running plays such an important part in baseball.

I doubt if there is a man in baseball who is harder to touch than Ty Cobb. Time after time Cobb is declared safe, when the ball beats him to the bag by several feet. Often it looks as if the umpire has rendered a bad decision, but it is usually the same old story, the baseman failed to touch him."—Billy Evans, in the July St. Nicholas.

Our Lord never condemned war. He simply introduced the principle that, thoroughly worked out, would make war impossible. And then He gave spiritual impulse and spiritual power to His members to make that principle effective.

The world's diplomacy has tried other principles. With honoyed words, diplomacy has been, even up to our own day, a synonym for intrigue, an affront to considerations of honesty, a violation of principles that are esteemed binding in their personal relations by the very diplomats themselves. What is the extent of this hypocrisy that we term diplomacy is revealed, perhaps only partially, in much of the political biography of the nineteenth century. Even after the outbreak of the present war, one "statesman," commenting on the marked discrepancies between the variegated-color "papers" of the nations, was quoted as saying that no nation was bound, in publishing its diplomatic correspondence, to include any more of that correspondence than was necessary to establish his country's position. Diplomatic correspondence consists chiefly of dispatches between a foreign office and its own representatives in foreign capitals and no one is in position to point to omissions or emendations that may be made in the published text.

Europe in this year 1915 presents a moving picture of the result of this diplomacy. It has had full sway since the dawn of civilization. It has always had supreme indifference to considerations of the Christian principle of conduct for nations, and particular contempt for Christian missions. Jesus Christ waited nineteen centuries for those whom He had drawn to Him on the Cross to impress the sign of the Cross upon the diplomacy of their nations. And generation after generation failed Him. This is the result—The Living Church.

QUITS, THOUGH EXONERATED.

Philadelphia, June 30.—Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, rector of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, gives up his pastorate tomorrow, having resigned after a long church row. The 10 elders of the church are also out. The Presbytery, before which the trouble was threshed out, exonerated Dr. Lee of charges made against him, which were published in a circular letter and sent broadcast among members of his congregation. His opponents were chided for not making their charges in the regular way before the Presbytery itself.

SISTER VICTORINE RECEIVES SURPRISE FROM PUPILS

Sister Victorine, a music teacher at St. Joseph's Villa, the borough, was tendered a delightful surprise in the form of a presentation by her pupils Monday night. Miss Minerva Neidig, in a neat speech, presented the teacher with a purse consisting of a double eagle. This was in the form of a token of esteem in which the pupils and their parents hold the teacher. The remainder of the evening was spent playing games and in rendering musical selections. Refreshments were served.

The committee in charge of the surprise was comprised of Mrs. Cormick McDonough, Mrs. Frank Neidig and Miss Adelaide Stiglitz.

COLONIAL DRAMA HOLDS MUCH IN STORE FOR PATRONS

An outdoor ice cream festival will be held in front of the High School building Saturday evening as the "safe and sane" celebration of the Fourth under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee. The colonial drama, "Soldiers Brave and Maidens Fair," will be presented in the auditorium at 8 o'clock, after which dancing will be enjoyed until a late hour.

"Soldiers Brave and Maidens Fair" should be seen by all who can possibly get to the High School on Saturday evening. The story is a stirring one and deals with the problems and plots which roused this country just previous to the Revolutionary War. We see how the national problems affected the home in a particular situations where the daughter of Reuben Adamson, a staunch Loyalist, is in love with an American soldier, John Tallmage (Captain Washington's bodyguard).

Tarpo and Marshall, the negro servants, are splendid characters and give so much local color to the setting that we almost imagine we are living momentarily, in the days of the American Revolution.

Henry C. White, chairman of the Recreation Committee, has personally directed preparations for the production. He has been coaching the cast for several weeks.

MANAGER JONES GIVES OUT HIS LINEUP FOR THE SEASON

Manager Jones, of the Plainfield A. A., states that the following is the lineup which he intends using against all comers. Eddie Hamilton will do the bulk of the mound duty, with "Benny" Rosenson ready, if there is any call for the "reserves."

Harry Moulton will handle Eddie's slants and Aaron Hirsch, the P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. star will play around first. W. Miller will handle things around the keystone sack, with Betzenberger in charge of the difficult corner. Rosenson is to "dig them up" at short and "Billie" Mullin, Siebor and Manager Jones will attend to the garden work.

COURTNEY IN HOSPITAL WITH FRACTURED SKULL

Ithaca, N. Y., June 30.—Charles E. Courtney, veteran coach of the Cornell crews, is suffering from a fracture of the skull. This announcement was made last night by the attending physician of the coach, who was removed to a hospital here shortly after his arrival from Poughkeepsie, yesterday morning. His condition while not alarming, may be described as serious.

Coach Courtney sustained his injury on the train on which the Cornell crew was going to Poughkeepsie on June 13. The train stopped at Highland with a jolt and Courtney was thrown heavily against the side of the car.

It was said that on several occasions at Poughkeepsie the coach bled from the nose and ears, but he refused to consult a physician, fearing he would be ordered to a hospital and could not coach his crews in the most important period of their training.

ROD AND REEL

Fine catches of weakfish and fluke were made so far this week around Perth Amboy. Catches of a dozen to a man were made from the Walters boats.

Barring a heavy storm there should be some good fishing in Jersey waters over the holidays. The fish are around and all that seems to be needed is to hunt for them. Several good grounds have been found between Morgan and Keyport and one spot, just northwest of Keansburg, was fished Monday, resulting in fifty fish for three men. Large weakfish are being caught in Princess Bay, where the channel is deep, while a great many school fish are at Great Kills.

COME-BACK TEAM.

Lately, every day seems to be marked either by the birth of a new baseball aggregation in this city or the rejuvenation of an old one. At the beginning of the season St. Joseph's Church placed a team in the field and at the very outset this team defeated the local T. A. B. S. by the close score of 2 to 1. After a few other unimportant encounters the borough lads ceased activities and the members of the team sought and obtained berths elsewhere. It was announced yesterday, however, that the team would resume its playing under the guidance of Eddie Conshay. Dan Denny, Harry Moulton, the McDonough brothers, Harold Mead, Vincent LaPorte, Eddie Conshay and Al Seidel will be among those who take the field when the team plays the Plainfield A. A. at Wayside Park on Monday afternoon. Another team that bids fair to hold its own with the many teams of its calibre in this vicinity, is the Plainfield Junior aggregation. This team is under the direction of Sammie Davidson, of West Third street, and has for its stars such well known juvenile ballists as Sid Butler, "Polly" Snyder, Vincent Mullin, "Buck" Semer, George Jackson, "Axel" Brandt and the manager, Davidson. This team will play the K. O. K. A., of Somerville, at that place on next Monday afternoon, and will have as its battery, Sidney Butler and "Polly" Snyder. They expect to register a win but are prepared for a stiff tussle as the K. O. K. A. defeated Troop 2, of Dunellen, by the score of 28 to 2, and the local lads whitewashed the same team by the overwhelming score of 26 to 0.

PLAINFIELD A. A. GAME.

Manager Jones, of the Plainfield A. A., announces that his team will cross bats on Sunday with the local Moose team, the scene of the battle being Sumner avenue, in the East End. The same team will try conclusions with the local T. A. B. S. at Avon Park on the first Sunday of August and will meet the St. Joseph's at Wayside Park on July 5. It is possible that a game may be arranged with the Perth Amboy Crescents for an early date. Jones seems very anxious to get more than one chance at the T. A. B. S. crew and suggests that he and Manager Moynihan arrange a three-game series between the two clans.

$50,000,000 BACKING FOR FEDERAL LEAGUERS

Something like $50,000,000, it is figured, is represented on the finance committee of the Federal League, just appointed by President James A. Gilmore. The chairman of the financial board is Harry F. Sinclair, owner of the Newark club, who is generally regarded as having the control of about 12,000,000 simoleons. The other members of the finance committee are Robert B. Ward, of Brooklyn; Phil B. C. Ball, of St. Louis; Charles H. Weeghman, of Chicago, and Edward W. Gwynner, of Pittsburgh.

The appointment of this committee appears to be the Federal League's answer to the reports that the league would give up the fight after the Fourth of July. The new body will have full authority to arrange ways and means for financing any proposition that the Federal League may decide to carry out. There will be expansion next year and this growth, of course, will mean the outlay of enormous sums. The invasion of New York has already been definitely announced by the Federal League, and the financing of this proposition is in itself a big thing. Then, too, Boston may be given a chance to join the Gilmore circuit.

The Federals, just as the organized baseball clubs do, feel the effects of the slump which has hit the national game. Paying crowds are the exception everywhere just now. Money must be paid out to carry the clubs over the lean period and the finance committee will be in a position to look after affairs with a minimum of effort.

LOCAL TENNIS TEAM AGAIN ON TOP IN RAHWAY TOURNEY

Rahway, June 30.—The second night's play of the open-air electric light tennis tournament at the Ilderan Outing Club resulted as follows:

E. Pendergast and F. H. Whitney defeated H. Walsh and Woodbury, 6-2, 6-1; Pendergast and Whitney defeated Rockwell and Williams, 6-1, 6-1; Throckmorton and Dunham defeated Ayers and Hunt, 6-1, 6-0; Throckmorton and Dunham defeated Walsh and Woodbury, 6-2, 6-3.

Cumberly and Livingston defeated Denierest and Birkholz, 6-3, 6-2; Glazebrook and Van Deventer defeated Brinkerhoff and Holbrooke, 6-1, 6-2; Kirkland and Tomlinson defeated Brown and Wood, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

PHILLIP CARTER BEATEN.

Garden City, June 30.—The entries of Reginald M. Lewis and Archibald McIlvaine yesterday in the annual junior metropolitan golf championship redoubled the interest in that fixture, for it is the first time this summer that either of these youthful stars have started in an outside competition. McIlvaine yesterday won the gold medal with this smooth card:

Out ...5 4 4 5 4 4 6 4 5—40
In ....4 4 4 6 5 4 4 5 4—40—80

Carter, title holder, who was second, with 83, was ragged and unsteady all the way out, slicing and being trapped.

OMAHA TO HAVE BIG AUTO RACE.

Omaha, Neb., June 30.—Omaha's new board speedway is ready for the 300-mile automobile race to be held July 5, the officials announced yesterday. Seventeen drivers have signed. The elimination heats will be run Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Those who have entered are Resta, Rickenbacher, Orr, Hennings, Chandler, Mulford, Alley, Donaldson, O'Donnell, Haupt, Hughes, Keene, Devore, Cooper, John de Palma, Grover Bergdoll and Irwin Bergdoll. The drivers will race for a prize of $15,000.

PLAYERS REFUSED CUT.

Kansas City, Mo., June 30—John Titus, an outfielder, and "Lefty" George, a pitcher, who were released by the local American Association club at St. Paul, Sunday, arrived here yesterday and announced that they had been released because they had refused to stand a cut in salary. Both players said they have ironclad contracts with the club, and that the management of the club had no right to release them.

EVERS SUED FOR $25,000.

"Johnny" Evers, captain of the Braves, who Monday got into a wrangle with spectators at the Polo Grounds and who argued the several points of the game with the "fans," yesterday was served with papers in a $25,000 action for damages by one of the spectators with whom he was arguing. Evers, it is claimed, became too personal in his repartee.

AFTER BASEBALL POOL MEN.

Chicago, Ill., June 30—Judge Rooney, in the Municipal Court, yesterday, declined to discharge four men arrested here charged with operating a baseball pool in connection with a journal published in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Their attorney said they had discontinued the business here, but a city detective testified it was still going on, and the case was set for trial next Tuesday.

KLINE WILL MAKE SURE THAT RIVALS ARE FAST

"Midge" Kline, manager of the local Royal Giants, intends making a trip today to Montclair, where he will get a glimpse of the stock of baseball players the colored Y. M. C. A. of that place has. Kline has booked these fellows to appear on Parker Field Monday afternoon and guarantees that there will be some excitement when the two rivals clash. He believes his boys and the Montclair lads are evenly matched.

If such is not the case, however, "Midge" says there are plenty of fast boys idle in New York city. A schedule is being arranged for the Royals and it will be made public in the near future.

HERE'S A PROBLEM FOR FANS TO PONDER OVER

A play that will be entered in the records as a freak came off in the Columbus-Indianapolis game at Columbus on April 19 when three runs scored on a strke out and won the game for Indianapolis. It was in the eighth inning, and the Indians seemed beaten, the score being 4 to 3 against them. After two were out Crandall got on with a pass, and he stepped at second on Reilly's single to center. Gossett then batted, and two strikes were called on him. He took a mighty heave at the third pitched ball and missed it. Coleman failed to catch the strike, and the ball rolled away from the plate about five feet. Gossett beat it for first, while Crandall and Reilly sprinted toward third and second respectively. Coleman recovered the ball and threw toward Miller at first base to catch Gossett. The throw was a poor one, and it went wide of the mark and rolled foul far out into right field.

Did the Indians beat it? Sure, Mike, they did beat it, and Boss Hendricks threw some kind of a fit in the coaching box off third base. Burns recovered the ball for the Senators and heaved it to the diamond, where Ferry tried to intercept it. In the meantime Crandall and Reilly flashed across the plate, while Gossett was beating it to third. Ferry made a muss of it, while trying to intercept the ball, and when it rolled away again Gossett continued on and scored—three runs on a whiff! A home run clout would not have got any more results. The fans groaned as the luckless Senators, who really had outplayed and outbatted the Indians.

AN END TO FUEL TROUBLES

INSIST upon Standard Motor Gasoline always and everywhere.

Veteran tourists will tell you that it is important to get not only good gasoline but the same gasoline every time you have your tank filled, otherwise you have to keep adjusting your carburetor.

Standard Motor Gasoline is absolutely uniform whenever and wherever you buy it. It is the same this week as last.

That is because Standard Motor Gasoline is a straight-distilled, homogeneous product—every drop like every other drop.

It is better to use, because it does away with carburetor adjustments and gives a smooth-running motor. It is cheaper to buy, because there are more miles in a gallon.

Look for the "Standard Motor Gasoline Service Station" sign. It shows where to get the best, most reliable gasoline and also the best, most reliable lubricants—Polarine oil and greases.

Old Time Heavyweight Pugilists Are Envious of Jess Willard.

HE IS GATHERING SHEKELS.

New Title Holder Now Making a Fortune—How Long Will Federal League Last?—Wallace as an Umpire—Other Comment.

It must make the past heavyweight champions toss in their beds at night to think of the bets they overlooked in the way of garnering the many simoleons. Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Tommy Burns, Jim Jeffries and all down the line the glove artists must envy Jess Willard for the easy way he is raking in the shekels. Ring warriors of the yesteryear all worked hard for their money, if encounters of the manly art can be called work. But look at Jess. He is touring the country with a wild west show and is said to be reaping a harvest, not at stopping would be challengers for his title, but by throwing the lasso, giving exhibitions of his former western life when he was but just an ordinary forty dollar a month cowboy.

Jim Corbett, after he had attained the pinnacle of the pugilistic world might have toured the country giving exhibitions of running up checks on an adding machine or balancing pass books, for he was a bank clerk. Fitzsimmons, a blacksmith, might have worked the gullible public in many ways, but none of these occupations would have proved as beneficial as the one which Willard is following, for he is gaining in health and strength.

Just how long the Federal league will last is one of the puzzles that is confronting fans and club owners in organized baseball.

The losses incurred by the new league this season are so enormous that it must be keeping some one decidedly busy making both ends meet. In Baltimore the situation is really desperate and it would not be at all surprising if the club were taken away from that city and placed elsewhere in the hope of cutting down the losses. So weak is the attendance in Baltimore now that the club is losing money hand over fist. This same condition exists in Newark and Buffalo, while Brooklyn is not breaking even and the clubs in St. Louis and Kansas City are among the losers. Chicago is not doing more than breaking even. Just where all the money is coming from to square these losses is a mystery. Angels are not so plentiful now as they used to be.

Bobby Wallace gives promise of becoming as competent an umpire as he was a ball player. With this year's experience he is expected to be one of the stars of the American league staff. He is working with Billy Evans, and under his guidance is advancing rapidly. Wallace, of course, has had an advantage over the average fellow who breaks into the big league in that he will have the assistance of all the players. It seems to be an understanding among the players not to object to anything that Wallace may do, in this way giving him confidence and helping to establish him as a real umpire.

PENROD

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

CHAPTER XVIII.

The New Rector.

MR. SCHOFIELD'S version of things was that Penrod was insane. "He's a stark, raving lunatic!" declared the father, descending to the library from a before dinner interview with the outlaw that evening. "I'd send him to a military school, but I don't believe they'd take him. Do you know why he says all that awfulness happened?"

"When Margaret and I were trying to scrub him," responded Mrs. Schofield wearily, "he said 'everybody' had been calling him names."

"Names!" snorted her husband. "'Little gentleman!' That's the vile epithet they called him! And because of it he wrecks the peace of six homes!"

"Sh! Yes. He told us about it," said Mrs. Schofield, moaning. "He told us several hundred times, I should guess, though I didn't count. He's got it fixed in his head, and we couldn't get it out. All we could do was to put him in the closet. He'd have gone out again after those boys if we hadn't. I don't know what to make of him."

"He's a mystery to me," said her husband. "And he refuses to explain why he objects to being called 'little gentleman.' Says he'd do the same thing—and worse—if anybody dared to call him that again. He said if the president of the United States called him that he'd try to whip him. How long did you have him locked up in the closet?"

"Sh!" said Mrs. Schofield warningly. "About two hours. But I don't think it softened his spirit at all, because when I took him to the barber's to get his hair clipped again on account of the tar in it Sammy Williams and Maurice Levy were there for the same reason, and they just whispered 'little gentleman' so low you could hardly hear them—and Penrod began fighting with them right before me, and it was really all the barber and I could do to drag him away from them. The barber was very kind about it, but Penrod"—

"I tell you he's a lunatic!" Mr. Schofield would have said the same thing of a Frenchman infuriated by the epithet "camel." The philosophy of insult needs expounding.

"Sh!" said Mrs. Schofield. "It does seem a kind of frenzy."

"Why on earth should any sane person mind being called"—

"Sh!" said Mrs. Schofield. "It's beyond me!"

"What are you 'sh-ing' me for?" demanded Mr. Schofield explosively.

"Sh!" said Mrs. Schofield. "It's Mr. Kinosling, the new rector of St. Joseph's."

"Where?"

"Sh! On the front porch with Margaret. He's going to stay for dinner. I do hope"—

"Bachelor, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"Our old minister was speaking of him the other day," said Mr. Schofield, "and he didn't seem so terribly impressed."

"Sh! Yes; about thirty and, of course, so superior to most of Margaret's friends—boys home from college. She thinks she likes young Robert Williams, I know, but he laughs so much. Of course there isn't any comparison. Mr. Kinosling talks so intellectually. It's a good thing for Margaret to hear that kind of thing for a change. And, of course, he's very spiritual. He seems very much interested in her." She paused to muse. "I think Margaret likes him. He's so different too. It's the third time he's dropped in this week, and I"—

"Well," said Mr. Schofield grimly, "if you and Margaret want him to come again you'd better not let him see Penrod."

"But he's asked to see him. He seems interested in meeting all the family. And Penrod nearly always behaves fairly well at table." She paused and then put to her husband a question referring to his interview with Penrod upstairs. "Did you—did you—do it?"

"No," he answered gloomily. "No, I didn't; but"— He was interrupted by a violent crash of china and metal in the kitchen, a shriek from Della and the outrageous voice of Penrod. The well informed Della, ill inspired to set up for a wit, had ventured to address the scion of the house roguishly as 'little gentleman,' and Penrod by means of the rapid elevation of his right foot had removed from her supporting hands a laden tray. Both parents started for the kitchen, Mr. Schofield completing his interrupted sentence on the way.

"But I will now!"

The rite thus promised was hastily but accurately performed in that apartment most distant from the front porch, and twenty minutes later Penrod descended to dinner. The Rev. Mr. Kinosling had asked for the pleasure of meeting him, and it had been decided that the only course possible was to cover up the scandal for the present, and to offer an undisturbed and smiling family surface to the gaze of the visitor.

Scorched but not bowed, the smoldering Penrod was led forward for the social formulae simultaneously with the somewhat bleak departure of Robert Williams, who took his guitar with him, this time, and went in forlorn unconsciousness of the powerful forces already set in secret motion to be his allies.

The punishment just undergone had but made the haughty and unyielding soul of Penrod more stalwart in revolt. He was unconquered. Every time the one intolerable insult had been offered him his resentment had become the hotter, his vengeance the more instant and furious. And, still burning with outrage, but upheld by the conviction of right, he was determined to continue to the last drop of his blood the defense of his honor, whenever it should be assailed, no matter how mighty or august the powers that attacked it. In all ways, he was a very sore boy.

During the brief ceremony of presentation his usually inscrutable countenance wore an expression interpreted by his father as one of insane obstinacy, while Mrs. Schofield found it an incentive to inward prayer. The fine graciousness of Mr. Kinosling, however, was unimpaired by the glare of virulent suspicion given him by this little brother: Mr. Kinosling mistook it for a natural curiosity concerning one who might possibly become, in time, a member of the family. He patted Penrod upon the head, which was, for many reasons, in no condition to be patted with any pleasure to the pattee. Penrod felt himself in the presence of a new enemy.

"How do you do, my little lad?" said Mr. Kinosling. "I trust we shall become fast friends."

To the ear of his little lad it seemed he said, "A trost we shall bickhome fawst fraints." Mr. Kinosling's pronunciation was, in fact, slightly precious, and the little lad, simply mistaking it for some cryptic form of mockery of himself, assumed a manner and expression which argued so ill for the proposed friendship that Mrs. Schofield hastily interposed the suggestion of dinner, and the small procession went in to the dining room.

"It has been a delicious day," said Mr. Kinosling presently; "warm, but balmy." With a benevolent smile he addressed Penrod, who sat opposite him. "I suppose, little gentleman, you have been indulging in the usual outdoor sports of vacation?"

Penrod laid down his fork and glared open mouthed at Mr. Kinosling.

"You'll have another slice of breast of the chicken?" Mr. Schofield inquired loudly and quickly.

"A lovely day!" exclaimed Margaret, with equal promptitude and emphasis. "Lovely; oh, lovely, lovely!"

"Beautiful, beautiful, beautiful!" said Mrs. Schofield, and after a glance at Penrod which confirmed her impression that he intended to say something she continued, "Yes, beautiful, beautiful, beautiful, beautiful, beautiful, beautiful, beautiful!"

Penrod closed his mouth and sank back in his chair, and his relatives took breath.

Mr. Kinosling looked pleased. This responsive family, with its ready enthusiasm, made the kind of audience he liked. He passed a delicate white hand gracefully over his tall, pale forehead and smiled indulgently.

"Youth relaxes in summer," he said. "Boyhood is the age of relaxation; one is playful, light, free, unfettered. One runs and leaps and enjoys one's self with one's companions. It is good for the little lads to play with their friends—they jostle, push and wrestle and simulate little, happy struggles with one another in harmless conflict. The young muscles are toughening. It is good. Boyish chivalry develops, enlarges, expands. The young learn quickly, intuitively, spontaneously. They perceive the obligations of noblesse oblige. They begin to comprehend the necessity of caste and its requirements. They learn what birth means—ah—that is, they learn what it means to be well born. They learn courtesy in their games; they learn politeness, consideration for one another in their pastimes, amusements, lighter occupations. I make it my pleasure to join them often, for I sympathize with them in all their wholesome joys as well as in their little bothers and perplexities. I understand them, you see; and let me tell you it is no easy matter to understand the little lads and lassies." He sent to each listener his beaming glance and, permitting it to come to rest upon Penrod, inquired:

"And what do you say to that, little gentleman?"

Mr. Schofield uttered a stentorian cough. "More? You'd better have some more chicken! More! Do!"

"More chicken!" urged Margaret simultaneously. "Do please! Please! More! Do! More!"

"Beautiful, beautiful," began Mrs. Schofield. "Beautiful, beautiful, beautiful, beautiful!"—

It is not known in what light Mr. Kinosling viewed the expression of Penrod's face. Perhaps he mistook it for awe; perhaps he received no impression at all of its extraordinary quality. He was a rather self engrossed young man, just then engaged in a double occupation, for he not only talked, but supplied from his own consciousness a critical though favorable auditor as well, which, of course, kept him quite busy. Besides, it is oftener than is suspected the case that extremely peculiar expressions upon the countenances of boys are entirely overlooked and suggest nothing to the minds of people staring straight at them. Certainly Penrod's expression—which to the perception of his family was perfectly horrible—caused not the faintest perturbation in the breast of Mr. Kinosling.

Mr. Kinosling waived the chicken and continued to talk. "Yes, I think I may claim to understand boys," he said, smiling thoughtfully. "One has been a boy oneself. Ah, it is all playtime! I hope our young scholar here does not overwork himself at his Latin, at his classics, as I did, so that at the age of eight years I was compelled to wear glasses. He must be careful not to strain the little eyes at his scholar's tasks, not to let the little shoulders grow round over his scholar's desk. Youth is golden. We should keep it golden, bright, glistening. Youth should frolic, should be sprightly. It should play its cricket, its tennis, its handball. It should run and leap; it should laugh, should sing madrigals and glees, carol with the lark, ring out in chanties, folk songs, ballads, roundelays"—

He talked on. At any instant Mr. Schofield held himself ready to cough vehemently and shout, "More chicken," to drown out Penrod in case the fatal words again fell from those eloquent lips, and Mrs. Schofield and Margaret kept themselves prepared at all times to assist him. So passed a threatening meal, which Mrs. Schofield hurried by every means within decency to its conclusion. She felt that somehow they would be safer out in the dark of the front porch and led the way thither as soon as possible.

ATTRACTIVE VACATION DANCE DRESS.

No. 8852-8975.

At the summer resorts can be seen all of the most popular frocks of the season. A glance at any one of these numerous places would leave no room for doubt as to whether flouncings for light afternoon and evening dresses were in favor or not. Embroidered flouncing is one of the best materials for dressy summer frocks, and a fine example of its application is shown in Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8852-8975. The waist pattern, which also includes an overblouse, cuts in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure, and No. 8975 cuts in sizes 22 to 32 inches waist measure. Dress in medium sizes requires 9½ yards 16-inch or wider flouncing.

Patterns may be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Daddy's Bedtime Story—"Spirit of '76" And What It Means.

They All Think That It Is the Greatest Thing In the World.

"THERE is a very famous painting," daddy told the children, "that is called 'The Spirit of '76.' I must tell you kiddies what it means, for it is one of the most inspiring pictures that was ever painted in this or any other country.

"It is called 'The Spirit of '76' because it represents the spirit that swept over this country in 1776, when it began its war for separation from England, which used to own the country that then comprised thirteen colonies. This war came with the signing of the Declaration of Independence, when the country decided it would stand all alone on its own feet. This step was decided upon, and then the men of the country had to back it up, you see, for it often happens in this world that when we say we are going to do a thing we have to fight to do it, for there are people who don't want to let us do it.

"That was the case back in 1776, for England did not want this country to stand alone, but wished to continue to own it. So there was a war which lasted several years, and at the end of the war, why, there was the United States of America, and so it has remained ever since. But America and England are friends now, you see, children.

"This picture of which I told you is a very wonderful one. It shows three persons—an old, white haired man, a man right next to him who is about as old as I am, with just a wee bit of white hair, and a very brave little boy. The old man is carrying the stars and stripes, and the man next to him is playing a fife, and the little boy is rat-a-tat-tatting on a snare drum, and the three of them are advancing into battle just as strong as lions and fully as brave as those creatures of the jungle.

"You see the idea, children? There are grandpa and his son and the little grandson. They are fighting for their country, and they are going right into battle, not caring whether they suffer harm or not, for the love of that country; ready to do or die for their flag, if need be. And the picture is painted so wonderfully that it is just the same as if you really saw them.

"That was the spirit of the country back in those anxious days of 1776, and so wonderfully has the artist caught the fire and dash of the subject that you will see men and women and children stand before copies of that picture and just thrill, and they feel in looking upon it that it is one of the greatest things in the world to fight for one's country and flag.

"That is the way you children will feel when you see the picture, and because we all feel that way is what makes the glory of our country."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Suffrage Discussed in the Outlook.

Frederick M. Davenport has recently made a study of political conditions in each of the Western States for The Outlook. It was inevitable that Mr. Davenport should come to some conclusion about equal suffrage. His investigation was careful and unbiased. In The Outlook for June 16 he says:

"I have been at work in other fields, and have never been an active protagonist of woman suffrage, although I confess I have instinctively contemplated with complacency the sweep of the movement across the country. The point of view of the West with respect to the part woman should play in the affairs of politics came to me, therefore, with a fresh and genuine surprise. In the East we are accustomed to long and somewhat dreary discussions on both sides of the question as to the right of women to vote, as to whether women really wish to vote, as to whether the entrance of women would make political life in the country better or worse, as to whether it would dull the beautiful sensibilities of the gentler sex, as to whether it would bring a deluge of feminism—and a half-score of other matters of like import. The West regard all this as a sort of mental exercise on a par with the debates of the old school men as to how many angels could stand on the point of a needle. With the West woman suffrage is one more concrete outcropping of the simple old spirit of democratic equality.

"There is nothing spectacular or remarkable, however, about the general course of policy in the Western country as the result of the vote of women. Women seem to be against Socialism in Montana and California, they have helped to put some very fine child and family legislation upon the statute books of Colorado, they are strong supporters of the prohibition movement, they come out to the polls in larger and larger percentages of the total, in the Republ[illegible] mary and in the general election in Chicago last spring they showed great practical sense under rather trying circumstances, they are generally more eager to find out the reason for the choice they propose to register than the men are, and if they do not find it they do not vote—a great many men under the same circumstances vote 'no,' or take a 'hunch' from higher up—but there seem to be no revolutionary changes and no injury to the warp and woof of our political fabric as the result of woman suffrage in the West."

Suffrage Tested In New Zealand.

"It is said that less chivalry will be shown women if they are given the vote. That talk is rubbish. In this country I have seen twenty men keep their seats in a trolley car while a woman stood. Over in our country twenty men would be vying with each other to have the woman take their seat."

This remark was made by S. M. M. Fisher, Minister of Marine and Customs for New Zealand, in an address which he gave the other day at Judge Gilpin's Sunday-school room in Philadelphia.

Mr. Fisher said that the women had driven graft out of New Zealand politics.

"The government is a sphere in which the conscience of a nation must be represented, and here the women's moral sense has proved its value," he said. "Their presence is not only good, but is needed. There is a saying in our country that a candidate for office must be a pretty 'clean potato,' or the women won't vote for him.

"The wife in New Zealand does not consider that she has fulfilled her whole duty by merely being the custodian of her home and children. She feels she owes a duty to the State. That the children in New Zealand have not been neglected in the 23 years women have been voting is best proved by the fact that New Zealand has the lowest child death rate in the world.

"Suffrage in New Zealand long ago ceased to be a question for discussion. No sane man ever thinks of repealing it. If a man even suggested such a thing, he would be considered a fit subject for an insane asylum."

Practically all the testimony that we have from New Zealand is to the same effect.

How Suffrage Stands in the Bay State.

On June 25 the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs adopted a resolution indorsing Woman Suffrage.

Governor Walsh, of Massachusetts, has announced that he expects to vote for equal suffrage next November. He is convinced, he says, that the majority of the women who have studied the question are in favor.

This was quite clear from the reports given at the recent annual meetings of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association and the Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage Association, respectively. The antis boasted that they had organized 33 new local branches during the past year. But the suffragists had organized 138 new local branches during the same time. All their activities were on the same relatives scale.

This is the case all over the country. Thus the suffrage movement in the United States maintains 5 weekly papers and seven monthlies, while the anti-suffrage movement maintains only two monthlies and one quarterly; and so on all along the line.

Many women are still indifferent, but, as Julia Ward Howe said: "Of [illegible] interest in the question either way, the vast majority are in favor. This has been demonstrated wherever the matter has been brought to a test."

PUTTING THE LID ON COMSTOCK.

New York, June 30.—Anthony Comstock, whose long service in the suppression of vice has made him famous, today ceases to be a United States postoffice inspector. The vice crusader held the office for forty years, most of which period he served without salary. Comstock has exercised personal supervision over the morals of New York for many decades. He won some notable victories, but of late years his influence has waned. It is said the society which has backed him has stripped him of most of his support.

CALGARY HAS MILITARY FAIR.

Calgary, Alta., June 30—With eight military bands, with a battalion parade and a 300-foot fireworks scene representing the forcing of the Dardanelles by the allied fleet, the 1915 Calgary fair will be formally opened tomorrow.

If it is still valuable, you can sell it through a For Sale ad.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"See those lovely roses!" exclaimed Olive.

"Yours?" asked Nell, burying her face in the warm red petals.

"No, mother's. Dr. Ellson sent them with the most courteous note of thanks for our hospitality. He sent me a box of candy. My! it pleased mother. You know how she's liked Mr. Joplin, and when I confessed to her that I'd sent him away, she was reduced almost to tears, but even Mr. Joplin was never thoughtful enough to do the flower act for mother. Bring up your boy, Nell, to be the soul of courtesy to the mothers of his lady friends and, believe me, he will have easy traveling.

"Mother said to me: 'He's a charming man! Of course, no girl could think of marrying him under the circumstances.'

"Daddy laughed. 'Molly, come over into the twentieth century; a divorce has ceased to be a brand equal to the mark of Cain.'

"Mother laid down her fork and looked very solemnly at daddy.

"'Do you mean to say you would be willing to have anyone you were interested in marry a divorced man?' Here she looked at me out of the tail of her eye.

"'That, my dear, would depend wholly on the man; if he were as fine a specimen as this doctor, I should add my blessing, but as he has never mentioned the subject to me or anyone——'

"'Oh, hush, daddy,' I cried, and mother exclaimed:

"'I wonder at you, Mark; I really do.'

"Here daddy laid down his weapons to have the free use of his hands for gestures and sailed in:

"'Do you mean to say, Molly, that you would have a kindly gentleman, like this doctor, consigned to hell on earth during all his natural life, living with a woman who was constantly accusing him of unfaithfulness without a shadow of a cause, who visited his patients and berated them if he called oftener than she thought proper; who dipped him in a bath of suspicion every morning, and doused him with icy contempt every night? Would you, I say, have him live with her, or is he justified in getting a free breath before he dies?'

"'Really, Mark,' this from mother, 'you are quite oratorical. I feel great sympathy for this young man and think he was probably justified in seeking a divorce, but if it came to having anyone I was interested in marry such a man, that would be another matter. Marriage is too sacred to have divorced people remarry, in my opinion.'

"'I suppose if the doctor were to have a few years of happy home life the bulwarks of society would be thrown down.' Daddy was hot on the scent. 'Answer me this.

"'Do you think anyone who was really married, who loved—and no marriage is a marriage, except in name, when there is no love—do any such get divorces?'

"'Certainly not; that goes without saying,' responded mother.

"'And you would have people live in misery, and have their lives ruined to preserve the husk, when you grant the kernel is never touched by the blight of divorce?'

"'Hear! Hear!' I cheered, clapping my hands. 'Liberal thought to the fore! Let conservatism get behind her fortifications.'

"'Marriage is for better or for worse,' quoted mother solemnly, 'and it grieves me, Olive, to see you show such a spirit of levity.'

"'Marriage, yes,' this from daddy, 'but you just said no one really married ever got a divorce.'

"'You may say what you please,' said mother, bridling. 'I don't want a daughter of mine to marry a divorced man.'

"'There you are,' said daddy, in despair, 'just where you started.'

"It was great."

Household Hints

CANDIES

Smith College Fudge—Melt one-fourth cup butter. Mix together in separate dish one cup white sugar, one cup brown sugar, one-fourth cup molasses, one-half cup cream; add this to butter and after it has been brought to a boil continue boiling for two and one-half minutes, stirring rapidly; then add chocolate, boil this three minutes, stirring rapidly at first and more slowly toward the end. Take from fire, add vanilla. Then stir constantly until it thickens. Pour in buttered pans and cool.

Chocolate Fudge—One and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon vinegar, one teaspoon lard, one teaspoon cocoa; boil till soft ball in cold water, then take off and stir till thick, then put vanilla in. Nuts can be added if wanted.

Chocolate Caramels—One cup dark brown sugar, two cups New Orleans molasses, one-half cup milk, four tablespoons butter, then add chocolate. Boil until firm ball in cold water, add one teaspoon vanilla, pour in buttered dish, cool, and cut in squares, then wrap in waxed paper.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES

Powdered rosin is good to stop bleeding from cuts. After the powder is sprinkled on, wrap the wound with soft cotton cloth. If the wound begins to feel feverish, keep cloth wet with water.

One teaspoonful of ground mustard in a cup of warm water is a prompt and reliable emetic and should be resorted to in case of poisoning or cramps in the stomach from overeating.

CANNING AND PRESERVING

Rhubarb Jelly—Four pounds rhubarb to two tart apples; strain, boil ten minutes, then add one cup sugar to one cup juice. Boil half hour.

Fig Rhubarb Jam—Two pounds rhubarb to two pounds figs. Cut in small pieces, cook together in a little water until soft, then add two pounds sugar. Simmer till thick and smooth. Especially good for the children.

HOMEMADE LAWN ROLLER

It's simple and if your husband is just a little handy you may save ten to fifteen dollars, and have a fine, even lawn. Take a piece of crock sewerpipe nineteen inches long and forty-four inches round; this makes just a nice size. Fill it with cement, run through the center 1½-inch gaspipe, long enough to project three inches at each end of cement filling; when it is hardened, fasten handles to the projecting ends—gaspipe makes good, strong handles.

THE TABLE

Beef Brains—Soak brains over night. Skin well, so all bloody parts are well cleaned. Put to boil in cold water, with a little vinegar or lemon juice; add a couple of bay leaves and peppercorn. Boil fifteen minutes. Slice and serve with boiled spinach.

Beef Tongue With White Beans—Put tongue to boil in cold water for 2½ hours, with a little salt and spices. Have beans soaked in water over night and cook them with tongue three-fourths hour. Drain liquid and serve.

Mixed Salad—Two cups ground cabbage, two cups apples diced, one stalk celery diced, one-half pound English walnuts ground fine, one-half pint cream, one cup mayonnaise dressing, one cup vinegar. Mix in order given and serve on leaves of lettuce.

Rhubarb Pie—Cut rhubarb in small pieces, add one beaten egg, one large cup sugar and one heaping tablespoon flour. Stir all together. Line pie tin with rich paste. Pour in filling and bake. No top crust.

Ice Cream Gelatin—Often when making ice cream it is the custom to put a quart of canned fruit in the freezer with the ice cream. This makes a delicious dish, but something even better is: for one gallon of plain ice cream add one cup of gelatin already prepared, one cup cream, half cup shredded pineapple; on each dish put a maraschino cherry.

YOUR GARDEN

Do not dig up your daffodils and hyacinths. You can loosen the topsoil and sow phlox, candy tuft, sweet alyssum, etc., and they will blossom all summer. Next spring the others will come up as beautiful as ever.

WHY NOT AVOID ALL POSSIBILITY OF LOSS

by converting your cash into Travelers' Cheques or a Letter of Credit? Safety of this sort costs little but is worth much.
